THE LATE JUDGE GRIER.

A High Tribute of Respect to the Distinguished Jarist. Hon. J. R. Doolittle, of Wiseonsin, who is now engaged in the practice of law in Chicago, in the argument of an important case before the United States District Court in St. Louis, last winter, made the following elegant allusion to the late Justice Grier, in his speech to the court and jury, and now that Justice Grier has passed away, we think it a just and proper tribute to his memory to publish it :---

"Gentlemen of the Jury:-The highest encomium ever pronounced upon a judge retiring from the bench. I heard, not long since, in Washington. When Justice Grier left the Supreme Court, in consequence of increasing infirmities, all the Judges, with the Chief Justice at their head, called to pay their respects to him at his rooms. It was my good their respects to him at his rooms. It was my good fortune to be present. "I shall never forget that scene, as they stood around that grand old man, whose infirmities would not allow him to stand, sitting in his arm chair, his eye undinamed by age, his massive head covered with hair white as snow. "For a moment they stood around him in silence and in tears. Then the Chief Justice, in an address beautiful in expression, full of pathos, yet true in every word, in a voice tremulous with emotion, read every word, in a voice tremulous with emotion, read to him a farewell testimonial, signed by all the judges. After speaking of his great learning, his long experience, and his high judicial character, the Chief Justice crowned the encountum in saying.

You have, sir, a positive enthusiasm for justice; you love the right, you hate the wrong." "If the Coart please, in all situations in this life, high or low, on the bench or in the jury box.-when-ever a man may be called upon to act upon doubtful and trying questions, without clear and certain lights, outside, to guide him, let him, like Justice Grier, look within; let him consult that Divine in-stinct which God has planted in every heart, stronger and often truer than mere reason, which Do justice; spare the innocent; pumsh the guilty only.

PRESBYTERIANISM.

Action of the Philadelphia Presbytery on the Proposed $5,000,000 Memorial Fund. The Philadelphia Synod of the Presbyterian Church, in session at Scranton, has adopted the following resolutions reported from the Committee on the Memorial Fund. As indicative of what the churches of this city are expected to do it is of un-usual interest to the denomination:-The Synod of Philadelphia, having received the communication of the committee on the Memorial follows:---Resolved. That, being deeply penetrated with the importance of the movement and concerned for the honor of the Church of Christ as involved in its success, we hereby solemnly accept the responsibility for the proportion which may be fairly expected from our churches in our bounds, which have as yet taken no action, to enter at once upon the work.

Resolved, That we especially regard the Memorial Fund as a providential opportunity to sring home the duty of systematic giving to every one of our churches and church members, and we urge pastors and sessions to examine plans, and, with prayer and new consecration, to endeavor to lead their people to higher ground on the whole subject of benefit cence, so that the present movement, instead of cence, so that the present movement, instead of being spasmodic, may be a perennial source of blessing to the whole Church. Resolved, That the sum of $5,000,000 is far within the abilities of the united Church, and, engaging in the work under the inspiration of the great reunion movement, we will listen to no such word as fail. Resolved, That the Synod approve the plan of the committee, in which various objects of home interest are recognized as legitimate; at the same time we purge upon every congregation to endeavor to give are recognized as legitimite, at the same time we urge upon every congregation to endeavor to give special prominence to some one of the great general objects named by the committee. The most ap-propriate memorial of the reunion is the establish-ment or reinforcement of interests pertaining to the whole Courted the whole Church.

THE TEAM OF TEAMS.—This morning at about half-past 10 o'clock there drove up to the Third street entrance of the Merchants' Exchange one of the most elaborate establishments in the horse and carriage line that has been seen in this city for some time. The team consisted of six finely-formed bay horses, and the carriage was comprised in a large-sized family vehicle on four wheels, sur-rounded by bu warks of raised driver's and footmen's seats both before and behind. Within the vehicle sat

Liquor Dealers' Tax.

Despatch to the Associated Press.

Etc., Etc.,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 .- The Commissioner of Internal Revenue decides that a liquor dealer's tax for the first $25,000 of his sales is a special tax, and not a tax on sales, and that in making up that $25,000, he should include his sales of malt liquors and all other sales, except his sales of tobacco. He also decides that the tax on sales of malt liquors, on and after October 1, 1870, was repealed by the act of July 14, 1870, and that in rendering their monthly rerurns of their sales liquor dealers should hereafter be required to report only their sales of foreign and domestic distilled spirits and wines. ### A LEAP FOR LIFE.

Courageous Act of a Young Lady of Georgia. The Sumter Republican of the 17th instant, after giving an account of a destructive fire in that town,

There is one act connected with this calamity deserving particular mention, which caused a dis-play of bravery and courage never surpassed and but seldom equalled, and which marks its author as a perfect heroine. Miss Sallie Maxwell, in her efforts to save everything of value in the house that she could, was delayed in the second story of the building until the fire had destroyed the lower story so much that there was danger of the walls failing in every minute. Seeing her danger, she sathered in every minute. Seeing her danger, she gathered a few articles for the purpose of taking a final leave of the house. On entering the hall from the room she was in, to her horror and dismay she saw that the stairway was in a solid sheet of fiame. There the stairway was in a solid sheet of flame. There was only one way of escape now, and that was through the upper windows, where the flery ele-ments had not communicated itself. Going out on the top of the colonnade her awful situa-tion was immediately realized by the crowd below, and the anxiety depicted on every counte-nance showed the deep feeling that stirred the soul of every one. A ladder was brought, but it was too short to reach the roof, and was of no avail. With the crackling flames behind and around, and mak-ing the most rapid headway imaginable, every moing the most rapid headway imaginable, every mo-ment was precious beyond computation. The only chance for life now was to jump from the high place chance for life now was to jump from the high place on which she was standing. A mattress was brought, and being firmly held by strong men, with a spirit undaunted and intrepid, she made the leap from the point she occupied, embracing in its curve at least sixty feet, reaching the ground with comparative safety, and, with the exception of the shock and concussion of so high a jump, entirely unhurt.

Henvy Theft of Silks.

Heavy Theft of Silks. Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Ludlow. Two young men named Charles Taylor and Wil-liam Carter were this morning put on trial charged with stealing $7051 worth of silks and gloves from the store of Charles A. Besson & Son. On the part of the Commonwealth it was testified that these prisoners were several days noticed walking about this store as if taking observations, and on the night of Saturday Sentember 90 the store was entered from the rear and the goods stolen away. The following Sunday evening the prisoners drove in a nack to the tavern kept by Thomas Connor, at Tenth and Girard streets, and there deposited the Tenth and Girard streets, and there deposited the goods. The prisoners were known and recognized by the man attending the bar. When the officers heard of the matter they went to Connor's, who had-already ran away, and they found the goods in trunks and bags in the parlor. Several days after this the officers found the prisoners walking on Chesunt street, and arrested them. The case is yet on trial, the evidence for the prosecution not being concluded.

the owner of the whole turnout. While the vehicle sate the owner of the whole turnout, Mr. H. T. Helmbold, the wealthy merchant of New York, who, as the six-in-hand dashed up to the curb and was there stepped, jumped out and entered, proceeding up stairs to the Stock Room, where he was cordially received by a large number of friends, among whom were some of the most wealthy bankers of the city. Though the equipage had been seen upon Ches-nut street several times yesterday, after its arriva in town, there was no less an anxiety to see it today. Immediately upon its coming to a stand still, the street was blocked up with cager sight-seers, examining every department minutely. Not only was the street full, but the balcony of the Exchange building and the windows of the houses were crowded. In the midst of the crowd sat the staid coachman, with his whip and an unlimited number of lines in his hand, seemingly unconscious of the excitement, and showing by his demeanor that it

The two footmen had accompanied Mr. Helmbold into the building, but their two overcoats, with dou-ble rows of pure gold buttons (the driver had similar adornment) were neatly strapped to the seat. The fittings of the carriage and the metal work of the harness were all of pure gold, and the effect was certainly startling. The cost of the turnout was in the neighborhood of $30,000. Mr. Helmbold is to be congratulated on the possession of such an equipage, which is in a style proportionate to the wealth which which is in a style proportionate to the wealth which his business talent and success have procured for

THE GIRARD MERCANTILE COMPANY .- By reference to the advertisement in another column it will be seen that an important enterprise for the advancement of the commercial and manufacturing inte-rests of Philadelphia has been inaugurated by the consolidation of the firm of Taussig, Livingston & Co with the Girard Mercantile Company of Philadelphia, which was chartered at the last session of the Legislature. Philadelphia and its vicinity are the most extensive woollen and cotton goods manufacturing district in the United, States; but notwithstanding this fact, and the advanbut tage of our city's geographical posi-tion, our manufacturers have been obliged to depend upon the markets of other competing cities for their supplies of the raw material. What seemed too extensive an enterprise for single firms or individuals to embark in has now been undertaken by a company of responsible business men, with a capital sufficient to enable them to carry out their object in the most perfect manner. The pro-jectors and managers of the Girard Mercantile Compettors and managers of the Grard Mercanthe Com-pany have all had long practical experience in the cotton and wool business, and the stock of the company can be confidently recommended as a safe and profitable investment. The stock, so far as subscribed, is taken by some of our principal manu-facturers, capitalists, and business men, but as it is desired to increase the subscription to at least $300-600 as as to seeme the subscription to at least $300-600 as as to seeme the subscription to at least $300-600 so as to secure the co-oparation of the prominent manufacturers of our city and vicinity, and the ship-pers of wool and cotton in the West and South, books for the receipt of subscriptions have been opened at the banking house of Mesars. THE TAX RATE FOR 1871 .- Last year, in consequence of the delay of the departments in present-ing to Councils the estimates of their expenses for 1870, these bodies were unable to determine upon the tax rate until late in the year. To avoid a recur-rence of this difficulty, both branches of Councils before the recent summer recess passed a resolution requesting the heads of departments to furnish to the Committee on Finance their estimates of ex-penses for 1871 before the third Thursday in Octo-ber, to enable Councils to fix upon the tax rate at a seasonable date. Yesterday was the limit fixed by this resolution, and as yet but two or three of the departments have sent in their estimates, the new tax rate is as problematical now as it was six months ago.

TERRIBLE STREET SCENE.

A Bear Loose-He Kills a Boy and Fatally Isjures a Man-The Portage Lake Gazette tells this horrible story

Just as we go to press, we learn that the peo ple of Marquette, residing in the vicinity of the Tremont House, were thrown into great excitement on Tuesday alternoon by the fearful conduct of a bear belonging to a German butcher iving in that neighborhood. It seems that Joseph McCreary, a person in the employ of Freeman Bros., livery men, had occasion to go into the yard where the bear was kept chained, and the animal broke loose and made a rush for him (Me-Creary), whom he soon had in his embrace, and commenced hugging. McCreary was not long in realizing the peril he was in, and succeeded in freeing himselt only to be set upon again by the bear, who tore and lacerated his body in a frightful manner. By this time a crowd had gathered around the bear and his bleeding victim, and by means of some well-directed blows, delivered by some of the number, he was induced to let go of the unfortunate man, who was immediately taken home by his friends. As soon as the bear left McCreary, he started on a run out of the yard, and, rushing up the street, darted into the first open door he came to, which was that of a billiard room, which at the time was occupied by three men, among whom was the proprietor and a man who was very much under the influence of liquor. Mr. Hanley, the proprietor of the saloon, saw the bear coming, and, thinking discretion the better part of valor, jumped out of a window and made his escape. The bear paid no attention to the intoxicated man, but rushed after the other remaining person, who made his exit into the street, closely followed by the bear, whose attention just then was attracted by another open door further up the street, and for which he made; but before he reached the was closed so that he could ame not get in. Just then a little boy who happened to be standing near Hurley's livery stable was espied by the bear, who rushed upon the lad and inflicted such injuries on the person of the poor little fellow that he died that evening. The crowd then followed after the bear, and he was again assalled with all kinds of missiles, but it was not till his throat had been cut that he left the boy and started over the street, where he was run down and finally killed. McCreary, at last accounts, was not expected to live.

What the Premier Found in His Bed.

What the Fremier Found in His Bed. At the Prussian headquarters in Meaux the King occupied the front, Count Bismarck the back rooms of the Archbishop's palace. The apartments of the Count were on the ground floor, and looked out upon the extensive gardens to the rear of the palace. The 15th of September had been a very busy day to many of the Prussians, and not least of all to the Count. He was riding all day, and in the events he had a long conference with the King. evening he had a long conference with the King Tired with these difficult labors he hastened, wher Tired with these difficult labors he hastened, when he reached his room, to prepare for bed. He had scarcely, however, begun to undress himself when he heard a rustling among the bedclothes, and on searching found there, to his astonishment, an in fant not more than four weeks old. On looking closer he found by the side of this enfant fromse the following note:--*My husband fell at Sedan; I have nothing to eat. Despair forces me to part with my only child. It has been baptized Vincent.* Nor does this curious story end here. To make it dra-matically complete and symmetrical, the unfortu-nate mother committed suicide. The matter is said to have reached the ears of the King, and orders were given that the desolate infant be sent to Berlin. Was ever a life so curiously begun?

THE EARTHOUAKE.

Its Effects in Canada.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21 .- The earthquake yesterday seems to have been generally felt throughout the Dominion. In this city the shock was severe enough to ring the bells in the public buildings. The judges and others in the courts vacated their rooms precipitately.

QUEBEC, Oct. 21 .- The earthquake threw down some chimneys here, and two persons were injured by the falling bricks. The people rushed into the streets, and for a time there were much alarm and confusion. The course of the earthquake was from west to east.

TORONTO, Oct. 21 .- During the shock of earthquake yesterday the steeple of St. George's Church was distinctly seen to sway to and fro. The walls of buildings were shaken and furniture moved from its place.

ST. CATHARINE'S, Oct. 21.-Considerable alarm was caused here from the shock of earthquake yesterday, but the damage extended no farther than the breaking of some windows and shaking the walls of houses. The vibration lasted between thirty and forty seconds.

PLUCKY MR. COOLIDGE.

The Man who Dares to Investigate a Dress. maker's Bitt. The Coolidge-Flynt case is making a great stir in Boston. Our lady readers will be interested in the following testimony, which we find in the Traveller of Wednesday:-Mr. A. L. Coolidge was called to the witness stand. The bill in suit was a second one of an exorbitant character presented by Mrs. Flynt.

The first bill-which was paid-was presented to me on a morning when I was about leaving for the West. Being in a hurry, I paid that first bill without examination. When the bill for $1900, now in suit, was sent in, the items of the other bill were for the first time examined, and found overcharged; had an interview with Mrs. Flynt about this $1900 bill; had had several with her girls. Mrs. Flynt declined to make any deduction from the bill, which I told her was notright. Finding that to be her determination, and that she meant to press the matter, I rose to leave. She became excited. and as I went down stairs called me a miserable sinner. Never knew that she charged $5 a day for each girl's work till one of her girls told me so, subsequently to the above interview. Mr. N. B. Wiggin, dry-goods dealer, with R. I. White & Co., No. 46 Winter street, was H. called as an expert to testify as to the value of goods in dresses. The 1914 yards of silk charged at $146 was worth not over $5.50 in the spring of 1869. The 12 yards of hernani charged at $99 were not worth over $60 or $65. The tearose silk charged at $15 was not worth more than half that. The purple slik, 16 yards, at $450 a yard, was not worth over $3. Mr. John Charles States, of No. 25 Winter street, whose business is pinking, etc., was called. He was asked to look at the purple silk dress, the pinking for which was charged in the bill at $15.75. He said that this was done with a pinking-iron and not cut out by hand. He charged three cents a yard for pinking. The 195 yards of pinking on this dress ought not to cost more than $6 or $7. The basting and pinking would not occupy much more than a couple of hours. There is but little additional work.

Weston H. Lewis, ex-President of the Boston Common Council, was called. He is a member of the honse of Lewis, Brown & Co., Summer street. He was shown the laces on a black silk dress or waist. First, his attention was called to the broad lace, charged in the bill as 41 yards, $43.33. Not a great while ago this waist was brought to my store, and I was asked the value of this lace; I stated it at $3.50 a yard, wholesale. The counsel then accompanied me to C. C. Holbrook's store, and we saw Mr. Lewis N. Tucker, who fixed the retail price at $4 to $4.25

The attention of witness was next directed to the narrow lace, which was charged in the bill at $25 for 6 2-3 yards. Mr. Lewis fixed the value of it at $1 a yard. The broad lace is a pretty pattern, but it is not remarkable. Wit-ness said he was well acquainted with these articles

Mr. W. R. Storms, the Summer street drygoods dealer, Mr. Robert Glichrist, of the firm of Churchill, Watson & Co., and other prominent men in the dry-goods and dress-goods trade, were called and testified to a great disparity between the charges made for some of the articles in the bill and their real worth

Mr. Storms, among other things, testified that the purple cloth (16 yards at $72) was worth EARLES GALLERIES, No. S16 CHESNUT ST.
