THE "WHITE MAN'S" CONVENTION.

Spley Account of the Delaware Fizzle-Shameful Apathy of the White Men-No Convention Held.

For several weeks past, says the Wilmington Commercial of last evening, a call has been before the poople of this State for a State Mass Convention of white men to organize a "White Man's Party" which should absorb all the Democracy and that large number of Republicans that Democrats believe to be lying around loose outside their party.

The convention, it was said, was to be held at Dever, and bills announcing the fact were sent to two of the anti-Saulsbury Democrats there, to be put up, but said bills are believed to be, as yet, peacefully slumbering in the desks of the gentlemen aforesaid, and Dover has not, to this day, had official notice of the honor intended to be conferred upon her. The gentlemen interested in the proposed convention, expecting to have all the "White Men" of the State flocking to Dover, urged the railroad to make suitable preparations fo carrying the host, and the company according issued half tickets, put extra cars on the morn ing train down, and issued orders for the after noon train, which stops at Harrington, to con tinue on to Seaford; all this that the accouche ment of the new party might come off con fortably and with eclat.

The train started from Wilmington with three enthusiastic "white men," without regard in party, and one enthusiastic "Democrat," with with out regard to color, who proclaimed himself a looker-on.

New Castle contributed another delegate. At Middletown it was expected that a large delegation would come on, and everybody's head was out of the window looking for the waiting throng of white men. When the train stopped one individual quietly stepped on, and that was all. This was surprising; nay, alarming. The Middletown Democracy have, for years, had but one cause for pride and congratulation, and that was that they "weren't niggers," and if they failed to respond to such a call, who would respond ?

Well, there's hope in Townsend! let us wait till we get to Townsend. Samuel, of that name, is the Grand Mogul of the new movement, and he will bring a crowd.

The train stopped, and our venerable friend Samuel and his brother John and another man got aboard. "Only this and nothing more."

"Things is serious now," and the nine white men look into each other's eyes with alarmbut stop ! there is yet hope. Smyrna lies ahead of them, and has not all the white flesh of Smyrna been made to creep by the extracts recently read there from a French book by Senator Bayard? Smyrna will doubtless do its Meat is in abundance, as also fruits and vegetables. Happily there is no danger of starving either now or in the future." "How about pay?" "They receive no pay, and the only hope of any is in their achieving their independence." "What is the condition of the Spanish troops?"

"What is the condition of the Spanish troops?" "They have abundant arms, including, beside the best ordinary military rifles and muskets, plenty of Remington's breech-loading rifles, one of the best arms ever placed in a soldler's hands. The worst is, all these came from the United States. My only hope is that I will get some just as good to fight against them. The spanish forces are also finely uniformed, and, in fact, lack nothing soldiers could possibly require, except pluck and fighting for a good and worthy cause." A discussion which took place afterwards in the Cortes showed the accusation to be unfounded, and the only resources which her Majesty possessed were her private family jewels, and a sum of about 10,000,000 of francs lodged in the Bank of England, and saved from the allowance made by Spanish Government to the Prince of the

The Memorial Diplomatique, reverting to the above subject, says:-"We regret to learn that Queen Isabella, seeing her resources diminish daily, has been forced to effect retrenchments in he aiready modest mode of living, and that if her son is not restored to the throne of Spain her Majesty will before long be in so precarious a position that the Emperor and Empress of the French will be under the necessity of allowing her a pension."

Professor Dews, a well-known violinist of Rich-mond, at the time of the catastrophe was standing in the wide avenue leading from the Governor's in the wide avenue leading from the Governor's house, somewhat near the monument. He heard the crash of the falling timbers, and saw the clouds of dust rising from the windows, and then the shricks of the wounded and dying. The effect upon him was to pro-duce paralysis of the left side. The correspondent of the Petersburg Index, who relates this incident, says the Professor weights two hundred pounds, and is neither excita-ble nor very imaginative. The same correspondent adds:-Old lawyer Cannon, one of our most vene-rable and worthy citizens, was paralyzed, and is now confined to his bed. He had been before in this condition, however; but none of these cases seem so strange as this-where a person, neither seeing nor being told what had happened, at once realized it in all of its shocking details.

duty. The train stops and one man gets on to represent Smyrna and Clayton too.

This completes the delegates, and nobody says anything for a mile or two. Somebody suggests that the upper portion of the State is no longer much of a place for raising peaches, and all the "delegates" doubtless quietly think with a bitter pang that it is a poorer place still for raising white men, and say-"wait till the train from down country comes."

We all get to Dover, and a curious crowd of boys is at the depot to see the ghostly array of white men, doubtless expecting to see a procession uniformed in winding sheets. Seeing ten men in ordinary garb get off, the juveniles turned away disgusted.

Dover wore its usual Sunday-like aspect, and the imperturbable calm was not disturbed by the convention. It appeared that all the Democrats had concluded to stay in their houses, and this of course left the streets of the town almost deserted, as the group of white men went quietly along, painfully conscious of the fact that many a pair of eyes were looking through the blinds at them.

The Delawarian office had out no banners, the State House doors were not open, Governor Saulsbury did not make his appearance on the streets, and brother Ell quietly watched the thing from his den on the corner of the State House, while not an ex-member of the Legislatare was to be found in the town.

Presently the train from below arrived, and with it from thirteen to fifteen more "white men," and that was all.

The fifteen looked at the ten, and the ten looked at the fifteen, and then all looked at Sam Townsend, and then all gazed on the ground. Presently some bold man said, "Let's go home," and as soon as opportunity offered they went. And thus ended the White Man s Convention at Dover. Sam Townsend says the white men of Delaware will live to regret their apathy yesterday.

"Will active military movements continue ?"

"The rainy season is now near at hand; its advent will force the cessation of Spanish operations not so ruch on account of the condition of the roads as the inability of Europeans to stand exposure to alternate rain and summer sun without fatal fevers. The na-tives and even Americaus from the United States do not suffer the same inconvenience, and many, there-fore, take substantial advantage of the season for operations against isolated Spanish posts, and especially against their communications. Meanwhile the Cubans are not idle. Leather is abundant in the country, and shoes are being made to supply the soldiers, and saddlery for the cavalry. Even a few good Remington carbines likewise have been manu-factured. One of the most energetic officers of the Cuban service, Cornelio Porro, has been made Quartermaster and Commissary-General-a man of wealth and great influence in the country. Spatish columns may traverse the country, and fam lies may have to scatter and betake themselves to the woods for the time; but the substantial re-sults are very much the same as when a stone is cast lino a poul-a splash, a ripple for a little while, and then all becomes quiet as before. #### THE N. Y. MONEY MARKET YESTERDAY

From the N. Y. Herald.

"The advance in the rates of foreign exchange led "The advance in the rates of foreign exchange led to more activity in the Gold Room, and the price of gold sdvanced to 114%, between which figure and 114% it was steady all day. The few operators in gold have the market to themselves for the present, as the stock market absorbs just now the specula-tive interest of the street. It is the impression that the firmer ruling of gold to-day was assisted by some of the stock cliques, with a view to helping their railway investments, on which a decline in gold seems to reflect inevitable duliness, if not weakness and heaviness.

"The Government list was heavy at the earlier boards, as a sequence of the large sales yesterday, but improved with the advance in gold, although the ansount of business was below the average. This department of Wall street feels the general diversion of interest to the railways and miscella-neous shares which are so active at the Store Ry. neous shares, which are so active at the Stock Ex-change. The purchases are therefore almost wholly for investment, and made by private individuals and some of the moneyed corporations. The market closed strong.

Another Remarkable Wedding in Prospect.

The invitations to the wedding of Miss Cordelia. Downing, who is to marry Mark Kennie De Mortie on the 18th of May, are something altogether beyond those for any entertainment which has taken place in Washington for many a long year. They are gotten up not in the most expensive style, being printed instead of engraved, but certainly in the most elaborate manner. Five hundred outside and the same number of inside envelopes were ordered, each bearing a tremendous monogram, and as many of each of the numerous cards and invitations. The church invitation, printed on note paper, also bears the large-sized monogram, twining together in one festive letter of utter illegibility the initials of bride and groom, emblematic of-etc. This monogram is pure white, in utter opposition to the well-known sentiments of leading legislators. The invitation to the house represents Mr. and

Mrs. George T. Downing as intending to be mono-grammatically "At Home," on the evening just men-tioned, at No. 46 North B street. The cards of Cordella Downing and Mark Rennie De Mortle are tied together with white ribbon, and on another card appears the names of the bridesmaids and groomsmen, after this fashion :--

Mr. O. L. Mitchell,	Miss R. M. Downing.
Mr. W. Furgerson,	Miss K. G. Jacobs,
Garcons d'honneur.	Demoiselles d'honneur.

Whether these boys and girls are white, black, or Whether these boys and girls are white, black, or shaded, does not appear. The bride is the daughter of Downing, the keeper of the restaurant belonging to the House of Representatives, who is one of the most aristocratic colored voters of the happy Dis-trict. The groom is a Frenchman, is white, and, further, is unknown, except that he is not obpoxious on account of his color or future condition of servitude.

Colonel Benteen, of the 7th United States Cavalry, stationed in St. Louis, received yesterday some start-ling intelligence from Kansas, which he immediately reported at General Pope's headquarters. The news is to the effect that on the 2d inst, a telegraph de-spatch was received at Fort Hays from Governor spatch was received at Fort Hays from Governor Harvey, saying that a great number of Indians were reported on the Solomon, threatening the settle-ments. The telegraph operator at Wilson's creek also sent a despatch to Fort Hays of the same date, stating that two hundred indians passed across the railroad that morning, just above that station. Wil-son's creek is twenty niles west of Fort Harser, and between the latter point and Fort Hays. Four com-panies of the 7th Cavalry, commanded by General Custer, left Leavenworth on receipt of the intelligence for Fort Hays.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 7.-The steam mill of Hayward & Sweet, at Appleton, was burned early this morning.

Health of General Lee.

General Lee is threatened with disease of the heart. The Trustees of Washington College are uneasy on his account, but do not despair of his ultimate recovery. They have just voted that Mrs. Lee shall have the President's house and an annuity $3000 during her widowhood, should she survive the General.

Fearful Leap of an Insane Woman.

For some time past Mrs. Maria Bath, 5 woman 40 years of age, has occupied apartments in the house of Officer Bower, No. 299 West Twelfth street, New York. She desired to remain there, but Mrs. Bath had reason to believe that Mr. Bower required her rooms for his own use and would ask her to leave. This and some other troubles so preyed upon the mind of Mrs. Bath as to make her very despondent. Yesterday morning, about 6 o'clock, Mrs. Bath, while laboring under temporary aberation of mind, pro-ceeded to the roof of the house and deliberately umped off into the rear yard, a distance of eighty feet. She was taken up insensible and died in fifteer minutes afterwards from the effects of the injuries received.

CORRESPONDENCE .- John Price Wetherill will accept the nomination for Congress in the Second district :--

The question of intance and the tariff are the impertant questions of the hour, and are also eminently of this char-acter. The commercial people of the land are weary of the con-stant experimenting at Washington unon these questions, and ask for some sound, fixed policy, under which busi-ness may resume its accustomed channels. The mercantile/community demand, that the settlement of these questions should be made upon broad grounds, not in the interest of any special class as arrayed against all others, but in a fair, houses, equitable adjustment, tho proper result should be secared, so that the great trade interests of the country might be relieved from the heavy prosure of taration, which if not romedied is so likely to crash out every branch of industry and commerce. The daty of our own representatives, as far as our State is concerned, is plein and unmis akable. The coin want of the Government amounts to forty eight per cent, of the percentage which this necessity accures. The recent congressional action reducing the daty on pigron to five dollars per ton was unjust in that it does not give to our State that which in simple justice was her due. Imported pig i on last year was laid down at an average cost of $10 per ton in gold. Take is per cent, and mine dollars, instead of ity , enould have been the rate. Surely, therefore, the recent action of congress discriminates unfairly against this most im-partant insteres. On every hand we hear the popular ory of "Down with Congress discriminates unfairly against this most im-portant interest. On every hand we hear the popular cry of "Down with the taxes." As the revenue increases, every effort anould be made .o carry out the people's wish in this re-gard ; and just as soon as the requirements of the country warrent it, all internal taxation, except that on distilled spirits and tobacco, should we abolished, and the bulk of the revenue should be received through the Custom Henne.

the revenue should be received through the Custom Brousse. The consideration of the important questions of the tariff and finance is the merchant's daily soury. They con-stantly occup while the tariff and the tariff and the stantly soury. They con-action he makes; they tax his best abilities, for he is well aware that success depends upon the correct con-clusions derived therefrom. To study out, and, if possible, make himself master of these consistent and perplex, ing questions, is the successful zerochant's dust. Hence I am of the opinion that the practical experience of men-engaged is mercantile pursuits is of more value where impresend directly by a representative of this chast intan-where simply imparted through a representative whose which its has been occupied in pursuits or totally dif-ferent character. A Singular Case. The following case of sufficiation comes from Rolf, Jr., consisting of himself, wife, and one child, residing on Portland street, narrowly escaped suffo-cation by gas from a coal stove. The child had been playing about the room, and, unobserved, shut the playing about the room, and, unobserved, shut the damper to the stove, thus preventing the gas from escaping up the chimney. Just before retiring Mr. Rolfe filled the stove with new coal, but did not notice the condition of the damper. They retired, and the escaping gas soon completely stupefied them. When they returned to consciousness Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe both found themselves prostrate on the floor, and had been vomiting violently and blood was oozing from their noses. The child was still sleeping on the bed. They found a window open which was closed when they went to bed, but neither remembered raising it. They thought they had slept the usual time, but on going to the store for his morning's milk he found they had slept until nearly six o'clock the next evening—about twenty-two six o'clock the next evening-about twenty-two hours. Fortunately, no serious effects have resulted."

Is Whisky Intoxicating ?

Is Whisky Intexticuting ? Yesterday a coal-heaver who has attained to the patriarchal sge of seventy-four years, after carrying a half ton of coal up three flights of stairs, was in-vited by his employer to take a drink in a New York saloon. After imbibing, he remarked:---"There's no strength to the whisky round here." "How so ?" strength to the whisky round here." "How so?" inquired the gentleman. "Sure, I've had about thirty drinks of the crather in me this morning, and divii the whimper of it do I feel now." "Good heavens! how much does it take to affect you?" "Such stuff as they have in this country, I could drink a gallon of it without tazing me a bit. I'd rather have drop of old pothese 'at home' than a demiloh of the whisky in these parts."

demijohn of the whisky in these parts." The bar-tender overheard these remarks and jokingly offered to give him a pint of whisky if he would drink it all oa the spot. The coal-heaver eagerly consented, and it was measured out and poured down by him at a single breath, to the horror of the witnesses. The phenomenal toper went out as straight as a liberty pole, and in the course of an hour returned apparently sober, and desirous of trying it again.
