CETY ENTELLIGHNOR. CLEANLINESS.

Dirt vs. Water A Visit to the New Bath-House The Visitors and their Complexion The Newsboys and Bootblacks Disgusted The Pool No. 1000, yet Pangerous. The Result of Balf an Hour's Reflection.

Perhaps no phrase in the English language has been worn more threadbare than the trite old saying that "Cleanliness is next to godliness." As a subject for pulpit eloquence, it has served when scriptural texts of all meanings have failed, and as a motto for laundries and laundresses it ranks "A No. 1." We have not as yet met a bathing establishment where the sentence has been conspicuously displayed, but just here we would suggest that our city fathers have it emblazoned in letters of gold upon the new public bathing-houses that are already com-pleted and upon those that are yet to be.

After having read so much about the cele-brated institutions yelept public baths, we de-termined to obtain an optical demonstration of their availability and success, and accordingly yesterday we paid a visit to the one at Ocis street wharf for said purpose. We had been led to believe that the patrons of this, to us, novel establishment were composed principally of the denizens of the immediate neighborhood in which it is situated. Imagine our surprise, however, when we discovered among the crowd assembled the faces of bootblacks and newsboys whom we have met in places as various as the occasions have been frequent. Accosting one of the venders of knowledge, who is familiarly known amongst his comrades as "Reddy, we entered into a conversation, the principal features of which we append: -

Q. Well, Reddy, what do you think of the new wrinkle?

A. Oh! it's good enough for women.
Q. Why don't they allow you chaps to "in-

A. Oh, yes, but we're not takin' any! Why not? 'Cause we don't swim one foot on bottom.

Why, what you mean by that? The darned place ain't deep enough to float

Q. Then you don't intend to become a regular patron? With an eye to business our talkative friend quickly replied, "No; can't you get us a pass for Finding that Reddy was getting things down to fine points, we answered that we had no influence with the owners of the ocean steamers John and Tom Smith, and, to avoid any further suggestions, moved off. The interview evidently warmed Reddy up, since the next glimpse we caught of him was his diving off a pier near by into the clear, cooling waves of ye noble Delaware. Turning, we took a calm survey of the scene before us. The hour was one of those allotted to members of the male sex, many of whom had taken advantage thereof. The numerous closets, or rather shambles, that line the four sides of the frame structure were all filled with clothing, the owners of which were disporting in the And now a word as to said pool. One viewing the establishment from the outside would suppose that the interior was none other than capacious. But, as in many other instances, appearances prove deceptive. The batt,s have been badly constructed, yet we are thankful for them such as they are, and hope that present mistakes may lead to future successful improvements. The principal por-tion of the interior space has been taken up with the closets named above. So far as male bipeds are concerned, they are almost useless. since pegs or nails would answer every purpose. Nevertheless, for females they are very serviceable. The mistake, we think, has been in not building separate bath-houses for the opponot building separate bath-houses for the oppo-site sex. Our city fathers, however, surmount our argument by the fact that these institu-tions are but mere experiments, and that the amount of money appropriated was entirely too small to provide for separate houses for the separate sexes. But we are digressing, and must return to our text, In the pool, which was but four fact deep, we noticed about a dozen adults and as many more minors. To the former the luxury of a five minutes' wash seemed the acme of terrestrial delights, and their reappearance after their ablution showed that the douse was as beneficial as it was enjoyable. Finding ourselves rudely jostled, we turned, and on our right discovered a big, brawny coal-heaver, but lately arrived from the Richmond whisky district. The "crayther," since his legs were anything but parallel and his articulation somewhat indis-

awaited developments. Approaching the edge of the pool, the Milesian was about tumbling in when the officer in charge grasped nim by the shoulder and commenced treating him to a first-class temperance lecture. With the tact natural to his countrymen, the exile of Erin replied.

"Because you're intoxicated." 'That's that? is it drunk ye mane? Be the howly desthroyer of snakes, St. Patrick by name,

I was niver more sober in my life."

"Oh, well; you had better come around again."

"Not a bit of it. It's clane I want to be, and it's a duck I'll have. Sure, ye talk about could water, but when a man wants it you forbid him taking it. Och! but yere a hypocrite."

Finding that he had met a tough customer. the keeper concluded to let him have a bath and get rid of him. Accordingly, the Milesian divested himself of his corduroys and check shirt, and plunged in. With earnest gaze we watched the effect. Reader, it was instantaneous! Around about for a space of four feet the water became darkened in hue, and the accumulated exudations of months and the almost solidified dust of the coal wharves being washed from the pores made of the laborer almost a new man. At this juncture our attention was attracted to a party of four or five boys who appeared to be deeply engaged in ing upon some important sub-Supposing that it was "Prusconversing sia," we drew near, when our "Dutchy, this ain't a patch to Smithy's, is it?"

Dutchy—No.

No. 1-Let's go over. Dutchy-I ain't got no ducats.

No. 1—Let's play it. A little inquiry disclosed the fact that "playing it" meant their going to the street, setting up a howl over lost money, and closing up the eyes of susceptible humanitarians. Suddenly we heard a splashing, and directing our atten-tion to the end of the pool, we saw our Celtic friend floundering about like a porpoise. The cause we soon ascertained; the water and the whisky did not mix, and, losing his equilibrium, our character made a narrow escape from drowning. Turning, we asked the keeper if he was well patronized, when he answered, "Yes, the crowd keeps pouring in and out the whole time; and if we had fifty houses, I believe they would be all filled."
"Do you admit many boys?"

"No, the boys take to the docks and to the

"Who are your principal customers?" "Well, mostly all hard-working men."

"Do they seem to enjoy any benefit?"
"Oh, yes; one old man has told me that it was a perfect godsend."
"Do they seek the bath for cleansing purposes, or for the enjoyment of a cool dip? "Well, I guess a little of both, although I notice almost all bring soap with them."

"Your pool must get dirty very quickly?"
"Oh no! the water is continually running in Bidding our friend good day, we left the scene. Hardly had we proceeded a square from the dock when we met the lads named above stowed away behind a pile of lumber, chuckling over the fact of their having "beat" an old gentleman left the scene, mentally praying that the lads might yet be reclaimed from their ways of will counse.

POLITICAL.

The Second Congressional, First Legislative, and City Commissioner's Contests-The Diff.

aujournment of the Republican conventions the City Executive Committee have been kept busy in settling the disputes in the Second Congressional and the First Legislative districts, and in the case of the City Commissioner. The troubles arising in these instances are familiar to our readers, and for a time it seemed probable a split ticket would be run in each case at the coming October election. However, the friends of all parties succeeded in getting the candidates to submit their claims to the City Executive Committee, whose decision should be final.

Testimony was then taken at the rooms of the Union Club, No. 1105 Chesnut street. In the City Commissioner contest there was a majority and a minority report—the former declaring James N. Bain the nominee, and the latter in favor of George W. Shultz. This minority document was signed by Mr. Newell, of the Twenty-

The majority report, after a lengthy and samewhat stormy discussion, was adopted A motion was then made to make the nomination unanimous, but Mr. Newell (who has been a staunch friend of Mr. Shultz from the inception of the contest) refused to vote yea.

After some further discussion, Mr. Newell said there was a resolution which would satisfy him, which he would offer.

The resolution was presented, declaring James N. Bain the nominee of the Republican City Executive Committee for the office of City Commissioner, which was adopted unanimously.

In the Second Congressional matter two re-ports were submitted, one in favor of Charles O'Neill and the other in favor of John V. Creely.

The minority were in favor of reconvening the convention and trying the matter over again, but a resolution presented by the ma-jority, referring the contest to the members of the Executive Committee from the wards composing the district, was adopted by the unanimons vote of the committee.

The committee thus constituted will immediately proceed with their labors, and report their decision to the Central Committee.

In the First Legislative district contest Joseph Edmiston protested against awarding the certificate to Samuel Thompson. Of the sub-committee appointed to take the testimony, the majority reported in favor of reassembling convention, and the minority in favor of Mr. Thompson. The majority report was adopted, and accordingly a notification has been served that the delegates in this convention will reconvene at Sixth and Dickerson streets on the 11th day of August, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent the district at Harrisburg, and in order to avoid any difficulty in the organization of that convention, a sub-committee of the Central Committee has been appointed to take charge of the preliminary busi-

CENT FIRE ON RACE STREET. -Yesterday considerable correspondence took place between the proprietors of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refinery, at Crown and Race streets, recently de-stroyed by fire, and the Chief of Police, relative to the removal of the insecure walls of the ruins. These are considered sufficiently dangerous to prevent the passage of the Race street cars or other travel on the street.

The Chief early called the attention of the firm to the insecure condition of the building and the necessity for closing the street, much to the inconvenience of the public. In reply to this the firm stated that it was the intention of the Building Inspectors to visit the spot at 3 o'clock this afternoon, until which time it would be impossible to take any action in the matter on account of the insurance on the buildings.

A note from the Chief to the insurance age having charge of the business of the firm produced a reply which declined all responsibility in the matter.

The Chief thereupon took upon himself the responsibility of removing the walls on his own authority, and gave notice that work would be begun this morning, unless some action was taken by the firm by 5 o'clock yesterday after-noon. The Building Inspectors cannot proceed without the legal five days' notice.

Up to 12 o'clock this morning the work of demolition had not begun, though the Chief and a force of laborers were on the ground. It is believed that as the matter has been delayed this long, it will be delayed a little longer, until after the Inspectors' visit this afternoon. Meanwhile the street is still closed, as it should be, and the walls remain standing. A solution of the difficulty by which the insurance will not be endangered will probably be reached before the Chief enforces his order. The fireproofs have not yet been removed from the ruins, but the books and papers are undoubtedly unin-

The Campbell family, who were rendered houseless by the falling of the northern wall during the fire, are being cared for by members of the Neptune Hose Company and other charitable persons. Any contributions for their re-lief will be thankfully received.

THE 5TH MARYLAND-THEIR ARRIVAL IN THIS CITY FROM CAPE MAY .- The following is the programme of the departure of the Maryland Regiment from their encampment at Cape May and their arrival in this city:—They break camp to-morrow morning and leave the island at 7 30 o'clock in a special train, arriving in this city at 10 30 o'clock. At the West Jersey Ferry the 2d Regiment, Lieutenant-Colonel H. Neff (National Guards), will receive them. The line will then move up Market street to Eighth, to Race street, and to the southwest gate of Franklin Square, which they will enter aud stack arms. They will then be escorted to the National Guards' Hall, where they will partake of a banquet. This being concluded, the regiment will take arms and resume the line of march at 1 o'clock, down Sixth street to Walnut, to Thirteenth, to Sansom (where the courtesy of a marching salute will be tendered Major-General Robert Patterson), to Broad, and to the depot. The members of the National Guards will assemble in full dress uniform (summer pantaloons) at the armory, at 91/2 o'clock A. M.

NEW YORK BAY EXCURSION .- The success attending the former excursions around New York bay and up the Hudson river has induced Beck's Philadelphia Band to give another on Monday next, August 1, and to ex-tend the trip to Long Branch, thus making a new route for our one day pleasure seekers, and one that will be heartily enjoyed by all participants. The steamboat ride from Amboy is really delightful, the passengers being several hours on salt water, viewing some of the finest scenery that our country produces. The boat will remain at New York city two hours, so that everybody can get a peep at Broadway and its JUVENILE HORSE THIEVES .- On Wednesday two boys at Chesnut Hill offered to sell a horse and wagon for fifty dollars. This excited the suspicions of Officer Styer that all was not right, and he detained the boys and telegraphed to the Central Station for information. Investigation proved that the horse and wagon were stolen under the following circumstances: -A gentle man had stepped from the wagon at Second and Market streets to transact some business in the vicinity, when these youths urged him to allow them to take care of his horse. He consented, though reluctantly, and upon his return, horse, wagon, and boys were missing.

BASE BALL VS. CRICKET .- The return game between the Olympics and a picked nine from the Germantown and Young America Cricket Clubs was played on the Germantown grounds yesterday, and again resulted favor of the cricketers by a score of 37 to 5 at the end of the sixth inning. Score by innings:-

U. S. COMMISSIONER'S CASE —Before U. S. Commissioner Craig Ciddle this morning was arraigned one Guenther Alsteadt.

George Evans, Collector of the Third district, testified that he had visited defendant's place. George Evans, Collector of the I hird district, testified that he had visited defendant's place. No. 963 Ridge avenue, on the 27th inst., and found four hundred cigars wrapped in a newspaper on a lounge, bearing no Government stamps. Five hundred were found on the same condition, defendant said that these were all he had unstamoed, that he was a poor man and had bought the cigars from a poor German out of sympathy; I took his key and told him to follow to my office in the afternoon; at the time appointed he called, and I told him I would inquire into the facts of the case; after he left I started for his residence, No. 906 N. Ninth street: met him at Ninth and Wood streets and told him that I desired to search him residence; he said there was not a cigar to the house, that he only occupied one room with his sisters and niece; visiting his room we found a barrel of smoking tobacco in Packages; we found 1000 cigars wrapped in smoking tobacco in Packages; we found 1000 cigars wrapped in a newspaper; in the entry was a large close t the key of which defendant said he could not find, at the same time assuring us that the closet contained nothing but his sister's clothing; trying some keys we opened it and therein found about 4000 cigars packed in boxes, and part in paper, and 100 tied up in a bundle; we asked him "what be thought of that?" when he replied, "He wanted to save what little he had, would have told no untruth;" I asked him if there were any more clears about the house; be pledged his word that there was not; searching a closet in another room we found two packages of cigars of 100 each, and in the cellar three half-barrel packages of tobacco; defendant had paid his tax as a cigar dealer, but not as a manufacturer.

He was held in $1000 ball to answer. FATALITY.-Last night Watchman Douglas found the body of one Jerry Ryan, aged twenty-three years, lying upon the Limekiln pike. Noti-fying Captain Chasteau, it was removed to a place of shelter, when an examination disclosed the fact that sunstroke had been the cause of his Word was communicated to an uncle named John Ryan, who sent George Brenner, an undertaker, after the remains. Whilst he was returning he accidentally drove into a culvert on Montgomery avenue, killing his horse.

K. of P .- The Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias, lately in session at Williamsport, has, by a vote of 151 to 28, decided that it is irregular and improper for the Supreme Lodge to in-terfere with or issue orders to subordinate lodges, or to attempt to enforce said orders during the recess of the Grand Lodge. Further, that the O. B. N. was unnecessary and illegal, and will not be enforced. And lastly, the Su-preme Lodge is called upon to revoke its action in the matter.

Swimmers.-The Schuylkill Harbor Police resterday arrested three boys for bathing in the Schuylkill above the dam.

BEECHER IN PETTICOATS.

The Reverend Henry Ward's Hartford Frenk How the Plymouth Pastor Looked in Frizzed Bair and a Love of a Bonnet-Elizabeth Cady Stanton's Description of his Grecian Bend. From the Revolution.

This reminds me of a good story I heard about Henry Ward Beecher. As he is now enjoying his annual infliction, the "hay fever," and takes little note how the world goes round, this is a good time to tell it, that we may have our laugh out before he reappears upon the stage of

It seems that once on a visit to Mrs. Stowe rome great occasion calling for an extra curling and frizzing among the ladies of the household, Mr. Beecher was imbued with the spirit of decoration, and urged his nieces to curl and friz his hair also. This novel request so amused the young fry that all promptly entered into the fun with the greatest zest. He was accordingly scated in a large arm-chair in the centre of the room, where for the space of one hour he re-mained as patient as a lamb, while with hot irons fairy fingers curled and frizzed those venerable locks into most generous dimensions.

With the addition of a becoming bonnet, skirt, and mantilla, and a fan, he presented so lady-like an appearance that he was quite unwilling to return to the sombre garb of manhood. A ternately reclining on the sofa, talking with true feminine affectation, promenading up and down the parlor with the Grecian bend, and surveying himself in the glass with the greatest satisfaction, ever and anon he exclaimed, "I do with Bruce or some of those Hartford people would come in.' Prof. Stowe was so convelsed with the whole proceeding that it was feared he might share the fate of the poor man in Holmes' "Height of the

However, as no one came, Mr. Beecher at last proposed they should go out and visit certain friends; so Mrs. Stowe ordered the carriage, and they went first to Mrs. Hooker's. She being much occupied, declined seeing the stranger but Mrs. Stowe insisted on her coming down, as the lady wished to talk to her about the woman question, as she thought of lecturing on tha subject. On entering the parlor, one glance at those mischievous eyes satisfied her as to the identity of the strange lady, and she exclaimed, "I know you! wolf in lamb's ciothing."
