MEW-YORHISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. New York, Jan. 20, 1870.

Sweetly Smiling Landladies. I try not to obtrude my own experiences egotistically upon the readers of THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, but occasionally something happens to me that forcibly reminds me that I am Lving in New York, in the very centre of a refined heathendom. Something happened in this way the other day, being nothing less than my experience in search of rooms. I am not ashamed to say that I consulted a morning newspaper, which, like any other newspaper in New York, has a "larger circulation than all the other dailies combined"-and I am not ashamed to avow that, having consulted it, I chose a locality designated in the advertisements as not a hundred miles from the Academy of Music and Irving Hall. The situation was eminently respectable. The street was quiet, the overhanging shadows of the surrounding brownstones were solemn and decorous, the name sounded slightly imposing. Backed with these impressions I rang the bell of a sparklingly white door, and was shown by a colored servant into a small but prettily furnished parlor, where I was presently walted upon by the lady of the house, a geaheaditive-looking woman of about thirtythree, with a blue merino dress, green eyes, which might have been merino, too, from any expression they had, and a quantity of lace trining about the neck. She talked glibly, and just a little too glowingly, of her own table, and the furniture and appointments of her establishment. She said that you couldn't "mix" people at a place where the comforts of a home were desired. and I agreed with her that you couldn't "mix" them any more than you can mix drinks with impunity. Then she showed me the rooms, chattering all the time about the ladies and gentlemen who at present composed her family, and to whom I had no manner of objection, except that they all appeared to have titles. Vander bilt, Jerome, Stuyvesant, and Roosevelt, "and sich" fell hopily from her lips, and I was assured that she had taken the creme de la creme of society and quintessenced it into a kind of condensed mucilage, with which, figuratively, she spread her daily bread. Then the rooms were shown-bright, cosy, cheerful, and moderate in terms. There was no denying that. I allowed those advantages to preponderate, and against my better judgment, gave her reason to believe that my final answer, to be given her on the morrow, would be favorable. The morrow came.

Now it is not once in six months that I pick pu a newspaper dealing largely or wholly in criminal news. Providentially I did so that morning, and the first paragraph that struck my eye was a rehash of a recent police court scene, in which the words "fashionable boardinghouse" figured. A glance was sufficient. The street, and "Place," and number were the same as those of the house I had been so complacently contemplating. The counts, colonels, and generals with whom I had been destined to sit tete-a-tete or vis-a-vis melted into the thinnest of all air-that in which individuals who are "sold" breathe-and since then I have exercloud the wariest wisdom in my selection of boarding-houses, and have not even trusted to it then. The syren that had gulled me was a first-class fraud, and the history of her boarders was a history of assaults, batteries, and impositions, whose sequel was the Tombs, or Jefferson Market Police Court.

Artistic Amusements. Mr. Barnum was the great pioneer of artistic dvertisements, and set an example in that respect which has been extensively followed not only in this city but all over the Union. The system has invaded all professions, but mostly that branch of the medical which cannot be said to belong to vile quackery on the one hand or to publications by members of the regular faculty on the other. The readers of New York papers in city and country have their attention often attracted not merely by the local and foreign news, the editorials, the literary reviews, the theatrical criticisms of the journals in question, but often by the singularly able manner in which these medical advertisements of the better sort are written. And so they ought to be, for they are, for the most part, written by men who have spent most of their lives at that sort of thing, and know how to express the ideas of their principals-men who, generally, could not write six consecutive sentences grammatically-to a hair. This branch of literature, low as it is, is extremely well paid for, much better than those branches in which genius or talent is required. and is monopolized, as I before hinted, by one or two men. If you send a short poem to a a magazine you will not, as a rule, get more than ten dollars for it, unless your name is sufficiently well known in itself to render the poem attractive. Yet these advertisement-writers will not set pen to paper unless they get at least half that amount per foolscap page, and there is at least one man in this city who makes thousands of dollars a year in this branch of literature

Fugitive Authors.

Poems are sometimes spoken of as fugitive: why should not authors be spoken of so, too, especially those poor plaintive creatures who, having gained a provincial suspicion of fame somewhere West or South, come to New York. imagining that Carleton or some other spicy publisher will snap them up, or that the New York Sunday Mercury will pay them several thousand dollars per novellette in the same way as it used to pay the author of the "Pillar of Fire," when he wrote for its pages? The author of the "Pillar of Fire," by-the-by (his name has slipped my memory for the moment), was what is called "a rusher." When he was engaged on a new povelette- and he deserves to be called a New Yorkism of the utmost originality-he used to shut himself up in a seclusion similar to that of Balzac, and never leave his apartment until the work was completed. As George Francis Train or Mrs. Partington would say, he had "all the sensuality knocked out" of him, and lived on the intellectual plane by means of the short diet on which he put himself. The fugitive authors of New York, however, to whom I now allude, are the sudden outcrop of intensely respectable literary loafers, who came no one knows whence, who hang around all weekly publications, soliciting work or the acceptance of their stories, and who all lay claim to having solid reputations and being classed among the "authors of America." With the exception of the stage, is there any profession in which there is so much self-deception and intense bitterness of spirit as in that of the pseudo-literary? ALI BABA.

—Virginia papers report that within less than eighteen months there have been seven deaths in one family in that State. Manchester, where they resided, is healthy, and all the members of the family died from different causes. There are now but two left, and both are sick.

FINANCIAL.

FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND. Seven Per Cent. Gold Bonds

Fredericksburg and Gordonsville Railroad Company of Virginia,

Principal and Interest Payable in Coin, Free of United States Government Tax.

These Bonds are secured by a First and only Mortgage

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, as Trustees for the Bondholders.

The Mortgage covers the entire road, Right of Way Franchises, Relling Stock, Equipments, Lands and Property, real and personal, now belonging or which may hereafter belong to the Company. A SINKING FUND is also provided, which will reduce the principal of the debt TWO THIRDS of the entire amount in advance of the maturity of the Bonds,

The Road is @ miles long, connecting Fredericksburg vis Orange Court House, with Charlottesville, which is the point of junction of the Chesapeake and Ohio Rallroad to the Ohio river, and the extension of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad to Lynchburg. It forms the shortest connecting link in the system of roads leading to the entire South, Southwest and West to the Pacific Ocean. It passes through a rich section of the Shenandosh Valley, the local traffic of which alone will support the Road, and it must command an abundant share of through trade from the fact of its being a

SHORT CUT TO TIDE WATER ON THE POTO-MAC AT THE FARTHEST INLAND POINT WHERE DEEP WATER FOR HEAVY SHIPPING CAN BE FOUND ON THE WHOLE LENGTH OF

THE ATLANTIC COAST. From Charlottesville to Tidewater by this route the distance is 40 miles less than via Alexandria; 65 miles less than via Richmond and West Point; 124 miles less than via Norfolk. A limited amount of these bonds are offered at P3%, and nterest from November 4, in currency. From an examination in person, and also by competent counsel, of all the papers and documents relating to this lean, we are enabled to pronounce them entirely correct and satisfactory; we have also had the work and property of the company examined by our own agents, whose reports agree with those made by the officers of the company, and we therefore recommend these bonds, the issue of which is limited to $16,000 per mile of complete and equipped road, AS A FIRST-CLASS SECURITY IN EVERY PARTICULAR, and as a most desirable investment, giving a large increase of income over investments in any description of Government bonds.

BONDS

Chicago, Danville, and Vincennes Railroad.

Total amount to be issued......$2,500,000 Capital Stock paid in..... 2,100,000 Estimated Cost of Road (140 miles) 4,500,000 Estimated Earnings per annum.... 2,639,306 Net Earnings per annum...... 879,768 Interest on the Loan per annum... 175,000 Amount of Bonds per mile of Road 18,000 Amount of Interest per mile...... 1,260 Amount of Net Earnings per mile. 6,284

The Bonds follow the completion of the Roadhave the Union Trust Company of New York as their Omcial Register and Transfer Agent-and are sold at present at 95 and accrued interest.

They bear examination and comparison better, it is believed, than any other now before the public, in the fixed and unchangeable elements of Safety, Security and Profit. They bear good interest-Seven per cent. Gold for forty years-and are secured by a Sinking Fund, and

First Mortgage upon the road, its outfit, and net income, the Franchises, and all present and future acquired property of the Company. They depend upon no new or half-settled territory for business to pay their interest, but upon an old, well-settled and productive country-assuming that a railroad built through the heart of such a region offers better security for both Interest and Principal than a road to be built through the most highly extolled wilderness or sparsely settled territory. This Railroad possesses special advantages, in running into and out of the City of Chicago, an important Railroad and Commercial Centre; in running through a line of villages and old farming settlements in the richest portion of the State of Illinois; in running near to deposits of Iron Ore of great extent and value, and over broad fields of the best coal in the State-which mining interests are its monopoly. And besides the local and other business thus assured, there will be attracted to this road the considerable traffic already springing up "from the Lakes to the Gulf;" as with its Southern Connections ithforms a Trunk Line 45 miles shorter than any other route from Chicago to Nashville. These Bonds are therefore based upon a Reality, and a Business that a few years must inevitable double-and competent judges say treble-in value Governments selling while the price is high pay well if put into these Bonds, and Trust or Estate Funds can be put into NOTHING BETTER.
