about the house where the crime was committed is carefully watched by unseen eyes. No person makes an exit or entrance without it being known, and day and night it is under complete surveillance. Yesterday morning at 3 o'clock de-tectives were in the neighborhood in Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets on guard. At that time all the lights in the house were extinguished, except one in the hall, which sent its flickerings across to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where ten or a dozen hackmen were congregated speculating upon the event.

about it went towards the window of my room to shut the linds, as the light was coming in too strongly, and, I judged, would prevent me from sleeping. I look d out into the street as I was shutting them and saw a young man sitting in his night clothes at one of the windows of the third floor.

Reporter-Did you know him? General Blair-No, I did not at the time.

Reporter-Have you ascertained who he was? General Blair-Oh, yes. I understand, in fact. I know, he was one of the Nathan sons; for, about a half an hour or so afterward, the outery about the murder was made, and I then saw him with his brother standing on the stoop, and crying out for help, or making an outcry of some kind. I couldn't tell what,

Reporter-Did you notice anything peculiar about the appearance of the two, or of either ?

General Blair-Yes, they were both in their might clothes, and the one I had seen at the window of the third floor a short time previous had blood on his night-gown. Reporter-Were you awakened by the outcries

I went to sleep for a short time after going to bed. When the outcry was made I must have been at least half asleep; at any rate I was not fully awake. When I heard the cries first I did not pay much at-tention to them, as there are so many noises in the street early in the morning; but as they were con-tinued, and as I became more fully awake, they seemed to me more like cries of distress than anything else, so I got up and looked out of the window.

The first thought that struck me was that there were robbers in the house, and that the young man with the blood on his shirt had been hurt by them, and that the two were raising an alarm so that some person would go to their assistance and have the robbers arrested. Reporter-How did you become finally aware that murder had been committed ?

General Blair-Well, the young men appeared to be so terribly excited and continued their outery so long that I called for a servant and sent him out to ascertain what was the matter. He returned and told me that Mr. Nathan had been killed.

It was also stated that one of the committee had brought away a specimen of the cheese, which he kept in his house until the next when the smell was so puncent. liged to take it to a lager-beer merchant was of across the street and exchange it for a drink of ager. The beer merchant pronounced the specimen of cheese excellent. Mr. Hertstine, from the committee appointed to meet with the meeting of Farmers' Clubs to be held in West Grove Hall in next September, asked that the committee be increased to five, and that an in-vitation to the clubs to meet in the room of this society in place of that at West Grove Hall be given. Disposition and Numbers of the Prussans, commands 50,000.

Reporter-How did the young man appear as he sat at the window? was there anything peculiar about his manner ? was he excited-looking ? General Blair—He was in no wise excited-looking ; there was nothing peculiar about his manner. He seemed just as if he had placed himself at the window to cool off.

Reporter-You say after closing the blinds of your window you went to bed, and did not go asleep immediately; then there was a certain lapse of time between the time you saw the young man at the window and when you saw him on the stoop-that is, more time than would be required for him to come down two flights of stairs and reach the door? General Blair_There must have been, I think, about a half an hour between my seeing him the first time and the second time. I do not want to be positive as to the exact time, out I think there must have been about a half hour. Here the conversation ended, the General remarking that he was not desirous of being prominent in the case, but that he had no objection to his statement being made public, as he considered it the public's property. The New York World has the following :--

WHY NO BLOODY FOOTSTEPS ?

It has been much remarked in this tragedy that there were no bloody foot-tracks from the side of the corpse to the front door of the mansion except those made by Mr. Washington Nathan when rushing forth horror-stricken from the scene of the butch-ery on the morning it was discovered. The argu-ment seems to be, that if young Mr. Nathan tracked the blood out of the room, then the murderer ought to have tracked blood too, a line of thought which omits the consideration of a very important element in the case. Young Mr. Nathan advanced to the corpse at a time when it had lain for some hours in its position, and when the blood had only flowed source in the second se and, of course, bear away the blood upon the feet. But the assassin, in his walking near the body, if indeed he ever went near it after the killing, save to step over it on his way from the safe to the large room, had no occasion to step in blood, and probably could not have so stepped if he had tried without waiting a few minutes till the welling tide had formed a sufficient pool upon the floor. Why, after felling the unfortunate man and then stepping over his body into the outer room, need the murderer approach the corpse? I had no clothing on from which to take a watch purse, papers, key, or the like, and the blows struck were so fatal that no motive could have recalled the rufilan to complete his work. The absence of any bloody foot-tracks of the assassia seems therefore a very natural and perhaps even a necessary incident of the case. Young Mr. Nathan's feet were stained because the blood had had time to be sucked up and spread by the carpet, but during the time the mur-derer was in the room after the killing, the blood had not had time to spread.

"NO CLUE AS YET."

In these four words of Superintendent Jourdan to a reporter yesterday the whole story is told. Despite the almost superhuman efforts of the officers of the law, the rullian who so forther of the officers of spite the almost superhuman efforts of the officers of the law, the ruffian who so foully murdered Benja-min Nathan in the sanctity of his own dwelling, only five days ago, still is at liberty. The detec-tives are charged by some persons with being at fault, and the detection of the murderer is believed to be a remote possibility in reference to which both Superintendent Jourdan and Chief of Dectives Kelso do not care to express an opiaion. Certain i is, however, that not the slightest clue has been ob Certain it tained in the case, and it is equally certain that no person is under suspicion. As a last resource, a new feature is to be intro-duced into the case to morrow, on which the detectives will work. This feature is in reference to the "dog," the implement with which murder was undoubtedly committed, and the new assertion is, that it was not a ship carpenter's "dog," but a tool of another nature, the precise details of which would be obviously improper to state at the messant time. the present time.

INQUIRIES ABOUT THE "DOG."

From 10 o'clock yesterday morning nearly every proprietor and foremen of a ship-carpenter's yard in New York came to the Police Heaequarters in Mulbery street and inspected the "dog" with which the murder was committed. No person, however, identified it. In reference to the statement pub-ished in a morning paper, that the "dog" in case Identified it. In Preference to the sentement pro-lished in a morning paper, that the "dog" in ques-tion was known to have been in Mr. Nathan's stable for the last eighteen months, and that the man who built Mr. Nathan's house saw it there, the whole story is without any foundation whatever. Superintendent Jourdan has carefully examined the superintendent Sourdan has carefully examined the statement and fluds it utterly devoid of truth. The statement in question is one of the many erroneous ones which have been circulated during the past iwo days in reference to the dreadful crime.

-The University of Nashville, Tenn., with General E. Kirby Smith as Chancellor, will inaugurate its twenty-first session the 1st of November.

Mr. Herstine also made an informal report of the visit to the Experimental Farm, giving a history of the working of the farm and the different experiments now being worked out at that locality

Mr. Edwin Saterthwait, of Jenkintown, was nominated for membership in the society.

Considerable discussion took place on the subject of the wheat crop of the present year, several gen-tlemen giving their experience in the raising of the product, after which the meeting adjourned.

INTERNAL REVENUE MATTERS .- Within the past few days no little excitement has been occa-sioned amongst our politicians by a wholesale reduction of the force in the Fourth district. About half-a-dozen assistant assessors walked the plank on Monday, and others are to follow. ongst them were William Dixey, Jesse Rook, Am and William Johnson. The axe will be kept in motion until all the districts are cleared out. It is expected also that the First and Second and Third and Fourth districts will be consolidated, with one collector and one assessor for each.

Messrs. Leeds and Stokley will give way for higher offices, and Messrs. Pollock and Kenney be appointed to the control of the new districts.

A BIG WASH-DAY .- Yesterday the region around Almond street wharf presented a lively scene. From early in the morning an immense crowd of perspiring juveniles, mixed with a number of adults, besieged the new Public Bath House, No. 2, and made the air resonant with their clamors for admission. So great was the pressure that word had to be sent to the Second District Station-house for an extra force of men to preserve order. The bathers were admitted in squads of forty, and allowed five minutes in the pool. At night the sum total of bathers numbered-men, 87; boys, 1250.

THE BEDFORD STREET BATHS .- The free baths attached to the Bed ord Street Mission have been opened since July 13. From that date to July 31 the whole number of baths taken were 3674. The number of men who used the baths were 328; boys, 1315; women, 953; girls, 1078. The beneficial effects of these baths have been plainly perceptible. The relapsing fever has diminished greatly, and, with one exception, no one who has used the baths has taken the fever. The exception above noted was a woman who washed the clothes of a fever patient.

THE CARNIVAL AT ATLANTIC CITY TO-NIGHT. -The grand carnival, bal masque, and fancy dress party to be given this evening at the Excursion House, Atlantic City, promises to be a really grand affair. Many who propose to attend will leave this city this afternoon for the express purpose of being present, and there will be a good delegation from the boarders at Atlantic. Several unique costumes have been heard of which will be displayed on the occasion.

PISTOL PRACTICE.-About 2 o'clock this morning the Harbor police, when just below the Navy Yard, heard three pistol shots, and judging that the shots had been fired in the neighborhood of Point Airy, they at once pulled for that locality. On reaching the island they found a brig moored, the captain of which told them that some one had pushed his head in the cabin window, had fired three times at him, and then made off.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY .- Wenzell Newburger, residing at No. 315 St. John street, has been held in $900 ball by Alderman Cahill on the charges of assault and battery and keeping a disorderly house. Yesterday Wenzell had a squabble with one of his customers and tumbled him down a flight of stairs, hence his arrest.

relief of claim agents, whose claims against the Government cannot be paid under the recent decision of the Attorney-General relative to the disposal of appropriations, and many agents here contemplate the abandonment of the claim business for the present, or at least giving but slight attention to it. Advices from the North and West are to the effect that the decision in the matter creates great surprise, and the departments daily receives large numbers of letters of inquiry relative to the same. Assessments on Office-holders.

Owing to the general protest of department clerks against the assessment of one per cent. on salaries for subscriptions in aid of the Congressional committee in the approaching campaign, the rate has been reduced to three, four, and five dollars each, according to grade of An aggregate of over $25,000 will prooffice. bably be realized from these assessments.

Bearers of Despatches.

The State Department is in receipt of numerous applications for appointments as bearers of despatches for our ministers abroad. On account of the expense, and the limited amount of the contingent fund, but few appointments will be made, and those only to prominent and well-known parties and in the cases of very important messages which it is not advisable to trust to mails.

Naval Matters.

Despatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. - The Franklin, flagship of Rear Admiral Radford, was at Flushing, Holland, on July 15. The orders for the return of that vessel had been received, and she may be expected at New York some time this month. The Richmond, of the European fleet, was at Trieste on July 1. The Congress, flagship of Commodore Green, was at St. Domingo city on July 20, and about to sail for Key West, to relieve the Severn, which latter vessel is daily expected at Hampton Roads, bearing the flag of Rear Admiral Poor, who is to be relieved in command of the North Atlantic fleet by Rear Admiral Lee.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Broad Street Outrage. Court of Quarter Sessions-Judge Paxson

This morning the Court resumed the trial of John W. Bady ailas Welsh, and William H. Dincan, charged with rape committed upon Miss Agnes C. on South Broad street, on the night Jervis on South Broad street, on the night of July 14. In our report of pesterday we gave in full the testimony of Miss Jervis and Mr. Moorby, her escort, who detailed the particulars of the outrage in a clear manner, and fully identified the prisoners as participants in it. On behalf of Duncan, evidence was offered that for more than four years he was a member, in good standing, of Mr. Perry's Baptist church, at Front and Christian streets, an Odd Fel-low, a base ballist, and a frequencies of the Reliance church, at Front and Christian streets, an Odd Fel-low, a base ballist, and a frequenter of the Reliance Engine house and Keesey's tavern hard by; and also to prove that at the time of this occurrence he was at home, at the tavern, or engine house. The only evidence adduced for Baldy went to show that he was an employe of the Thirteenth and Fifteenth Streets Railway Company, was a married man, and had in his time been a wild boy. After the evidence, followed the arguments of counsel, Colonel Dechert opened for the Com-monwealth, and made a lengthy and minute resume of counset, Colonel Dechert opened for the Com-monwealth, and made a lengthy and minute resume of the evidence, striving to place it before the jury in such a manner as to leave no doubt of the guilt of the prisoners.
