MEW-VORRISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent, NEW YORK, May 12, 1870.

"Not Guilty." I have postponed saying anything about the McFarland trial simply because this correspondence is supposed to deal with assues that are not so immediate and profound as those which usurp the telegraphic wires, and lay before readers at Philadelphia breakfast tables the sum and substance of every important event occurring the day previous in New York. The McFarland trial was a question of this nature, and its principal developments have been known in the Quaker City almost at the identical moment that they became familiar to Gotham.

Not pretending to possess those attributes of Argus and Brisreus which enable the ubiquitous reporter to watch the flush upon the city's face, and apply his skilled touch to the metropolitan pulse, I will not attempt to describe what, in newspaper parlance, is called "the feeling in the city." Not enjoying the inestimable advantage of sitting down to more than one breakfast table upon one and the same morning, I am quite unable to give a synopsis of the matutinal gossip over the termination of a most unhappy trial. If there is anything for which I feel particularly grateful, it is that, although a correspondent, my duties did not require me to fill a daily column with the untruths, calumnies, and gossip which floated around this tragic mockery. And it there is anything particularly refreshing in the mortal pilgrimage of a vale like Gotham, it is the possibility of occasionally meeting with a man or woman who knows nothing about the proceedings, has never read a line of the reports, don't know whether it was McFarland, or Richardson, or Recorder Hackett that was shot, and believes that Horace Greeley is a saint in short pants and a white coat. It is like sucking sweet cold milk through a straw to have the questions and ignorances of these delicious ingenus blow over you-and some such there are even in this parched desert. Thank Heaven! we have a new table topic, or at least we have lost this old one. You drank Mrs. McFarland with your coffee in the morning, and you swallowed "angel Percy" with your demi-tasse at 6 P. M. Of course, it is inevitable that these things should be. People will talk-and what a set of duffers they would be if they couldn't! All I say is-and I think there are many who will agree with me-how blessed is a change now and then! One does get tired of eating murder with his meat, and assassination with his mustard, and adultery spread on thick with his daily bread; and we have had these delicacies now every day for the last three months, quite sufficient to make us truly thankful and a little over. The subject, profoundly painful as it is, is one which human judgment cannot do justice to, and I am convinced that the only course for candid men and women to adopt is to carry the charities of criticism to their utmost verge.

Mrs. Jarley's Wax-Works. This new entertainment has been taken to the arms of New York fashion, and received a sincere and tender hug. No wonder. It won its first successes amid the blaze and glare of Washington aristocracy, was warmed into strength there under shelter of the very wings of the White House, and having received the benediction of the elite of one city, is on a sort of fashionable starring tour throughout the Union. The exhibition, as many readers are aware, consists of the representation, by living personages (the more stylish and fashionable the better) of the historical heroes and heroines who figured in the wax-works collection of that immortal show-woman, Jarley by name, figures in "The Old Curiosity This idea, which originated in the brain of a Washington belle, was a most bright one, and the fair inventrix was worthy to be the wife of Bean Brummell's self. Your pink of fashion being got together, one of them personates "Mrs.Jarley" curtseying in customers, and among the others the various historical and biographical roles are apportioned. The dresses are presumed to be strictly in accordance with the times represented, and as "Mrs. Jarley" waves her wand in the direction of any individual, that individual mechanically imitates the action in which he was supposed to be engaged at the moment desired to be illustrated by the artist in wax. Of course, there is much more humor in this than in many of the tableaux vivants, because all the wax-work &ramatis personæ are rendered almost equally ridiculous.

At their Old Tricks. The men caught it very fearfully last night. Mrs. Stanton, Miss Anthony, and some others of the strong-minded weaker sex met tegether and denounced man-and quoted scripture to prove their doctrine, just as every one else does! Miss Cozzens was extremely desolating in her sarcasm. There were men in the house who writhed-actually grew red in the face to prevent their laughing out-when she said she had found man's sphere, and quoted the passage, "I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down," to prove it. I think one of the most edifying spectacles in the world is to see an elegantly-rigged young woman of the period, perfect in style from boots to chignon, and with as much knowledge of life as a guileless female hobbadehoy can be supposed to have, stand up in public and assign man his sphere. The cheek of the thing is delicious. So is the young woman. ALI BABA.

HALF WAT BETWEEN

FIFTH AND SIXTH STREETS, NO. 518 MARKET STREET.

On Sunday last, 'bout half past two, The gathering clouds of sombre hue Were flying past with quickened pace, As if contending in a race. Loud peals of thunder burst; anon, The lightning flashed; and then the storm Burst in its fury o'er the land, Bringing destruction, death, on every hand. The frozen rain-drops, from the skies Fell to earth, of prodigious size, And man and Beast in terror fled, While many in their fear fell dead. The bravest of the brave aghast Stood, while the storm went howling past, And viewed the havor far and wide From temporary shelter tried. The storm exhausted, again the sun The ruins sheds its light upon, And there in safety, as before, Stood STOKES' FAMOUS CLOTHING STORE: There people flock and take away The best made Olothing of the day; The number you have heard before, IN CHESNUT STREET, EIGHT-TWENTY-FOUR.

THE MEDICAL PRO-PERTIES OF TAR.

The pine tree has long been known to possess valuable medical properties. For pulmonary diseases it is doubtful whether any remedy has as yet been discovered equal to it. It seems to change and renew the very structure on which it acts, and to infuse into the system an indescribable power equal to the natural power before disease had even taken hold of the body, so as to make, as it were, an entirely new tissue, and to give a newness of life and energy which one who has been sick a long time knows the value of but cannot fully describe. The great objection, however, to all tar preparations has been their unplea sant taste, and consequent liability to sickness and nauseate the stomach. We have before us, however, a preparation of the kind referred to, which obviates all these objections, and is as agreeable to the palate as it is valuable in the cure of disease. We mean "Dr. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial," a real. genuine, bona fide medicinal cerdial, distilled from the pine tree by a process known only to the Doctor himself, the sale and popularity of which are only equalled by the amount of suffering it has relieved, and the number of diseases it is so well calculated to effectually cure. In the Pine Tree Tar Cordial the invalid may be sure he has a remedy of very extraordinary power for throat and lung affections, and when taken in conjunction with the "Great American Dyspepsia Pills," an infallible cure for dyspepsia, liver complaint, sick headache, and the many ailments arising from a disordered state of the liver and digestive

In our sphere as publishers we feel some degree of cautiousness in what we recommend to our readers, but when we know of anything of value to the public we shall not hesitate to make it known through our columns. We advise those of our readers who are suffer ing from dyspepsia, etc., to give Dr. Wishart's celebrated remedies a trial.

A medical expert, holding honorable collegiate diplomas, devotes his entire time to the examination of patients at the office parlors. Associated with him are three consulting physicians of acknowledged eminence, whose services are given to the public free of charge.

This opportunity is offered by no other institution in the country.

Thousands of certificates of absolute cure (when all else failed to afford relief), as well as recommendatory letters without number, have been received by Dr. Wishart, the proprietor, attesting the uniform success with which they have been employed. Many of said letters are from the highest sources, including eminent statesmen, Governors, State judges, clergymen, etc.-men slow to be convinced, prejudiced perhaps at first, but feeling themselves under a sense of duty bound to tell the Doctor what they had done for them and to recommend them to others. The Great American Dyspepsia Pills and Pine Tree Tar Cordial are sold by all druggists throughout the world. They can also be obtained at Dr. WISHART'S GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE STORE, No. 232 North SECOND Street, Philadelphia, where a successful practising physician can be consulted each day, free of charge. Those in need of professional aid or counsel will do well to make a note of the above. Communications by mail, soliciting professional advice, will be considered strictly confidential and promptly answered, free of charge.
