Thirty-two of the sixty Republican conventions to be held during to-day and to-night organized in various parts of the city at 10 o'clock this morning, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Congress, the Judiciary, Sheriff, Register of Wills, City Commissioner, Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas, Receiver of Taxes, State Legislature, and City Surveyors in the Second, Third, and Fourth districts. As usual, around all these places were congregated a mass of politicians directly interested in the result of the meetings. It would be useless to say that there was intense excitement, as the canvass which ends with the ominations has been the most heated one that Lis taken place in the city for many years. from dozens of candidates for each position the number has gradually dwindled to a few, each of whom has exhausted every effort to be the successful man. The conventions promise to be delayed in effecting a permanent organization, from the fact that there were numerous cases of contested seats, resulting from the close character of the vote cast last night at the delegate elections, in which our citizens seemed to manifest great interest. The vote polled was indeed a heavy one, and in some of the precincts it was found impossible to get all in. This was particularly the case in the divisions in which the colored voters are thickly settled. From a few hundred votes, in some instances, the number last night swelled beyond any heretofore cast at any regular election. It was the first occasion that the colored population have had the right of franchise, and they all to a man availed themselves of the opportunity. They behaved themselves orderly, and showed no disposition to create a disturbance. Their conduct on this occasion argues a quiet and peaceable day in October next, unless they are incited to riot by the men who do the wholesale voting for the Democracy. However, numbers of them manifested their interest in the result by being among the spectators on the outside of the halls. The greatest excitement centred around the Sheriff's Convention, at National Hall, the Register of Wills' Convention, at Washington Hall, and the Second, Third, and Fourth Congressional Conventions, especially at the latter, upon the result of which depends the running of an independent candidate.

Below we give full reports of the proceedings of the City, County, and Congressional Conventions, and the result of the deliberations of the conclaves in the different Legislative and Survevors' districts.

CONGRESS.

The First District Convention-Nomination o Benjamin Huckle. This convention met in the old County Courtroom, corner of Sixth and Chesnut streets. Among the delegates present were several colored men. The convention of delegates for the nomination of a candidate for the Second Congressional District, assembled at 10 o'clock this morning in the Assembly Buildings.

A temporary organization was effected in the election of William S. Stokley for President, and William King Secretary. These nominations met with determined opposition, the opposite party desiring Edward Cobb for President. The officers, however, proceeded to receive the credentials of the various delegates, but this was interrupted by a rush made proceeded to receive the credentials of the various delegates, but this was interrupted by a rush made for the Secretary's table. One man grabbed at the pile of certificates, and a great confusion ensued, the platform being crowded with men. None of the cortificates were lost, however. The opposition to Mr. Stokeley still continued, and the proceedings were brought to a stand still, the adherents of Mr. Cobb declining to proceed with Mr. Stokley as President.

Mr. Sipher offered the following resolutions, which

Were adopted:—

"Resolved, That in again presenting the Hon Leonard Myers to the people of the Third Congressional district, we respond to the wishes of a large majority of the Republican voters, who, admiring his consistent, honorable, and able record, feel that this renomination is eminently due to his services and worth.

"Resolved, That as an able champion, on the floor of Congress, of protection to American industry and the rights of labor, and of lessening the burthens of taxation, Mr. Myers has won a national fame which his own constituents approciate and take pleasure in asserting.

"Resolved, That in private as in public life the labors of Mr. Myers for the interests of the people have been faithful, kind, and unceasing, and that, with him for our standard bearer, we have a guarantee of enthusiasm and success."

Previous to the adjournment of the convention. Mr. Myers appeared in the doorway of the hall, and was greeted with frequent rounds of applause. He was at once escorted to the platform, from which he addressed the convention as follows:—

SPEECH OF HON, LEONARD MYERS.

After nearly eight years service as your Representative, this fifth nomination to Congress is an endorsement of which any man may well feel proud, for the decale just ending forms the most important era in American history. It has conclusively proved the capacity of the people for self-government—it has shown that republics are not all ungrateful, it has crystalized noble sentiments and great deeds into form and action; it has given, what the Deciaration of Independence only promised, freedom and equal rights for all; it has advanced the honor and fame of our country till its flag, with every star restored, is respected all over the world.

In march and battle-field, in camp and prison pen, there was bravery and worth. By hospital and refreshment saloon, and by every hearthsten there was gratitude. All gave their treasure. With some it was wealth; with more their life's best blood. If the representatives have been worthy of such a people they need of praise.

The record will show that a Republican administration been worthy of such a people they need ask no higher meed of praise.

The record will show that a Republican administration in all their trying time, keep pace with the patriotism of the masses, aided them by vote, strengthened them by law, rewarded them by every designation of a nation's justice and honor.

It is five years since the Rebellion was crushed. Five years since the national life was saved.

In the peace which followed the war, it remained to be seen whether we were wortby of what had been won.

The assassination of a beloved ruler, which in other lands would have overturned the Government, fell on us like a pall. The indignation was intense, the grief terrible, but republican institutions never wavered. Great armies, flushed with victory, were to be dishanded. Europe predicted it could not be done with safety, yet they vanished like the mists of the morning; and though the land is full of warriors, the citizen soldier is the best safeguard of the republic.

vanished like the mists of the morning; and though the land is full of warriors, the citizen soldier is the best safeguard of the republic.

A heavy debt called for continued taxation—the people bore it without a nurmur in order to maintain the faith and credit of the nation. Let us see if the Representatives continued to do their duty. No Government before ever gave such boauties to its defenders after the day of their service was over. No Government before took such care of the widows and fatheriess. Repudiation was predicted, even threatened. We answered by paying one-fifth of the national debt in five pears. General Grant's administration has so maintained our credit that greenbacks are almost on a par with gold. The necessaries of life are cheapened; and now, responding to the popular wish, and declaring it is not incumbent on this generation to cancel the remainder of the debt, we have passed a bill, soon to become a law, taking off sixty millions of taxes. We have adhered to the doctrine that protection to American labor is necessary for American prosperity. We have for the first time wrang from unwilling England, and trom other lands, a renunciation of their doctrine of "allegiance," and, since the recent treaties, American citizenship is protected as it never was before. Nor is this all—no Government was ever so generous to a conquered rebellion—here kindness has been tempered with justice. Against every opposition we have reconstructed the Union on the basis of loyalty, until every State that attempted secession has had its Representatives once more on the floors of Congress. With railroads spanning the Continent, with the commerce of the East ready to seek our sheres, with arts high advanced and compensated labor, the future is brilliant with hope.

To have been by your continued preference a participant in the legislation which has aided to produce such results is the highest privilege of ony life.

is the highest privilege of my life.

I accept the honor of being again your standard bearer, and takeugh you tender my thanks to the people.

The remarks of the nominee were received with frequent marks of approbation, and the convention adjourned with cheers for the workingman's candidate.

The Fourth (ongressional District—Renomination of Hon. Wm. D. Kelley.

The candidates for Congressional honors in this district were three in number—Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Hiram Miller, and J. Alexander Simpson.

which the convention adjourned. The Fifth District.

From sources of information in the Fifth Congressional district, we learn that Mr. Alfred C. Harmer has carried a majority of the delegates in the Twenty second, Twenty-third, and Twenty-fifth wards. These wards, in conjunction with Bucks county, compose the Fifth district, and as it is understood that the city end of the district is entitled to the nomination, it is presumed that Mr. Harmer will be the choice of the conferees, although they do not meet for some weeks yet. This is a very close district, Mr. Taylor, the present Representative, having only carried it by 48 majority, after a contest in the House with Dr. Reading, who received the certificate of election from the Return Judges.

THE SHERIFFALTY.

Assembling of the Convention at National Hall. The chief political centre of the day was at National Hall. Here it was that the convention to National Hall. Here it was that the convention to nominate a candidate for Sheriff was held. The fierce fight for this high office produced at this assemblage scenes of confusion and excitement. It was known that the Walton delegates were inimical to the Bingham party, and the latter just as determinedly opposed the former. In the event of their being no show of success to either of these prominent candidates, it was confidently asserted that the forces would join hands and voices in favor of General Bingham or Alderman Massey. At 10 o'clock the great crowd of delegates, with a slight mixture of the colored element, entered. mixture of the colored element, entered

Three Temporary Chairmen at Once. In a twinkling, David Lane, the Walton representative, jumped upon the stage, and was directly nominated for temporary chairman. The nomination was ratified by a portion of the delegates. Mr. Lane had not tapped the table more than twice with a gavel which he drew from his pocket, when William Elliott, a representative of the Bingham party, was declared temporary chairman, and he jumped upon the stage, followed by H. H. K. Elliott, who was pressed for the chairmanship by the Berry

It was snatched from Lane's hands by the Berryttes, and in a moment it was forcibly transferred to Elliott, the Bingham party man. A hundred delegates crowded Bingham party man. A hundred delegates crowded upon the stage, and a scene of the wildest confusion directly ensued. The desk was overturned, and the stage chandehers were wrenched from their places. No sooner had the desk been replaced, and William Elliott mounted it to declare the names of the secretaries, than Lane rushed upon him, snatching for the mailet. In the contention which followed, Flitcht and Lane and a devened delegates who were Elijott and Lane, and a dozen of delegates who were hotly pressing them on either side, were thrown from the stage upon the floor, a distance of six feet. Billiott, with remarkable alacrity, regained the stage, but to find the back of his coat ripped to the collar. Stripping himself of the garment, he again stepped upon the desk, and in a momentary calm announced Dr. Crowell and Isaac McBride as the temporary secretaries, and thus spoke:-Speech of William Elllott. "I desire to say that if it is the desire of the convention that I shall not preside as the temporary organizer, I will withdraw. I tell you that it is for the interest of the Republican party that these scenes of disorder should cease. Those who want me for temporary organizer say 'aye.'"

The Fight Resumed.

A roar in the affirmative was followed by an equally loud roar in the negative, and the fight on the stage was again resumed, during which the re-porters' desks were overturned, and the knights of porters' desks were overturned, and the knights of the quill themselves forced, for safety's sake, into the stage boxes. During this melec Lane's hat was smashed, and that gentleman was selsed by the arms and legs and dragged to the edge of the stage, the intention, undoubtedly, being to force him off. Happily his progress off the platform was stopped by one of the chandeliers, which had been replaced. He struggled out of the hands of his captors, and jumping upon a bench, cried out:

"As temporary chairman of this convention, I nominate John W. Sayres and John Thomson for Secretaries, and I want to say"—

Cries of "Pat him out," "Throw him off the stage," etc., and an uproarious boo-hooing drowned to the reporters' ears whatever else he said.

The Bingham Party Triumphant.

The Bingham Party Triumphant. The Bingham party men then cleared the stage, forcing of Lane and his adherents in a twinkling. Thus the former proved triumphant, and Chairman William Elliott waved the baton of power with an unchallenged though not undisputed right.

He then announced that he would call the precincts of the several wards in numerical order, in order that the delegates might regularly present their credentials. their credentials.

In consequence of the great confusion in the hall, and the large number of persons in it not entitled to the privilege of the floor, it was found impracticable to proceed until the hall had been cleared. The only persons then admitted were persons with the requisite authority of a credential.

Examining Credentials. Until kalf-past twelve the time was consumed in the presentation of credentials, among which were six colored delegates. The right of Jacob Purnell, colored, to a seat from the Eighth division of the famous Fourth ward, was denied. Nevertheless he

THE JUDICIARY.

Assembling of the Convention at the New Court House.

The delegates to the Judicial Convention for the nomination of a Judge of the District Court and two Judges of the Court of Common Pieas assembled this morning in the New County Court House, on Sixth street, below Chesnut, and as the clock struck 10 contention and confusion commenced as to the selection of a chairman.

Several members jumped to their feet at once and indiscriminate nominations for chairman were made at the same moment. These included Messrs. A. L. Hemmerschotz, Isaac Hazlehurst, and Horatio Gates Jones, each of whom was declared elected. Mr. Hemmerschotz took the chair and made an appeal for order, but he might as well have appealed to the rocks of Gibraltar, so great were the confusion and disorder at the moment. It was evident that the discontent was of no trifling kind, and John Davis Watson, Esq. perceiving this, mounted a chair and endeavored to harmonize the tumultuous gathering. He suggested that the friends of each candidate meet on different sides of the room, and that, after a fair count, the choice of the convention

A Permanent Organization. mittee on Permanent Organization, reported the following for permanent officers:—

President—A. L. Shoemaker.
Vice-Presidents—Isaac Hazlehurst and A. H. Franciscus. Secretaries-J. W. McNewlin and Mayer Suizberger.
Tellers—M. Hall Stanton and Joseph C. Ferguson.
Doorkeepers—J. S. Cornell and William Wilkins.
These nominees were unanimously elected, and the gentlemen took their places, and the convention began to look like business.

Nothing could be done, however, in the way of nominations until the Committee on Credentials and Contested Seats made their report, and a motion was made to take a recess, but not agreed to Shortly after 12 o'clock the Committee on Credentials and Contested Seats appeared and reported through H. W. Gray, Esq., Chairman, that they presented for the use of the convention a list of both delegates and contestants, to whom they recommended that tickets be issued for temporary use, and that a recess be taken until the

CLERK OF THE ORPHANS' COURT.

Assembling of the Convention at Broadway The nominating convention for Clerk of the Orphans' Court assembled at 10 o'clock this morning in Broadway Hall, at Broad and Spring Garden A Temporary Organization was effected by the selection of the following officers:—

President—Jonathan H. Pugh.
Vice-Presidents—Erastus Poulson and John J. Kersey.
Secretaries—Thomas Simpson and George W. Doorkeepers-Thomas Simmers and George Shoemaker.

On motion of Mr. Poulson a committee consisting of one from each ward was created to act upon credentials and decide cases of contested seats. The different ward delegations appointed their representatives on this committee.

Mr. Selby moved that a similar committee be appointed to select permanent officers.

The chairman ruled it out of order, reading the rules to sustain his decision, but withdrew his decision, and a vote was taken on a motion that the present officers be selected to act as the permanent officers, which was lost. The motion for the appointment of a committee to select permanent officers was agreed to. The convention then adjourned

EVENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE, Wednesday, June 15, 1870.

The local money market continues to work easily, and rates are invariably in favor of borrowers of good standing. The money current is still westward, to move produce and the new wool crop, but it is not very rapid or volumi-nous, and the market is not likely to be disturbed at present. The national banks have prepared their statements up to the close of business on the 9th instant, in accordance with the call of the Comptroller of the Currency, and they are very satisfactory, without a single exception. The gold market shows some activity and is quite strong and steady, opening and closing about noon at 1127s, the highest figure being 113 and the only variation.
