

NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. New York, Jan. 10, 1870. Gin-Soaked Juveniles. "O Youth and Innocence! O Milk and Water!" sang Byron once. "O Gin and Juveniles! O Boys and Burglary!" he might sing were he living now, and about to relate what I am. James Mars, who has not yet completed their tenth year. Some months ago they were discovered by the police in a Greenwich street...

Reporters and Police Justices. One of the privileges, which the reporters of New York from time immemorial have enjoyed, is admission behind the judicial desk, where they are allowed to examine the magistrates' minutes, and are furnished with every facility for obtaining all the information they desire. This has been the rule at Yorkville, at Jefferson and Essex Market, and at the Tombs Police Courts, with all of the justices of which tribunals they have been on the long term. A turning has been found in the long line, however, and Jefferson Police Court is the scene where it occurs. An ambitious youth who has just jumped from a Special Sessions advocate to a clerkship in this court, boasts that he is going to have the reporters henceforth barred out, and that he don't care a continental for the result. This looks very much as if the police justices were afraid of the free access which they have hitherto been furnishing to their documents, and were anxious to effect a change in the most gradual and unobtrusive manner possible. It is likewise behaving very ungratefully to the reporters, to whom the police justices owe many a good turn. Heaven knows how many a neat judicial puff has been scrimged into a police report through the ingenuity of the Bohemian who made it. At the best the reporters have no easy time in the transaction of their business. The investigations before the magistrates are conducted in so low a tone—as though justice were smuggling through something she were ashamed of—that it is impossible for the attendant Bohemians to catch the names and the circumstances without an infinite amount of eavesdropping and neck-stretching; and if one of their reports happens to be substantially incorrect when it appears in next morning's paper, he is liable to be frowned down by the judge whose name figures in it for the rest of his natural existence.

Artistic Begging. To beg well it is necessary to begin early in life, and to see begging in all its forms it is imperative that you visit Printing House Square with your eyes wide open. It is the great headquarters for alms-asking in New York. Every variety of the beggar is there or thereabouts, from the armless artist who whittles sticks with a knife held between his toes, to the dilapidated mother with twins at her breast and the inevitable penny-song or shoe-lacers in her hands. Within the past week, however, appeared a new beggar, who threatens to cast all the others into the shade. During these first few days of his engagement, so to speak, he has drawn in the nickels to a surprising extent. Every lover of the curious gives him a penny or two, and the boot-blacks and newsboys, in a body, have contributed a largesse not to be despised. What is this beggar's peculiarity? Let me tell you. He has a glass eye, which he is in the habit of taking out at stated intervals and handing around for the inspection of the surrounding crowd. The eye itself is a remarkable one, being in striking contrast to his one natural eye in size and color. The effect, when he has it in, is of course weirdly striking, and the effect when he has it out hardly less so. It is extremely large, so enormous that you wonder how a human socket can comfortably contain it. The iris is crimson in color, and the white is brilliantly glazed. No other beggar stands a chance when this one is by. If Lazarus had had a glass eye, he would have had no occasion to gobble up the crumbs which the canines refused, or to long for Abraham's bosom. ALI BABA.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements. THE ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening William Tell will be repeated, with Signor Lefranc in the role of "Arnoldo." This fine work is so seldom heard that its performance on this occasion ought to attract as large an audience as was in attendance on last Wednesday. To-morrow Donizetti's opera of Polinto will be given, with Signor Lefranc and Miss Kelly in the leading roles, and on Wednesday Madame Brini will appear as "Norma." AT THE CHESTNUT BRYAN'S drama of Blow for Blow will be repeated this evening. On Wednesday and Thursday Zoucault's new play of Mercy Doda will be produced, and on Friday Miss Latta Keene will have a farewell benefit, when Matrimony, in She Maid and the Actress by Daylight will be given. On Monday next Miss Susan Galton and her Opera Company will appear. AT THE ARCH ARTHUR Halliday's drama of Little Eddy, adapted from Dickens' novel of "David Copperfield," will be produced this evening. AT DEPUEZ & BENEDETTI'S OPERA HOUSE a new programme of attractions will be offered this evening. AT THE WALNUT the military drama of Not Guilty will have a decided hit, and it will be repeated this evening and until further notice. This piece is put upon the stage in handsome style, and its great battle scene is superior to anything of the kind that has ever been attempted in this city. AT THE ELIZABETH OPERA HOUSE the pantomime of The Old Woman that Lived in the Shoe and a variety of novelties will be performed this evening. SIMON BLIZZ and his son will execute a number of new tricks at the Assembly Building this evening. THE "STAR" COURSE OF LECTURES.—The second series of Mr. Pugh's "Star" course will commence on January 13, when Wendell Phillips will discuss "The Questions of To-morrow." Other lecturers of distinguished ability are also announced at this second series, which promises to be even more worthy of patronage than the first. The sale of tickets will commence on the 20th instant.

On the last day of the year the editor of a Georgia daily paper informed his readers (or those who would have been read) and he said that he published no editorials because he "did not not to say."

CITY ITEMS.

YOU CAN BUY BETTER AND CHEAPER CLOTHING OF BENNETT & CO., THAN ANYWHERE ELSE. No matter what price may be assigned for anything, we will sell it for the lowest. REMOVED TO THE PLACE, NO. 618 MARKET STREET, HALF-WAY BETWEEN FIFTH AND SIXTH, HALF-WAY BETWEEN FIFTH AND SIXTH. A VALUABLE STOCK OF GOODS SAVED BY A MARVIN FIRE.—On Saturday morning last a destructive fire took place in the building, No. 712 Chestnut street, which resulted in great damage to the stock of the different firms doing business in the building. The second floor was occupied by Mr. J. M. Warner, importer of watches and jewelry. This gentleman had on hand at the time of the fire the most valuable stock of fine watches, said to be the finest stock in the city. The whole of this valuable stock had been placed for safety in one of Marvin's large safes. It has been found, on examination of this safe after the fire, that the whole of its contents was entirely unharmed, though the fire in the immediate vicinity of the safe was most intensely hot. The value of the property thus saved through the agency of the safe cannot be valued at less than fifty thousand dollars. A large quantity of all kinds of valuable jewelry, exposed in glass cases, was in the same room with the safe at the time of the fire, but not being protected, the whole was destroyed. When such great losses as this are saved to stockholders and others by means of fire-proof safes, it becomes only a question of how much shall be saved by buying a fire-proof, not how much capital will have to be invested and left to lie idle in the purchase. It certainly requires a good fire-proof safe to stand a test like this, and a blazing fire like that of Marvin has stood the test faithfully, and has shown its great value for all who have need of such an article. With a Marvin snugly encoined in one's office, dwelling, store, or wherever it may be most convenient, the stockholder, proprietor, clerk, or private citizen is entirely independent of fire departments, paid or volunteer, insurance patrols, fire-thieves, and all other classes of people or inanimate things which have anything to do with the destruction or saving of valuable property.

THE LIVING MACHINE.—Injure the main spring of a watch and every portion of the work becomes disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to a chronometer. It influences the action of the other organs, and controls, to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried further: for as the weakness or other imperfections of the mainspring is indicated on the face of the time-piece, so also is the weakness or other disorder of the stomach betrayed by the face of the invalid. The complexion is sallow or faded, the eyes are deficient in lustre and intelligence, and there is a worn, anxious expression in the whole countenance which tells as plainly as written words could do, that the great nourishing organ whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end HERRICK'S STOMACH BITTERS may be truly said to be the one thing needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous vegetable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates. As a specific for indigestion it stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopoeia have been exhausted, without, at best, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome and palatable, yet powerful, stomachic effects perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland, as well as upon the stomach and bowels, the Bitters act with singular distinctness, regulating and clearing out every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depends.

THE LUNGS ARE STRAINED AND RACED by a persistent Cough, the general strength wasted, and an incurable complaint often established thereby. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT is an effective remedy for Coughs and Colds, and exerts a beneficial effect on the Pulmonary and Bronchial Organs. Sold everywhere.

THE FREDERICKSBURG AND GORDONSVILLE RAILROAD.

This road leads from Fredericksburg, Virginia, via Orange Court-House, to Charlottesville, where it connects with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and the extension of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad to Lynchburg. This line of railway, as a link in a chain of through roads, connecting the Pacific States and the Southwest with the Atlantic coast by the shortest route and the most favorable grades, is of great importance as a railroad enterprise. Its entire length is 123 miles, of which 30 miles are graded, bridged and tied, and the iron is being laid. The balance of the grading is under contract and is rapidly being finished, and it is confidently expected that the entire line will be in running order by the first of next July. This road will pass through a country rich in mineral and agricultural products, and it cannot but have an immense effect in developing the resources of Virginia and the Southwest. The company has executed a mortgage to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of the city of New York, as trustees of its road now built or which may hereafter be built, its right of way, franchises, rolling stock, equipment, lands, and property, to secure the payment of one million dollars, and the company are about to issue the bonds which have been placed in the custody of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, to be issued by it only upon a completed road, or for cash, and the cash held for the benefit of the bondholders as a guarantee that the bonds shall be secured by a mortgage on a completed and equipped road. The company is re-raised by special act of the Virginia Legislature from issuing more than one million dollars of bonds on the entire length of sixty-two miles, in advance of the maturity of the bonds. The interest on the bonds is seven per cent, in gold, free of Government tax, and they certainly offer unusual inducements to capitalists. Bammel Work, Banker, No. 25 South Third street, is the agent for the sale of the bonds in Philadelphia.
