THE WAR. LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

THE FRENCH VICTORY AT ORLEANS-GAMBETTA AND THE REPUBLIC-PRUSSIAN STRATEGICAL MOVEMENTS-PREPARATIONS FOR A GRAND

SORTIE AT PARIS. LONDON, Nov. 12 -[Special to the New York World.)—The whole tide of popular feeling, now in England, is running strongly in favor of the French. Even the Times, iceling this influence, has changed its tone, and now arges Germany to make peace, and to withdraw from France, while she may do so with safety,

This feeling is partly due to the horror excited by the barbarous and wholly unjustifiable conduct of the Prussians, in attempting to suppress popu-lar resistance in France, and partly to a rapidly growing conviction, that England will be the next victim of German ambition.

The speech of the Lord Chief Baron, the other day, which declared that Austria would be prostrate before Germany-that Russia will be com-pelled to barter her Baltic ports for Constantinople, and that England, being only safe so long as she remains mistress of the seas, must arm herself for a desperate struggle, has produced great alarm and dismay, and a hearty wish for the repuise of the Germans and the triumph of the French.

The following dispatch of the World's correspondent at Tours, on November 8, which was de-pondent at Tours, on November 8, which was de-layed in transmission, gives the particulars of the beginning of the engagement which ended in a victory for the army of the Loire:

A great battle is being fought to-day, between Mer and Beaugency. The affair began yesterday with an engagement between the advanced guards on the borders of the forest of Marchenoir. The French were attacked at 11 A. M. by a Prussian column consisting of two battalions of infantry. column consisting of two battalions of infantry, 1500 strong, of cavalry and ten guns.

1500 strong, of cavalry and ten guns.

The French occupied the line from Poissy to St.
Laurent des Bois. At moon a battation of Chasseurs a pied debouched from St. Laurent and drove back the Prussians between Valbere and Villecticiair.
The French cavalry then vigorously attempted to turn the Prussian fiank, but the Prussians, however, managed to effect their retreat at 3.30 P. M. in the direction of Chatas Nam Leving their deal in the direction of Chatea Neuf, leaving their dead and wounded on the field, among whom were twenty officers. Many prisoners, also, were taken. All this happene 1 prior to the more decisive en-gagement which took place on the following day. The Times has the following: Full details of the victory of General D'Aurelles de Paiadines over General Van der Taup have not set hear received General Von der Tann have not yet been received. Engagements occurred both east and west of Or-leans on November 9, and were continued until the evening of Thursday. During Thursday the French drove the Prussians from Orleans, inflicting severe loss upon them, and are now in occupation of the city. Von der Tann, with the remnant of his army, is now retreating on the road leading from Orleans to Pitheviers, after vainly attempting to force his way to Chateauneuf and Montargis, where he hoped to join the army of Prince Frederick Charles.
General D' Aurelles has a force of 5000 men on the north bank of the Loire and 70,000 on the south

The destruction of bridges and roads between Commercy and Orleans has prevented the advance under Prince Frederick Charles. He has about 75,000 men, a great part of whom are probably north of the Marne.

After disposing of the remainder of Von der Tann's army D' Aurelies will march directly on Paris and assault the German lines between Verseilles and St. Germain, while Trochu makes a sortie with 150,000 men to cut his way out and raise the siege. Communication between D' Aurelles and Trochu and the government at Tours is constantly maintained by means of carrier pigeons.

La Situation says the arrival of Schneider at London compels it to make public the fact that Gambetta is engaged in an intrigue for the restoration of the Orleans dynasty. The scheme is for the Corps Legislatif to assemble at Tours, and compel by intimidation and pressure of circumstances the ratification of all done since September 4, and then induce it to do away with the Republic, and accept the services of the Orleans Princes. The German Princes favor the intrigue, although Bismarck remains faithful to the idea of the restoration of the Emperor. The presence of Thiers at Tours, and the continued conferences between him and Gambetta give additional color to this report. The Countess de Montijo, mother of Eugenie, arrived at Rouen from England, travelling incognito, and imme-diately left for the south. Prussians are killed every night in Strasburg.

The Russian minister here has read to Lord Granville letters from Prince Gortschakoff, stating that Russia new demands a modification or abolition of the provisions signed at the convention in Paris en March 30, 1856, and articles 11 and 13 in the treaty of Paris of April 27, 1856. These provi-sions forbid the Russian fleet from entering the Dardanelles and Bosphorus from the Black Sea. and limits the Russian fleet in the Black Sea to ter small steamers.

They also prohibit Russia and Turkey from maintaining on the Black Sea coast any military or ma-rine arsenal, and neutralizes the Black Sea by the rine arsenal, and neutralizes the Black Sea by the interdiction from its waters of any vessels of war belonging to Powers possessing its coast, or any other Power. This declaration on the part of Russia, being simultaneously made in London by the Cabinets of Constantinople, Vienna and Berlin, is believed here to indicate Russia's readiness to insist on a recognition of her claims by force. The Official Journal at Constantinople says that Turkey is now able to resist any attack; that she has 600.000 men and twelve armored frigates.

600,000 men and twelve armored frigates.

Count Von Beust, Austrian Prime Minister, arrived at Munich, on November 8, and remained there in conference with the Bavarian Cabinet for PARIS, Nov. 7, via London -The Parisians have began to cat the beasts in the Jardia des Plantes. The "Yak" sold at 30 francs per pound, and the monkeys are to be eaten this week. Dole, Nov. 7, via London, Nov. 12.—Garibaldi's army is wretchedly dressed, and is armed with muskets altered from flint locks. The Italians obmuskets altered from flint looks. The Italians object to using these guns, their gun caps being too small for the nipples. No artillery has arrived, and the cavalry are few and badly povided.

Tours, Nov. 11.—A dispatch from Macon reports that M. Schneider, late President of the French Senate, has sold the works of La Greusot to an American company, and that the United States flag has been hoisted there.

Tours, Nov. 12.—Nothing official has yet been received from the army of the Loire since the offireceived from the army of the Loire since the offi-cial report of General Palladines. It is asserted that Gambetta went to Orleans for the express pur-pose of hastening an attack all along the enemy's line. More prisoners, captured in the Orleans battle, arrived here this afternoon, and were im-mediately sent to the south of France.

mediately sent to the south of France.

The Maniteur of to-day publishes more extended details of the recent battle. On the first day the battle became general soon after the attack was made, and General Palileres, who commanded one wing of the French army, made a decided success from the start. The Prussians were in a strong position, but Pallieres took veteran troops and stormed the position, driving the Prussians before him, and capturing many prisoners and carrying the position. So marked was the victory that Palladines warmly praised his conduct. The Mobiles from the departments of the Loire and Cher, who were under a heavy artillery fire of the enemy, wawere under a heavy artillery fire of the enemy, wa-vered a little, but General Barelli, who was in command, placed himself at their head, and broke through the enemy's line. The Mobiles from the department of the Sarthe behaved admirably, and charged on the enemy with the bayonet. The chasseurs of the line also distinguished themselves.

chasseurs of the line also distinguished themselves. The Moniteur of to-day has an editorial regretting that the Bavarians, who have nothing to gain in this war, but everything to lose from the grasping ambition of Prussia, should make so readily the sacrifices she has, and become so firm an ally of that power. The Bavarians were led into the war with Prussia thinking their country would be invaded, but they must know now that the republic has no such design.

Tours, Nov. 12.—[Special to the New York World.]—The whole loss of the Bavarians, in the battles of November 9 and 10, is 3140 men in killed, wounded and presoners. Von der Tann's effective wounded and preoners. Von der l'ann's effective force on the morning of November 11 was estimated at 20,000 men. He was then at Toury, 25 miles north of Orleans, where he was joined by General Wittleh and Prince Albrecht, who, with one division of infantry, one of cavalry, 12,000 strong, marched from Chartres to his aid. On the evening of No-vem'er it be was further reinforced by the Dake vember 11 he was further reinforced by the Dake of Mecklenburg with 23,000 men of all arms. This gives the Germans at Poury a force of 51,000. D'Aurelies employed in all the engagements up to the 5th and 16th a force of 75,000 men, and to-day be has not brought up the same force into action, but will bring up a force 100,000 strong, holding 50,000 in reserve. He intends to attack the Germans to day or an Sunday, at Toury. The French army is clated at the victory, and is anxious for the attack. The government at Tours believes Prince Frederick Charles, advancing from Commarcy, will not be able to effect his junction with Von der Pann before November 15

not be able to effect his junction with Von der Tann before November 15

The government has also received very important information from Ronen and Amiens about Bourbaki's army. The French have concentrated a large force at Beauvais and Gizors, their line extending as for as Les Andeleys and Lyons La Foret. They are weil provided with artitlery, and a battle will probably be fought on the river pts, near Gournay on Borle or Gizors.

A World correspondent, writing from Versailles on November 8, says: "No bombardment of Paris will take place for a long time, if ever; and the hope is now that the city will be starved out. The truth seems to be that the constant and accurate fire from the French forts has greatly embarrassed fire from the French forts has greatly embarrassed and retarded the German operations, and rendered much of their work useless."
