THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1870.

A BOARD OF INDIAN INSPECTORS. The bill recently introduced in the Senate by Mr. Wilson "to promote the civilization of Indians, and to prepare them for the rights and duties of citizenship," is apparently designed to systematize the work which the President entrusted, some months ago, to a commission composed of gentlemen of the highest standing. The efficiency of their labors was much weakened by the conflict of authority arising from diverse laws and the want of a clear understanding in regard to the extent of their powers. The new bill, if passed, will obviate, to a great extent, these difficulties. It will entrust to the proposed board (of which the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the time being, are members) the supervision of all expenditures for the benefit of "Indians in amity with the United States, and with the general management of the friendly tribes, while the hostile Indians will be left to the control of the War Department. The experience of the country has demonstrated that the first essential step in civilizing the Indian is a thorough flogging. Nearly every formidable tribe has in turn undergone this process, and there can be no enduring peace on the frontiers until those tribes which are still vain and foolish enough to imagine that they can defy the Government and massacre white men with impunity are overwhelmingly defeated and humbled by American soldiers. The great defect in our system arises from the inadequacy of the means hitherto provided for the management of the Indians after they have been compelled to sue for peace. The practical working of the machinery of the Indian ing Bureau has been to the last degree disgraceful and deficient. An expenditure of millions of dollars per annum has been so badly mismanaged that it has done, on the whole, infinitely more harm than good. It has tended rather to foment new wars than to maintain peace. It has done more to brutalize the Indian than to elevate him. It has served to enrich a horde of white rascals, from the heads of bureaus and pretentious superintendents down to cheating agents, while it has contaminated the Indian with all the curses, and endowed him with none of the blessings, of civilization. White tax-payers and the nominal red recipients of the liberal appropriations which are continually made by Congress have been alike victimized, without any substantial and permanent good being accomplished, or any other positive result being clearly perceptible than the perpetual reiteration of the old story that Indian agents. superintendents, and contractors amass wealth, while the Indians under their charge ow poor, and in some cases literally starve to death. If this system cannot be improved it had better be abolished in toto. It would be quite as honest and creditable for the nation to abrogate all the old treaties by a sweeping law. as to continue to permit swindling agents to rob the Indians of the benefits we have only pretended to confer. The new bill, however, embodies a reform which may do much good, and can in no event make bad worse. It will prove a difficult task, under the most favorable circumstances, "to civilize, Christianize, and make productive citizens of the Indians." The experiment has been tried over and over again on American soil. The labors of the Moravians, the Jesnits, the Quakers, and other sects have not unfrequently been attended with partial success, but they have rarely been able to render any considerable body of Indians proof against the contaminating vices of civilization. Judicious labors conducted among tribes which saw no white men save the few who exercised a positively good influence have nearly always proved fruitful, but such isolation has been, as a rule, a prime requisite of success, and it is extremely difficult to guard the friendly tribes from contaminating associations. In a few instances even this difficulty has been partially overcome, however, and it may still be possible, by a vigorous and combined effort of the Government and the religious bodies of the country, to save and elevate a considerable proportion of the aborigines. If Senator Wilson's bill becomes a law, this question will probably be thoroughly tested. The nation has demonstrated its ability to safely incorporate in one body politic not only all the diverse races of Europe but the sable African, and it is opening up a place for John Chinaman. So let us not settle down into the conviction that extermination affords the only permanent solution of the Indian problem until the new Board of Inspection has had a fair chance to try its hand at civilizing the natives.

statute is shamefully disrogarded. This evil, coupled with the analogous one of imperfect arrangements made by bungling sheriffs, clearly indicates the necessity of new legislation on the subject. In France, we believe, one man superintends all the executions in every part of the empire, and if we must continue to hang men, there can be but little doubt that this unpleasant duty would be more skilfully and humanely performed if it was entrusted to an official who was fully impressed with the necessity of a strict compliance with the law requiring privacy, and at the same time competent to avoid the painful scenes of legal butchery which are from time to time reported in this and other States. OUR CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY. In the National House of Representatives yesterday, Hon. D. J. Morrell, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill to provide for the proper celebration of the centennial anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, to take place at Philadelphia in the year 1876. The bill, which was referred to the Committee on Manufactures, is an excellent preliminary step in the direction of a definite arrangement for the grand national event, and it ought to receive the candid consideration of Congress. It provides for the creation of a commission, to consist of not more than three delegates from each State, whose duty it shall be to prepare a plan for holding a great international exhibition, after conference with the authorities of the city of Philadelphia, and to select a suitable site for the erection of the necessary buildings within the corporate limits of the said city. The commissioners are to be appointed within one year after the passage of the act, by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and in addition to these, three alternate commissioners for each State are to be appointed, who shall assume the place and perform the duties of the original commissioners when they shall be unable from any cause to attend the meetings of the commission. The commission is to report to Congress at its next session a complete plan for the reception and classification of articles intended for exhibition; a suitable date for opening and for closing; a schedule appropriate ceremonies for openor dedicating the exhibition; a plan or plans for proper buildings; a plan for conducting the finances and guaranteeing the expenses that may be incurred; the requisite custom house regulations fer the introduction into this country of articles from foreign countries intended for exhibition, and all other necessary details. The commissioners are not to receive any compensation, and their travelling expenses are not to exceed the mileage of members of Congress, and the commission is not authorized to incur any expense, except for a competent clerk, unless authorized according to law.

Whenever the President of the United States shall be informed by the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania that provision has been made for the exclusive control by the United States of the proposed exhibition, the President is to make, by the Department of State, a proclamation of the same, setting forth the year in which the exhibition will take place, and the city in which it is to be held, and he is to communicate to the diplomatic representatives of all nations copie the same for publication in their respective countries. Independently of every other consideration, there is an historical propriety in celebrating the centennial anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia that cannot be disputed, but in addition to this there is no other city on the continent that presents so many advantages for the proper holding of a great international exhibition. New York some years ago attempted to rival the first great exhibition in London in 1851, and made a dead failure of it, which ought to be sufficient to prevent Congress from attempting anything of the kind in that locality again. Here we have ample space in our Park for all the necessary buildings, and we have ample accommodations for the comfortable lodging of all the strangers who may come to rejorce with us in the celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of our national existence. There are certainly a sufficient number of disinterested men in Congress to acknowledge the proper claims of Philadelphia in this matter, and we do not doubt that all the essential features of Mr. Morrell's bill will receive the votes of a large majority of both houses. THE BILL for the payment of the State Historian and his clerical force for the last year was passed by the State Senate yesterday, with an amendment reducing the clerk hire from $5800 to $3200. It would be a matter of great gratification to us if we could discover what benefits are derived from the labors of the State Historian by anybody but himself. If in the matter of clerk hire alone he contrives to run up a bill of $5800, what must his own expenses be? The fact is that the State Historianship is a job for the especial purpose of taking as much money as possible out of the State Treasury for the benefit of certain individuals, and it would not be continued for a day if the Legislature were composed of honest men who had the interests of the public at heart. It is not as great a swindle, perhaps, as some others perpetrated under legislative auspices, but it is a swindle of sufficient magnitude to demand emphatic condemnation.

zation of the company by electing J. Gregory Smith President; R. D. Rice, Vice-President; A. H. Barney, Treasurer; Samuel Wilkeson, Secretary. Arrangements were also made for the immediate and energetic prosecution of the great work. The first section to be undertaken will be from Daiuth to Red river, and the expectation is that that portion of the road will be constructed before the close of the present year.
