MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

M'ile Nilsson's Second Concert. The second appearance of M'ile Nilsson at the Academy of Music was greeted last evening by an even larger audience than on Wednesday, and the favorable verdict then given by her hearers was fully confirmed. The great feature of the performance last evening was the "mad scene," from Ambrolse Thomas' Hamlet, and although the selection was one entirely unsuited to the concert-room, it was accepted by the audience for what it was intended-as affording an opportunity for the singer to display her abilities in purely dramatic music. The introduction of such a scene as that from Hamlet into a concert programme is, however, almost painfully unsatisfactory, and it is sincerely to be hoped that Mile Nilsson before she leaves the country will have opportunities to appear in "Ophelia," "Mignon," "Desdemona," Marguerite," and other of her leading roles.

Messra. Verger, Brignoli, Vieuxtemps and Miss Carey performed their parts in the entertainment last evening in such a manner as to secure generous

CITY INTELLIGENCE. THE COAL TRADE.

The Production and the Market-Coal as a The water supply in the coal region has at length been increased by the late rains, and those collieries which were compelled to be idle on account of a short supply of water are now again running on full time. This would tend to increase the production, were it, not that the present raise of coal will not time. This would tend to increase the production, were it not that the present rates of coal will not allow the working of the more expensive mines to any extent, and in the end may compel their entire stoppage. Thus the supply is kept within the actual demands of the trade.

The market is unchanged in quotations, though there is a tendency to lower rates from lack of demand. Coastwise freights are somewhat lower on account of the good supply of vessels and barges at the port, more, in fact, than are needed at present.

With regard to the legislation of Congress on coal

With regard to the legislation of Congress on coal as raw material, the Miner's Journal of last week makes a good point. A breaker is now being erected for the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Railroad at one of their collieries near Scranton, which road at one of their collieries near Scranton, which is very large and complete in every particular. The cost of the structure when completed will be not less than $200,000, and perhaps more. This breaker, which prepares coal for market after it is mined by manipulation which is equivalent to manufacture, and by means of machinery which is just as expensive as any in use in any department of industry, will cost when completed more than any furnace, and more than any rolling, cotton, or woellen mills. Yet the product from furnaces, cotton, woollen, and rolling mills is by the law-makers regarded as a manufactured article, while the product of a more expensive breaker, requiring law-makers regarded as a manufactured article, white the product of a more expensive breaker, requiring more labor in its preparation, is regarded as a raw material, and the legislation is governed accordingly. There are many breakers in the Schuylkill region nearly as extensive as this one, and the question is asked whether an article that requires such great preparation by breaking, sorting, and cleaning from impurities before it can be sent into the market, can instity be regarded as raw, after it has been through these processes and is fit for sale.

The following are the prices of coal by the cargo at Port Richmond for shipments east of Bordentown and south of Cape Henry, and to points along the line of the Delaware and Karitan Canal:—

Schuylkill Red Ash, $400@500; do. White Ash, Steamboat, $400@415; do. do. Broken, $415@425;

EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.—Attention is invited to Evangelical Alliance.—Attention is envited to the announcement among our religious notices of the meetings to-morrow—one at 4 o'clock P. M. in Rev. Mr. Henry's church, in West Philadelphia, and one at The o'clock, evening, in the Church of the Epiphany—to receive, through Rev. James Davia, of London, the appointed messenger of the British Evangelical Alliance, the salatations of Christians in the Old World. The scenes of the last few years, and more especially of the last few weeks, in Europe have, in their religious aspect, been of the most thrilling character; and no thoughtful Christian can doubt the fast coming on of events, opportunities, and duties, concerning which there is call for conference and mutual understanding between Christians of all the realms of earth. The time has come when too much value cannot be ascribed to this form of international intercourse.

OPENING NIGHT OF THE STAR COURSE OF LECTURES.—The sale of seats for the Star Course of Lectures has been so large that the success of the season is already assured. From present appearances a large portion of the Academy will be secured for the entire series before the doors are opened on Monday evening. This state of things must be very gratifying to Mr. Pugh, but he has deserved no less at the hands of Philadelphians. By a combined intelligence, good taste, and energy, as rare as it is effective, he has made the lecture an institution here, and he is fairly entitled to what fine results may flow from many months of organized and persistent effort. The result has not been obtained by merely wishing for it. The manager has been unprecedentedly liberal in advertising, and in many novel ways for making his patrons comfortable and pleased. The Star Course is as fashionable as the opera, and its nights offer a series of opportunities for social reunions of the gayest and choicest kind. All persons interested in the giving of good lectures—and who are not?—should make an effort to assist at the grand opening of the star season on Monday night. Miss. Anna. E. Dickfurson has the OPENING NIGHT OF THE STAR COURSE OF LEC lectures—and who are not?—should make an effort to assist at the grand opening of the Star season on Monday night. Miss Anna E. Dickinson has the place of honor, and will deliver her new lecture, "Joan of Arc," for the first time in this city. It is said to equal, if not surpass, her best efforts of former years. A choice concert by Carl Sentz's Par-lor Orchestra, materially enlarged since last winter, will precede the lecture.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

BYENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE, Saturday, Oct. 15, 1870.

The local market to-day is comparatively quiet at all points, the chief business up to noon being in discount loans on business account. The stock market is demoralized, and very little is doing in brokers loans, though a steady demand is kept up for all favorite local stocks. The holders appear willing to sell, but at full prices, indicating a speculative movement, and the ease of the money market enables them to hold outfor an advance. Whether this advance is obtainable or not remains to be seen, but it may be fairly questioned.

Call loans are easy at 5@6 per cent. and first-class paper at 6@9 per cent. Currency is abundant for all practical purposes.

Gold is quiet and rather weak, with sales ranging from 113@113%.

Government bonds move slowly, but prices show a further advance all down the list. Only a trifling business was done at the Stock Board, the chief sales being State 6s, war loan, at 108. City 6s, new, at 102%.

Reading Railroad; sold at 50.56; Pennsylvania at 60%; and Lehigh Navigation at 33%@33%. The bids were 27% for Philadelphia and Erie; 38% for Catawissa preferred; and 16 for Schuylkill Navigation preferred.
