and was severely injured. -William Rogers, a resident of Nicetown, was overcome by the heat yesterday at Broad and Berks streets, and was removed to a neighboring drug store.

-The following gentlemen were yesterday elected Directors of the Philadelphia School of Design for Women:-W. J. Horstmann, James H. Orne, P. P. Morris, James L. Clag-horn, W. P. Wilstach, David S. Brown, R. F. Warner, George Whitney, E. W. Clark, Jay Cooke, John Sartain, Edward S. Clarke.

-William Brooks and Daniel O'Neill, conductor and driver of car No. 59 Girard Avenue Passenger Kailway Company, had a final hearing yesterday before Alderman Jones, on the charge of carrying an overload on Monday, 6th inst. Messrs. Kilpatrick and Hutchinson, agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, testified to the crowded condition of the car and the suffering of two light-built horses in their endeavors to pull the load up grade at Corinthian and Girard avenues, one of the horses being completely exhausted. The accused were fined $5 and costs.

-At a meeting of the Seamen's, Firemen's, Coal Passers', and Marines' Bounty Associa-tion, held last evening in Friendship Hall, corner of Norris street and Frankford road, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:-

Resolved, That we are of right entitled to a like bounty with the soldiers, which Congress has failed to give us, and that whereas we served in defense of the Union from 1861 to 1864 as well as they, we think, therefore, that equal justice has not been done. Further, that we petition Congress for the passage of an act granting us bounty, or its equivalent in land; that we will not pledge ourselves to any candidate who does not favor our cause.

The Committee of Councils on the House of Correction met yesterday afternoon, the object being to fix upon a site for the proposed building, from an inspection of a map of the ground and its surroundings. By accurate measurement, the land purchased contains 153 acres and 113 perches, of which 78 acres and 113 perches are high ground. The low land is represented to be in a condition easily reclaimable, and the whole is of ample size for a House of Correction, Prison, and Almshouse. After considering the matter very fully, the committee came to the conclusion to visit the ground and select a site from personal inspection. The house will front the Delaware river, no matter in what part of the land it may be placed.

The President yesterday stated to a friend that he did not desire Mr. Fish to retire from the Cabinet. He was not certain. however, that Mr. Motley would be retained much longer at the Court of St. James.

—It is reported from Washington that it is believed the President will yet succeed in having the St. Domingo treaty confirmed, in consequence of the Senators not being willing to oppose the chief measure of the administration.

-In the United States Senate yesterday, after the close of our report, the Tax bill was further considered. The income tax sections were all stricken out, and a new section offered by Mr. Sherman was adopted, continuing the tax on dividends of corporations and on salaries of Government officers during the year. The tariff sections being taken up, the Senate committee's amendment, striking out the House paragraph classifying sugars, was lost. Mr. Yates moved to abolish al duty on sugars. A recess was then taken until evening, when the Texas Pacific Railroad bill was passed.

DANIEL O'CONNELL ON BENJAMIN DISRAELI.

As the name of the distinguished author of "Lothair" is now upon the lips of most every person in England and America, it may be interesting to our readers to know what Daniel O'Connell's opinion of him was.

The provocation for the following bitter extract from a speech, delivered at Taunton about thirty years ago, was furnished by some remarks of Disraeli's in the course of which he alluded to O'Connell as a "traitor" and an "incendiary." .The great orator, rising in his wrath to the full majesty of Irish invective, thus replied: -"This miscreant had the audacity to style me an incendiary. Why, I was a greater incendiary in 1831 than I am at present, if ever I were one-and if I am, he is doubly so for having employed me. Then he calls me a traitor. My answer to that is, he is a liar. He is a liar in actions and in words. His life is a living lie. He is a disgrace to his species. What state of society must that be that can tolerate such a creature -having the andacity to come forward with one set of principles at one time, and obtain political assistance by reason of those principles, and at another to profess diametrically the reverse? His life, I say again, is a living lie. He is the most degraded of his species and kind; and England is degraded in tolerating, or having upon the face of her society, a miscreant of his abominable, foul, and atrocious nature. My language is harsh, and I owe an apology for it, but I will tell you why I owe an apo-harsher words in the British language I should use them, because it is the harshest of all terms that would be descriptive of a wretchof this species. He is just the fellow for the Conservative Club. I suppose if Sir Robert Peel had been out of the way when he was called upon to take office, this fellow would have undertaken to supply his He has falsehood enough, depravity and selfishness enough to become the fitting leader of the Conservatives. He is conservatism personified. His name shows him by descent a Jew. His father became a convert. He is better for that in this world; I hope, of course, he will be the better for it in the next. There is a habit of underrating that great and oppressed nation—the Jews. They are cruelly persecuted by persons calling themselves Christians; but no person ever yet was a Christian who persecuted. The cruellest persecution they suffer is upon their character, by the foul names which their calumniators bestowed upon them before they carried their atroci-ties into effect. They feel the persecution of calumny severer upon them than the persecution of actual force and the tyranny of actual torture. I have the happiness to be acquainted with some Jewish families in London, and amongst them more accomplished ladies, or more humane, cordial, highminded, or better educated gentlemen, I have never met. It will not be supposed, therefore, when I speak of Disraeli as the descendant of a Jew, that I mean to tarnish him en that account. They were once the chosen people of God. There were miscreants among them, also, and it must have certainly been from one of those that Disraeli descended. He possesses just the qualities of the impenitent thief who died upon the cross, whose name, I verily believe, must have been Disraeli. For aught I know, the present Disraeli is descended from him; and with the impression that he is, I now forgive the heirat-law of the blasphemous thief who died upon the cross."
