CITY INTELLIGENCE. THE ELECTION OFFICERS.

The Work of the Board of Aldermen Being Revised by the Court of Common Pleas-Ju-Edicial Inquiries Into the Politics and Fitness of the Original Appointments.

At 9 o'clock this morning, Judges Allison and Ludlow were present in the Court of Common Pleas, according to appointment, for the purpose of revising and correcting the action taken by the Bard of Aldermen in appointing officers to conduct the coming election. Advantage of the revision was taken by both sides, and the proceedings being for the most part with the assent of all parties, they went through very quietly and with but little of the feeling and excitement usually accompanying all went through very quietly and, with but little of the feeling and excitement usually accompanying all political matters discussed in court.

Messrs. Barger, Dallas, and Biddle appeared for the Democrats, and Messrs. Mann and Kreass for the Republicans. The applications for removals were based upon the petitions of five reputable free-holders and voters of the wards, and proof of the disqualification or unwillingness of the objectionable party to serve was taken by the court, the Judges not holding the cases down to the strictest, rules of proof, but accepting the cases in a liberal view, and in proper cases, ordering the removals, and in proper cases, ordering the removals, and then upon the suggestion of a more proper per son, if not objected to by the opposite side, he was appointed in place. The matters had gone ahead thus for a short time, until Mr. Mann came in and side had not been sufficient to enable them to meet the charges of incompetency or to examine into fitness of the newly named parties, and thus the Court might possibly be misled into making appointments a great deal worse than those made by the Aldermen. Besides this the petitioners were not here with proper proofs, and the proceeding was entirely in the

Mr. Dollas said he had complied with the requirements of the law as to notice, and the Court agreed with him there; but Judge Allson suggested that the appointments and removals be made to-day nist and merely provisional; certificates would not be issued upon the action of to-day; the judges would meet at 12 o'clock to hear objections and to confirm the proceedings of to-day.

This met with the approval on all sides, and so the This files with the approval of James S. THE BESSON ROBBERY AND THE DETECTIVES-A FEW FACTS WITH REFERENCE TO THE RECOVERY OF THE GOODS.—The speedy recovery of the goods which were stolen from the mourning store of Besson & Co., on Chesnut street, has created considerable talk among our cluzens, the most of whom are disposed to give the credit to the detectives of our city. The truth of the matter is that the services rendered by these gentry could have been performed by any other member of our community, had he been in a position to have received the information which was furnished them. The recovery was not through any ingenuity on their part, but was the result of the announcement by the firm that they would give a reward of twenty-five per cent. on their goods. This offer induced one of the parties to the robbery, or some one who knew all about it, and it was in all probability the hackman who drove the thieves and the plander to the house of O'Conner, at Tenth and Girard avenue, to indite an epistle telling who the robbers were, and where the stolen property was. After this all was plain sailing, and it would have been just as easy for the Mesers, Besson to have gone and obtained the goods as it was for the detectives to have done that work. The oldest detectives were entirely thrown off their guard by the perfect manner in which the robbery was designed and executed. They were on the trail of their parties, and were surprised, and they hav manifested t since, when they were informed that the "crack" had been made by the prisoners who have since been arrested. These fellows were known to the adepts "shysters," and were not thought capable of performing such clean workmanship. THE RACES ON THE SCHUYLKILL TO-MORROW, -Mr. James M. Ferguson, the Commodore of the Schuyl-sill Navy, has issued the following as the order for RICHMOND, Sept. 30 .- Advices received by a circuitous route from Lynchburg, Salem, and other points in that section this morning represent great destruction of property by one of the most disastrous freshets which has occurred for many years. The railroad bridges and toll bridges at Lynchburg, together with many houses, have been swept away, and the gas works and several large manufactories flooded over. The rise in the river has been but slight as vet, and very little rain has fallen, but apprehensions are occasioned by advices from above. All the railroads and telegraphs in that section of the country have sustained great damage, and travel is for the present suspended.

Of the many petty additional expenses and annoyances which the late war imposed upon the mass of the people of this city there was none, perhaps, more generally felt than the onecent tax on the city railway fares. Like all other taxes, it of course bore most heavily on the poor-the laborer, the mechanic, the clerk. all, in fact, whose wealth did not allow them any more aristocratic mode of conveyance than the street car. Great numbers of these classes have to use the cars frequently to get to and from their places of employment, and to many of them the tax, small as it was, was nevertheless turdensome, and the odd cent always inconvenient. All such will therefore hall its abolition with pleasure. On and after to-morrow ante-bellum rates will rule, and the handy five cent piece will pay the passenger's way from the Astor House to One-hundred and Twenty-fifth steeet. The terms of the act of Congress authorizing the imposition of the additional cent expiring today, the several companies in this city have concluded no longer to exact it. To ascertain the feeling of the companies as to this cutting down of their income the writer yesterday called on Mr. Squires, President of the Third Avenue line, the road which, from its immense traffic, must necessarily be most affected by this change.

The following colloquy was the result: -Reporter-Mr. Squires, I have called to inquire whether it is the intention of your company to reduce fares to five cents on Saturday. Mr. Squires-Yes, sir; we have concluded to do so. The authority given us by Congress for adding the additional cent to our fare having expired, we have of course no alternative but to come down. Yet, if we were so disposed, we think our charter warrants us in demanding fares in specie-the current coin of the country at the time the charter was granted and the R .- But you have determined not to adhere to the strict letter of the law? Mr. S .- We have, for two reasons: first, the premium at present is so low that it is not worth while to insist on it; and secondly, because we don't think it pays to quarrel with the public; our policy has always been, as far as possible, to accommodate the people.

R.—What do you think the effect of the reduction will be on the fluances of the company? Mr. S .- We can't stand it, sir. Why, you can see for yourself. We carry 90,000 a day on our road, which, at one cent apiece, makes $900. What is the effect?

R .- Well, but do you not think that the additional traffic which the reduction will be likely to create will more than make up for the loss i Mr. S .- Not at all, sir; quite the contrary; the more we carry the more we lose. There is not a passenger carried now that does not absolutely cost 51/4 cents. Where, then, is the profit to come from? R .- That is certainly discouraging. How do you propose to get over the difficulty?

Mr. S.-I know of only one way-to seek relief from the Legislature; and if we can't get it reduce the wages of our employes. Prices of horses, forage, and labor are now so much in excess of those ruling when the five-cent fare was established, that it would ruin us to run at R .- But, sir, at the present rate, as you say, of everything, it would be a difficult matter to reduce the wages of your employes.

Mr. S.—I know it, but I can see no other resource, and that is what it must come to. We emply 1000 men, which at 75c. per day reduc-tion amounts to $750. Here is all the chance we have left to curtail expenses, and, as I said before, if we do not get relief from the Legisla-

The Farragut Funeral. NEW YORK, Sept. 30 .- The remains of Farragut arrived on the Fall river steamer Bristol at an early hour this morning, and were first removed in the tug Catalpa to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where they were received by naval officers in charge. At half-past ten the tug, with the remains on board, accompanied by a detachment of marines and naval officers from the yard, proceeded to the pier at the foot of Canal street, North river, where the procession and escort were in waiting. The remains were landed amid a thunderous salute of guns. The funeral cortege forming at once, proceeded on the march up Broadway in the face of a furious easterly storm, which began about 10 o'clock and continued without cessation during the whole time of the ceremonies. The United States marine band, from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, had the head of the column, and was followed by a regiment of the 2d Division, acting as a guard of honor to the great admiral's remains. The coffin was covered with a heavy pall, bearing the name of Farragut in large gold letters on either side, and a United States flag above, was carried on the shoulders of eight sailors who formerly served under Farragut. The Admiral's Secretary and members of his family, as mourners, came next in carriages, and were followed by a company of about thirty sailors in uniform and civilians who formerly served under the Admiral. LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Political Questions and Answers.

Court of Common Pleas—Judge Ludlow,
The following questions were submitted to-day to Judge Ludlow and answered:
To the Honorable the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas: The following questions are respectfully submitted for the opinion of the Court:

1. Does the power vested in the canvassers to strike off or draw red lines over names, extend to both days, and the power to add names only to the 16th day preceding election? (Sections 31 and 46 Registry act of 1868.) See answer of Court to sixth question, reported in Public Ledger of October 2d. estion, reported in Public Ledger of October 2d,

2. Can a person claiming to be placed on can-vassers' list on tenth (or eighth) day before election be required to produce, at the time of making such application, a receipt for the payment of a State or county tax within two years of the day appointed for the election? (Sections 31 and 32 Registry act 3. Can the name of any person, even after notice to him, be stricken from any transcript in the ab-sence of such person, except upon the testimony of at least two reputable citizens, qualified electors of the division—(Section 36, Registry act of 1869)— whose names appear on the said transcript, under the head of "private householders," to be given under oath or affirmation, that such person is not a resident of the division, or is otherwise disqualified by law from voting at said election? Answer to first. Last year Judge P. decided for the Court that the canvassers could strike off and add on both days.

Answer to second. Yes, if his name is not on the Assessors' division transcript.

Answer to third. If the name does not appear on the Assessors division transcript 'a line in red int is to be drawn through the same," but in the absence of the person the proof must be made by the terms of the act according to its letter.

The canvassers have the right under the thirtysixth section of the act to revise the extra assess-ment, and to strike names therefrom of persons not residing in the division on the tenth day before the election. This the court decided last year ought not to be done in the absence of the person whose right is in question, without full and satisfactory proof by competent and reliable witnesses. The act, hewever, does not state what kind of proof shall be produced: it ought, however, to be such as above specified, and such as will satisfy officers acting
