William M. Bonn. To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph: -Your wellknown independence, and the fact that the columns of your journal are at all times open to an expression of "voices from the people," justify and encourage me in venturing to say a few words in favor of a gentleman who has many times offered the shield of his body for the protection of our Government, when it was so ruthlessly assalled by the traitors who sought its destruction. Appreciating that THE EVENING TELEGRAPH is an independent journal, I do not, of course, lose sight of the fact that you have no candidates to whose interest you are bound; but as I have ever found you, personally and as an editor, ready to espouse the cause of any one who is persecuted, I feel assured you will admit this hastily-written communication into your columns. Enemies, political and personal, have raised a "hue and cry" against William M. Bunn, the Republican candidate for Register of Wills. What for? On what account? What has he done to merit the crusade that has been instituted against him? Can any one tell? So far as I am informed, and I have watched the matter closely, there is absolutely no basis for a charge against either the integrity, the moral character, or the political fidelity of Mr. Bunn. It was charged against him that he obtained his nomination by fraud, and that the convention was "packed." I was a member of that convention, Mr. Editor, and although not elected to it in the interest of any particular person, I was the friend of Mr. Moran; but I must say, if you will allow me, that I was never in a convention where the choice of the members was more fairly and deliberately

Now, who is this Mr. Bunn? A modest and rather unassuming gentleman, who served the ordinary time of apprenticeship to the business of a carver. His employer sent him out into the world as a good workman and an honest man, and immediately thereafter the Government called for troops to sustain Kagainst the Rebels who sought its destruction. Mr. Bunn, as did thousands of other young men, responded to this call, and for three years fought his way under the flag of the Union, until, wounded and in an almost dying condition, he came to a halt in that pest house of the South known as Libby Prison. On his return home, or shortly afterwards he was elected as a member of the Legislature, and I challenge any man to produce a better record as a member than his.

Mr. Bunn seeks an office for which he is altogether capable. Brave in the army, he is in civil life prudent and discreet, and will fill the office to which he aspires with credit to himself and satisfaction to the public. "A TRUE REPUBLICAN."

"O. M. Boyle-Who Is He?" PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3, 1870.

Gen. Wm. B. Thomas: DEAR SIR:-In glancing over Saturday's paper my eye was arrested by a paragraph in your speech at Broad and Spring Garden streets, in which you propose an inquiry in regard to a cadetship at West Point, as follows :-

"O. M. Boyle-who is he? Where did he come from? No one in the district seems to know him." Will you permit his mother to reply, and I deeply

Will you permit his mother to reply, and I deeply regret that your inquiry compels me, in justice to Judge Kelley, to obtrude myself on public notice.

Let me say, then, that Olin M. Boyle is the sox of Rev. John Boyle, who was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church. When our country demanded his services for her protection, he, with three of his sons, hesitated not to enlist in her defense, and while fighting for our cause he fell by a deadly stroke of the enemy at the battle of Lookout Mountain, while leading his regiment as its commanding officer.

Our son, a printer, and the subject of your inquiry, having thus acquired some military experience in the field with his father and two brothers, and conceiving a desire for a soldier's life, sought the necessary educational qualifications. In very private life myself, and wholly uninstructed how to private life myself, and wholly uninstructed how to proceed, I ventured to write very timidly to Judge Kelley, a stranger to me, asking if from his standpoint he thought it wise in me, among so many more favored applicants, to make an effort to secure for my son an appointment at our National Military Academy. I stated plainly that the only arguments to sustain his plea was the above-named desire, and the fact that his father's patriotism had been sealed in devotion to his country even unto ceath. Judge Kelley promptly replied, without fureath. Judge Kelley promply replied, without fur-her questioning, that he had an appointment, and that my son should have it. He kept his word, General, and the soldier's orphan boy is now at West Point.

And now, General Thomas, I have endeavored to answer your inquiry:—"Who is O. M. Boyle?" and, while I shrink from thus attracting public notice to myself, I yet feel a pleasure that I cannot describe to you, in bearing testimony to the noble character of our faithful Representative, Hon. William D. Kelley. I consider his act one that commands my lifelong gratitude, and I am sure that you will not deny me the gratification it affords me to speak of it, and the more especially as I think you seem to misapprehend Judge Kelley's motives. His courteous, disinterested kindness was to a stranger boy, of whom he knew nothing but that he had integrity of character (at least he had his mother's testimony to that), and that he was the son of a patriot soldier.

ter (at least he had his mother's testimony to that), and that he was the son of a patriot soldier.

You also, I am told, General, have been a soldier, and soldiers are always generous, therefore I the more confidently ask your pardon for having ventured this mother's story in reply to your inquiry.

Very respectfully,

CHEAPER THAN BEFORE THE WAR!-Epicures, are you aware that you can enjoy the luxuries of the dessert at a much cheaper rate than ten years ago? Science has converted a wild product of the Irish coast into an element of immeasurable dainties of the most wholesome, nutritious, and delicious character; and the price of this new staple is less by one-half than that of any other article of the same class containing a like amount of nutriment. Need we say that SEA MOSS FARINE is the article referred to? The wealthy and enterprising New York Company engaged in its manufacture are entitled to the thanks of every philanthropist for introducing this new source of excellent and agreeable food, at a price which places it within the reach of all. One experiment will convince the most skeptical that with SEA MOSS FARINE they can produce unequalled custards, puddings, jellies, Charlottes, creams, sauces, etc., at less cost than before the war. THERE IS ONE branch of the Clothing business that is more difficult than any other, that is to make it a success. It is the cutting of Youths' and Boys' Clothing, the long experience of Rockhill & Wilson of over forty years, and the particular attention they have bestowed upon this branch of the business, that have made their house so popular with the adjes of Philadelphia and its surroundings. We are now supplied with the largest and most magnificent stock ever offered in the city, to which we invite the attention of the public.

DISSIPATION AND LATE HOURS.-After the festal night comes the miserable next morning, with its headache, its qualms, its gloomy reflections. Business must be attended to; but neither mind nor body is fit for business. What is to be done? How are the energies of the system to be worked up, and its reserves of vitality brought out? How is the clouded brain to be cleared?-the languid and relaxed frame braced up for action? Under such circumstances a single wine-glassful of PLANTATION BITTERS will bring about an immediate and beneficial change, and a healthful glow will be diffused through the whole organization by the tonic operation of this wholesome cordial.

MR. WILLIAM W. CASSIDY, the leweller at No. 8 South Second street, has one of the largest and most attractive stocks of all binds of Jewelry and Silverware in the city. He has also on hand a fine assortment of fine American Western Watches. Those who purchase at this store at the present time are certain to get the worth of their money.
