TEWS SUMMARY.

City Affairs. -The new well now being bored at the Sansom street front of the Continental has reached the depth of 153 feet, 45 feet of which is through the gravel and clay superstratum and the balance through black mica or gueiss rock, with fissures of from six to eight inches. On the 17th the well was tubed and tested, when at a depth of 145 feet it yielded from 25 to 40 gallons of water per minute. The water is about 25 degrees colder than hydrant water, and is elightly tinged with sulphur. The well is eight incres in diameter, and will be tubed with pipe four inches inside diameter. It is the intention to proceed to a depth of 200 feet, in hopes of improving the quantity and quality of the water.

—Last evening, before the Historical Society,
Mr. John William Wallace delivered an address commemorative of the duties and services of the late Rev. Benjamin Dorr, D. D. Mr. Wallace gave an exhaustive history of the veneroble divine, who was born in Salisbury, Essex county, Mass., March 22, 1796, and graduated at Dartmouth College in 1817. -Last Saturday evening a man called on Mr

Levi R. King, residing on South street, near Twentieth, for the purpose of leasing the store and dwelling. Mr. King informed him that his terms were a month's rent payable in advance, for which the man proffered a check on the North America Bank for $75, and demanded $35 in change, which Mr. King promised to give him on Monday on his return for the lease. Not appearing at the time named Mr. King took the check to the bank, and then discovered that the check was bogus, such person having no account

The exercises were opened with sligging by the children, followed by prayer by Rev. Dr. Castle. After the performance of a number of pieces the benediction was pronounced, and the audience was dismissed with the singing of the Doxology.

—The committee appointed to consider applications for admission to the Night School for Artisans, composed of Professors Hoffer and Huston and G. I. Riche, were in session again last evening, at the Central High School, corner of Broad and Green streets. This was but the second meeting of the committee, and yet about 275 applications were made up to the time of adjournment last evening, and cards of admission given to the young men whose ages range from 18 to 22 years. Among the applicants were persons representing the following trades:-Wheelwrights, curriers, carpenters, paper-hangers, stonecutters, engineers, draughtsmen, turners, plasterers, masons, lithographers, instrument-makers, undertakers, moulders, bootmakers, bakers, shoemakers, batters, blacksmiths, cabinetmakers, boiler-makers, and wool-sorters. The school will be opened next Tuesday evening, when all who have obtained their cards of admission will be admitted. The course of studies will embrace natural philosophy, chemistry, practical mathematics, drawing, steam engineering, penmanship, physiology, etc. Last year 537 young men availed themselves of the benefits of the

THE SURRENDER OF METZ-PROCLAMATION OF KING WILLIAM-"PROVIDENCE BE THANKED" -DIFFERENT TREORIES OF THE CAPITULA-TION-BAZAINE REPORTED TO BE A BONA-PARTIST AND A TRAITOR.

Tours, Oct. 27.
The Prince and Princess of Wales are visiting The Prince and Princess of Wales are visiting Eugenie at Chisselhurst.

An officer, one of a party of five who escaped from Metz, has arrived here, and makes the following statement: He and four others left the fortress in disguise, and he alone succeeded in reaching Tours. Bazaine was well, and his troops were in good condition. Provisions were ample, and could be made to last many weeks. Bazaine has 85,000 troops, rank and file. His sorties were much more successful than the Prussian or English reports acknowledge. The captures and losses of the French are vastly misstated by the published accounts. There had been no disorders in the city.

No news has been received from Paris to-day. It is rumored that fighting is going on to-day near Orleans.

The Moniteur to-day announces that persons who are desirous to send letters to Paris, may send them to the Prefecture at Tours, and the administration will forward them, as it is determined to break the blockade which the enemy is endeavoring to establish

Information from Orleans is to the effect that al Information from Orleans is to the effect that all the shops and stores are closed, and the streets deserted by the people. The women almost invariably appear in mourning. The Prussian officers endeavor to dispel the gloom ineffectually. At Marselles affairs are more orderly. The journals that were suppressed in that city have been allowed to reappear by order of Gambetta. The civic guard is less unruly, and the authorities apparently pay little attention to it. The journals here announce that a long interview occurred vesterday between that a long interview occurred yesterday between Lord Lyons and Thiers. It is reported that Mazzini, the noted Italian republican leader, has left Italy and is now on his way to Tours. The English at Paris are under the protection of Washburne, as the British charge d'affairs, has not recognized the republican government, and has no authority to republican government, and has no authority to act.

Troyres, Oct. 25.—Nogent was evacuated by the Prussians last night. Before leaving they fired the town in several places. Garibaldi is still at Dole, where, notwithstanding his indisposition, he personally superintended the organization of the free forces. He has collected a strong force, and which is subjected to the most stringent discipline. Several sharp engagements have occurred, with considerable losses on both sides.

Lille, Oct. 24, via Tours, Oct. 27.—St. Quentin has been evacuated by the Prussians. Amiens has not yet been attacked. The Prussians retreated suddenly, and are concentrating near Laon.

The siege of Laferte has also been abandoned. A large portion of the army of the Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin is moving hastily toward Paris.

Blois, Oct. 26.—A strong column of the enemy, cavalry and infantry, attacked a French reconnottering party on the left bank of the Loire yesterday, but were handsomely repulsed after a short engagement.

ROURN, Oct. 26, evening.—The enemy, on leaving Gizors, attacked Longchamps with nine hundred men and four mortars. They were beaten off by the Francs-tireurs and other troops.

VENDOME, Oct. 26.—It is said there are still 2000 Prussians at Chatteaudun, 800 of which are cavalry.

Vendene, Oct. 26.—It is said there are still 2000 Prussians at Chatteaudun, 800 of which are cavalry, and they also have two cannon.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—The following summary of negotiations on the part of the neutral Powers of Europe, for an armistice, is published here to-day, from an authentic source. After reciting the determination of the neutrals to seize the first opportunity for mediation that presented itself, the document proceeds: "Russia, on M. Favre's visit to the Prussian headquarters, believed that the long looked for opportunity had arrived. At this moment the reception of the Prussian note on the subject of the probable early starvation of Paris, caused a change in the idea of neutrals. When, however, they pressed the subject of mediation again, Bussia held back, on the ground that mediation unsolicited would be worthless. The conditions of peace must be left exclusively to the belligerents. The course was still possible to convoke a national assembly which alone was competent to decide the question of peace or war. In view of these considerations it was England that proposed the armistice, and in this she was supported by all the neutral Powers."

Since October 15 the people had re-ceived daily rations of 400 grammes of breat for adults, 200 grammes for children, and 100 for in-fants.

The Ostend correspondent says that the total loss of the army of Prince Frederick Charles from the beginning of the siege is estimated at 45,000 men by battle and disease.

The army of Prince Frederick Charles consisted

The army of Prince Frederick Charles consisted on October 20 of the lst, 2d, 3d, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th army corps, with two divisions of landwehr attached to the 9th army corps, making a total of 160,600 men, artillery and cavalry included.

London, Oct. 27.—[Special to the New York World].—The surrender of Bazaine, It is stated, has been made upon a full understanding with the Prussian government that the occupation of Metz and Strasburg shall be accepted as an adequate basis for withdrawing the German armies from France and concluding a peace. Thereupon Bazaine ordered the outposts to cease firing on the Prussian pickets, and tacitly allowed his men to desert in pickets, and tacitly allowed his men to desert in groups of a dozen or two, who were accepted by the Prussian outposts. Larger bodies were refused.

On the afternoon of October 24, trustworthy information came from Metz, by a civilian spy, that an outbreak en masse would be made during the night, toward Gravelotte, as Bazaine's offer to capitalize with his army alone had hear repeatedly.

The outbreak was to be made without hope of saving any portion of the organized troops, but simply to enable these superfluous mouths to simply to enable these supernious moutas to get behind the German lines and force the ermans to take them prisoners, whereby the fortress might hold out a little longer, with a smaller garrison, but at 7 P. and outside army. Accordingly at midnight the Prussians, who had been massed silently toward Gravelotte, received orders to retire to their camps. At 1 P. M. yester-day General Changarnier arrived, spent an hour with the Prince, and departed, much disturbed, excusing some absent-mindedness of his own, saying, "no wonder the Prince was so severe."

By the arrangement of this meeting, General Steeble, Colonel Von Herzang, chief of staff and quartermaster general of the Prince's army, rode to Fescay, a chateau three miles south of Metz, in this transfer whith the President Meeting with the President Meeting and the Prince's army, rode just within the Prussian lines, whither two French commanders, with Humbert, second in command in the fortress, had been brought by a Prussian field post chaise. The meeting lasted from 6 to 9 P. M. and resulted only at parting in an agreement that the disputed points should be discussed again at noon to-day.

Matters, however, were so far advanced, that the second corps received orders to march for Paris yes terday at noon, and started early in the evening. Other troops concentrated at the nearest attainable points to Metz last night to prevent descritions en masse, Bazaine's last means of prolonging negotiations. NOTICE TO MARINERS.

RIVER OBSTRUCTIONS.—We learn that the contract to build a stone pier at the mouth of the Kennebunk river has been awarded to Blaisdell & Balley. Great improvements are to be made in the Penobscot river at Bangor. Mr. Townsend, who has been removing the obstructions in Boston harbor, is about to remove Independence Rock at that place, assisted by his large crew of workmen and divers, equipped with steam engines, steam drills, etc.—Perti'd Press.
