William B. Thomas. The above ad vertisement appearing in several of our papers, we last night visited the locality named for the purpose of seeing who the "no party party" for the purpose of seeing who the "no party party" representatives were, how many "sore-headed" Re-publicans or how many ignorant Irish Democrats could be gathered together by clap-trap and non-sense to aid in the advocacy of one of our most ambi-tions ex-onlice-holders and politicians. The meeting was to have come off in Commissioners' Hail, south-east corner of Thirty-seventh and Market streets, wherein about S o'clock gathered just twelve per-sons, including four representatives of the press. Through some mismanagement no preparation had been made, and considerable time was wasted in ascertaining the true state of affairs. Meantime in ascertaining the true state of affairs. Meantime a trusty messenger was despatched to the Bull's Head Hotel, on Market street, above Thirty-seventh, Head Hotel, on Market street, above Thirty-seventh, and it was arranged that the meeting would be heid there. Returning, the efficient aid-de-camp reported to his superior officer, when he was sent back with the message that things being right at the hall, the hotel would not be used. Imagine the wrath of the Democratic proprietor of the Democratic headquar-ters in West Philadelphia, who had gone to such un-completed avenues in preparing for the recording of ters in West Philadelphia, who had gone to such un-paralleled expense in preparing for the reception of his military and political guest, who had adorned the whole front of a 20 foot verandah with stable lan-terns, who had marshalled all the drinking Demo-crats of the ward, that they might indulge at the expense of the would-be Congressman. But to return to the principal scene. By 83% o'clock the hall was lit up, and things really did look as though there would be a meeting therein. But another hitch arose. Whether from pangs of con-science or not we cannot say, but after much consul-science or not we cannot say, but after much consul-tation the General, who was perspiring at the rate of a gallon a minute, issued "order No. 3," and a straggling party wended their way to the Bull's Head Hotel. Some of the aspirant's more active Head Hotel. Some of the aspirant's more active friends arrived first, and, approaching the proprietor, were met with a burst of indignation. "No meeting snould be held there," etc. The General, in true military style, hearing the trouble, rushed to the front, and, approaching the indignaat Democrat, whispered a tew words to him. His reply was:-"I don't care a d-n. I'm a Democrat, and I was going to go for you; but after I have made all my preparations you send word you'll take the hall. Now, then, since you'd rather have the hall than me, why go there!" why go there : The insult w why go there!" The insuit was direct, deep, and cutting, and he who had stood the brunt of many a hard-fought field (political) winced beneath it and was silent. But, then, the General wants to go to Congress, and knowing that the road thereto is not strewn with roses, he swallowed the indignity, and again regining the ear of Boulface made mass of some with roses, he swallowed the indignity, and again gaining the ear of Boniface, made use of some magical expression which sounded very much like "cash." Mine host's face changed but a particle, and in a gruff tone he replied, "Oh ! I don't care about the money; you can pay that afterwards." Whilst this little by-play was going on, a number of passers by were attracted to the scene, and when it was announced that there was to be a meet-ing several resolved to wait and see the fun ing, several resolved to wait and see the fun. Ascending by a narrow staircase, we reached a veran-Ascending by a narrow staircase, we reached a veran-dah, dusty and warm, and as dark as Erebus. No band was in sight, out a little colored drammer stood near waiting to be hired. No doubt the Gene-ral would have gladly paid for a little soul-inspiriting music after undergoing so much, but then, he dare not offend his Democratic friends by hiring a "nig-ger." At length three or four Milesians appeared upon the scene with several smoky lanterns, a ball of twine, a few nails, and a wrench, to be used as a hammer.

some of the houses in the vicinity is again such as to add fuel to the fever's fire. In some places the cleaners have pretended to perform their work, but have either done notaing or made matters worse. In the yard of a house in Spatford street, in the very heart of the infected region, a pile of filth has accumulated which it became necessary to re-move. In place of carting it away, however, the dirt was shovelied out of sight into the cellar of the house likelf, where the stench will affect all in the neighborhood. This is the thorough method of cleansing in vogue.

Cleansing in vogue. One house on Bedford street is in such a bad con-dition that its closing has been ordered by a vote of the Board of Health. The proprietor of the house, who is a rich and induential politician, threatens a lawsult if the house is closed. It remains to be seen which of the parties will conquer-whether the Board of Health are sufficiently free from political influence to stand by their vote. The physician is ready to swear to the fact of the fever being in the house, and if the board refuse to uphold their action, the public will know that the health autho-rities prefer to let the fever take its course rather than offend a member of the ring. The dirty condition of Fifth street, in the neigh-borhood of Lombard, South, and Bedford streets, is positively terrible. The dirt lays in piles upon the highways, and the gutters are clogged up, and are full of slimy water, which is completely covered with foul vegetation. The smell is such that a passer-by cannot positively draw a full breath. Some immeliate action is necessary.

More About the Woodbury Accident.

More About the Woodbury Accident. The unfortunate occurrence at Woodbury on Saturday still forms a topic of conversation for many persons. The point at which the accident oc-curred is one of the most dangerous on the road, the trains approaching being obscured from those tra-veiling on the highway, by a hill of some extent. It has been developed that when the whistle of the locomotive sounded some 300 feet away, the horse locomotive sounded some 300 feet away, the horse driven by Mr. Gregory was within but 26 feet of the track, the train approaching at the rate of 20 miles an hour. The animal had become furious, and a colored man who attempted to stop him was obliged for the sake of safety to let go his hold. Between the cars and the platform was a space of about one foot; the animal strack the first car, when the magon contents and all wore drawn as into a wagon, contents, and all were drawn as into a whiripool, and all actually crashed to pieces, except Mrs. Caldwell, who was thrown under the planks. Mrs. Caldwell, who was thrown under the planks. Had the train been going at a full rate of speed an accident might have happened which for fatality of results would have outdone that at Burllogton some years ago. The Coroner's jury sitting in this case have not as yet rendered any verdict, the principal trouble being their doubts as to whether or not the railroad company deserves censure. Yesterday the physicians amputated the right foot of Mrs. Caldwell, but the exhaustion proved fatal, and she died ere night. Her husband is hoarly expected from Iowa. The railroad company propose erecting a gate at this fatal crossing.

PROBABLE FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Fall of Forty-five Feet. At noon to-day a carpenter named Thomas Schell, employed on the new Commercial Exchange build-ing, Second and Gold streets, met with an accident which will no doubt prove fatal. During the morn-ing he had been engaged in working on one of the rafters or beams of the root. Twelve o'clock arriv-ing he started to come down for dinner, when, catching hold of a piece of scantling, it gave way and he was precipitated to the unfloored joists be-menth. employed on the new Commercial Exchange build neath, a distance of forty-five feet. His fellow-workmen went to his assistance, and His fellow-workmen went to his assistance, and medical aid was at once secured, when it was found that his legs, back, and one of his arms were broken, he sustaining in addition internal injuries. A stretcher being procured, he was removed to the Pennsylvania Hospital. Schell is a married man, about 40 years of age, and resides in the neighbor-hood of Girard College.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A PROMINENT MERCHANT.-Edward G. Booz, Esq., a prominent liquor merchant on Wainut street, fell from the effects of the heat, yesterday afternoon, at Thirteenth and Brown streets. He was picked up, and before he could be got to his residence, No. 1310 Brown street, expired.

FAST DRIVING.—Welden F. Price, a resident of West Chester, has been fined by Alderman Randall for fast driving. His animal was moving at a rapid rate along Thirty-ninth street, and he refused to pull up after being warned by a policeman.

THE PITTSBURG SENSATION. From the Pittsburg Commercial, July 18.

From the Fittsburg Commercial, July 18. The female aquatic contest at Glenwood Satur-day was in every respect an immense success, and those who doubted and prophesied that the affair would be a farce were entirely mistaken, as almost every one of the upwards of five thousand specta-tors were entirely satisfied with the race, which is far more than can be said of every aquatic contest that has taken place in our city within the past few years. years.

HOW THE BACE WAS GOTTEN UP.

Several weeks ago the subject of a female aquatic contest was agitated in boating circles, and there was a great deal of talk about the remarkable skill, in the management of a skiff, displayed by a young orphan girl named Lottle McAllce, who resided with her sister and brother-in-law, in the Sixth ward, near the circuit and bother-in-law in the sixth ward, near the river, and had been seen on pleasant moonlight evenings making extraordinary time up and down evenings making extraordinary time up and down the river. Many of the Pittsburg coarsmen expressed the belief that she was capable, with practice in a scull boat, of entering the aquatic lists with no small prospects of success. Soon after the Nonparell Club, of this city, which has among its members a number of shrewd young has among its members a number of shrewd young men, determined to get up a picnic, and offer a ladies' gold watch as a prize for the most successful oarswoman. Three girls, immediately after, sigui-fied their intention of competing for the prize. They were Miss Lottie McAlice, Miss Margie Lew, of Brownstowu, on the sonth side, and Miss Mary Whalen, of Birmingham. The girls immediately commenced exercising daily in scull boats, and de-veloping their muscle with the facilities offered at well-regulated boathouses. Miss Whalen not being able to procure the right kind of a boat, withdrew from the list on Saturday morning.

HOW THE GIRLS LOOKED.

The girls as they came down the river bank and entered their frail crafts looked indescribably pretty, and their quiet and modest but determined demeanor won the highest amount of praise from all the spectators. Miss McAllce, a plump girl of sixteen, looked really beautiful in her jaunty little and hotest and mbits desse. How continue consistent statech, looked really beautiful in her jaunty little red jacket and white dress. Her costume consisted of a tight-fluting scarlet jacket without sleeves, a loose dress reaching to her knees, white tights, and high boots. Miss Lew was dressed somewhat simi-larly, with the exception that her dress was red, and she wore a white bodice with edging.

THE START. At half-past 4 the word "go" was given and had scarcely sounded over the river when Miss McAlice pulled away, shooting her boat out like an arrow, by her shrewdness and careful watching obtaining an scarcely sounded over the river when Miss McAllee pulled away, shooting her boat out like an arrow, by her shrewdness and careful watching obtaining an advantage over her opponent, who was a little slow about starting. But the cool, steady manner in which Miss Lew handled her cars soon made it evi-dent that she was capable of rowing a good race, and everybody was wild with excitement, and cheer upon cheer went up from the river and the banks,, a remarkable degree of enthusiasm being displayed. The boat-racing vocabulary was exhausted by the friends of the respective contestants in their efforts to cheer on to victory. "Go in, Lotie;" "Maggie, beat the girl with the red sack;" "Pull steadler; "Go in and win;" "Beat her on the way back," etc., were yelled from hundreds of strong lungs. The girls pulled away, however, apparently deaf to the cries of the multitude. Miss McAnice pulled a stroke that for grace and power astonished all spectators, and before she had pro-ceeded a hundred yards she was unquestionably a favorite. In making a start she pulled rapidly, handling her oars not uplike Jummy

"GOOD ENOUGH FOR AMERICANS."

A. T. Stewart's $20,000 Picture. Le Monde Illustre of last week, although not a comic journal, devoted its double-page illustration to that very funay picture palated by M Vvon for Mr. A. T. Stewart, of New York. I suppose Har-per's Weekly or Leslie's Weekly will reproduce the engraving, and therefore there is no need of my de-scribing the picture, a task that would sorely tax my powers; besides that, I suppose the Ameri-can public will soon be enabled to see and laugh for themselves over the picture which all Paris has been laughing at for two months. In the said salon this enormous canvas occupied nearly a whole side of one of the largest rooms, and was always being started at by a bewildered crowd. M. Yvon is a painter of alle-gory and of historical subjects, and in his particular line had previously enjoyed a good deal of home renown. Mr. Stewart, who knows absolutely line had previously enjoyed a good deal of home renown. Mr. Stewart, who knows absolutely nothing, and, for that matter, pretends to know nothing, about art, good or bad, and who yet, most miserably and unfortunately, has under-taken of late years to make a collection of pictures and statues, went to M. Yvon and ordered this picture as to a man who was reasonably certain to give him the worth of his money. A busi-ness man, and a shrewd one, he though the was en-gaged in a safe business transaction. But, if he had bought a lot of linen sheeting that proved to be cot-ton he could not have been worse cheated. He has bought a lot of linen sheeting that proved to be cot-ton he could not have been worse cheated. He has bought a lot of ar less practical value, than much of the floor cloth he has in his shop at home. Here, in Paris, where artists do not diagrace themselves with impunity by such per-formances, I can assure you that Yvon has fallen into such disrepute on account of this picture, that his put is hop all hot his the prevents formances, I can assure you that Y von has fallen-into such disrepute on account of this picture, that his pupils have all left his stadio, refusing to receive instruction from such a master. So high has this good, healthy feeling run that a few days ago a paper was handed round for signatures among the students in the Beaux-Arts that on Y von's appearance they would all rise and leave the room. It was not done, but it showed the right spirit even to think of doing it. The en-graving in Le Monde Illustre is, I may say in passing, a very good report of the picture; it nothing ex-tenuates, nor sets down aught in malice. And a pretty hodge-podge it is, to be sure. I do not know if Y von really said it, but he is reported to have said to some one who remonstrated with him on the subject, "Oh, 'tis good enough for the Americans!" I hope that when my countrymen see the picture they will prove to M. Yvon how much he is mis-taken.—Paris cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Upon first seeing him we surmised that perhaps Damon was going to raise the spirits of the audi-tors. Then again we thought he might recall from the past some of the heroic deeds of the General; how he nobly marched to the front, and arrived after all fighting was over, etc. Bosh ! why did we not see it sooner? Damon Y. came that he might have a chance to spout as he only knows how. The lanterns having been hung without any for-mality whatever, Damon sprang to the railing and seeing before him a crowd of about thirty persons, composed of the hangers on at the tavern, idlers and children, thus he spake: "Fellow-citizens" (there were about fifteen citi-zens in all present) "I would not have been here zens in all present) "I would not have been here to-night were it not for an editorial in the EVENING TELEGRAPH which I saw this afternoon, styling General Thomas a disorganizer. FILTHY MARRET-HOUSES, —The offensive condition of the market sheds on Girard avenue, Spring Gar-den street and Caliowhill street on Sunday morn-ings has for some time past been a subject for com-plaint on the part of citizens who are obliged to pass through them or by them. On hot Sundays espe-cially the market-sheds are used a great deal by per-sons going to or cotaing from church on account of the protection they afford from the burning rays of the sun at a time of day when there is very little shade on the sidewalk, and it is in the highest de-gree disagreeable for the eyes and noses of respecta-ble citizens to be saluted by the offal that is thrown about in all directions in and about the sheds. There was a time when the sweet and clean condition of the market-houses was a matter of satisfaction and FILTHY MARRET-HOUSES, .-. The offensive condition was a time when the sweet and clean condition sof the market-houses was a matter of satisfaction and pride with the people of Philadelphia, and there is no good reason why they cannot be kept in good order now. The fact that the Saturday-night mar-kets are held until 12 o'clock is no excuse for meat-bones, entrails, corn-husks, potato-parings, and all manner of animal and vegetable refuse being al-lowed to remain all day Sunday under the burning hot sun. The sheds could be washed out and the garbage removed after midnight without any great difficulty, if the officials who have charge of the matter would exert themselves properly; and in view of the sanitary considerations involved, we recommend the Board of Health to look into the matter, and see if its influence cannot do something towards producing an improvement. towards producing an improvement.

Miss McAlice, however, continued to in-crease the distance between herself and coxtestant, although in following the guide boat she was taken nearly to the Birmingham shore, and lost several boat lengths. Miss Lew experienced the same diffi-culty on her side of the river. Many expressed the opinion that Lottle had lost her advantage in start-ing, and would be beaten before the race was over, bat in this they were mistaken. but in this they were mistaken.

UP THE RIVER.

There were two buoy boats and each contestant turned from left to right. Lottie rounded her buoy turned from left to right. Lottle rounded her buey boat in six minutes and ten seconds from the time of starting, being seventy-five yards in advance of her opponent. Miss Lew, however, pulled away pluckily, sprarently determined not to give up the race so long as there was the remotest possibility of winning it. She rowed against fate, however, and came in at least one hundred yards behind her opponent. The time made by Miss McAlloe was 18.54. It is but due to Miss Lew to say that the oarsman who accompanied her unintentionally put her to a disadvantage by rowing too near her, and all who saw the skill she displayed formed no low opinion of her abilities. On the arrival of the fair contestants a scene of the wildest excitement ensued; the steamboats in the river set up a lively whistling, and cheer upon cheer was given by the vast multitude, while hats and handkerchiefs were waved by the enthusiastic crowd.

AFTER THE RACE.

Miss McAlice pulled quietly up to shore and stepped gracefully from the scull boat, apparently proud as an empress. She threw a water proof over her head and shoulders and made her way with difficulty through the crowd of congratulating friends up the bank where a carriage was waiting to convey her home. Miss Lew came ashore soon after, and the two left the grounds in their respective carriages amid the loudest and most enthusiastic

THE CLEVELAND SENSATION.

THE CLEVELAND SENSATION. One of the great sensations of the season, says the Cleveland Leader of yesterday, is to take place at Rocky river on Monday, the 25th inst., and is to con-sist of a foot race by two females of this city, after which there will be another race of one hundred and fifty yards, which will be open to all persons who choose to enter. The two females are to start from Dubber's Lake View House, around to the Cliff House and back. The prize offered is a purse, the amount of which has not as yet been decided. One of the lades, it is said, is a very fleet runner, and has, on more than one occasion, demonstrated the fact to her friends, but has never ran a public race. A'l the particulars of the race have not as yet transpired—one of the ladies wishing to run barefoot, and the other insisting that they both shall wear shoes. They both belong in Cleveland, and are of respectable standing, between thirty and forty years of age. One is married and the other is a widow.

FROM THE SOUTH.

Outrage in Tennessee.

MEMPHIS, July 19.-The Humboldt Index says that "on Friday last twelve or fourteen disguised men went to the quarters of a negro named Carthell, in Gibson county, broke open the door, shot one negro through the shoulder, another in the head, a third through the body and a fourth who was badly beaten saved his life by flight, then outraged some girls. Esquire Pierce hearing of the affair summoned a posse and succeeded in capturing two men named Boyd, two named Bells, and four named Blankon, Miles, Cooper and Holden. The Boyds were fully committed."

Procuring Ball.

Procuring Ball. Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Parson. As by appointment a preliminary hearing was held this morning in the case of George Rankin. August Mejer, who several days ago pleaded guilty of the charge of perjury, was the only witness examined, and he stated that Rankin induced him to go ball for John Walsh, alias Long John, before Alderman Kerr, in the sum of $1200, though he (Meyer) was under the impression that it was only $600. On the following day for the sum of $25 he procured him to order himself as bail in this court for Peter Nerny, and told him that if he was asked about being ball in any other case, he should say nothing about it, and when he was examined he was ssked this question and answered it negatively. The Judge said he thought this testimony made out a case proper for a jury and therefore he held Rankin in $5000 to answer the charge of subornation of pe rjury. answer the charge of subornation of pe rjury.
