NEW.YORHISMS.

From Our Own Overespondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4, 1870. Walt Whitman; or, Stage-coach Inspiration. Is Walt Whitman an ism of New York ? Decidedly yes. I have a little story to tell, which will prove the assertion to be true.

There are in New York scores of gentlemen who, when they ride down town or up, generally do so on top of the stage, seldom inside. They like to smoke, to heb-nob with the driver, and to survey Broadway at their feet. Impelled by these desires, a gentleman (I mention no names) climbed, on Wednesday afternoon, to the summit of a Fifth avenue "omnibus," and took his seat beside the driver. On the other side of that functionary sat a remarkable-looking man of about sixty years of age. He wore blue trousers, a blue vest, and a long, light linen coat. The shirt collar was low and loose, and would have displayed, in sailor fashion, several inches of brawny chest, but for the full white beard three-quarters of . foot long. His abundant hair also was white. The breast was broad and deep, capable of taking mighty breaths. The look upon the face was frank, fearless, and big with thought. The possessor of these singularities maintained a profound silence, and looked about him with a contemplative stare. At the intersection of Houston street and Broadway he requested the driver to stop. The driver did so and the stranger got down, and I suppose I ought to conclude the paragraph by saying that he "mysteriously disappeared." My love of truth, however, forbids my sacrificing it in order to produce a meretricious "effect." Whatever mystery there may be in entering a Broadway store, probably with the view of buying something. the stranger is welcome to, for that is what he did; but his appearance was so remarkable that the other outside passengers who had observed him could not resist looking after him in wonder and admiration.

"Toat's a rum old cuss," said the driver, giving a jerk with his thumb in the direction of the vanished figure. "That's the only man in all New York as can ride free in these 'ere stages, exceptin' the p'leece.'

"Indeed! Who is he?" inquired the passelger.

"Dunnow what his name is. We call him Walter. There's not a stage-driver in New York as dunnow him. He often spends an evenin' at my house. Dunnow his name no more'n I know yours. We call him Walter !"

"Oh yes! The author of 'The Leaves of Grass,' I presume."

"Blest if I know what he does for a living. When he's in New York he spends all his time ridin' up and down in stages, and none of 'em charges him a cent. There's not many men as can do that, now, is there? He aint much on the gab-jest twists his head about and keeps bis mouth thet. But he's mighty good on a think, I should say. Je-rusalem! how that man must a thunk! Lord! what a good driver he'd make if he'd only turn his attention to the perfession. I allow as he wouldn't miss a party as wanted to get in, man, woman, or child, all the way down Broadway, you bet ! He looks around him that spry ! Yes, he's a queer old cuss, is Walter !"

If an orator like Miss Dickinson may gather inspiration from lying hatless and gloveless on the rocks at Swampscott, is not a poet like Walt Whitman without blame if he chooses to view life from the top of a stage-coach? If there is any exaggeration in this little anecdote impersonality in their dramatic columns, and | by having special criticisms upon artists speaking a foreign language prepared by writers speaking that language and engaged temporarily. Such a course seems to be inevitable during the approaching season. ALI BABA.

SINGULAR AFFAIR.

Attempted Resuscitation of an Executed

Bernard Scop was hung at Norwalk, Ohio, on the 3d instant, for the murder of a man named Jacob Goodman. As soon as the body was out down an attempt was made in the presence of the officials to restore the hanged man to life. The intent of the law to deprive the murderer of his existence seems to have been entirely lost sight of, and the efforts to bring the wretched creature back into this breathing world were as carnest as but a few minutes before had been the determination to send him out of it. A correspondent of the Cleveland Leader thus reports this singular affair:-

The body was carefully lowered to the floor. Sponges at the end of a wire communicating with a battery were rubbed over his body, and at times quick convulsive movements of the limbs were visible. The sponge was placed in his hand, and he grasped it so tight that it his hand, and he grasped it so tight that it was withdrawn with the greatest diffi-culty. Pressures were made on the chest and sides to induce respiration, and the breathless spectators looked on with awe, doubting whether death would remain master of the body in the face of the scientific applications. It was at first surmised that the mode was not discounted and a full scientific Beck was not dislocated, and a full examination gave no convincing proofs on this point. The back and neck were rubbed for fifteen minutes and the attempt to revive was then abandoned. The clothes were again placed on the corpse, it was put in the coffin and the remains quietly interred in the Norwalk Cemetery. C. M. C. Prentice, a student in the Charity College of Cleveland, was very active in the attempts to restore the corpse to life.

AS MANY OF THE COMPLAINTS OF CHILDREN Originate from the irritation and the derangements caused by worms, a remedy that will effectually rid the system of these pests is well calculated to be of great benefit, and to be frequently required in every amily. Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is such a preparation, not only certain to destroy worms, but most excellent for the purposes of a General Tonic, strengthening the stomach and digestion, and dissipating any febrile tendency in the system. In Dyspepsia, young and old will find it equally effective, and altogether, no remedy of more general application could be kept in the household. Sold everywhere. Small size, 37 cents; double size, 50 cents per bottle.

A MOST DELIGHTFUL DESSERT may be found in the new article of food, Sea Moss Farine, which can be purchased for twenty-five cents a package, that will produce sixteen quarts of most excellent blanc mange, or a proportionate quantity of custards, light puddings, farina, creams, sauces, gruels, Charlotte see etc. This seems vouched for by ladies of the highest respectability. who append their names to their statements. The company state at least fifty delicious dishes can be made from the Sea Moss Farine, and give in their circular the receipts for many of them. We consider Mr. Rand's discovery a highly important one for the millions, and indeed for all classes of society, in these stringent times.

it is an exaggeration that I am not aware of. To the best of my ability I have related the incident as it was related to me, although I should not have mentioned it at all had I thought that by so doing I was casting a slur upon a name which at least one foreign review of great reputation recognizes as belonging to the only original, "out-and-out" American poet that ever existed.

Opera Bouffe-Polylingual Critics.

During the recent few weeks I have several times mentioned that Mr. Fisk had engaged an opera-bouffe company for the fall and winter season. That company will arrive here early in September and give its first performance about the middle of the month. It was believed that Irma would be one of its members, but her name was not mentioned among those with whom I am told contracts have been signed. It is claimed that the new opera bouffe company, none of which have ever appeared here, will number eighty, and that three-fourths of them will constitute the chorus. This proportion in the chorus accounts for sixty members. Ten more I am able to name: they consist of the principal singers. The remaining ten, if they be not due to managerial imagination, must be looked for among those mysterious people who, behind the scenes, silently do so much of the miscellaneous work that is necessary to successful theatrical representations. The names of the ten principal members of the company are as follows:-Mad'lle Silly, who is said to be the rival of M'me Schneider: Mad'lle Montaland and Mad'lle Jousse, from La Folie Dramatique; Mad'lle Thal, from the Athenee; MM. Caussin and Hermierer, tenors, and M. Hettemans, buffo, from Les Varietes; and MM. Varlet, baritone, and Anthony, basso, from the Chatelet. The stage director is M. Esteve, and is said to have had experience among the principal Parisian theatres. The opera that will be first presented is Le Petit Faust. When that has ceased to be attractive, it will be supplanted by Les Brigands, and that, in turn, by La Princesse de Trebizonde. In view of the four languages in which theatrical representations in this city will be given during the coming fall and winter, I may perhaps be permitted to make a remark or two respecting the lingual accomplishments of operatic and dramatic critics. I do not believe there is one critic in New York who is equally well acquainted with English, French, German, and Italian. I know that there are very few who have even a moderate acquaintance with more than one of those languages; and it does not require a very great familiarity with the style in which New York musical and dramatic criticisms are written to prove that of the whole number of writers only one or two know how to use English with accuracy, elegance, and force. In these days, when few newspaper-writers are wise enough to appreciate the vastness and importance of the field that is included in musical and dramatic criticism, men no more think of educating themselves to be critics than the working classes, before the public bath-houses were built, thought of taking a daily bath. At this comparatively low stage of criticism, it would be anticipating too much to expect to find a critic who unites to the knowledge of several modern languages a perfect familiarity with the stage at home and abroad. Yet such knowledge and familiarity are necessary to the idea of a first-class critic. The newspaper that does not possess such a critic is weak in that one point, however strong it may be in other points. One or two of the more conscientious position in this matter by preserving a perfect ONE DOLLAR GOODS FOR 95 CENTS,
