THE INVINCIBLES.

The Academy of Music was well filled last evening with people to listen to the address of Hen. Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts.

The meeting was organized by the selection of The meeting was organized by the selection of the following officers: President, Ezra Lukens; vice presidents, H. Todd, W. L. Fox, John Wanamaker, Albert C. Weaver, Charles D. Norton, Horace Hill, B. C. Worthington, E. F. Starr, W. J. Gillingham, Joseph Brobston, Jr., George Fry, A. R. Calhoun, Cyrus Lukens, W. H. H. Roberts, W. W. Maris; secretaries, Henry C. Harkins, James Moore, Jr., Thomas C. Powell, John Birkinbine, E. S. Kimber, M. Hampton Todd.
Mr. Lukens made a very brief address.

Mr. Lukens made a very brief address. Mr. Henry C. Hawkins, secretary, then read the following resolutions and address:

Whereas, The Republican Invincibles have, in former campaigns, materially aided the Republican cause, not only in our city, but in many portions of the State, and have been the means of gathering in young men, undecided upon which side to cast their lot, we feel the time has arrived when we, as a club, for this campaign at least, should direct our entire energies to securing, by other means, those great and glorious results. which, in the past, we have been instrumental in achieving by our torches and our banners; there-solved, That in view of the foregoing, we issue an address to the young men of Philadelphia, call-ing upon them to raily to our standard, and by their energy and power assist in spreading our cause and preventing bold bad men from gaining power; who love not the party but spoils of the victor, and whose thrusts must ere long sap the life blood of the greatest and best principles ever enunciated by mortal man.

Resolved, That we, the Republican Invincibles of Philadelphia, heartily indorse the national and State administrations, earnestly recommend the regular nominees of the Republican party in the regular nominees of the Republican party in the city as worthy the support of the people.

To the Republican citizens of Philadelphia:—
The Republican Invincibles of Philadelphia, were organized in the memorable year of 1860, by young men whose only object in entering into the political arena, was to uphold the government in its struggle with the principles enunciated by the Demogle with the principles enunciated by the Demo-cratic party, as represented by the rebels of the south, and their sympathizers of the north, in pre-serving the unity and purity of our national insti-tutions; seeking no office, controlled by no clique, and desiring only the dissemination, and establish-ment, of Republican principles, on the broad basis "that all men are created equal and endowed with certain inalienable rights among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

The club has fully sustained its reputation as an active, independent and fearless organization in the political campaigns for the past ten years, and at the opening of the present one we feel free to call on all those who are in sympathy with the principles we advocate and the selection of worthy candidates to represent them, to unite with us in their support. This organization presents an opportunity for a practical movement toward remedying some of the evils and abuses that have unfor-tunately gained a foothold in our party, and which only can be reached by organized action, thus making politics something more than a mere ladder by which selfish and unprincipled men may climb to place and power. to place and power.

We desire to gain the active co-operation of all who, by precept and practice, will cause an in-creased interest in delegate and primary elections, and jealously guard the purity and honor of our great party. We discountenance all so-called reform movements outside of the party organization, as tending only strengthen the ranks of the Democracy.

The chairman then introduced the Hon. Henry

The chairman then introduced the Hon. Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts, who said:
Ladies and gentlemen—I heartily thank you for your reception this evening. I wish to speak to the young men of Philadelphia. I shall never forget the acts of the women and the men during the war. The ballots you put in the ballot boxes, the aid you gave to those going to the front and coming to the rear, will live in the history of that war. We are here now for the same great cause. You belong to the great Republican party, which has in its ranks more than 4,000,000 of loyal men.

I sometimes hear it said that the Republican party has achieved its great work and it has little party has achieved its great work and it has little more to do. The man who utters that sentiment little comprehends the condition of the country. Ittle comprehends the condition of the country. The party have achieved a greater work than was ever accomplished by any party in any other country. We have established the country on a basis of equality to all men, but our work is not complete. We want behind this the patriotic, liberty-loving men who have accomplished all this.

As slavery was abolished, it is not human nature that those principles will continue unless sustained.

No one doubts the patriotism of the Republican party. We never fired on the flag.

You owe it to your country to stand by the party till we teach the rebels the language of liberty, and give them time enough to apologize for their acts. Never trust a party that has hundreds of thousands of traitors and copperheads in its ranks, who apologized while they were aiding the foes of the nation.

We have amended the Constitution, and made it impossible for a slave to tread on American soil.

we have amended the Constitution, and made it impossible for a slave to tread on American soil.

We were able to stand against the seductions of a President and the machinations of the Democratic party, and we crushed both.

We reconstructed the south and established it on

We reconstructed the south and established it on a firm basis. Our work of reconstruction is about completed. The war left an army on our hands, which the world said we could not disband. But they did not know the young men of the country. We sent them to their homes. We elected General Grant to make the debt sacred—to reduce the public debt. In eighteen months we have reduced the debt in round numbers $170,000,000, while in the last eighteen months of Johnson's administration it was reduced but $1,000,000.

The currency of the United States to-day is worth $75,000,000 more than it was when General Grant $75,000,000 more than it was when General Grant came into office.

The speaker then spoke of General Grant's acts for the amelioration of the condition of the red men. He then said the Republican party was created to carry on reforms, as it is a reform in it-

Young men, stand firm in the ranks of the party. Accept what God, in His wisdom, shall give you to do. Both parties have good and bad men, but there are a vast majority of Christians, you know, in the Republican party. Keep the party right and keep Pennsylvania and Philadelphia right, and stand by the men who have made the party. The Republican party was formed to carry out ideas, and not to put men in office.

The speaker then took his seat, and Hon. Wm. D.

made a brief address, after which the meeting adjourned.

THE WAR. LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

THE PRUSSIAN TROOPS SUBBOUNDING PARIS-BISMARCK AND THE PEACE QUESTION-A RE-PORTED ARMISTICE-THE SIEGE OF STRASBURG -AN ASSAULT EXPECTED SOON.

LONDON, Sept. 16 A dispatch from Berlin states that only a few curious travellers thus far have visited Wilhelmshaven since the arrival there of the Emperor Napoleon, and more than half of these were Americans. On Friday last the Duchess of Hamilton visited the Emperor. He dresses in an undress uniform, and has Dr. Conveaux professionally on his state of the convention right during his almost incessant walks. The Princes Murat and Muskowa, Dr. Charles Payot and Viscount Bealle are in his company much of

A Paris correspondent of the Times writes to the evening edition as follows: "There are those who think it possible that France would give up a por-tion of her fleet, pay the cost of the war, raz: the walls of Strasburg and Metz, abolish the conscrip-tion and accept the limitation of her army as the price of peace, but nobody believes that she will cede a foot of her territory."

The Empress Eugenie is greatly annoyed by the army of sight-seers who follow her and stare at her whenever she appears in public.

In his dispatches, General Ulrich, commandant at Strasburg, admits that the situation is desperate. General Von Werther, the Prussian commander, defers the general assault on the city in order that the garrison may not be uselessly butchered.

London, Sept. 16.—[Special to the New York Herald.]—A dispatch from Brumath, eleven miles NNW from Strasburg, from a special correspond-ent who came from the front at Strasburg yesterday, says that a heavy fire was continued all day from the heavy guns on the third parallel, causing great destruction to the walls and citadel. effort to carry the fortilications by storm will doubt-less be made to-morrow. Several fires had broken out in the city from the ceaseless bombardment. Early yesterday morning, a flag of trace was dis-played by the French, and it was hoped that it meant a capitulation. The firing ceased, and an officer and guard ad-The Bring ceased, and an officer and guard ad-anced toward the Prussian lines, asking, in the name of General Ulrich, a cessation of the firing to enable a party of females and a few wounded civi-lians, who had hitherto persisted in remaining, to leave the city. The request was granted. Some of the fugitives, in conversation, stated that the sufferings of the people were intense.

The provisions are served, and in very limited quantities, and the mortality and sickness caused by the deprivations continued very great. On the 14th, the citizens made another appeal to General Ulrich to yield to the inevitable destiny. The commander replied that his position was most painful, but he must at all hazards discharge his duty to his country.

A Paris dispatch of to-day says that the advance of the Prussians steadily continues. Last night a large body of troops left the walls and proceeded in the direction of St. Denis. It is believed that they intend to engage the advanced forces of the enemy and retreat toward the fortifications on the approach of the main body. The blockade of the Baltic and North Sea ports has been officially raised. London, Sept. 26.—[Special to the New York Tri-bune.]—A correspondent telegraphs from Berlin on Friday afternoon, as follows: Duke William of Mecklenburg's official reports say that the capita-lation of Levi tech lation of Laon took place on the basis of that of Sedan—arms to be laid down, the Garde Mobile to be discharged on parole, and the line infantry to go under escort to this city. Many officers, including the French commander, remained in the yard of the citadel, and when the last man had passed the citadel gate, two powerful detonations were heard in quick succession. The powder maga-zine, shells, cartridges, and a mine exploded, and all in the yard were buried in the ruins. There was fearful destruction, and the losses cannot be ascertained. The French are ordering immense quantities of arms and ammunition from England.

Mr. Lowe, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a speech to-day at Elgin, pronounced in the strongest manner against intervention or mediation between France and Prussia in any form whatever. Intervention means an abandonment of neutrality, but we have no desire whate er to be drawn into a quarrel not of our own seeking. I see no reason whatever to apprehend that we shall. Mediation we tried before the war, but when you come to speak of mediation after the sword has been speak of mediation after the sword has been drawn, you get a totally different set of considerations. It is no longer a question of the rights of parties, but a question of relative power. The sword is an evil mediator, but does its work decisively; and if, after the parties have called the sword in, we were to begin to mediate, then we should be wearing our neutrality exceedingly thin. The conflicting nations know their own strength, and what they require for security. If a third nation tries to interpose between them, whatever advice it gives, it must take sides with either one or the other, and so cease to be neutral. Should we advise Prussia to be content with less than she demands, we should be actually taking the part of France against Prussia, and throwing our moral weight into the scale in favor of France. If, on

If, on the other hand, we advised France to accept terms she deemed inconsistent with her national dignity, we should be taking the part of Prussia, what, in my judgment, we ought to avoid. A signal telegraph has been put on the Arch of Triumph to correspond with that at Fort Valerian. A new system of signals have been arranged of colored lights. Trochu. London, Sept. 17.—[Special to the New York Herald.]—Paris does not occupy herself solely with the defence of her walls. PARIS, Sept. 16.—The Prussians are at Creteil, Clamart, Charenton, and St. Oreen, almost within cannon shot of the walls of Paris.

A number of prisoners were taken yesterday by the Prussians, and sharpshooters and several con-voys of munitions of war and provisions were also cantered.

The Prussians now occupy some small woods around Paris, which were too green to burn.

Cannonading and musketry firing have been heard all day in the direction of Bourge.

A number of vagrants who were lately expelled from Paris, finding themselves between the walls of the city and the Prussian army, endeavored to forcibly re-enter Paris, but were driven away by the troops. Many Prussian spies were arrested yesterday in and around Paris, and the people were with difficulty restrained from killing them. Paris, Sept. 16, 9.50 P. M.—The rappel has just been sounded, and the Garde Mobile and Gard Nationale are called to arms, and the sentinels doubled on the ramparts. The Prussians have been signalized. Several unlans captured at Meaux have been brought into the city by the gens d'armes of Cratil. In the morning an engagement took of Creteil. The workmen of the city form sixty-six battalions, comprising 80,000 men. They are among the most determined defenders of the city, and are resolved on a war of extermination.

visitors to Paris will remember Cotte's restaurant, on the corner of the Rue Royale and Rue de Honore. As I left the Place de la Concorde the crowd was gazing on the closed shutters of the restaurant, on which was written in large letters in chalk, "Closed in consequence of robbery—40 centimes 8 sous for a small loaf, with 2 sous 1 franc 70 centimes for book beer. Justice has been done. Closed by order of the sovereign people till the end of the war.'

Pere Hyacinthe has published a letter expressing the warmest gratitude to the United States for her prompt recognition of the Republic. He has been prevented by illness from going as a chaplain in the army. He also says a letter is addressed by Minister Washburne to the Minister of Foreign Affairs. It says the creation of the French Republic is a page in the history of liberty in both worlds. It revives the memory of Washington and Lafayette, and proves that if despotisms succeeded in dividing the two governments liberty had not for a moment ceased to unite the two nations. Europe still keeps silent, while America, notwithstanding the result succession. the ocean separates us, makes her voice heard.

The Prussians are closing in on Paris in a way that indicates an attack on the southern and south-eastern sides, and in that direction, so as to reserve their support, and at the same time to prevent rem torcements from the south and west to the besieged The Herald's correspondent dined last night with Victor Huge and his family. His two sons, with their young wives, were present. The illustrious writer, in reply to some remarks, said many stri-king things. He said he had come to Paris to share king things. He said he had come to Paris to share the perils of her citizens. He had no public role to fill. His poor presence on the ramparts might be useful. He would go daily unarmed and stimulate the ardor of the patriotic defenders of the city. He regarded the attack on Paris as absurd as well as crucl. The war was begun against the Emperor now he is a prisoner, and the King of Prussia send him a retinue of servants, and sends us, who never provoked this war, bombshells.

Never was there an act so atrocious in history. don't know, continued he, as a cloud overshadowed his face, "what part may fall to my lot to play before the awful drama closes, but Paris has the choice of determined defence and cowardly surrender. If it should, though it seems impossible, decide upon the latter course I can only return in exile to my old retreat, in Guernsey. If it elects the former I trust to see every quarter of Paris one after another, blown to atoms, the enemy corps after corps, battailon after battailon, buried in the same grave with my resolute fellow-cicizens. If that way Paris must perish. While the spectacle may horrify the world, it will be followed by a resurrection of the democracy of France and Germany, who will avenge the terrible catastrophe.
Paus, Sept. 16, 10 P. M.—[Special to the New York Tribune.]—Marshal Vaillant has been arrested. The indignation was caused by a report that he had said he came by order of the Emperor. He had a permit signed by General Trochu. This morning a squadron of mounted scouts skir-mished with Prussian hussars near St. Denis, and wounded two of them, and had three men wounded. A company of the 11th battallon of the Mobiles attacked this morning a body of unlans near Jionville-le-pont, and took eight prisoners and four horses.
