Official notice is hereby given that the erection of a screw pile lighthouse, to take the place of the light vessel now marking the Wolf Trap Shoal, between the mouths of the York and Rappahannock rivers, Virginia, is about to be commenced. Masters of vessels and pilots are warned to keep clear of the work, the position of which will be indi-cated by a lightvessel moored close to it to the east-ward, and showing a red light to distinguish it from the Wolf Trap lightvessel, which shows a white light. It will be well for pilots and others to note that the proposed screw-pile lighthouse will stand within half a mile of the extreme eastern edge of the shoal, in 18½ feet water mean tide, distant about one mile west from Wolf Trap lightvessel, and that vessels mast keep to the eastward of it, giving it a berth of at least one-half a mile.
