Evening Telegraph PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON

SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1870.

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, from its original establishment, has been in the receipt of telegraphic news from the New Tork Associated Press, which consists of tne Tribune, Times, Herald, World, Sun, Journal of Commerce, Evening Post, Commercial Advertiser, and Evening Express. The success which has attended our enterprise is, in itself, a sufficient evidence of the freshness, fullness, and reliability of the news which we have received from this source. We have now entered into a special contract by which THE EVENING TELEGRAPH has the exclusive use of the news furnished in the afternoon by the Associated Press to its own members, the North American, Inquirer, Ledger, Press, Age and German Democrat, of this city, and the leading journals of the East, North, West and South; and hereafter THE TELEGRAPH will be the only evening paper published in this city in which the nfternoon despatches of the Associated

A NEW POLITICAL TEST.

Press will appear.

The interesting question was recently raised in the House of Representatives whether objectionable antecedents of Congressmen elect, irrespective of their loyalty during the war, could be made a legitimate ground for refusing admission to seats. It was alleged that Mr. Conner, the Democratic member from Texas, had whipped negro soldiers while he was in the army, and that he had subsequently boasted on the stump that when he was tried for this offense by a military commission he had bribed a negro witsess to bear false testimony; and this allegadon was made the pretext for an attempt to Zeprive Mr. Conner of his seat. The House, aswever, very properly refused to sustain bis movement. If every man against whom accusations have been made were denied admission, Congress would speedily dwindle down to a small family party; and if the right to hold seats were made contingent upon the character of the promises and speeches made in a heated canvass, few men could pass the proposed ordeal. It is quite likely that Mr. Conner acted very badly in the matters complained of, but it was for his constituents rather than for Congress to decide whether his misconduct had disqualified him; and if the scandals of every district are to be publicly rehearsed at Washington, there will be no time left to attend to more important business. It is well enough to eject members for bribery or for election frauds, and to administer the iron-clad oath as long as it may be deemed necessary, but the people must be left free to pass judgment upon the personal character and qualifications of the applicants for their votes, and it is to be hoped that a long experience of the disastrous consequences resulting from the selection of incompetent or dishonest representatives will finally impress them with the necessity of nominating and electing only good men and true.

THE TARIFF BILL.

GENERAL SCHENCK, the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, made a speech on the tariff on Thursday, in which he forcibly exposed the humbug of free trade. In point of fact no such thing, in the sense in which the term is used, exists in civilized countries. Taxation in some shape is the common lot of all mankind who have ascended above the lowest stages of barbarism; and all enlightened national governments, in apportioning jaxation between native products and imported goods, are influenced by their real or supposed interests. Great Britain, with all her professions of devotion to free trade, imposes on some American products, and esperially on tobacco, a much higher rate of duty than Congress ever imposed on any British product. The present French tariff imposes on all foreign fabrics an average rate of duty nearly as high as that which is imposed by the existing American tariff; and while the rate of imposts varies throughout Europe, no civilized country admits, duty free, all the products of any other independent nation. Free trade between distinct governments is a myth-an impracticable idea-for which there is not a single well-established modern precedent. The most that has been done anywhere is to establish a partial free list, which is increased or diminished from time to time, as financial and industrial exigencies arise. Free trade of this kind we have always had, and nothing more can be reasonably expected during the present century. The real point aimed at by the American free-trade advocates is such an arrangement of details of our tariff as will promote the interests of Great Britain rather than those of the United States, and to concede this point is simply to confess that the American people can be outwitted and betrayed in their own Congress.

Ir clearly appears from recent proceedings in the State Legislature, that the members no longer pretend to know the contents of the bills they vote for, and that even the clerks are unable to hear or faithfully record the amendments that are made. The Governor has also confessed in a late message that he signs bills without investigating their contents. Yet the people of Pennsylvania are irrevocably bound by this spawn of laws, which nobody is responsible for and nobody understands. Reason, justice, and intelligent attention to the public interests are all ignored. But one thing is necessary with the bills presented-that they should be run brough the law-making forms after some fashion; and as this is the sole requisite, some inventive genius would render a useful service if he devised a mechanical contrivance that served the same end. Legislators, Senators, and Governors could then be abolished altogether. Everybody that wanted to have a bill passed could send it to the machine, and the operation of cogweeels could determine with as much nicety and intelligence as legislators determine now, whether it shall be nullified by being laid on a table or ground out as a law.

CONNECTICUT .- On Monday next, April 4, Connecticut holds her annual State election, at which will be chosen State officers and a full Legislature, consisting of 21 Senators and 238 Representatives. The following are the candidates for State officers:-

Governor. Marshall Jewell. Lieut.-Gov ... Morris Tyler. Sec. of State, Hiram Appelman. Treasurer. ... David P. Nichols. Controller. ... James W. Manning. Seth S. Logan.

All the names upon the Republican ticket are those of the present incumbents of the offices, except in the case of Lieutenant-Governor. In the last Legislature the Senate consisted of 13 Republicans and 8 Democrats, the House of Representatives of 134 Republicans and 164 Democrats, giving a Republican majority of 36 on joint ballot. The majority in this State has fluctuated so much during the past ten years that we present the figures for each year. In 1880 the vote stood for Lincoln, 43,792; for Dongias, 15,522; for Breckinridge, 14,541; and for Bell, 3291. Since then the vote of the State has been as follows:-

ı	Veur.	Rep.	Dem.	Minj.
ı	Year. 1860	43,792	33 454	10,338R
4	1861	43,012	40,926	2,086 R

be a pretty close scratch between the two candidates for the Governorship. Mr. English, who heads the Democratic ticket, is the strongest man in the party in the State, and can carry it through successfully if the thing is possible. The colored vote of the State will not be polled this year, as the ratification of the fifteenth amendment was not promulgated in time to secure its registration. It would amount to about 1500, which is considerable when the parties are so evenly balanced.

COMMITTER OF ARRANGEMENTS. HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

PENNSYLVANIA, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

PHILADELPHIA, A pril 1, 1870.

Comrades—The death of Major-General GEORGE H.

THOMAS has cast a gloom over our land, and particularly in the hearts of his late comrades in arms is the sorrow profound. We who followed him as our Soldier "Father" in the terrible Lattles of the West, know full well the worth of the patriot soldier and the Curistian gentleman, whose presence, so calm yet determined, was ever the warrant of glorous victory.

You! Soldiers of the East, who watched his career from the lirst Western victory—Mill Springs—to his last effective blow against Rebellion at hashville, must unite with the rest in this national grief.

It must be the desire of all to give expression to their feelings, therefore, the Pests of the Grand Army of the Republic situated in Philadelphia county, and other soldiers who wish to join the ceremenies, will assemble at the Headquarters of POST 19, AROH Street, above Sixth, at 7 P. M., sharp, on the evening of April 4 (MONDAV), and march theore by Posts, with colors draped, to the Academy of Music, where a sufficient space will be reserved for all comrades. Entique caps, white glowes, dark clothes, and mourning badges will be worn. A large attendance is desired, with premptness in assembling.
