FROM NEW YORK.

The Erie Case.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 .- A motion was made in the Supreme Court this morning in the Eric case to punish Mr. Ramsey for contempt for violating the injunction restraining him from proceeding with his own suit against the Eric Railway Company, by a motion before Judge Murray, after service of injunc-tion upon him. The matter was adjourned after lively discussion.

Eulogics on Mr. Stanton. In the United States District Court, before Judge Blatchford, the Assistant District Attorney called at-tention of the Court to the death of Mr. Stanton, dilating on his merits and ability as a man and a statesman, and eulogizing his character and ser-vices. He moved, as a token of respect, that the United States Court and District Courts adjourn.

Ex-Judge Beebe, in seconding the motion, paid a high tribute to the memory of the deceased. Judge Blatchford adverted to the great services rendered by Mr. Stanton, his administrative capacity, and fearless execution of duty, and directed the Court to be adjourned.

Loss of the Yacht Meteor.

A brief private telegram from London puts at rest all doubts concerning the loss of this vessel. It is as follows:-

LONDON, DEC. 25.-The American yacht Meteor, the property of Mr. George L. Lorillard, was lost near Tunis, Northern Africa, on the 15th Inst. All hands were saved.

The loss of this vessel is a great disaster, not-withstanding "all hands were saved." Her owner and commander, Mr. Lorillard, Mr. Phi-lip Robinson, and Carroll Livingston, were on board at the time of the shipwreck, as also were Mr. George Howe, sailing master, a mate, boatswain, two coeks, two stewards, two quartermasters, and ten sailors. Among the gentlemen sailing in her from New York on the 20th of August were, besides these, Mr. Kennard and Captain Fish, the modeler of the Meteor, but Captain Fish, the modeler of the Meteor, but their intention was not to accompany the yacht in her contemplated trip around the world, but leave her at Cowes. The Meteor was new, having been lannched as late as April 7 of the present year, and was a model of beauty and comfort. She was built at the yard of Mesers. PolMon, Brook-lyn, under the model of Mr. Fish. Her dimen-sions, as given in the New York Yacht Club Book of Rules and References, were:—Area of neusrae feet 28245; teenage 2005; maximum square feet, 3234%; tosnage 203.5; maximum crew allowed, 41; length of boat required, 12 feet. The carponter's dimensions were:-Length on deck, 120 feet; over all, 130 feet; beam, 27 feet; depth, 9 feet 9 inches. Her hull was of peculiar model, and at the time of the launch it was made the subject of newspaper dis-cussion. It was claimed on one side, and combatted on another, that the yacht, owing to her hull, would never work to windward, would not go about easily, and would not ride in a seaway. In a short trial trip through Long Island Sound, she did meet with a slight acci-dent, which was attributed by some people more to obstinacy on the Meteor's part than any bad management of her helmsman. She was the last great yacht of that famous trio which left New York for Cowes last summer. The first was the Dauntless, the property of J. G. Bennett, Jr.; the second the Sappho, belonging to Mr. Douglass, the third the Meteor. Although Mr. Lorillard had decided upon a cruise round the world, by way of the Suez Canal, he was ready and willing to engage his vessel in ar. ocean yacht race with any English craft, and feit so comident of his vessel's qualities that he announced himself willing to lay $20,000 on her. For reasons not stated, Mr. Lorillard did not leave New York at the time Mr. Douglass did in the Sappho, though his vessel was ready. And when he did sail it was not direct for Cowes, as her sister yachts sailed, but he stopped at the her sister yachts sailed, but he stopped at the Bermudas. The Meteor's trip across the At-lantic did not reveal any astonishing traits of speed; but, as a sea-worthy vessel, she was pro-nounced all that was claimed. Not succeeding in finding a competitor, Mr. Lorillard pursued his contemplated trip around the world, which was to have consumed the better part of three was to have consumed the better part of three years, as he intended spending a little time in every place stopped at. On the 3d inst. the vessel was at Malta, and the next heard of her she was wrecked. As a costly, thereughly-appointed, staunch, and beautiful craft, nothing superior ever left American waters. Her hall was of live oak, locust, and hackmetack, fastened with copper below and galvanized iron above, and she contained more timber than any vessel of her kind. The rigging was of the best Italian hemp, and all her head-ways were of wire. The cabins were all that luxury demanded, not only in the upholsterer's line, but the carpenter's as well. The wood work outshines everything in variegation, being of mahogany, rosewood, amaranth, oak, ash, walnut, maple, etc., and these chased, carved, and cut after the richest designs. Her loss is one that American yachtmen will lament.

Terrible Scene on Board a British Steamer-A Courageous American Engineer.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Dec. 10 .- A sad accident has happened to the British steamer Twinkling Star, late American steamer Estrella, which left this port on the 20th ultimo for Cape Hayti, with a valuable cargo on board. At about 9 o'clock on Saturday, the 27th ult., when about fifty miles from St. Nicholas, and about 9 o'clock at night, the engineers discovered that the iron plates about midships, and in front of the paddle-V SARA wheels. through which she was passing, and that large volumes of water were coming into the hold of the vessel, through eracks on either side, below the water-mark. Some of the passengers on board were advised of this, and gradually the passeugers and crew were overtaken by a panic, when there was a rush to the life-boat, which was speedily lowered, and into it escaped the United States Consul of this port, Mr. Aaron Gregg, and several others. But the lowering of this boat was so badly managed, in the effort of every one to save himself, that the bow of the boat was elevated out of the water, while the stern was submerged in the foam which left the paddle-wheels, but they managed at last to cut the rope, and so disentangled them from the steamer. No sooner had this life-boat parted from the ship than a panic overtook the firemen and others who were left on board, and the scene when the firemen forsook the furnaces, the oilmen the engines, the stewards the kitchens, and the captain took leave of his senses, was perfectly hellish. The panic-stricken crew seeing that the life-boat had left them believed that the ship was about ready to part and ready to founder, and just at this critical moment Mr. Thomas Lewis, the second engineer, and the only American citizen on board, seeing every post descried and all hands flying in the jaws of death, rushed upon the deck, and with a voice of thunder and thrilling earnestness, addressed himself to them in this wise:--"Halloo there ! where are you, who call yourselves Englishman ? who fly from your stations when there is a little bit of danger, and call youselves men, and Englishmen ? Come back to your places-I am not afraid ! I'll stake my life, and back all I have, that I will take this vessel into port with perfect safety-if you but do your duty." Then turning to the captain, he said:-"You, captain, you've lost your head, and allowed these cowardly fellows -these lazy landlubbers, who call themselves English-to take your senses from you. Go up to your place on the hurricane-deck, and order the wheelman back to his place." (Turning again to the firemen, who stood with their bags ready to quit the ship)—"Go back to your places, and do your duty, and if we are to die, let us die like brave men, and not as cowards! I am but a young man yet, and do you think I am going unnecessarily to risk my life? And I have a young wife and a little family in Jamaica, and do you think I am going to leave them to want? Not a bit of it. I mean to go back there, and not to run away in a little emergency like this." Then addressing Mr. Nathan, a solicitor, who was buckling on a life belt, said:--"Take that off, sir; not the slightest necessity for any nonsense of that kind. You stand by me, and everything will go well." And that little American citizen, Mr. Lewis, so inspired confidence into the whole panic-stricken crew, the steamer successfully into the harbor of St. Nicholas Mole, and I am informed by Mr. Nathan, a passenger on board, that had it not been for the courage and presence of mind of this second-engineer, the steamer must have foundered, and all hands been lost, whereas the steamer was safely conducted into one of the best harbors in the world, without her cargo having been damaged to the extent of a single shilling. The cargo was valued at £12,000. The life-boat got into port a few hours after the steamer, and Mr. Consul Gregg, with the other passengers, came on to this port in the Ameri-can schooner Lady Woodbury, of Portland, Maine, performing the voyage of over two hundred and seventy miles in a little less than twenty-four hours. -The New Orleans Times mentions the re-turn to that city of the indefatigable, invincible, and perennial Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines, armed with new weapons and suppled with abundant ammunition, to resume hostilities against her drawning in her calebrated anits adversaries in her celebrated suits. —Chicago papers find that it interests their readers to explain why a man is not divorced.

CITY INTELLIGENCE. CHRISTMAS.

ritable Institutions, etc. etc. Christmas Day, on Saturday, was very generally observed throughout the city. The weather for tho-beat part of the day was just what was to be de-sired. In the evening a storm set in, but, however, not early enough to spoil the pleasure of prome-naders. The andiences at the various places of amusement were in no wise affected by the storm. In most of the churches the day was celebrated with appropriate services. Nearly all the churches of the Episcopal, Luthersan, and Catholic persua-sions were open, and were attended by large au-diences. In St. Clement's P. E. Church a choral commution service was held at $\partial_{y} A$. M, and the regular morning prayer and sermion at 10^{4} . The church was tastefully trimmed with greens, as were all the churches of find denomination. The Roman Catholic Church of St. Anne, at Port Richmond, was opened for the first time on Christmas day, with two masses and a germon, by Dr. Moriariy. In the churches of St. Peter, Fifth and Girard avenue, and the Assumption, Spring Garden, below Tweifth, the Assumption, Spring Garden, below Tweifth, masses were performed by orchestras. At St. An-gustine's, Fourth street, below Vine, a mass of moron, a French composer, was performed for the dirst time. The charitable institutions gave hearty Christmas dinners to their inmazes. At the Beilford Street Mission 300 children were supplied with a fine dinner, with a dessert of Christmas candles. The Little Wanderers, on Shippen street, below Ninth, were also feasted to their hearts' content. At the News-boys' Home, in Loonst street, above Ninth, a hand-some entertainment was given to the boys who belong some entertainment was given to the boys who belong to the bone and the profession. Also in order on the list of charitable dinners was the Deporters' isaquet, at the American Hotel, on Christmas night. A choice entertainment was pro-vided through the liberality of the participants, and the following tosts were given:--The "Correspond-ing Reporter" the "diarriewing Remoter" the the following togsts were given: -- The "Correspond-ing Reporter," the "Interviewing Reporter," the "Confidential Reporter," the "Court Reporter," the "Sensation Reporter," the "Police Reporter," "Our German Representative," the "Stout Reporter," the "Aged Reporter," "Our Wives and Sweethearts," the "Fancy "Reporter;" "Ourselves, collectively and individuals." individually.

A reunion of the fiftleth alumni of the High School occurred on Christmas eve, it being the first reasion since the class graduated in the summer of '67. Twenty-five members took part in the summer of 61. The police were on the alert all day, but nothing unusual occurred to mar its pleasures. There were several fires, but no great disturbance of the public peace. One hundred and eighty-five arrests were reported, mostly for trivial offenses, probably for the blowing of horns. But the holding in custody of the one hundred and eighty-five did not appear to have any effect on the amount of noise made by the re-maining horn-blowers. In the Lincoln Institute, on South Eleventh street, the boys were the recipients of many handsome gifts. In the main room of the front building an immense Christmas tree was erected, loaded down with handsome toys and candles. Arter some pre-liminary exercises, the boys sat down to a capital turkey dinner. At the Industrial Home, Tenth and Catharine, wenty-four little girls were treated to Christman lelicacies. At the Western Home Christmas exercises took place, consisting of singing and recitations. The children acquitted themselves most admirably. In the Soldiers' Home, on Filbert street, a fine collation was partaken of by the inmates. Interesting exercises preceded the event. The Lincoln Institute was also the scene of much

The managers of the Union School and Children's Home, Twelfth and Fitzwater streets, gave their Christmas festival to the children at 1 o'clock day. The Lutheran Orphans' Home at Germantown also hold this afternoon their regular Christmas ex-ercises. They will consist of addresses, singing, re-citing, etc., and the presentation of gifts to the chil-dren. A merry time is looked for. THE CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION OF THE POLICE-WHO Culling, Baring street, near Thirty-eighth, West Philadelphia, was feloniously entered and ran-sacked, the depredators securing about five dollars in each for their labor expended. About eight o'clock P. M. on Friday an indi-vidual named Thomas Alexander, whilst passing along Thirty-fourth street, near Chesnut, accident-ally fell and broke a leg. He was removed to his residence, Fifty-fifth and Race streets, by a police officer.

As it regards the exterior Mr. McArthur has made a careful and well-studied revision of his design, by which he has rendered it entirely satiafactory to the committee. They are of the opinion that, as an architestural composi-tion, it is in complete accord with the purposes of the building and with the prevailing taste of the sge. The law of Councils under which the Ommitsioners are acting, requires that they shall determine upons and adopt a plan at any time during the year 1850; that they shall be first execute d: that they shall edvertise for at least two weeks in one or more newspapers for proposals for the erection of the portion so decided upon; that they shall award the contract or contracts to the lowest and best bidder, requiring ample security; and that they shall thereupon proceed to make the contract or contracts, the form of which being first approved by the City Solicitor. The commission is therefore obligated by the express terms of the law, first, to adopt a plan before the clowest effor the present year. James Kare and John McLaughlin endeavored to appease their vitiated propensities by belaboring a colored man. Officer McCulloch interposed, when they applied their "billies" to him, but, with assistance, he ar-rested them, and Alderman Bonsall issued a commitment.

ATTEMPT TO ROB AN EATING SALOON BY A BOOT BLACK.-Last night, as a private watchman was going his rounds in the neighborhood of Sixth and going his rounds in the neighborhood of Sixth and Arch streets, he noticed a small transom window broken open over the Arch street door of Jackson's restaurant, at the S. E. corner of Sixth and Arch streets. Looking through the plate in the door, he saw a boy with a small candle in the act of search-ing the money-drawer. The watchman procured the help of two officers, who were on their beats in the neighborhood, and forced the door open. After considerable difficulty they found the boy hid in a basket in the cellar, and covered with an old cloak considerable dimension they found the boy min in a basket in the cellar, and covered with an old cloak belonging to a cook of the establishment. On being taken to the station house he gavet the name of Jos. Williams, with residence No. 1915 Cherry street. He was inclined to be rather impudent to the officers, and did not appear to have a proper fear of the law before his even. A night's solourn in a longly cell before his eyes. A night's sojourn in a lonely cell, however, somewhat changed the tenor of his story. On being visited this morning he gave the name of William Burns, and is said to reside in a court on Second street below Dock. He is a bootblack, and is thought to be the person who robbed this same restaurant on another occasion. He denies ever being in the store before person who robbed this same restaurant on another occasion. He denies ever being in the store before, and says that his behavior last night was occasioned by his drinking too much cider, said cider making him unconscious and irresponsible for his actions. What a wicked thing cider must be 1 it would be worth while for a temperance lecturer to work up the incident. Gossip says that he has only been arrested twice before once for fighting and once for playing ball. He is supposed to belong to a gang of bootblack robbers, some of whom last night entered the saloon of Mr. Campbell, at Chesnut street and Franklin place. He is to have a hearing at 2 o'clock Franklin place. He is to have a hearing at 2 o'clock to-day.

From the N: Y. Herald.

"Holiday week promises to be a very dull one in Wall street, if the experience of the past week be a criterion. Naturally the end of the year, with the winding up of accounts, brings about a more con-servative tone among moneyed men. On the present occasion this dullness is assisted by the adjournment of Congress, whose proceedings are so closely watched by the financial community and give the cue to the many business enterprises. The money market has worked comfortably to borrowers on call, and loans on pleage or the usual collaterals market has worked comfortably to borrowers on call, and loans on pledge or the usual collaterals have been freely made at six to seven per cent. There is little or no apprehension concerning the im-mediate future of the market, inasmuch as the peri-odical demand for currency by the interior has been fully supplied and capital shows a disposition rather to begin its usual winter accumulation at this centre. The thousand and one enterprises which call for money are in abeyance until the opening of spring. Doubtless in the ensuing week we shall experience some activity in the local money market, owing to the calling in of loans to prepare for the liquidation of the January instalment of interest by our nume-rous savings banks and for payment of coupons on rallway and State bends and like interest-bearing securities. Some money, however, soon finds its way back again into bank.
