The Fifteenth Amendment.

"John Brown's Soul" on its Last Forced March.

Our Colored Citizens in Overflowing Spirits-The Grand Demonstration in Honor of Their Enfranchisement.

To-day will forever form an epoch in the history of the city of Philadelphia; to-day will be duly celebrated the ratification of the 15th article of amendment to the Constitution of the United States, an article which has made the colored man an equal of every American born, and, in one respect, the superior of those not natives of To-day the colored men of Philadelthe soil phia will parade through the streets of this goodly city with their flags flying and their drums beating, and in their overflowing joyousto attempt such a movement would have been equal to running their necks into the halter. They will forget the time waen neither their own nor their families' lives were safe, but, on the contrary, liable to danger and destruction at the merest breathing of the men (!) whe then strove for their oppression. They will forget the time when a fugitive slave to enter Philaphia was only to enter again into the hands of his oppressors, and when for a colored man to dare raise his voice was equal to almost instant torture.

God is great, God is good, and no one should louder shout His praises than our newly en-franchised citizens. To them the "Father of mercies" has been all-merciful. He has truly "led them out of the land of Egypt and out of the house of bondage." Their sufferings were long-continued, but they have reaped a rich reward—a reward which will endure forever and ever until the end of time. Their chastisement has been great, but their reward has been still greater, and having endured the sorrows they are the better calculated to appreciate their new-found joys. Since sunrise our streets have been alive with our celored folks-men, women, and childrenwho had been on the tiptoe of expectation for months past, and have this morning been turning things almost upside down in their active preparations for the display made to-day. The wife, all bastle and flurry in the arranging of her husband for the procession, the mother in 'the fixing up of her son, and the sisters in their own way lending a helping hand, made every colored household lively and time pass swiftly. A tramp along South, Lombard, Rodman, Sixth, Seventh, and Eleventh streets disclosed a gala scene, and from every house-top, window, door-way, and every conceivable point floated the national bunting. Flags from the size nsually obtained for a penny up to those valued at hundreds of dollars added to the decorations, and interspersed were por-traits of those truly great, brave, and good men who have gone before, the men who were champions of the colored race when to be such was but to set one add for to when to be such was but to set oneself up to ridicule and ofttimes punishment-the men who bore the brunt of the battle and who fought the good fight until the glorious ending, the men who through the tender mercies of the All-wise were allowed see the fruition of their labors be-fore being called away. At a hundred and one different points were seen the portraits of the martyr Lincoln and the statesman Thaddeus Stevens. Nor was one other forgotten: the face of "that good old man" John Brown was also observable at dif-ferent places, whilst at others Grant and Colfax

With this right of enfranchisement comes grave responsibilities, great temptations and great dangers. The hour of triumph may be followed by days of trial, such as we have never known before. Temptations, such as have borne down many strong men, will doubtless come to us. Here, as in the South, poor men come to us. Here, as in the south, poor men will be put under beavy pressure. Now, as of old, an incarnate devil may stand, saying, "All this will I give you if thou will fall down and worship me," and it will be so hard for some colored men to say, "Get thee behind me," if they are like some white men we have all herem. By astrone we are no butter that they known. By nature we are no better than they

what we want for this hour of our rejoicing and for coming days of trial is simple manli-ness, and a manly recognition of the past, present, and future. Among the sons of several whose future He foretold when dying there was one compared to a despised beast of burden, who for the pleasantness of the land crouched down between two burdens. Years pass, and we come again on Issachar or to his sons, but no longer as stupid burden-bearers. Oh, no! It is a time of trial in Israel; the national life is threatened, and the tribes come up to battle, and of the children of Issachar two hundred of them were worth all the rest, because they understood the times. We want just such men to-day-men who under their burdens have learned lessons of wisdom. Two hundred such men might lead our thousands, and snatch Philadelphia from the disgrace which has been heaped upon her by party demagogues. The pastor then concluded by addressing a few personal remarks to the association which was present. He hoped that each member of the association which bore the honored name of Thaddens Stevens would be such a man as he had just referred to. He invoked them to be active and find some brother, degraded though he be, and make him feel like a brother. Thus, many could be saved from the enemy. Their motto should "lead him upward to principle rather than to party, to a life of virine," and thus, finally, he would reach God and heaven.

At St. Thomas P. E. Church.

This building, located at Fifth and Adelphi streets, like the one on Lombard street, was filled to overflowing long before the time annonnced for the commencement of the services. The Colored People's Union League occupied front seats and were attentive listeners to the eloquent remarks of the Rev. W. J. Alston, whose text was Psalm exxvi, 3, "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." The eloquent divine introduced his sermon with a beautiful description of the scene which occasioned the use of the above sentence. He pictured the Babylonian captivity, through which the children of Israel had suffered for seventy years. They had been delivered by God and had reached their homes when they erected altars and offered up sacrifices to Him as their deliverer. He also referred at some length to the parallel case in the Scriptures-the deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. They had crossed the Red Sea and Pharoah and his hosts had been enguifed. So joyous were they at their deliverance that they manifested their praise to Almighty God by singing the song: --"The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation; he is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation; my father's God and I will exalt him." "The Lord is a man of war; the Lord is his name."

"Pharaoh's chariots and his host hath he cast into the sea; his chosen captains also are drowned in the

"The depths have covered them; they sank into the bottom as a stone." "Thy right hand, O Lord, is become glorious in power; thy right hand, O Lord, hath dashed in pieces the enemy.

The preacher then alluded briefly to the cause of the gathering to-day, and read the ratification proclamation of the passage of the fiftcenth amendment. He also read extracts from the President's message to Congress with reference to the subject He then contended that to fully appreciate that which the colored people were celebrating to-day, it was necessary to take a recapitulatory review of the race on this conti-Prior to the emancipation proclamation, nent. he held that everything was done with a view of degrading the race. He, in proof of this, reverted to the first sale of negroes into slavery by the Dutch in 1620, and to the formation of the Celonization Society in 1832, the object of which was to drive all free men of color from this country, which was practically to enslave the entire colored population. He alluded to the want of appreciation of the services of the negro Crispis Attux, whose blood was the first shed in the Revolutionary War. He also considered separately, and in order, the several compromise that took place with a view to enlarge the slave territory, and made a pointed reference to the deadly struggle in Kansas. He also referred to John Brown's mission South, to the insult cast upon the national flag at Sumter, and to the secession of the Southern States. The speaker marked the arming of the slaves as the date of the change in the fortune of the national arms, and held that not until then did the Government show any real practical sympathy for the services rendered by the colored eople in its hour of need. The first evidence of this appreciation he conceived to be the passage of the Freedmen's Bureau bill. This was followed by the fourteenth amendment, and finally the ratification of the fifteenth amendment has been announced. These boons were the gifts of God-the grand stepping-stones of the full panoplied citizenship with which to-day the colored people are all clothed.

as fellow-cifizens of the United States! In this year of our blessed Lord we realize that Divine idea of human equality which signalized His personal inter-course with men, and which, nearly two hundred years ago, the founder of Pennsylvania incorporated in his frame of government, and which, nearly a century later, was proclaimed from Independence Ball by the representatives of the American colo-nies.

The block of your race and ours mingled on those fields where opposing sys-tems of civilization so lately met in deadly conflict; where the white soldier and the black soldier were comrades under the same flag and in the same cause. Thus by our common sacrifice the life of a inition was saved, and your enfranchisement se-enced.

On behalf of the Union League of Philadelphia, I On benait of the Union League of Thindespita, I welcome you and those whom you represent to the ranks of citizenship. We are to share together its rights and its duties. Inestimable rights --sacred duties! Rights to be preserved only by a faithful and unselfish performance of the duties which they Impose. Let this banner, the design and handiwork of one of your race, which I now present to you, in the name and on behalf of the Union League, be the symbol of confidence between us. Let it be borne in your procession to-day, under the cloudless sky, from which all the glory of God seems to be poured forth, upon the consummation of our com-mon labors ! We have one country, and one Consti-tution which proclaims that "the laws of equality is the strength of the State." What God has thus united, let no man put asunder !

Mr. Gitbona' address was replied to on behalf of the colored citizens by Mr. Octavius V, Catto, who thanked the League heartily for the present.

His speech was very neatly delivered and was most appropriate to the occasion.

At the conclusion of the presentation exer-cises the committee and the speaker were congratulated by the League, after which they withdrew, the bearers taking the banner and carrying it into the line of the procession.

The Procession.

About noon the immense crowds of colored people who had been for some hours previous promenading the principal thoroughfares began wending their way towards Broad street, where the procession would form. By 1 o'clock the first instalment of those who were to participate in the display arrived on that avenue, and was received with the clapping of hands and the waving of handkerchiefs. One by one the remainder of the associotions and societies came on the ground, and were similarly greeted by the enthusiastic bystanders. Race, Arch, Market, Chesuut, Walnut, Spruce, Pine, Lomhard, and South streets were devoted to the formation of the various divisions, and this ceremony was completed with surprising alacrity

At a very few minutes after 2 o'clock, all being In readiness, the signal was given and the rights of the different divisions filed on Broad street. The line then countermarched to Lombard, down Lombard to Fifth, Fifth to Pine, Pine to Ninth, Ninth to Walnut, Walnut to Twelth, Tweifth to Chesnut, Chesnut to Fifth, Fifth to Thompson, Thompson to Twelfth, Twelfth to Arck, Arch to Sixteenth, Sixteenth to Locust, Locust to Broad, to Horticultural Hall.

The Other Festivities.

MASS MEETING.

Immediately on the arrival of the procession at Horticultural Hall, mass meetings will be inaugurated inside and outside the hall. Distinguished speakers, philanthropists, and eminent laborers in the movement that has culminated in the passage of the amendraent have been invited to lend their presence on this occasion or send words of sympathy. Among those to whom invitations have been extended the following have signified by letter their intention of being present:-Hon. Henry Wilson, Hon. George W. Julian, Frederick Douglass, Major A. R. Cal-houn, Robert Purves, General Louis Wagner and others: while from President Grant, Vice-President Colfax, Governor Geary, General O. O. Howard, Senators Scott, Sumner, and Morton, Secretary Boutwell, Hon. Beujamin F. Butler, Howard Day, and General Harry White letters have been received regretting their inability to be present.

THE CLOSING CEREMONIES.

The concluding festivities will take place at the Horticultural Hall, at 10 o'clock in the evening. They will consist of a grand illumination and pyrotechnic display. The ceremonies will be under the charge of a committee of wealthy and influential colored citizens, among whom are John Price, T. J. Dorsey, H. Minton, Henry Jones, J. H. Teagle, Jr., Stephen Smith, and J. T. Bowers.

PUGILISM.

Another Scene of Brutality. Our readers will remember that some weeks ago we chronicled the facts attendant on a disgraceful scene of brutality which was enacted in a private room in the bagnio of the notorious Tom Phillips, on South Front street. The con-Tom Phillips, on South Front street. The con-testants for the dishonorable honors were Jim Smith and Pat Fitzmaurice. After a fierce con-test Smith was counted in slang phrase the "best man." Since then the friends of both have over their poisonous carousals talked loudly and bitterly, the one party contending that Fitzmaurice was the equal of Smith, while the others denied all such assertions. At length the others denied all such assertions. At length to settle the matter another "battle" was decided upon, and Rehl's drinkery, at the west end of Penrose Ferry Bridge, was chosen as the place. Yesterday a gang of about fifty pickpockets, burglars, wharf-runners, cab-drivers, dance-house keepers, and disreputables generally, repaired in the tug-boat Aunt Jemima to the place named. Arrived at the spot the ring was pitched and Samuel Colbert, of New York, and "Butt' Reilly, of Philadelphia, were chosen as seconds for Fitzmaurice, and Edward Hastings and James Rand for Smith. FORTY-FIRST TERM-SECOND SESSION.

Senare. WASHINGTON, April 26.—Mr. Trumbull presented a memorial and resolutions of a public meeting in Chicago, recommending that the balance of four or five hundred thousand dollars, snown as the Chinese indemnity fund, the same being a balance left after paying shi claims of our etitizens, he covered into paying all claims of our citizens, be covered into the United States Treasury as a special fund, either to bereturated to China or to used for the establish-ment of universities of learning at Pekin.

Mr. Sumner said the subject was before the Com-mittee on Foreign Relations, that there was no evidence that the Chinese Government has formally refused to receive this fund, and that the committe thought in equity the money belonged to China. This was entirely distinct from the Japanese Fand, and the committee expected to report finally upon it at an early day. The memorial was then referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. Mr. Sherman, Chajrman of the Finance Committee, in response to a resolution of instruction on the subject, reported that the committee were unani-monsily of the opinion that no change ought to be made in the rate of faxation on distilled spirits. The Outrage in Greece.

ATHENS, April 26 .-- The excitement throughout Greece on account of the recent outrages of the brigands near Marathou has not abated. At an early hour yesterday morning the bodies of Lloyd and Herbert, of the British Legation, arrived at Pirzens, near this city, in a Grecian frigate. Later in the day their funeral was celebrated in this city. The king, the diplo-matic corps, and a great number of strangers attended. The force in pursuit of the brigands succeeded in killing or capturing the whole party.

came in for their share of glory. Before one place in Lombard street was arranged a transparency, with the painting of a couple of cannons, a stand of arms, and surrounded by am-munition, and above all the words "We never spike our guns." At another was displayed a painting of the terrible day at Fort Hudson, and at another some colored guards on picket. Hurrying hither and thither through streets, we found the new voters arrayed in clean white shirts and dark pantaloons, all aim-ing for the central point, Liberty Hall, around which were already collected many hundreds. The hall itself could scarcely be seen, so thick was it hung with bunting, and to enter was a matter of no small difficulty, so dense was the crowd. Pushing our way inside we found the different officers issuing their respective orders and busily preparing for the parade.

The Religious Services.

In accordance with the request of the Central Committee, the colored churches located in the various parts of the sity were opened at a o'clock for religious services. All were well attended, and the utmost interest was manifested in the exercises by the audiences. Ser-mons were delivered, hymns of praise sung, and prayers offered, into all of which our new-made citizens entered with a zest and fervor that are characteristic of their race alone. The principal centres of attraction were St. Thomas' Church. Fifth and Adelphi streets, and the Central Presbyterian Church, Lombard street, below Ninth, at both of which special discourses suitable to the occasion, were delivered.

At the Central Presbyterian Church.

This edifice, situted on Lombard street, below Ninth, was crowded at an early hour, and it was with difficulty that the Thaddens Stevens Monumental Association, who had received a special invitation to attend, reached the seats which had been set apart for them.

The pastor, Rev. J. B. Reeve, after prayer and the singing of a hymn, announced the text, Psalms ixvi, 8, 9, and part of 13:-

"O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard. 'Which holdeth our soul in life and suffereth not our feet to be moved. "We went through fire and through water;

but Thou broughtest us out with a wealthy

In starting the discourse the minister observed that we are here this morning not for discus-sion, but for thanksgiving. We bless our God to-day, would make the voice of His praise to be heard:-

First. Because He has brought us into this wealthy place-made us citizens of so great a country. If the children of Israel on being released from their bondage offered up sacrifices, how much more ought we to offer our thanksgiving for the great boon which He has conterred upon us.

Second. We bless Him that here He has kept our soul in life amid oppressions unparalleled in history, unless His own peculiar people be excepted. What has not been done to crush ont that life? The key of knowledge was taken away: the Word of Life perverted so far as men could do it; every effort was made to destroy the sympathies and affections. Yet that life remains. The waters have not quenched nor the fires consumed it.

Third. We bless Him because He hath not suffered our feet to be moved from this land where He in His providence-so dark in the beginning-placed us. Neither threats of foes nor counsels of misguided friends ever moved our fathers away from the confident expectation of having, as a race, just what God has now given us-citizenship. Here on this great continent, God's own grand reservation for free institu-tions, for unfolding the principles of that kingdom His Son came to establish, He suffered them to be placed, and from here He has not suffered their children to move. Here, to-day, we are rejoicing over new evidences that the tabernacle of God is to be with men, and that He will dwell among them, and that they can dwell together in unity. In these things we reloice, and for these we give thanks.

The Banner Presentation.

At noon a handsome banner was presented to the colored citizens of Philadelphia by the Union League, in the principal drawing-room el the League building.

Previous to the presentation the banner was on exhibition at the north end of the room. was a most beautiful affair, and reflects great credit upon both the designers and makers. The dimensions of the banner proper are about seven by six feet. The face is of white silk, ornamented at the sides with rich gold embroidery, two inches in width.

The ends of the cross bars are mounted with small gilt cagle heads, and from the bottom hangs heavy gilt fringe. The principal design is in a circular form, and represents a colored soldier meeting and taking by the hand a white brother. Both of the principal figures are in full regimentals. The colored soldier has his uncovered, and is raising his free hand to call Heaven to witness the sincerity of the feelings which the action expresses. In the back nd an army is assembled, with the accompaniment of drums, cannon, and other warlike unplements.

In the front rank of the army stands the martyr Lincoln, holding forth the immortal Eman-cipation Proclamation. On the left a negro family are grouped together in an attitude of thankfulness. In the rear of the army may be seen the white Capitol buildings, and over all the sun is just breaking through a dark cloud which has oversuadowed it.

This design is surrounded by a wreath, and under it is the inscription "Jus civitatis equalis, vis civitatis est." The top of the ban-ner is surmounted by a gilt eagle, which holds in its mouth the ends of two beautiful silk American flags.

The flags are draped in graceful festoons on both sides, and are confined with heavy gilt cords and tassels, which extend down the sides and hang loosely from the ends, for the purpose of being used as stays in carrying. The reverse is of blue silk and bears the fol lowing inscription:-"Presented to our Colored Citizens, by the Union League of Philadelphia, in commemoration of the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, April 26, 1870."

At a quarter after 12 the colored committee of arrangements of the celebration filed into the room, where they were met by the Board of Managers of the Union League. The committee was composed of twelve members. They were dressed in plain black suits and white gloves. The President of the League introduced Mr. Charles Gibbons as the person who had been selected to make the presentation address. The colored gentlemen acknowledged the introduction by bowing. Mr. Gibbons then spoke as follows:-Gentlemen-For the first time in our history as a nation we are permitted to meet you and greet you

MURDEROUS ASSAULT ON A MAGISTRATE .---Yesterday afternoon A. J. Williams went into the office of Alderman McCloskey and demanded the return of a pistol which had been retained by the magistrate some time previous. His request was refused, and some words ensued. Williams left, and shortly after returned armed with a musket and bayonet. He #gain demanded the pistol, and upon being again refused thrust the weapon at the Alderman, the bayonet entering his leg and inflicting an ugly wound. liams was then arrested and taken before Alderman Collins, who sent him below in default of $2000 ball.

I. O. O. F.-To-day is the day appointed by Grand Sire E. D. Farnsworth, for general ob-servance by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows as a day of solemn thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God for His unmistakable care and protection of the Order. In some sections of the country, especially at Washington, great preparations have been made to observe the day in a noticeable manner, but in this city nothing has been done or will be done. It is well, perhaps, that it is so, for Philadelphia could scarcely survive two graud jubilees on the same

A DRADLY ASSAULT .- On Sunday afternoon fames O'Kane was standing in Ball alley, talking with some friends. He was set upon by one Patrick Burke, who cut him across the throat in a dangerous manner with a penknife. O'Kane was taken into a neighboring house and his wound dressed. Burke succeeded in escaping. This affray is supposed to have arisen from a suit which was instituted, some time since, by O'Kane against Burke. The mjured man is not expected to recover.

CHICKEN THIEVES .--- Last night the police of the Eighteenth district overhauled Samuel Smith, John Johnson, and William Bridge, at Second street and Nicetown lane, with seventeen chickens, for the possession of which they could give no satisfactory account. The men and the chickens were escorted to the station, where Alderman Neill gave the former a hearng and bound them over for a further hearing. The chickens await an owner.

A MOLASSES THIEF .- At half past 4 o'clock this morning two policemen captured a fellow rolling a barrel of molasses along Vine street, between Second and Third streets. He gave the name of Samuel Carr, and was marched to the Fourth District Station. He will have a hearing at the Central this afternoon. The molasses is at the Seventh District Station, awaiting an owner.

CARELESSNESS .- No less than eight establishments were found open last night by the police of the Sixth district.

Mr. Willey offered a resolution directing the Com-mittee on Education and Labor to inquire into the expediency of dividing the net proceeds of sales of the public lands among the several States for edu-cational purposes and otherwise, so providing by law that all the people of the United States may have an opportunity of acquiring a common school

Mr. Willey advocated his resolution in a speech of twenty minutes. He referred to the fifteenth amendment as having introduced into the body politic a dangerous element, and argued that not only our duty, but our interest and safety, required that the colored race should be educated to an intelligent exercise of the suffrage. If we neglected prompt and efficient means for their enlightenment, we would one day bitterly regret our mistake. In this connection he referred to the figures of the last census to show that out of 1,125,675 whites in the United States over 20 years of age who were unable to read,462,125 were males and consequently voters. To-day there were in the United States 100,000 white voters unable to read.
