THE WAR.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

AN ARMISTICE CONCLUDED-TWENTY-FIVE DAYS' SUSPENSION OF HOSTILITIES - RIOTING IN PARIS - FAVRE AND OTHER MINISTERS AT-TACKED BY THE MOB AND RESCUED BY THE MILITARY.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—General Garibaldi, in an order of the day, reproaches the Republicans for their failures to act for the mutual defence of Switzer-land. He says it is kept down by the cash boxes of her great bankers. With her lifted tinger she might have kept Prim from Madrid, but she allowed him to slaughter the Spanish nation. Referring to the United States, the General says: "One of Washington's great family barely permits the Republic to fling a word of sympathy to the brave descendant's of Lafayette—those who first proclaimed the emancipation of the races. Classical land of liberty, home of the exile, wilt thou abandon in this struggle of giants thy sister nation, who marched, and will march again at the van of human progress? Heroic struggles." He continues, France is in ruins because her army of braves was led by tyrants, but the nation is here. It has risen as one man, and will make the old autocrat of Prussia repent his inhuman butchery." The order then closes with an appeal to the soldiers, declaring that their courage is unquestionable, but they want coolness and discipline, so indispensable in London, Nov. 3.—[Special to New York World.]— An armistice has been concluded.

An armistice has been concluded.

The Emperor, in his pamphlet, after describing the battle of Sedan, proceeds to the details of his interview with the King of Prussia. He says when he told Wilhelm that he had given full powers to the Regency, and with it alone negotiations for peace could be conducted, he merely delivered his own person into the hands of the King, and not France. He told the King that the war having turned unfortunately, he could not throw off the responsibility. Nevertheless he had only obeyed a violently excited national feeling.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—[Special to the New York World.]—Bismarck is unwilling to let the war continue into winter. He fears popular outbreaks everywhere. The news from Italy is to the same effect.

A special dispatch from Brussels states that before leaving Metz, Bazaine took out of the army treasury his salary as marshal and senator. The correspondent of the World, the first civilian allowed to enter Metz after the capitulation, found two Americans who had been in Metz during the whole of the siege—Charles M. Eustice, of Boston, and Doctor Boylans, of New Haven. The latter belonged to the American Ambulance corps. The citizens universally condemn the capitulation and the conduct of the defence. There was positively no starvation and very little suffering. The city was full of all descriptions of provisions and prices were moderate.

The conduct of the French army since the capitulation has been most exemplary. Although the whole army was paid off all arrears and six weeks advance, there has been very little drunkenness and no uproar. The Prussian officers express sur-prise at the cleverness, cleanliness and celerity of the French in making camps, cooking and making all comfortable. The forts in and around Metz were amply provisioned until March next. The post-office was opened on October 30 under orders of Herr Stephen, Director General of the North

German postal service.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—[Special to the New York Tribune).—A dispatch received here this morning by Laurier, from Tours, says that an armistice probably will be signed to-day, on the basis proposed by Granville, viz: The Constituent Assembly to be called for the 15th inst. The Tours delegation do not approve of any armistice, believing it would be

The seventh corps will remain to garrison Metz and reduce Thionville. The second army, except the second corps, which proceeds to Paris, goes south, establishing connection on the left with Verdun and on the right with Von Dertaun.

Through American mediation, it is stipulated that German and French war ships in Chinese and Japanese waters shall abstain from hostilities.

London, Nov. 3.—[Special to New York Herald.]

A Paris correspondent, writing on the Zith ult., says there is no war news to-day of importance.

After the departure of the Americans the exodus of English will take place, together with the remainder of the British embassy. The English staying here will be placed under the protection of the American Minister. About three hundred English American Minister. About three hundred English will avail themselves of the permission to depart.

Food is becoming scarce and dearer daily. At the horse market, yesterday, 700 were sold for cultary purposes. There had been a previous sale. They all passed examination as to fitness for fool. Donkeys and mules were also bought for cooking purposes, the former being in great request on account of the resemblance in flavor to yeal. We hear the Prussians have brought the gigantic cannon, so much admired at the Paris Exposition, to try them on us.

Versailles, Nov. 3.—In consequence of the terms proposed yesterday by M. Thiers, and accepted to-day by Count Bismarck, the latter offers to the French an armistice of twenty-five days, to allow general elections to be held throughout France. The armistice to be based on the military status in and existing on the day of signature.

Tours, Nov. 2.—The provisional government has received reassuring advices from the southern and western provinces of France. The people are unanimous for a continuance of the war until peace is possible on some other basis than the cession of French territory. The journaic of Tours ask for official proofs of Bazaine's treasonable in-

From Marseilles very unfavorable reports are re-ceived in regard to the conduct of the people Some excesses have been committed, and it is said that the newly appointed administrator was shot at on the occasion of his reception of the municipa

The authorities of Lyons have published a resolu-The authorities of Lyons have published a resolu-tion that it would be better to submit to any hard-ship than surrender the town. Lyons shall be de-fended to the death. None shall leave the place in anticipation of a struggle, save women and chil-dren, and old men. All others who escape, or seek to escape, shall be considered as infamous and dealt with as traitors.

The journals of Tours declare that the more facts in regard to the surrender of Metz become known, the more it is evident that Bazaine's course was treasonable. Much stress is laid upon the manner in which the officers and men were deceived in re-gard to the condition of France. The fact that 40,-000,000 francs and enormous quantities of munitions were delivered to the enemy is also dwelt upon as evidence of treason.
Dispatches from La Fleche, dated yesterday.

says a balloon passing over the town, dropped a copy of the Paris Journal Official of the 31st ult., containing the following intelligence:
"The government had issued a decree declaring that the children of all citizens killed in the war will be adopted by the nation. Thiers had arrived in Paris. The government on the 30th announced that Metz had capitulated. An immense meeting was held in the evening, at the Hotel de Villo. Jules Favre made a patriotic address. He said the government was determined to carry on the war to the last. The army would soon attack the besiegers, break through their lines and join hands with the troops from the provinces. Arago and Ferry also spoke in the same strain.

Journals publish extracts from the Journal Officiel of Paris on the 1st inst., by which it is understood that the Paris government has decided to accept an armistice, and that Flourens, who awaited a pre-armistice, and that Flourens, who awaited a pre-text raised a temporary riot.

The Journal Officiel says the Hotel de Ville was invaded and a committee of public safety pro-claimed. Members of the provisional government were detained for several hours. About eight o'clock Trochu, Arago and Ferry were freed from the hands of the rioters by a battalion of the Na-tional Guard. Favre, Garnier Pages, Simon, Ge-poral Taminier and the commander of the 196th neral Tamister and the commander of the lost regiment were still held prisoners. It was not unthree o'clock in the morning that these lamentable acts were represed by the interference of some battalions of the National Guard, who ran up in battahors of the National Guard, who ran up in great numbers and took position around the Hote, de Ville, headed by Ferry.

The court-yards were occupied by Mobiles whilst small detachments of the National Guard and carbineers were clearing the halls of the mob. At the same time the National Guards occu-pying the square, quays and Rue de Rivoli, shouted enthusiastic greetings in favor of Trocha as he passed in front of the troops. The report on the day's event concludes as follows: "With the armistice tendered and accepted, other advantages which Paris can easily construe without any necessity of presenting them here; and now the government of the national defence is upbraided with its acquiescence as having been weak Perhaps the treacherous, feeble minority, while cannot aim at representing the sentiments of the Parisian population, taking advantage of the pub-lic emotion, tries to supercode by violence the gov-ernment which is conscious of having protected the interests of a city of two millions of inhabitan shut up within their walls, and the interests of unlimited liberty. You have participated in this task, and your countenance will be our force for the future against our enemies both within and without. (Signed.) TROCHE."

The conditions of the proposed armistice are the following: Its duration will be twenty-five days. The inhabitants will have liberty to bring in food during this interval. Free elections will be held in all the The Paris government, owing to the events that took place lately, resolved to consult the people of Paris as to the maintenance of the authority that was conferred upon it. The vote was to take place to-day. It is not known here yet whether the armistice has been concluded. Alphonse Gent, appointed to succeed Esquiros as government administrator at Marseillos, was wounded by a pistol shot on his reception in that wounded by a pistor shot on his reception in that city. He had previously addressed a dispatch from Lyons to the municipality of Marseilles announc-ing that he would arrive there yesterday, and de-claring that he came with one thought—to save the nation, to save the Republic, and would assist the authorities in that great task. At five o'clock in the evening a dispatch reached Tours, stating that sent the following telegram to the authorities of "My friends: Administrator Gent was the object of an ignoble attack. Make a supreme appeal to the people. Permit no longer violence and crime."

To M. Gent, the Minister addressed a dispatch saying: "I am horror-struck by the thought that one to whom the republic ewes so much can be thus basely attacked. I am sure all good people must condemn the crime. All not desiring to be considered accomplices in it will acknowledge your right, scaled with blood, to rule in the name of the government. NEW PUBLICATIONS.

ZELL'S ENCYCLOPEDIA,

DICTIONARY, AND GAZETTEER Is now fast approaching completion. The price for the entire work, unbound, will still remain for a limited time as originally announced, namely, $25. As it has been found advisable to increase the size of the original work about 200 pages beyond the number at first proposed, those who purchase or subscribe now will get the benefit of this addition without charge, otherwise they will be obliged to pay for the same. This book is a complete and unabridged dictionary of the English language, as good as the bost, a Gazetteer of the World, and a more complete, newer, and fresher Encyclopedia than any complete, newer, and fresher Encyclopedia than any now in print; the price is lower than that of any other Encyclopedia—and but a little above that charged for an Unabridged Dictionary or a Gazet-teer alone—and being the latest and begun and completed within the short space of two years-not has always heretofore been the case with works of this magnitude—it must necessarily be by far the newest in point of information, as, for example, the article Napoleon is brought down to his sarrender. Prussia to the present war, etc.—and the populations are given either in accordance with recent State Census or that of the General Census of this year, or from other reliable information, and every pains taken to make the information given new and accurate.
