FROM WASHINGTON.

The Oncida Disaster.

Special Despatch to The Reening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, March 1 .- A private despatch just received here by Thomas L. Tullock, United States Collector for the district, states that fiftysix of those on board the United States steamer Oneida were saved. No names. No particulars.

Work to the Navy Yards. Now that work has again been resumed at the navy yards, the Navy Department has issued orders to complete the repairs on the United States steamer Narragansett at Portsmouth, N. H., the Ticonderoga and Shenandoah at Boston the Guerriere, Wachusetts, and Shawmut at New York, and the Saco at Norfolk.

The repairs of the machinery of the United States steamer Brooklyn by Messrs. Merrick & Sons, of Philadelphia, will soon be completed. and she will be ready for sea service.

The repairs of the machinery were made by Merrick & Sons under contract for $42,000. It is found that the repairs of the machinery of nava vessels can be made at much less cost to the Government at private establishments than at the navy yards.

The Gold Panic Report. Despatch to the Associated Press.

General Garfield, chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, made a report on the gold panic. It gives circumstancial accounts of its history, and comes to the following conclusion in view of the testimony:-

First, that the prominent bankers and merchants who testified before the committee were nearly unanimous in the opinion that there was no sufficient reason for the expense of the Gold Exchange and the Gold Exchange Bank: that they were the source of measureless evil, and ought to be destroyed.

THE THROUGH ROUTE.

The Bill Retore the New Jersey Legislature. An act to authorize the Milistone and Trenton Railroad Company to extend its railroad and make contracts with other corporations to secure a continuous line of railroad from Philadelphia to New York—has been introduced into the Senate of New Jersey.

That the Millstone and Trenton Railroad Company shall have power to extend its railroad from any point at or near Millstone to any point in the city of Newark, and make such contracts with other corporations char-tered by Pennsylvania, New Jersey, or New York, as will secure the construction and operation under one management of a continuous railroad, with one or more tracks from any point in the city of Philadelphia to any point in or near the city of New York, and the authority of New Jersey to the extent of her power in the premises, is hereby granted to said company to construct and use a bridge across the Delaware river, above the "Treaton City Bridge," for the purpose afore-said, but not so as to interfere unnecessarily with the navigation of said river.

§ 2. Be it enacted, That when one track of the Millstone and Trenton Railroad shall have been so laid, as with its running connections, to form a continuous railroad from Philadelphia to New York, the said company shall pay into the Treasury of this State the sum of $500,000, in addition to the annual taxes provided for in the fourteenth section of the act to incorporate said company, approved April 3, 1867.

NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, March 1, 1870.

Mr. Beecher versus Solomon. Mr. Henry Ward Beecher has been lately using his newspaper as a means of propagating his deas with reference to the beating of children. He differs in some respects from Solomon, whose principal theory I believe was that the more you spare the rod the more you spoil the child. The Reverend Henry is of the opinion that as a rule the candy-stick is the best stick for children, and that lollipops should, as far as possible, take the place of wallopping. The very extreme cases which, according to him, demand the birch, are lying, cruelty, and stealing. Other childish peccadilloes are merely part and parcel of those moral "sloppings over" of which he confesses himself guilty sometimes, and which may be dismissed as worthy of no stripes at all.

Abslathe as a Beverage has grown into fashion within the past year and a half, not only among men but women also. Stop in at Delmonico's any time during the day and there shall you see the fairest of the fash ionable sipping the green and murky polson, the aromatic exhilarant, obviously with no knowledge of its dangerous effect upon the brain. Absinthe! Not very long ago it was almost a novelty in saloons which ladies frequented; but the name was strange-sounding, not to say elegant; the beverage was known to be Parisian; its effects were described to be as entrancing as those of an opium-cocktail or a laudanum "sling," and hence its immediate adoption by the young and thoughtless of both sexes, and that large class of bibulous Athenians who are forever seeking after some new thing in the drinking line.

Taking the Veil.!

That is what the gentlemen expect to do with the advancing spring and summer, what indeed they have in numerous cases done already. The veils are used in driving, and are found to be absolutely necessary for the behoof of the male complexion. Take my word for it, the New York Adonis is just as careful of his skin as any feminine beauty is. I don't know whether he goes to the extent of purchasing Email de Paris or of laying on anybody's "Bloom of Youth," but the impending fashion in veils proves that his vanity is quite as susceptible as that of his sets out this week upon his starring tour, under the direction of Mr. Stuart and Clifton Tayleure. This is his first engagement of the kind, and the erms offered are very advantageous. It has often been wondered why Mr. Wallack never chose to shine as a star. One reason is because he was quite contented with the quiet elegance of his seasons at his own theatre, where he was never subjected to the wear and tear which stars so often suffer from; another reason is that he never received so good an offer as that made him by Tayleure and Stuart. Members of his own company travel with him, and every gentleman is expected to carry with him a dress suit and one pair of light-colored kid gloves -so that dinners, at which Lester particularly shines, are probably in the programme. The starring engagement commences next Monday at the Boston Theatre, and will be continued through the numerous small towns in the East, possibly terminating at Philadelphia.

The Baby Ball. An entertainment of a somewhat singular nature took place on Saturday afternoon and evening at Irving Hall. It was in fact a baby matinee ball, prolonged into an evening concert, at which the guests were of every age between four and fourteen. Young New York was there in all its glory. "Nobby" boys and fair girls crowded the floor, and in a few cases infants in arms might be seen in as much of a ball-costume as swaddling clothes would admit of. It is a sad fact that cigars and whisky were surreptitiously indulged in by some of the lads, and that the whole affair was an amazing instance of precocity.

Signor Barili, long known as a teacher of music and opera singer in this city, is shortly to depart for California. He is going to take up his residence there on account of the ill-health of his wife, who hopes to benefit by the milder and more equal climate there. Previous to going, however, he will give one of those full-dress concerts which have been a feature during his residence here, and in which the one necessity is that the guests should be in full evening

Mr. Seward is to have a reception in the Governor's room of the City Hall next Thursday, when, it is reported, he will give us some of the best results of the eloquence that has accumulated during his tour from Alaska to Mexico. ALI BABA.

Irishmen Not Brothers.

To the Editor of The Beening Telegraph: PHILADELPHIA, March 1, 1870.—In the United States Railroad and Mining Register, of February 26, in an article headed "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," to which my attention was yesterday called, I find the following, to wit:—

"The illiterate, superstitions, ill-mannered Irish have no natural right to vote for judges who are to try them for crimes, legislators who are to decree the proper punishments for their offenses, or a national executive who must arrest them when the make incursions upon neighboring territories friendly to the United States. We welcome the suc-cess of the wise legislation which balances the Fenian ingredient in our society with another, every way its superior; gentier, mere moral, more teacha-ole, more affectionate, more patriotic, more prudent, more industrious, more inventive—in a word, a better ivilized and a more Christian race. This paragraph, judged by its injustice and its watruth, seems impossible of emanation from either Caucasian or Ethlopian manhood; but in its animus and its meanness it suggests a slimy trace of a lost type of antedliuvian hermaphrodite, lower in the varieties of the human race than the Sioux in Minnesota or the savage in Borneo

I denounce the extract quoted, and also its con-temptible author. Yours, etc., THOMAS S. FERNON, A director and shareholder in the U. S. R. R. and M. R. Company.

Deweese, submitting the testimony taken in the case and the statement made by Deweese before the Dewcese, submitting the testimony taken in the case and the statement made by Dewcese before the Committee. Dewcese having resigned, the committee reported the following resolution, the report being signed by all the members of the C-minitee;—

Resolved, That John T. Dewcese, late a representative in Congress from the Third Congressional District of North Carolina, did make an appointment to the United States Naval Academy in violation of law, and that such appointment was influenced by pecuniary consideration, and that his conduct in the premises has been such as to show him unworthy of a seat in the House of Representatives, and is therefore condemned as conduct unworthy of a Representative. The testimony was read from the Clerk's desk. That of Mrs. M. H. Bean, proprietress of the United States Hotel at Washington, was to the effect that she had paid five hundred dollars to Dewcese for the nomination of her son to the Naval Academy, and that amount had been refunded by Dewcese within the last few days. That of her son was to the same effect. The statement of Dewcese was, that at the time he received the money he did not know that there was a particle of wrong in it. The Scoretary of War and of the Navy were both cognizant of what he was doing. As soon as he had realized that he had done wrong he had returned the money and had sent his resignation to the Governor of his State. He had not acted from mercenary motives, for he had expended $12,000 in his State on the last Presidential

The resolution was then adopted unanimously on a vote by yeas and nays.

Mr. Cake, Chairman of the Committee on Accounts, made a report as to the expenses of the various committees of the House. The expenditures of the Committee of Elections amounted to $26,416, being $10,200 less than had been claimed as legal fees by witnesses and for serving subponaes; the Committee of Ways and Means had expended $3712; the Committee of Vays and Means had expended $3712; the Committee of Vays and Committee, $2654; the Special Committee on the Decline of American Commerce, $2000; and the Gensus Committee, $343-the total amount expended being $47,786. Of this sum, $20,962 had been paid, leaving $16,824 unpaid.

but having no jurisdiction of the person, the committee did not know exactly what sort of a resolution to report. The Committee would take the instructions of the House on the subject.

Mr. Woodward expressed his belief that the committee had no jurisdiction as to the person of an exmember of Coogress, and had no right to investigate with a view of any personal proceedings against such member; but when the resolution was adopted it meant more than a more investigation of the delinquencies of individuals. It means to inform the House with reference to the working of those two national schools, and that information would be very important as bearing on the question whether it was expedient to keep up those schools in the it was expedient to keep up those schools in the manner and on the principles on which they had hitherto been conducted. If those schools were being filled by purchase, they should either be abolished as public nuisances or there should be a re-formation in the mode of making the appointments. Mr. Bingham (Ohio) expressed his conviction that it was a simple act of usurpation for the House to order investigation into the official misconduct of a former member who was not now a member. was well enough understood that the offense was indictable under statutes, and therefore this was not the place to make an inquisition against a man not now a member of the House.

Mr. Cobb (Wis.), a member of the committee, represented that it would be unfair to certain exmembers against whom testimony had already been taken, and notices whereof had got into the public press, to shut off further investigation in their case, and thus cut them off from defending their reputa-

Mr. Banks suggested that it could be remedied by the committee reporting that there was no ground for such statements in the newspapers, but there would certainly be great injustice in the House en-tering into an investigation in a case where it had

— Resolved, That in the execution of the order of the House of February 4, 1879, the Committee on Military Affairs was instructed to continue its investigation of all purchases or sales of cadetships by any person who has been elected as a member or delegate of the House of Representatives in the Forty-first Cougress, or by any person who holds any executive or judicial office under the Government of the United States; provided, that nothing contained in this resolution shall be construed to prevent the said committee from continuing and completing all investigations already commenced.

The proviso having been agreed to as an amendment, Mr. Scofield moved to lay the whole resolution on the table, as making an unfair discrimination against two or three persons, and letting all others go free.
