THE DAILY EVENING TELEGRAPH-PHILADELPHIA FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 20 1970

NEW.YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29, 1870. The Boarding-house Woman.

Take the average woman at a first-class New York boarding-house, and you have an epitome of much that is weak and vicious in woman. Why all the weaknesses and errors of the sex should come to light more in boardinghouses than elsewhere is a problem that I cannot solve. It is enough to know that they do. The lady-boarder of the period is one of the silliest and most useless productions of modern society. Her virtue is of that frail a dute that is always gravi ating towards vice. When she is not reading novels she is gadding the streets, or sitting with one ladyboarder scandalizing another. George Sand becomes with her a favorite author, and she learns to sympathize with "Indiana," first in theory and then in practice. She gives up her children entirely to the instruction of a French maid, and visits them periodically, with about as much motherly feeling for them as a vivilled fashion-plate wou'd have. She keeps in her room liquors and cordials which she imbibes too unblushingly to care to drink upon the sly. She makes a public bo ist of hating work, and declares that whatever else she may do, she will not sew for her children. Things, she declares, have not quite come to that pass yet. She admires opera bo ufe, Mr. Fisk, and Cellne Montaland, takes at least one religious weekly, and goes to church as regularly as the weather will permit. She is in all respects a first-class contradiction, the use of which is to show how women may degenerate when they wholly abandon them-Selves to the life of a boarding-house. That the hu band of such a woman continues to love her proves only the strength and constancy of mascomine attachment.

Gottschulk's Body.

The body of Louis Moreau Gottschalk is expected to arrive in this city to-day from quarantine, where it has been detained in order to comply with the precautions now taken there against yellow fever. It was shipped on board the Merrimae August 25, after Gottschalk had been dead more than two-thirds of a year. Mr. Thomas Hall, a music publisher of this city, has charge of the body and will superintend the charge that is taken of it here. Upon its arrival it will be deposited in the vault of St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church, on Twentyeighth street, there to await the celebration of a requiem mass that will take place next Monday week. The orchestra will number forty and the choir will consist of a double quartette. The mass is Caerubini's, and the orchestral performance will be the first ever given in this country. After the mass has been celebrated the body will be buried in Greenwood Cemetery, the obsequies being witnessed only by the relatives and personal friends of the great pianist.

The Growth of Lecture-Glving.

Lecture-giving, as a profession, is on the increase. Look at the women who are pushing upon the rostrum. Mrs. Caudleism is taking a shape more genteel and less vixenish than it assumed under the pen of Douglass Jerrold. Let us hope that curtain-lectures will grow scarce in direct proportion to the increase in the number of sporadic speechifyers. Look at the number of unmarried women who are commencing their fall campaign in the lecture-room. What a touching illustration it is of the consistency of woman with herself that, in such two great relations of life as maidenhood and matronhood, she should so often cease to be loving at the fireside in order to be edifying from the platform. I should shudder indeed if, running my eye over the prospectus of feminine lecturers for the coming winter. I felt that New York was to endure them all. Luckily our public halls are so monopolized by other entertainments, and the popular taste runs so little in the way of feminine lectures, that only two or three of them make an appearance here during an entire year. Anna Dickinson and Olive Logan are about the only two feminine lecturers who can draw in New York city houses of a respectable size. A Free Church. A Free Church for Strangers is to be opened next Sunday. It is the result of a piece of liberality on the part of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and is intended for the express accommodation of strangers visiting the city. The circulars which have been sent out state that its founders believe the church to be the first undenominational one established in America; that their symbol of faith is the Apostles' Creed; that their ritual is simple: that their communion is open; at d that their seats are free. In fact, the only test question which the church proposes to those desiring to become members is, whether such persons are trying to be saved from their sins through Jesus Christ. For a long time a sort of Free Church has been supported in the large chape! connected with the New York University, where a unique individual calling himself Bishop Snow presides, expounds the Revelation, and is particularly fond of allegorizing about the Scarlet Woman and the Beast with an indefinite number of horns. 1 don't know how much good (or harm) his sermons did, but they were scarcely of a nature suited to an audience composed of strangers, and representing many colors and shades of religious belief. But where, and how often, will you find the religious genius who can thrillingly utter thoughts that are thrilling, and yet which, avoiding all questions of dogma, are such as can be accepted by the great mass of the people, and be wrought by them into their lives? And until you do discover a religious genius like this, you miss the great good that ought to be won in establishing a Free Church for Strangers.

PIRATING A TRADE MARK.

An Infamous Imposture.

An Infamous Imposture. To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph:--Sir:--My preparation, "Helmbold's Buchu," is known the world over as a standard remedy. The success which has attended my business has induced some knave or knaves to pirate my trads mark, in order to paim off upon the patent medicine trade and the unsuspecting public a spurious article. Aside from the pecuniary injury which these swin-diers may do me, they are imposing upon the suffer-ing public. The afflicted, by using their worthless and periodous preparations, may sustain irreparable and fatal injury. Tas't therefore at your hands, as the conductor of the most widely circulated news-paper in the United States, if not in the world, an opportunity to expose the knaveries of these in-famous impostors. Their mode of operation is as fellows:-follows:-

follows:--Circulars are issued to the drug trade in a given district, offering "Heimbold's Buchu" at a large re-duction from wholesale trade rates. These circulars are dated from a given street and number in a city in the vicinity of the district thus covered. Many druggists located in small towns and by-ways are thus induced to order by mail, thinking that a branch office for the genuine article has been estab-lished.

By the time I have been informed of these nefarious transactions, and have placed iny detectives on the watch for the rascals, they have made their harvest, and flown to other and more distant points to repeat the trick and impose upon the public. I find also that their plan is to receive orders at one town and fill them at another and quite different place, to avoid detection. In all this, however, the public would not be so much interested were the article supplied a genuine one, or in any way valua-ble. But the contrary is the fact. The ingredients of the spurious compound, as I find by analysis, are simply water, with some cheap coloring matter, to deceive the unwary. A traveling agent is also out representing himself as a son of H. T. Heimbold, and endeavoring to borrow money under such re-presentations. I am this day in receipt of a letter from the well-presentations. I am this day in receipt of a letter from the well-krown house of Stewart & Morgan, of Indianapolis, on this matter. They state that other tricks were tried in Cincinnati. Many letters have been re-ceived by me from Maine to California-some de-siring to know if I had lowered my rates, others asking protection or reductions from former pur-chase. To all such Lean only raply that my medicine is

To all such I can only reply that my medicine is put up under a certain trade mark and G overnment stamp, to counterfeit which, or vend the counterfeit knowingly, is as criminal an offense as ptcking a pocket or breaking into a bank. My only depots are No. 594 Broadway, New York, and No. 104 South Tenth street, Philadelphia, Pa. I employ no travel-ling agents to solicit orders, and all persons so repre-senting themselves are swindlers.

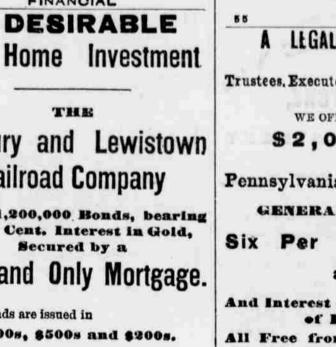

To protect the afflicted and the trade I have made the most ample provision. All persons acting in collusion with these swindlers, or selling their wares, will be prosecuted; while to any person who will procure the detection of these criminals I will pay a reward of one thousand dollars. Very respectfully, H.T. HELMBOLD. New York Sentember 99 1850

Very respectfully, 1 New York, September 29, 1870.

[COMMUNICATED.] Hon. William M. Bunn.

We have a young and energetic man, who, from his deportment and sociability, commands the respect of all his associates, and they are legion. When our country, in the dark hour of her trial, called for aid, Mr. Bunn was among the first to respond, and did his whole duty, while many of these who are now endeavoring to disparage his chances for election to the office for which he has been fairly nominated, were far in the rear, deeply moved at the inactivity it was at times necessary for the army to exhibit, and wondering why that noble army did not "move to the front !" How soon, when the danger is over, do these citizens forget the risks the soldier incurred on the battle-field, and speak of the claims of the citizen to be rewarded! You have ever advocated the soldier for promotion in the civic line as well as the military, and have pursued such a consistent course in this respect that you have trod rather roughly on the toes of some who have publicly announced that the soldier was "played out." Advocating, then, as you always have, the claims of those who have risked their lives in their country's defense, I know you will not neglect our candidate for Register of Willis, who is as strong a nominee as the Republican party could have made.

The Farragut Obsequies.

While I write the public buildings are draped in black and the city is preparing to profess profound gloom, in view of the funeral procession of the late Admiral Farragut. That procession will take place to-morrow, when the schools, the public buildings, and places of business, generally, will be closed. The 1st and 2d Divisions of the National Guard are to turn out, and the great military and naval officers at present in the city, the Governor and his staff, and the President are expected to join in the public mourning.

The Shattered Dream

The Hausom cab furore is broken and dissolved and lies behind one, like a shattered dream. What a flood of gratitude would overwhelm the man who should introduce Hansoms, or something tantamount to Hansoms, into this city ! Surely they would be appreciated here quite as much as in London. As it is, it is almost impossible to get down town of a morning between nine and eleven without either walking or hiring one of those hideous and buggy cabs which defile the precincts of the public squares. The stages and cars are alike packed, and after seeing a dozen crowded vehicles pass you, the fact becomes visible that you must either trust to your legs or to the cabman's exterion to carry you down towns

TOWER HALL, NO. 515 MARKET STREET. Fifth and Sixth streets. ANNIVERSARY.

October 1, 1870, will bring Rockhill & Wilson into their forty-first anniversary. On the first of October, 1829, the Tailoring and Clothing business was commenced in a small room, 15 by 24 feet. To-day they occupy the magnificent store known as the Brown-Stone Clothing Hall, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut street and No. 36 South Sixth street. Then their place of busine s was in an obscure location; to-day it is on the most popular and fashionable thoroughfare in the city. Then their capital was precisely one hundred and fifteen dollars; to-day it is sufficient to drive the heaviest manufacturing and commercial engine known in the Custom and Ready-made Clothing business. Then their credit was limited to a very few cloth houses for their supplies; to-day it is unlimited both in Europe and America. Then their business amounted to but a few hundred dollars : to-day it amounts to millions. Then they were young saplings, sending forth their tender shoots in the manufacturing and commercial world; to-day they are sturdy oaks of the forest, and thousands of people are protecting themselves under the shades of their magnificen; mantles. Several of our old customers, who started with us in the commencement, boast that they have never worn a garment from any other house during all that long period, and have trained up their children in the way they should go. Thankful to our friends for past favors, we can say to them with confidence, on our fortyfirst anniversary, that we will start with the largest and most desirable stock of plece goods from which to take measures, and also Ready-made Clothing for Gentlemen, Youths, and Boys, ever offered to the public, and at prices that no one shall have to complain of.

DISSIPATION AND LATE HOURS .- After the festal night comes the miserable next morning, with its headache, its qualms, its gloomy reflections. Business must be attended to; but neither mind nor body is fit for business. What is to be done ? How are the energies of the system to be worked uppand its reserves of vitality brought out? How is the clouded brain to be cleared?-the languid and relaxed frame braced up for action? Under such circumstances a single wine-glassful of PLANTATION BITTERS will bring about an immediate and beneficial change, and a healthful glow will be differed through the whole organization by the tonic operation of this wholesome cordial.

MR. WILLIAM W. CASSIDY, the jeweller at No. 8 South Second street, has one of the largest and most attractive stocks of all kinds of Jewelry and Silverware in the city.
