

NEW YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

New York, June 4, 1870.

Another "prodigious child," as Mrs. Partington would say, has been taken from the cradle and the soothing syrup, and introduced to the wondering world of journalists.

PRIM "THE PROVISIONAL"

A Speech to the Cortes.—The "Crowning of the Edifice," and the Necessary For It—He has no Ambition for Himself, but is Exceedingly Anxious About the Country.

On May 11th Marshal Prim delivered an important speech in the Spanish Cortes, in reply to the attacks made upon the Provisional Government by Senor Ardenaz, ex-Minister of Finance.

"Who doubts, gentlemen, that the state of provisory power is bad? No one—neither the country nor its statesmen. But every one knows the efforts I have made to find a solution. Most the fault is imputed to me if I have not been able to succeed."

"If the provisional power should have failed completely, the responsibility would not be attributed to me. Mr. Ardenaz assumes that the cause of the disorder in which we live is no other than the Provisionary Government. We are all anxious to get out of it. When? How? What solution will the Cortes decide upon? This is not the moment to announce it, but I must declare that it is necessary to find a solution before the deputies separate in one or two months. Shall we be able to 'crown the edifice' in conformity to the desires of Mr. Ardenaz, or will we find another solution? I do not know. I do not say that it will be impossible. Will we be able to do it in conformity with the hopes of an important fraction of the chamber? I do not know. I have not a more decided position within a few days. It is impossible, but I do not know whether this solution is realizable. What I do know, what I will speak to you, gentlemen, is that I will not oppose my own will against any solution which may be adopted, and those who will be the promoters of it will be my friends."

"I do not say that it will be impossible. Will we be able to do it in conformity with the hopes of an important fraction of the chamber? I do not know. I have not a more decided position within a few days. It is impossible, but I do not know whether this solution is realizable.
