From these figures it will be seen that, with the exception of September, 1865, when the highest mean temperature in 80 years was attained, the month just closed was the warmest September during the past twenty years, yet the highest point during the past twenty years, yet the nighest point attained, 86 degrees, has been equalled or excelled thirteen times during that period. The quantity of rain which fell during the month was but 1-71 inches. In September, 1869, it was 3-25 inches; in 1868, 8-90 inches; and in 1867, 1-72 inches. In the region in which the Schuyikil takes its rise, however, there has recently been a heavy rain fall, and the river shows a considerable rise at the dam at Fairmount. The water authorities, however, do at Fairmount. The water authorities, however, do not apprehend at present any danger of a freshet, fears of which have been expressed in some ments, Quotations, Rtc. The regular monthly sale of Scranton coal took place on Wednesday in New York, the figures of which have slready been published. The attendance was large, but there was a decline in prices. The principal buyers were the city dealers, though con-siderable was bought by manufacturing and steam-boat companies. The following is the statement of the sale in detail from Sawara's circular:--"Lump coal opened quite lively, and passed off Fapicity in large lots, the entire amount seding for $4.

"Steamboat coal opened with the sale of 500 tons at $4-20, fell off, selling at all the fractions between this price and $4-05, at which it closed, although the larger portion went at $4-10.

arger portion went at $4 10. "Grate coal sold well, opening with sales at $4.50, was run up to $4.52%, receded to $4.50, and closed with the sale of 2500 tons at $4.47%. "Egg opened at $4.70, sold[in large quantities at that rate, fell off to $4.50, railed to $4.52%, and closed with sales of 1400 tons at $4.50. "Stove was brisk and appeared in great demand, the opening rate being $5.55; it was then bid up to $5.40, the majority of coal offered being sold at that rate, with 200 tons at $5.42%, and 1850 tons at $5.87% -closed at $5.40. This size went in a few moments, being taken in large table being dealers.

-closed at $540. This size went in a few moments, being taken in isrge lots by wholesale dealers. "Chesnut seemed to be a desirable size, passing off in good lots, and was brisk throughout, opening at $405, sold at the fractions up to $41216, at which rate the majority of amount offered wasclosed out" The following table gives the rates of the sale as compared with the average of the sales of August of this year, and of September of the previous year: Prices of Average of Sale Average of Sale Sept. 28. ing to ruling rates. The production generally does not keep up with the rate of increase over last year with which the season started out. This is especially noticeable in the northern part of the State. It is to be attributed in part to local differences and suspensions in some private collieries, in part to the enforcement of the ventilation bill, which limits the number of hands in some mines, and in part to the short supply of water both for use in the bollers of the engines at the works, and for purposes of navigation. The Dela-ware and Hudson Canal, one of the supplies of New York and vicinity from the Scranton region, was reported last week as reduced to half its tonnage on account of the drought. Since that time it has been compelled to suspend navigation entirely, no boats being able to get through. This is the first suspen-sion since 1854, and it has thrown out of employ-ment about 3000 men. But perhaps the rains of the latter part of this week in that region have filled up the channel, and navigation may now have been re-

The Reading Railroad Company issued the following circular on Monday in relation to a new drawback. It shows at least some disposition to conform with the requirements of the trade:--

FRANKLIN B. GOWEN, President. This is equivalent to a reduction of twenty cents per ton in tolls on the first three sizes, and an ad-vance of twenty cents on the last two. The committees of the W. B. A. and of the An-thracite Board of Trade metin Pottsville on Monday for the purpose of fixing the rate of wages for Sep-tember, according to the agreement. On Tuesday they published the following order:-

they published the following order :-POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 27.—The Committee on the part of the Board of Trade, and the Workingmen's Benevo-leut Association, having met for the purpose of averaging the prices of coal, find from the aworn statements pre-sented, that the average price is $2:4416, and that there-fore the wages shall be reduced on basis 16½ per cent. As this rate is lower than the lowered rate of last month, of course it will give universal dissatisfac-tion to the workmen. On this subject the working-men's organ advises the men, and urges them to stick to their agreement, though the operators are denounced as cheats and dishonorable men. This shows very perceptibly how sorely the agreement works for them when below the three dollars, and how little the decline was expected. These harm-less remarks were called forth by the decline of last month. What the still lower rates of this month will produce is not yet, at this time, known. The market at this port has been much the same. The local department is active, as also the line trade, but the shipments from Port Richmond are advanced, the subments from Port Richmond are advanced, there being but few colliers at the port. At Mauch Chunk during the week 118,371'05 tons were shipped by all routes, against 117,951 tons the previous week and 78,350 19 tons for the correspond-ing week of 1520

Another Martiling Case of Attempted Forgery -The organs Folled-One of Them Walks Into a Manker's Office in This City and is

Into a manker's Office in This City and is Cauge On W messday last a man who, by his personal bearing and exterior appearances belonged to the respect the walks of life, called at the office of Messrs. Grendinning, Davis & Co., bankers and bro-kers, at No. 48 South Third street, and, representing himself as Mr. James Field, of the firm of Young, Smyth, Field & Co., who do a heavy "notions" busi-ness at No. 429 Market street, and No. 418 Com-merce street, in this city, requested the firm to prepare to receive s deposit of $30,000, which, he sum would be transferred in a few days by telegraph from New Tork to his account. The amount was not then, he stated, in a banker's hands, by telegraph from New Tork to his account. The amount was not then, he stated, in a banker's hands, but would soon be deposited by Messra. Wilmer-dings, Hognet & Co., of No. 12 Dulne street, New York, with Messrs. Glendinning, Davis & Amory, the New York branch of the Philadelphia house, and as soon as that was done it could, of course, be transferred by a despatch to his account in Philadelphia. Scarcely had the stranger left than Mr. Glendinning prudently instituted inquiries about the matter, and by personal investigation discovered, not a little to his surprise, that the Mr. Field who had called upon him, if he were a Mr. Field at all, was certainly not the Mr. Field of the firm of Young, Smyth, Field & Co. He lost no time in advising his New York pertuers of the fact, as he shrewdly suspected that Some swindle or another was in a state of gestation. On Thursday there were no developments in the Some swindle or another was in a state of gestation. On Thursday there were no developments in the case, but yesterday another step was taken by the would-be swindlers. Probably learning of the par-tial suspension of business in New York city on account of the Farragut obsequies, the rogues thought they would have a better chance of leading their scheme to a happy consummation at a time when business men would be to a certain extent off their guard. At any rate, during the course of the day a man, skilfully got up in the disguise of a col-lector, and properly furnished with a receipt-book and a formidable-looking bundle of papers, called upon Messrs. Glendinning, Davis & Amory, in New York, and presented at the desk of the receiving teller a check for $20,010 60, to be placed to the cre-dit of Mr. James Field, of Philadelphia. This was of course about $10,000 short of the amount stated by the gentiemanly Philadelphia stranger as the probable value of the credit about to be paid in to his account in New York. Possibly the swindlers concluded that they could more surely get away with the smaller sum.

concluded that they could more surely get away with the smaller sum. Only one of the partners of the house, Mr. Amory, was present when the check was presented, and he at once temembered the advice recently received from Philadelphia, but was unable to lay his hand upon the letter. He therefore simply scrutinized the check very closely. He noticed that it purported to be signed by Messrs. Wilmerdings, Hoguet & Co., and was payable by the Tenth National Bank of New York. He also noticed that the word "and" was pomitted in the writing of the check, so that it read Nork. He also holiced that the word and was omitted in the writing of the check, so that it read only "twenty thousand, ten dollars." He asked the supposed collector if he had authority to insert the missing conjunction. The man said he had, and did so. A receipt was made out, handed to him, and he

so. A receipt was made out, handed to him, and he forthwith left the office. Mr. Amory, however, had his suspicions that some-thing was wrong, and at once sent the check to the bank to have it certified. The paying teller glanced at the check, and observing that the fill-ing up was not in the usual handwriting of Wilmer-ding, Hoguet & Co.'s firm, and that there was also a discremence in the retation of the number ing up was not in the usual handwriting of winner-ding. Hoguet & Co.'s firm, and that there was also a discrepancy in the rotation of the numbers at the head of the check with those they had most recently paid, examined the signature with unusual attention. The difference in the numbering was a considerable one, this doubtful check bearing a number 99, while the last of which there was any record in the books was numbered 60. After a little hesitation and the most rigid scrutiny of the check, however, the teller satisfied himself that it was genuine, but, to make assurance doubly sure, consulted the cashier. The latter agreed with him as to the genuine character of the signature, after con-sulting the recorded signatures of the firm upon the books of the bank, and the check was sent back to Messrs. Glendlining's duly certified, Mr. Amory, however, was still unsatisfied, and though, the check being new certified, the loss of the amount should the signature prove a forgery would be thrown upon the bank, he determined to personally see Messrs. Wilmerding, Hoguet & Co. in reference to it. see Messrs. Wilmerding, Hoguet & Co. in reference

Mr. Amory found the store of the firm closed on Mr. Amory found the store of the firm closed on the front side, but at last succeeded in getting in by the rear extrance. Now comes the strangest part of the story. Having obtained an interview with Mr. Hoguet (whose signature for the firm the bank had stated to be attached to the check) and having shown that gentleman the suspected check, looked at it carefully and stated the signature to genuine. Mr. Amory at this was naturally pret well satisfied, but made one more effort in the intere of prudence. He asked Hoguet to look carefully the signature again. Mr. Hoguet did so and di covered the check, which he had pronounced at t first sight a few moments before to be genuine, be a forgery. The "t" in the forged check was n written as he wrote it, but in every other respe the signature was so perfect a fac-simile of 1 handwriting that he could not himself distingui the two. Payment of the credit at Philadelphia was, course, stopped, and instructions given to arreany parties applying for the money. This morning at about a quarter before ten, the man who Wednesday last represented himself as Mr. Field, the firm of Young, Smyth, Field & Co., appeared the office of Messrs. Giendenning, Davis & Co., this city, and supposing that his New York comiderates had worked up their part of t swindle successfully, requested the money. I was politely shown into the private office of the e Tryon and Lukens, who had been impatient waiting for some time for an opportunity to mal his acquaintance. The man was searched by th officers, and the receipt of the New York branch the firm was found upon his person. Among other papers found upon him were mem randa concerning Messrs. Drexel & Co.; Townser Wheelen & Co.; Alexander Benson & Co.; Treob Wheelen & Co.; Alexander Benson & Co.; Treche & Florance (who have not been in business for thre years past), and C. B. Wright & Co. The quasi Mr. Field was conducted by the officer to the Central Station, where he was taken care of and is to be given a hearing before. Alderman Ker this afternoon. He is about five feet eight inches t height, of dark complexion, with black hair an black moustache, and is apparently about 32 year years of age. He scarcely looks like a business man although he might pass as such with some. A soon as he was first seen in the office of Messri Glendinning, Davis & Co., suspicions of his tru character were naturally aroused, and the upshot o his transactions has abundantly ratified their con-tion. tion. MONTHLY FIRE REPORTS TO BE PUBLISHED BY T MONTRLY FIRE REPORTS TO BE PUBLISHED BY T FIRE MARSHAL.—In compliance with the desire the municipal authorities, the underwriters, and t public generally, Fire Marshal Blackburn, who health has been restored, and who has again enter upon the discharge of his official duties, will her alter furnish monthly reports of fires in Philad phia. It will be his constant endeavor to make the reports interesting as well as accurate, reliable, a complete, and to facilitate his labors, he requests citizens to communicate to him, at the earliest p sible moment, information of every fire, howe trivial, occurring on their premises, anywhere in consolidated city. He also requests that, after the extinguishment a fire, no debris or other evidence remaining calc lated to throw light upon the origin of the fire removed or disturbed until he has had an oppor of making his examination. JAMES S. EARLE & SONS have just added to their stock of beautiful things a large lot of exquisite Swiss carved goods, comprising almost everything usually produced by those graceful workers in wood all through Northern Switzerland. The carving of some of the flowers and leaves upon the boxes and vases is remarkable, and other boxes, paper knives, match-boxes, and cigar-stands and pouches are varied with delicate lines and tracery. Our work-men here rarely produce such ethereal creations as some of these, as they know more thoroughly the manufacture of heavy and massive work, leaving such rare things as Messrs. Earle now expose to their friends among the valleys and mountains of the beautiful land of Tell.

ACCESSORY TO A MURDER .-... John Ayres, colored was this morning surrendered into the custody of the Court upon the charge of being an accessory to the murder of William Carney, which occurred at Fifth and Brown streets some time since. A true bill was found against him soon after the occurrence. From information received Sergeant Gillebrist, of the Seventh district, visited Luddsville, N. J., on Friday, and arrested the fugitive and brought him back to Philadelphia. The testimony given in the case of William Pentz, who was tried and convicted of the murder, showed that Ayres made use of the remark previous to the shooting, "Go for him, Billy, or I will go for you."

PENN SQUARES AGAIN - THE PUBLIC BUILDINGS .- Let not the citizens of Philaphia be alarmed at the bugaboo that is attempted ng raised by more than one of the newspapers of city in relation to the desire of any of those oring the erection of the new public buildings at in Squares of having said buildings constructed nediately in the roadway of Broad and Market ets. Such an idea is simply preposterous, and ertained by scarcely more than one or two indiuals at most. Years ago the Penn Squares were ircle and commonly called Centre Square. Every Idle-aged citizen can remember, as I do, that the losure was a circular picket fence, in centre of which was a small squirting ntain, which forty or more years ago convenience of the public even then required uld be removed, and that both Broad and Market eets should be unobstructed. Such being the fact hat time, is it to be supposed that at this time of the intelligent gentlemen composing the comsion for constructing the necessary public builds will entertain for a moment any plan that ald encumber the intersection of these two grand hways? Such a supposition is not to be entered for an instant. Just what style of architece the new public buildings shall be, whether ique or modern, whether they shall be conacted of white marble or of brown stone, or of thing else, is entirely the business of the tlemen composing the Commission of nstruction, and the well-known character hese individuals will warrant the public in safely ving the whole matter with them, where only it ourse belongs; therefore let not the citizens of ladelphia be alarmed that these two finest roughfares will be thus obstructed. Let not the tent and honorable order of Masons, to whom the blie Ledger recently appealed so pathetically to st the obstruction of the vista of the magnificent ple they are constructing, have any effect, as all lligent people must know that such an idea is ridiculous for consideration, and the animus of promulgators of such stuff can only be to bugathe public.
