THE WAR.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

ANOTHER BRUSH WITH THE INVADERS-THE FRENCH DEFEATED AND THE PRUSSIANS OCCUPY ORLEANS-OFFICIAL REPORTS OF THE RECENT PEACE NEGOTIATIONS-PREPARATIONS FOR THE ASSAULT ON STRASBURG.

LONDON, Sept. 27, 5 P. M.—The following is given as the probable programme or Thiers at St. Petersburg: Constantinople and the road to India to be guaranteed to Russia, and Belgium to be the innocent victim of peace.

London, Sept. 27.—A deputation of workingmen waited or Mr. Gladstone to-day, and urged him to mediate between Germany and France.

Queen Victoria, yielding to public sertiment, has written a letter of condolence to the ex-Empress General Utrich announces that Strasburg can hold out a short time.

Daruth is the name of the aeronaut who landed at Evreux a few days ago, with dispatches from Paris. He reports that he was fired at repeatedly by the Prussians, and some bullets came disagreeably near him.

The guns of Fort Mont Valerian have dislodged the Prussians from St. Cloud. It is estimated that there are now 300,000 German troops around Paris. The siege has become a close blockade, interrupted occasionally by an exchange of active hostilities.

London, Sept. 27 - [Special to the New York Tribune.]—A correspondent at the Prussian headquarters travelled from Corny to Frourard on September 25th with Favre's brother, who had arrived three days previously from Paris, via the royal headquarters, with royal permission to enter Metz. He was charged by the Paris government with full powers to treat for Metz, provided Bazaine would recognize the Paris authorities and their policy. On Sunday morning he returned from Motz and had a final interview with Prince Frederick Charles, having had one previous to his enter-ing the city at which the Prince had approved the mission. In his two days stay in Metz he had failed in his object, Bazaine being averse to all treaties as yet, and being slightly insubordinate toward the new government since the appearance of its peace

The Prince knows that for several weeks yet at The Prince knows that for several weeks yet at least hunger will not be his ally against Metz, although disease is to the extent of several hundred deaths daily. There is not the least intention at present to attempt Metz by force, but simply to await developments at Parls, which are expected to culminate in something decisive within three weeks. No offensive movements are contemplated during those three weeks.

The foreign minister who was acting as intermediary advised Favre to see Bismarck, and make his demands in person; and accordingly Favres aw Bismarck, and expressed to him his love for France and liberty, and his determination to accept no conditions which would render peace only a menacing truce. Bismarck replied that if he thought peace were possible he would sign immediately, but the actual government was too precarious and likely to be overthrown. France would be more apt to forget Sedan than she had been to forget Waterloo and Sadowa, and she would soon attack Germany again. Being pressed for condi-tions, Favre was explicit, but Bismarck asserted that the security of his country demanded the rethat the security of his country demanded the retention of a portion of the territory the Germans now occupied, and mentioned in that connection the Departments of the Upper Rhine, Lower Rhine, and Moselle, with Metz, Chateau Salnis, and Soissons. To the objection of Favre that the people of France would not agree to that,
and he could not act without their direction, Bismarck replied that he felt confident of that before; but as another war was certain, he wished to make it with all the advantages possible. Favre to make it with all the advantages possible. Favre then intimated that they might find the pretensions of Prussia exorbitant. He was certain that France would never accept them. She might perish as a nation, but she would not be dishonored. The country alone cold decide upon the question of ter-ritorial division, and Favre could not doubt what that decision would be.

Bismarck would not listen to any proposition for an armistice.

The second interview occurred at Ferrieres on September 19. On this occasion Bismarck seemed to accept the idea of an armistice, and Favre asked for fifteen days.

The next day Bismarck handed Favre his conditions, adding that the Germaus must have the forts commanding Paris, more especially fort Mont Valerien, on the west of Paris. Favre replied that it would be more simple to demand Paris at once. Bismarck said if these terms were not satisfactory the French must seek other arrangements. Favre proposed a meeting of the constituent Assembly at Tours. Bismarck made the condition that the garproposed a meeting of the constituent Assembly at Tours. Bismarck made the condition that the garrison of Strasburg should surrender as prisoners of war. Upon Favre's indignantly refusing, Bismarck consulted the King who insisted upon the surrender of Strasburg. Wearied with his useless efforts Favre retired, expressing the conviction that France would fight to the last.

Favre concludes, from the manner in which all his efforts for peace have been met by the Germans that they are determined on conquest. He says the interviews were not altogether useless, as they have proved that, notwithstanding that Prussia de-proved that, notwithstanding that Prussia de-clared she warred only against Napoleon and his army, she is really fighting the nation, which must arise on masse, either to disavow the provisional government or resist the enemy to the last.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—A dispatch from the King's headquarters at Ferrieres, near Paris, says that Favre, in his report of his interview with Bismarck, errs in omitting to state that the question of an armistice was considered preliminary to any discussion of territorial cessions. Bismarck actually declined to state the terms of Prussia until the basis for an armistice was decided on.

The evidences of a plot for another coup d'etat projected by the Emperor Napoleon, with the assistance of Rouher and Cassagnac, have been discovered in Lyons. It is thought that the papers containing the details of the conspiracy were burned in Paris by Pietri before his flight.

Paris, Sept. 27.

Paris, Sept. 27.

The following dispatch from the prefect of the Department of Soir, dated Orleans, to-day, has just been received by the Minister of "The generals here, seeing they cannot resist the overwhelming forces of the enemy, commanded by Prince Albert, have just evacuated Orleans in good order."

Tours, Sept. 27.—Jules Favre to-day made an official report to the government here of his mission to the Prussian headquarters in behalf of peace. He says that a great many solutions of the difficulties had been proposed and rejected, and he determined, at last, to make a direct move therefor, and on the 10th of September he demanded of Bismarck a categorical reply as to whether he would enter upon negotiations for peace. Bismarck's first answer was unfavorable, though he subsequently asked what guarantees France could

BEFORE STRASBURG, Sept. 24.—[Special to the New York Tribune.]—The assault, now fixed for a week hence, has been delayed hitherto to allow of the construction of good passages across the great ditch in front of the main wall. The town will be attacked at four points simultaneously.

Lots have already been drawn to decide which regiments will compose the attacking party and which companies will form the assaulting columns. These honors are claimed by the whole army. The siege works are adapted to prevent great loss of life in attacking. Assiduous searches are made for mines, and two were found and emptied after the capture of lunettes 52 and 53. No further egress from the town is permitted. The last batch comprized 300 persons. A few wealthy citizens still remain. Many refugees have gone to Baden, the government conveying them gratultously.

MAYENCE, Sept. 22.—[Special to New York Times.]—It is estimated that the total number of French taken prisoners since the beginning of the war is 140,600. The prisoners are subjected to the severe Prassian rules of discipline. One French officer attempted to escape, and was tried by a court-martial and shot. In Hanover the prisoners were put at work on the canals. Among the prisoners at Breslau are Robert Mitchell, of the Constitutionnel, Pani de Cassagnao, of the Pags, C. Larette and Frouert, well-known Paris jour-

ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—[Special to the New York Herald ]—Prince Albrecht's cavalry corps en-countered the French troops gathered for the defence of Orleans yesterday, near Artenay, near Orleans. After a brisk fight, lasting three hours, the French retreated on Tours, and the Prussian occupation of Orleans is expected to morrow. Комв, Sept. 21.—[Special to New York Tribune.]

The commander of the 4th army, General Caderno, has addressed to the army an order of the day, in which he expresses his high satisfaction at their conduct during the attack. I have been able to obtain from Cadorno a copy of the capitulation stipulated on September 20. It runs thus: First. The city of Rome, except the Leonine City, its complete armament, flags, arms, ammunition and stores, and all objects belonging to the government, shall be conveyed to the troops of thek ing of Italy. Second. All the garrison of the city shall depart.

receiving the honors of war, with flags, guns and baggage. After the honors shall have been rendered to them, they will lay down their flags and arms. The officers shall have a right to carry with them their swords, horses, and everything belonging to them.
The foreign troops shall leave first, and the others will follow in order of battle, with the left at the head. The garrison will leave to-morrow morning The foreign troops shall be disbanded and immediately sent back to their respective countries. AThe government has the faculty of taking into consideration the rights of persons which have been stipulated with the Papal government.

Fourth. The Roman troops will be formed into a depot, without arms. The government will take into consideration their claims as to their future The troops will be forwarded to-morrow to Civita Vecchia. A mixed commission will be appointed, formed of an officer of artiflery; one of the engineers, and a functionary of the administration. The commission will receive the consignment re-ferred to in the first article.

NOTES OF THE WAR.

- Three-fourths of the pictures hitherto exhibited in the Museum of the Louvre, at Paris, have been carefully packed up and sent off from Paris to an unknown destination. There now no longer remain any but pictures of the French school.

-In the town of Potsdam the principal Protestant clergyman aroused a furious excitement among the people by declaring that the war was the judgment of God upon Germany for her sins. A petition is in circulation praying King William to enlist this modern Jeremiah, that he may get his proper share of the judgment.

-The Brandenburg regiment, No. 35, has a vivandiere 72 years old, called the Widow Hackert, who was in the war of 1813. Another elderly woman, named Scrader, who participated in the campaign of 1866 as a vivandiere, and was decorated for helping to carry the wounded out of the thickest of the fight to the Blood Hospital, has volunteered as hospital cook in the field.

-General von Doring, who fell in one of the battles before Metz, leaves in his will, dated the 19th of July of the present year, a sum of two thousand thalers (about $1500) to be distributed among the poor of Paris on the day when the Emperor Napoleon should be dethroned, and 2500 thalers to the poor of Berlin, which they shall receive on the day the Prussians re-enter Berlin as victors.

-The war enthusiasm among German operatic singers is intense. Lucca, whose husband has been reported wounded and dead, passes her spare time in picking lint; Niemann, the celebrated tenor, has joined the Knights of St. John; while Beck, at the head of a party of his musical confreres, boarded the refreshment trains going to the front and went in person to dispense good cheer among the soldiers.

-A society, whose members call themselves 'Samaritans," has been organized in Berlin, whose specialty is to supply refreshments and aid to the wounded on the battle-field. Each member carries a valise weighing some twenty or thirty pounds, in which is stowed bottles of water, wine, cologne, cooling mixtures, lemons, sugar, etc. They are authorized to receive for safe-keeping valuables, such as rings, money, and watches.

-The War Minister of Prussia publishes special lists of the Germans wounded during the present war, which lists, of course, are recopied by most papers. Still, the curiosity of the people is naturally so great that most of them do not wait for these reissues. It is stated that there are at present over 50,600 subscribers to the original list, and the number is daily increasing. Beside the lists thus sold, large numbers are sent away free by the authorities.

-The war feeling is so high in Berlin that recently a landlord came near being mobbed for demanding his rent, as usual, in advance of a man who had just been detailed for duty in the reserve. He displayed upon the outside of his house a placard bearing the inscriptions:-"The man may stay!" and "No advance shall be demanded of my tenants! Even after this the military were hardly able to protect the building from the excited crowd.

-A shipbuilder writes to the London Times that the bulk of the English fleet is little better than the painted fortifications of the Chinese. He suggests that by the conversion of the largest of the weak iron-clads into low, freeboard turret ships, the Government would at a minimum expenditure attain to a maximum of naval strength in the least possible time, and so avoid the danger of trusting the safety of the country to the delusive protection of 44-inch plated iron-clads. -When the first company of French prisoners was hourly expected in Berlin, the Chief of Police, Herr von Wurmb, caused the following appeal to be placarded throughout the city:- "Our first prisoners of war will arrive this evening; and to save them the mortification of a public entry, they will be brought to their final destination in a roundabout way, through the outskirts of the city. While we hope that it will not be in the power of the people of Paris to behold a similar spectacle, all true citizens of Berlin will take a pride in showing by a polite and dignified bearing on this eccasion that they know how to treat prisoners of war."
