THE CHLOROFORMED CASHIER.

Strange Sequel to a Tragedy of Thirty Years Ago—A Cashier Characterized and a Bank Robbed in Broad Daylight.

From the Louisville Journal of Saturday we take these particulars of the recent daring bank robbery—

One of the most bold and successful pieces of villainy ever perpetrated in our city, occurred yesterday afternoon.

The facts of this daring robbery are about as follows: Mr. Henry L. Pope, who for the last twenty-five or thirty years, has held the position of Cashier of the Mechanics Bank, occasionally goes to the bank after business hours, especially during the busy season, to count the cash, post the books, and attend to the business of the day.

Yesterday Mr. Pope went to dinner and returned to the bank a little after 4 P. M. He sat down in the Cashier's office, looked over the daily papers for a few minutes, and then opened the vaults and cash drawers and commenced counting the money. He had been busily engaged in this manner for some time, when suddenly two men advanced upon him from behind.

The foremost of the two men had a huge knife in his hand, and as he suddenly came upon Mr. Pope, he made a menacing movement with the knife and said:—"If you make a noise I will kill you," and at the same time threw a handful of snuff into Mr. Pope's eyes.

The other man then rushed up with a heavy woollen shawl, and threw it over Mr. Pope's head. The two men then seized hold of him and dragged him into the back room, and locked the door. They then hastily gathered up what money there was in sight and made off.

The cash belonging to the bank was in the cash drawer and in a small safe in the large vault, both of which were open. They scooped the small safe clean, but when they came to the cash-drawer they were more particular, only emptying the compartments containing large bills.

Scrup and one and two dollar bills were thrown aside with contempt. They were evidently in a great hurry, and grabbed up the money hastily, as one package, containing one thousand dollars, was found lying on the floor, immediately beneath the cash-drawer.

How the robbers entered the bank is a mystery, but the most reasonable theory is that they slipped into the building through the day, and secreted themselves in the back room until Mr. Pope returned from dinner.

The first discovery of the robbery was made a few minutes before 8 o'clock last night. Mr. W. M. Lewis, a young man who sleeps in the bank, went there at that time last night, and upon entering the room found Mr. Pope lying in the doorway, with a bottle which had contained chloroform near his face. He was insensible, but by the application of cold water was restored to consciousness.

A large glass bottle partly filled with chloroform, a napkin which had been used to wipe the face, and a huge knife with a blade nearly eight inches long, were found on the table.

A hasty grasp of the cash was made, as it was impossible during the hurry and excitement to ascertain exactly how much had been taken, as far as could be ascertained last night, about $60,000 in currency was missing. Piled in the shelves in boxes were the special deposits of the bank, consisting of cash and bonds to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars, which the robbers had not entered the front door. It is very ill by his rough treatment, and had not fully recovered up to a late hour last night.

All the avenues leading from the city were guarded last night, and every effort will be made to bring the bold villains to justice. This is the second attempt which has been made to rob this same bank in open daylight. The first attempt was a highly tragical affair, and occurred about thirty years ago.

The story, as well as can be remembered now, is about as follows:—Mr. Parker, who was the cashier of the bank, had a friend, a Captain Dix, of Maysville, who was in the habit of dropping into the bank occasionally.

Mr. H. S. Julian, of this city, was also an officer of the bank, which was then located on Main street, between Second and Third. At the dinner hour Julian would go to his dinner and return and relieve Parker. Upon the day in question Captain Dix went into the bank, while Julian was absent at dinner, and after looking over the papers and chatting awhile, he slipped up behind Parker, who was at work at his books, and struck him with a slung-shot, killing him instantly.

Knowing that Julian would return before he could possibly get away with the booty, he determined to lie in wait and kill him when he returned. He then ran to the street and tackled him with a slung-shot, but the blow glanced, and Julian closed with him.

Dix then struck him with the concealed hammer, but without inflicting serious injury. Julian then managed to get hold of the cashier, with which he knocked Dix down. He then ran into the street and gave the alarm. A crowd soon gathered; but as they entered, Dix seeing that his audacious scheme was a failure, and that the penalty for murder was more certain than it is at present, he drew a pistol and threw it into the air before the crowd could seize him.

Mr. Henry L. Pope was appointed cashier in place of the unfortunate Parker, and after a service of thirty years nearly lost his life in defending the property of the bank.

Up to one o'clock this morning the robbers had not been captured. It is almost certain that they are still in the city, and a determined effort will be made to arrest them.

PANIC IN A HOTEL.

Portion of a Wall Gives Way—Narrow Escape and General Repudiation.

The St. Louis Republican of Saturday says:—A portion of the wall of the east wing of the rear wing of the Everett House fell with terrible crash, carrying down also a small two-story brick structure adjoining, occupied as a kitchen. Fortunately no lives were lost nor was any person injured. About forty persons were seated at the supper table at the time of the crash, but they received warning in time to effect their escape, as also did the waiters and persons employed in that portion of the building. The panic created was, of course, general, and was lightened by the successive crackings that were heard.

The portion of the building the wall of which gave way extends out from the main hotel, forming an L, and is four stories in height. All the rooms in that part of the establishment are exposed along the entire width, and their contents, beds, tables, and chairs, are revealed. The lower story was used in connection with the kitchen; the second and third stories were occupied by the water-closets, and the upper story was devoted to sleeping apartments for the servants. The wreck of the building, together with the fallen wall of the wing, forms a large heap of debris, among which are seen broken gas-pipes, bedding, and pieces of broken furniture, scattered all over the ground.

Mr. Casper Steble, who was in the hotel at the time of the accident, states that about ten minutes after six o'clock he was standing at the door of the dining room next to the pantry, and hearing a tremendous crash, he discovered the wall opening on the east end. He noticed the casing giving away, and some of the doors bulging out. He then went to the office to find the contractor, and hastily notified the servants and persons employed in the building of the danger. It was some time after this that the wall collapsed.

The accident resulted from repairs in the foundation, which were commenced about two weeks ago. Mr. Guertzy, a carpenter, being the contractor. These repairs were necessitated by the insecurity of the foundation. Some of the new wall had been put in order, and a portion was shored up, a large beam extending under the end wall. The workmen suspended work about 6 o'clock, and soon after the crash occurred.

Until the confinement of the old woman, every sign of the danger was obeyed, and from what we have narrated, none can doubt that if she had commanded her followers to commit murder in the whites they would have essayed to do it. In the case of the negro man, he would have been killed, but he died, without he joined their band. But for Mr. Durst, he would have been killed outright.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE. EVENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE. Monday, June 20, 1870.

There are not so many complaints among the lending classes of the excessive redundancy of loanable capital unemployed as two or three weeks ago. The Western and the United States Treasury have phletotomized our market very liberally during this time, and the process is still going on to a moderate extent, though we anticipate good rather than evil from this revival of activity in the money current.

The Treasury has phletotomized our market very liberally during this time, and the process is still going on to a moderate extent, though we anticipate good rather than evil from this revival of activity in the money current.

Government bonds attract little attention in this market, and prices of the new bonds are generally off a fraction.

Stocks were extremely dull and prices less strong. In City sixes there were sales of the new issue at 100 1/2.

In Reading Railroad there were no sales; 53 1/2; St. Louis and North Western, 58 1/2; Norfolk and Western, 53; Ohio and Pennsylvania, 47 1/2; Camden and Amboy, 41; and Pennsylvania, 48 1/2.

In Canal stocks the only sales were Lehigh, at 35 1/2.

Miscellaneous stocks were quiet. Corn Exchange Bank sold at 70. 15 was offered for Hestonville Railroad; 23 for Thirteenth and Fifteenth streets, and 46 1/2 for Second and Third streets.

Durst, a gentleman living near, and who had desired to stop the insane proceeding before, but knew not exactly how to proceed, told her husband she was crazy, and to get a chain and fasten her up in the room, and that she was mad. She at once fled and was pursued, caught, and secured, and at once the rest of her followers gathered round, and seemed for the first time to become aware of the mischief they had wrought. They thanked Mr. Durst greatly for breaking the spell Jane had thrown over them, and went to their now almost ruined fields and commenced work again in good earnest—the parties having kept and returned to them their stock, farming utensils, etc. They are not, however, without the necessary apparel and food to enable them to work successfully. The excitement lasted some ten days, and all that time no work was done by these deluded creatures.

Until the confinement of the old woman, every sign of the danger was obeyed, and from what we have narrated, none can doubt that if she had commanded her followers to commit murder in the whites they would have essayed to do it. Explosion at Waltham Abbey. LONDON, June 20.—An explosion occurred yesterday in one of the Government powder mills at Waltham Abbey, near this city. Several people were killed.

Lord Clinton Innocent. The death of Lord Arthur Clinton, which occurred on Saturday, created renewed interest in the case of the Boulton masqueraders. The dying declaration of this gentleman that he was innocent of the crimes imputed to him is fully verified by his attendants and companions, who solemnly disclaim any criminal purpose in the woman-pension-folly.

Funeral of Mrs. Leby. The funeral of Mrs. Leby, mother of the Fenian convict, occurred at Dublin yesterday. Great crowds of people sympathizing with the Fenian movement followed the remains to the grave.

Charles Dickens' Will. Many people assembled yesterday to listen to a sermon of Dean Stanley, of Westminster Abbey, on the late Charles Dickens. Part of the last will of Mr. Dickens was read. In that he declines a monument, but rests his fame on his published works. He also urges his children to practice Christianity in a broad spirit, not accepting the narrow construction of any man or any sect. Mr. Dean closed with a glowing tribute to the illustrious dead.

The New Cabinet. BRUSSELS, June 20.—The Independence Belges is certain that the clerical party will monopolize the new Cabinet.

Reforms in Portugal. LISBON, June 20.—Many of the reforms promised have already been promulgated. Decrees abolishing the death penalty and pensions applied to-day, and the right of holding political meetings and the right of petition will be officially granted in a day or two.

Napoleon's Health. PARIS, June 20.—The Emperor is still indisposed, but there is nothing in his condition to excite alarm.
