From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, May 13, 1870. Mayor Hall and the Speculators.

During the success of Frou-Frou Mr. Daly has distinguished himself in various ways, but by none more so than his efforts to stop the machinations of speculators. For this purpose he stationed a man outside his theatre with directions to watch every party who entered the theatre, and narrowly observe those who purchased seats of those nefarious operators. An evening or so ago two gentlemen, accompanied by ladies, passed into the vestibule, but observing the crowd before the box office, and the impossibility of procuring tickets there. one of the gentlemen approached a speculator and purchased four tickets at two dollars each. Delighted with having secured some of the best seats in the house at so cheap a rate, the party prepared to pass in, but were stopped by the door-keeper, who told them that they could not

"Fellow! do you know who I am?" exclaimed the gentleman who had bought the tickets, and who is remarkable for the elegance of his language. "I'm the Mayor !"

"I don't care if you was the President himself!" exclaimed the door-keeper. "Mr. Daly's orders is that no tickets bought of speculators shall be received here. So you'd better git !" and he gave a sly wink to the man who had brought him the intelligence respecting the tickets having been bought of speculators. At this juncture who should happen to come by but the author of Frou-Frou himself, looking as neat and debonnair as the photograph of him that' hangs at the front door of Mr. Brady's gallery.

"Why, my dear Mr. Hall, what's the matter?" he exclaimed.

A few words sufficed to explain. But the milk in the cocoanut of the joke consists in the fact that every morning Mr. Daly had repaired to Mr. Hall's office and begged his advice and assistance in regard to the matter, and that Oakey had unqualifiedly recommended him to continue in his noble course until every speculator was squelched from the face of the earth. The gentleman who accompanied Oakey to the theatre was Recorder Hackett, who is now nearly well from the McFarland trial, although still in a weak condition.

The Ninth Regiment,

N. G. S. N. Y., James Fisk, Jr., Colonel commanding, last night visited the Grand Opera House by special invitation. They were in full dress and were accompanied by the regimental band. I have no objections to admit that the affair was a gala. Perhaps there was too much gal altogether. Those modest virgins on the stage who interpret the purities of the ballet never danced with less dress and more abandon. "A set of abandoned creatures," whispered virmous paterfamilias to the shocked and pleased mamma, who exclaimed, "Oh, don't talk to me, I should like to send 'em all some flaunel for peticoats." There are strange goings on at the Opera House. Every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon such of the clerks as have done their work are given free passes, and sit down to The Twelve Temptations, which they are expected to applaud. In fact, the clerks of Erie are the claqueurs of the Opera House. The notes of rehearsal intermingle with the settlements of cash accounts, and balances are made to the castanets of the ballerina. In short, the Opera House is a nice, clean nook for a youth fresh from the country to slip into. Mr. Fisk takes an elderbrother's interest in every young man engaged, and will engage none but the virtuous. His fatherly kindness to the other sex, too, is unex-He has never been known

A NEW TRIUMPH OF PRACTICAL SCIENCE-ALIMENT FROM THE ROCKS .- All objections to the universal use of the alimentary Sea Mosses as a portion of the distary of the civilized world have, it seems, been happily removed by the discovery of a new process of preparing them for culinary purposes. There never was a time when the "Food Question" was a more vital question with the masses than it is now, and we therefore regard this discovery as particularly opportune, not to say Providential.

The Irish Moss or Carrageen, and the Iceland and Norwegian Mosses, have long been known to contain a larger mount of nutritive gelatine, in proportion to their bulk and weight, than any other vegetable product of the sea or land; but the seeming impossibility of entirely purify. ing them from all extraneous matter, and rendering them agreeable as an element of food, has hitherto excluded them, in a great measure, from our bill of fare. This apparent impossibility has been overcome-experimental science overcomes almost every obstacle nowadays-and Irish Moss, purified, concentrated, and ros dered an absolute luxury, as SEA MOSS FARINE, will hereafter be quoted as a food staple in the markets of the world.

Resolved, By the Select and Common Coun-cils of the City of Philadelphia, That the Chief Commissioner of Highways be and he is hereby authorized and directed to notify the owners of property through and over which Emerald street, from Hart lane to Somerset street; Somerset; from Frankford road to Columbia avenue; Aspen street, from Forty-first street to Lancaster avenue; Fortieth street, from Lancaster avenue to Story street, will pass, that, at Scuntor Revels had a bad night in which to lecture, but his audience was good. Six or seven hundred people must have been present, and the colored interest was not so largely represented as it was anticipated it would be. It occurred only in sprinklings, the majority of the audience being white. Since you are familiar with him in Philadelphia, I say nothing about the matter or manner of his delivery, save that he was genuincly applauded and has been fairly treated. It was worth remarking, however, that the white people nooked together and that the colored ones were equally exclusive. The audience was by no means miscegenative.

"A Very Nice Man, Only -----Now that I have once committed myself by mentioning the McFarland affair, I suspect I shall be perpetually dragged into it. Knowing people who know him, of course my knowledge of his habits and temperament is profound. They all agree that he was a nice man, onlyhe would go off every little while. He was a go out of his mind sometimes. These little drawbacks do not prevent his acquaintances from speaking well of him, and Mrs. McFarland's "true story" is severaly criticised by newspaper men not on the Tribune. The gentlemen upon that upright, truth-loving and gentlemanly journal observe a ponderous reticence. As for Greeley, that gay old boy has cast all responsibility to the winds. Whitelaw Reid and Junius Henri Browne did it all, he is fond of saying, the "all" referring to the publication of Mrs. McRichardson's "statement."

Plety as a Beverage.

This question has been considered in all its bearings by Mr. Smythe's recent congregation, and that consideration has resulted in his discharge. There have in all ages been divines who, taking some Scriptural character as their model, have endeavored to live up to it. Mr. Smythe's mistake has consisted simply in taking for his model the character of St. Timothy, and, instead of taking a little wine for his stomach's sake, of taking a good deal of gin and milk for the sake of the reporters! Ah! we all have our weaknesses-St. Timothy is Mr. Smythe's. Hereafter he must stick to piety as a beverage, or else drink nothing but strong water!

AT THE CHESNUT Mrs. James A. Oates will have a farewell benefit this evening, when she will appear as "Josephine" in the Daughter of the Regiment, and as "Graceful" in the Fair One with the Blonde Wig.
