

NEW YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, March 11, 1870. Taking the Kingdom of Heaven by Force. The Fulton street prayer-meetings are very commendable. They do good. It is productive of a pure and peaceful feeling to know that every noon you can step aside for a few moments into a spiritual atmosphere, and that, even if you are not good yourself, you may mingle with the good; and although I would not imply that there are no hypocrites at these meetings, or that the standing up "to be prayed for" is never officious and egotistical, I am morally certain that many chance attenders there go away refreshed. The panting heart finds its water-brook there.

But sometimes the heart pants too much for public endurance, and the chairman tries to shut off the water-brook. An incident like this happened only the other day. A worshipper, endowed to an unusual extent with the power of praying, plumped down on his knees, and heedless of the five-minute signal (meant to restrict the long-winded), went on praying without giving any evidence of letting up. The more he prayed the more he perspired, and the wringing of his spirit were evident in the purple of his complexion and the working of his fingers. In vain the leader of the meeting tinkled his bell, and finally in despair gave out the first two lines of a popular hymn: in vain the congregation started the tune, and sang the hymn to its conclusion. The plender prayed on, and at length dim murmurs of "put him out" (such as you hear at a theatre when some one in the gallery bursts into a horse-laugh at the wrong line) began to spread over the house. Even his did not affect the man upon his knees. Spiritually speaking, he remained unput out, and the only remaining remedy was to physically eject him. With some difficulty this was accomplished, and two policemen of a serious mien stood at the door to prevent his return.

Mrs. Frelich's Diamonds. Mrs. Frelich is the name of the notoriety to whom allusion was yesterday made as having brought before the Tombs Police Court a charge of theft against a Broadway Jeweller. In some respects this is one of the most remarkable cases ever brought before a New York court. It is rendered so by the publicity attaching to the name of her husband as being the manager of the Bowery Theatre, and by the extreme candor which characterizes the lady's confessions. O cheek! thou god of the nineteenth century, how many peccadilloes are with impunity committed by those who put their trust in thee! If I had a son I should advise him by all means to travel on his cheek. It is a through ticket, anywhere. Genius may do a little; talent may do more; tact is of immense service to any one; but cheek is indispensable. With either of the first three you stand the chance of sitting down to ten-cent cakes and coffee. With the fourth you dine royally at Delmonico's.

Poor Jim Jubilee. Everything relating to this distinguished person is interesting—from the fact that the backs of his vests are made of black satin to the latest charge upon which he made his appearance in court. It is therefore interesting to learn that a person named George W. Pierce has been trying to blackmail him in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars. The plan he took was to send anonymous letters and to threaten Eric's life if the sum is not forthcoming. Damocles' jack-knife seems to be forever suspended over Jim Jubilee's head.

Mr. Foster's Thirteenth Temptation. Some weeks ago Mr. Joseph G. Foster came to this city from Philadelphia, accompanied by his daughter, and took board and lodging with a Mrs. Tisdale, in Brooklyn. His ostensible reason for leaving Philadelphia—that paradise of separate homes where they call rubbers "yams," and indulge in other one-syllable monstrosities—was the superintendence of and the production of that spectacular chef d'œuvre, The Twelve Temptations, at the Grand Opera House. According to Mrs. Tisdale's affidavit, Mr. Foster, while causing the public to succumb to his Twelve Temptations, succumbed himself to a thirteenth one, and that was not to pay his board. She therefore procured an order for the attachment of his portion of the property connected with the theatre, such as scenery and wardrobe, and also of his share of the proceeds of the piece. I don't pretend to know the merits of the case, and can only say that when they have New York or Brooklyn landladies to deal with, Philadelphians who are not lawyers ought to borrow a portion of that sharpness which is generally supposed to attach to members of the legal profession hailing from the City of Brotherly Love. Mr. Foster, if I remember aright, used to be one of the healthy, heavy old men who did the "bless-ye-be-happy" business at the Chestnut Street Theatre. He ought to have made money out of the Twelve Temptations, I will not say for Mrs. Tisdale's sake, but for his own.

Countess at Last. I allude to John Smith. I have watched the career of this individual for many years. In looking over the police records yesterday, I saw that he had been arrested and held for trial on account of stealing a tub of butter and a cheese. Philadelphia papers please copy.

The Arion Chorus. On one or two occasions I have remarked that Parepa-Rosa, although incomparably great as a concert singer, was much more of a business woman than an operatic artist. Without being exactly her own treasurer, she knows precisely how much money comes in and how much goes out. Her recent expedition to this city, from Baltimore, in order to sing at an entertainment given by the Arion Society, provoked an admiring paragraph from almost every newspaper in this city. In fact, it was a simple business operation, and if attention to one's private business deserves public commendation, then was Euphrosyne most praiseworthy. She simply sang for the Arion Society, on condition that the Arion Chorus should sing for her during her approaching opera season in this city. That chorus will keep its promise next week on the occasion of the production of Der Freischütz.

An Unelevating Elevator. A couple of young men who are not as well known to the police as they would be had their names been published, rested, one or two midnights ago, on the topmost of the front steps of the Astor House. Owing to an obliquity of vision for which champagne was not altogether irresponsible, they mistook that locality for the elevators of the hotel. After the lapse of some minutes one of them complained of feeling giddy, and attributed it to the rapid motion of the machine.

"Yes," responded his companion, "it's shooting up like a rocket. We must be near the roof." "This way, gentlemen," exclaimed the voice of one of the salivary Sileasons. The salivary Sileason was accompanied by a posse of porters, through whose united exertions the champagne Charles was shoofed to their dormitories. ALI BABA.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements. AT THE CHESTNUT OF the drama of Oliver Twist and the farce of Putting the Rabbits will be performed this evening. There will be a matinee to-morrow, and on to-morrow evening Mr. McManus will have a benefit. AT THE WALNUT Mr. Fechter will personate "Hamlet" this evening. A matinee performance of The Octopus will be given to-morrow. On Monday Mr. Fechter will appear as "Ray Blin."

AT THE ARCH the drama of The Little Detective will be represented this evening, with Lotta in six different characters. AT THE AMATEURS' DRAWING ROOM the French Comedy Company will appear this evening in Les Maitres (East Lynne) and Les Petites Maitresses de la Vie. AT THE ELEVENTH STREET OPERA HOUSE an attractive bill of minstrelsy is announced for this evening. AT DUPREZ & BENEDICT'S OPERA HOUSE a variety of amusing burlesques will be performed this evening. SIGNOR BLITZ and his son will give a magical entertainment at the Assembly Buildings this evening. THE PANORAMA of "The Pilgrim" will be exhibited at Concert Hall this evening for the benefit of the Fifth Street M. E. Church. X. T. K.—Mr. B. B. Duane will repeat his humorous entertainment entitled "Ninety Minutes in Kewer Company" this evening at the Assembly Buildings. THE SEXTET-HASLER orchestra will give a matinee to-morrow at Musical Fund Hall. A GRAND CHORAL CONCERT in aid of the Baptist Home will be given to-morrow afternoon at the Academy of Music. A very interesting performance may be expected, and as the object is a most worthy one, we hope that there will be a full attendance.

The Richings Troupe in New Orleans. The opening of the English opera since the universal anxiety that has been aroused since the moment of the first announcement of the appearance of the Caroline Richings Opera in our midst. In a community so peculiarly musical as that in which we live, it would have been strange indeed if a reception showing beyond question the popularity of the English opera, had not been accorded to it. It is not only from the large audiences that each night attend the Varieties Theatre that we draw this moral, but also from the brilliant merit of the troupe as a whole. Approved of this we would like to say that, at the matinee of yesterday, Eichberg's comic opera of the Doctor of Alcantara, we specially noticed in this opera the vigor and perfection of the chorus. No better mingling of the soloists and the general choristers could be given, we take it, anywhere. If for nothing else, the Doctor of Alcantara merits a second representation, which, we trust, will not be declined by the management.—N. O. Times, March 6.

Incidentals. —California has a newspaper known as the Watsonville Pajaronian. The newsboys are shy of it. —Virginia City is to be the scene of a waiting-mat race for a purse of $1000 and the championship of Nevada. —With a due regard to the requirements of Lent, a Portsmouth, N. H., fisherman caught on the 4th inst. a codfish weighing 125 pounds. —A physician and an undertaker reside in the same house in Boston, and it occurred an awkward mistake a day or two ago. —There was another death from trichina spiralis, making the fourth, in Bridgeport, Conn., on Monday. The sickness was caused by eating raw pork. —The Louisiana Democratic State Committee proclaims that "there is no middle ground, except for those who are on the road to the common enemy."

A Bangor man weeps for his fifth wife. To prevent misunderstanding it should be added that he weeps because she is dead, and not because he is in search of her. —Four young ladies and a young man were on Sunday week baptized in Rum River, Minnesota, while the thermometer marked 12 degrees below zero. —Out in Nevada, they say that, when a white man kills an Indian he presents him with a ticket of admission to the red man's happy hunting-grounds. Thus facetiously do they intimate that he is in truth a dead-head. —The only lady in Congress by the name of "Shoo fly" shot, and the Troy Times asks what shall be done with those who sing it in the streets? Wouldn't Stop-Cox be effective? —It is rumored that Dewees, the carpet-bagger cadetship seller, from North Carolina, will be succeeded in Congress by James Harris, a negro. The excited member finds this even more harassing than expulsion. —The Terre Haute Journal calls the "comic theatre" in that city a "dead beat show" since they posted no free bills on the door. The Journal certainly occupies (terro hant) high ground. —It is stated that Sam Collyer was so severely injured in the recent prize-fight that he is likely to quit this earthly tabernacle. He said he was perfectly willing to stand by his hands and die, but didn't think that Edwards would throw "fives" every time. —Four statues are to be placed upon the new City Hall of Detroit, representing Justice, Industry, the Arts, and Commerce. The first, two feet high, and cut from sandstone, has been completed.

Schools were kept in 5033 districts in Michigan last year, and were attended by about 270,000 children. The average length of the schools was 6-3-10 months. They employed 3284 male teachers, at an average salary of $47.71 per month, and 7893 females, averaging $24.55 per month. The total expense was $2388,113. —The Delaware peach-growers are already making preparation for the transportation of their crop the coming season. They ask that the price for carrying a car load of peaches of 16,000 pounds from Dover to Jersey City be reduced to $100, and that the empty baskets be returned free of charge. The growers also say that they are unwilling to pay cartage from Jersey City to New York when fruit is sold in the former city.

CITY ITEMS. CLOTHING CHEAPER BETTER MADE BETTER FIT BETTER FINISHING AT TOWER HALL AT TOWER HALL TRAN ANTHEMERS KILL. No. 213 MARKET STREET. Mr. WILLIAM W. GARDNER, the Jeweller at No. 13 S.
