The City Amusements.
AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC the English opera season will commence this evening with the performance of Verdi's opera of Il Trovatore. Te-morrow The Bohemian Girl will be given, on Wednesday The Huguenots, on Thursday Dinorah, on Friday Martha, on Saturday aftersoon Fra Diavolo, and on Saturday evening Oberon. This is certainly a most attractive programme, and as the merits of the leading members of the company are well known to the public, an unusually fine series of performances may be expected. English opera no longer labers under the disadvantage of being unfashionable, and if the works of the principal composers are rendered in good style they will receive as much attention in English as in Italian or any other language. This is as it should be, and Mrs. Bernard, to whom this result is due more than to any other person, is entitled to the regards not only of the public but of American and English singers, who have now a proper field open for the exercise of their talents. The combination that will appear at the Academy this evening will consist of the leading members of the two troupes of last season, and it certainly contains more capable artists than any troupe that has appeared here for years. The principal singer will be supported by a full and efficient chorus, which is attached to the troupe, and is not merely picked up in different cities where performances are given. This chorus is large enough for most of the standard operas, but it will be increased when occasion requires, so as to procure as perfect a rendering as possible of the more elaborate worksannounced. The orchestra will be composed of some of the best instrumentalists in the city, and under the baton of Professor 8. Behrens we know that it will be well conducted. With the exception of this English combination, there is now no operatic troupe in the field, and if we except certain faint rumors to the effect that M'lle Nilsson will appear in opera some time before she returns to Europe, there are absolutely no prospects of operatic performances either in Italian or German. This fact alone, independently of the great merits of the English troupe. ought to make the season that opens to-night a brilliantly successful one.

AT THE WALNUT Mr. J. S. Clarke will appear as "Major Wellington de Boots" in Stirling Coyne's comedy of Everybody's Friend, revised and rechristened by the author under the title of A Widow Hunt. "De Boots" is one of Mr. Clarke's most laughable personations, and those who attend at the Walnut this evening may expect an hour or two of uproarious enjoyment. The performance will conclude with Planche's comie sketch of He's Jack Sheppard, in which Mr. Clarke will appear as "Simon Purefoy."

AT THE ARCH a dramatization of Charles Dickens' unfinished novel of Edwin Drood, by Messrs. Barton Hill and Robert Craig, will be produced this evening, with new scenery and effects. There is considerable curiosity to see how Messrs. Hill and Craig have solved the mystery of the story, which has thus far bailled the ingenuity of all who have endeavored to guess it. The play will be cast to the full strength of the company, and as Messrs. Hill and Craig are both favorite actors, there will doubtless be a full house to honor the occasion of the production of their first joint literary

AT THE CHESNUT Mrs. James A. Oates and her burlesque troupe will appear this evening in an English version of Herve's Petite Faust. This work is a travestry of Gounod's overa, and report speaks of it as being very funny. Mrs. Oates will appear as "Mephistopheles," Mrs. H. T. Allen as "Marguerite," and Mr. C. W. Drew as

ADAM FOREPAUGH'S CIRCUS AND MENAGERIE will exhibit for the last times during the present week at the corner of Broad and Wallace streets. This show consists of a circus company, which contains a large number of talented equestrians. acrobats, and other performers, and a menagerie which presents a most interesting variety of living animals. Performances will be given every afternoon and evening.
AT THE AMERICAN Mons. D'Atalie, the "man with the iron jaw," will commence an engage-ment this evening and will execute a number of wonderful feats of skill and strength.

AT DUPREZ & BENEDICT'S OPERA HOUSE a variety of novelties will be presented this evening, while some of the most attractive features of last week's entertainments, including the grand descriptive finale, will be repeated. troupe at this house is large, and consists of talented performers, who are up in all the details of their business. The appreciation of the public for their efforts is shown by the crowded houses that have greeted them every night since their return from their summer tour, and for those who wish to pass a pleasant evening and to laugh dull care away, there is no better place to visit than the musical hall on Seventh street, below Arch.

AT THE ARCH STREET OPERA HOUSE Messrs. Simmons & Slecum announce a number of new features for the present week, among which is a laughable sketch entitled Bruised and Cured. in which Hughey Dougherty and Billy Sweat-man will appear. Sheridan and Mack will give their "living photographs" and will execute comic songs and dances, and the other members of the troupe will contribute their share to make the performance go off with eclat.

SIGNOR BLITZ and his son will give their first magical performance at the Assembly Building this evening. The Signor is such an old-established favorite that praises of him are superfluous. There will doubtless be a merry gathering this evening at the Assembly Building to welcome him back to the scene of his former

DRATH OF A PHILADELPHIA NAVAL OFFICER. - RObert H. Subsequent to his resignation he invented a dummy engine for railroad purposes, and a mining engine generally adopted throughout the United German Reinforcements. LONDON, Nov. 14 .- (Special to N. Y. Tele gram.) -The situation of the German army is such as to compel Prussia to send additional reinforcements from Versailles.

British Residents of Paris. Mr. Woodhouse, Secretary of the English embassy in Paris, has arrived here with a convoy of British subjects who were allowed to leave Paris by the German authorities. They arrived last night. They report that the stock of provisions in Paris is short. The allowance of fresh meat has been reduced to 50 grammes to each person. The weather is cold, with frequent falls of snow.

Bearers of the Geneva Cross. General von Moltke has issued strict orders respecting the treatment to be awarded to the bearers of the Geneva cross, whose safeguard is guaranteed by all the great powers represented in the Geneva Convention.

The Parliament at Versailles. The Liberal papers throughout Germany contain articles dissuading the Government from summoning the Federal Parliament to meet at Versailles, on the ground that the members thereof would scarcely consent to go thither under the present peculiar situation of affairs, where they would be compelled to legislate under the pressure of military influence. No Bombardment of Paris, BRUSSELS, Nov. 13 .- (Special to the N. Y. Telegram.)-Our special correspondent from this city states that information has been received that Paris cannot hold out more than three weeks longer. It is therefore intended by the Prussian military authorities to trust to hunger to compel the surrender of the city. No bombardment of the city will take place.

New York Politicians. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Several politicians are here from New York, urging a new deal in the Federal offices of that city. They want Collector Murphy removed, and a person appointed in his place who does not betray to either Fenton or Conkling factions. It is probable that changes will be made in the Collector and Postmaster at New York before long. The President is not disposed to make any changes until Congress meets.

The (English Mission. It is not thought that General Schenck will accept the mission to England, for reasons personal to himself. He is expected here in a few days, when he will give a final answer to the President. The

New Democratic Paper started here to-day is quite moderate in its tone. It is against repudiation, in favor of general amnesty, and revenne reform. The President Returned here this morning from Philadelphia and received a large number of visitors. Several members of the Cabinet called and had interviews with him before noon. Hospital Ship at Key West.

Despatch to the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — In the Supreme Couft of the United States to-day an opinion was delivered on the motion recently made to retire to the docket for revision the case of Deming against the United States, on appeal from the Court of Claims. The Court says the case was supposed to involve the constitutionality of the Legal-tender act. The plaintiff had given a general power-of attorney to Latham to sell or assign the claim, but denied that he gave authority to consent to a dismissal of the

This, however made no difference, as the motion was withdrawn by counsel. The present motion to restore was submitted to the discretion of the Court, who now, under the circumstances, unanimously deny it. The judgment therefore stands as originally rendered in favor of the United States.

ITALY AND ROME.

Absolute Freedom of the Pepe's Mevements. The Italian Government has addressed the following circular to its diplomatic agents

"Sir:—His Eminence, Cardinal Antonell has applied to several courts for information as to whether the Pope would be free to leave Rome and go back to it at his own pleasure. This application of the Cardinal Secretary of State having been brought to my knowledge by some members of the diplomatic body, I have immediately answered that Italy naturally wishes his Holiness to remain at Rome, for nowhere else would the Pontiff find himself surrounded by greater respect and regard, and rounded by greater respect and regard, and nowhere else could be enjoy greater freedom in the discharge of his spiritual functions. If, however, other ideas were to prevail in the Council of the Holy Father, the King's government would certainly regret, but it would also respect, the Pope's determination. Most assuredly the idea of exercising any influence on the deliberations of his Holiness has never crossed our minds. Such an idea would be contrary to all our precedents, and to our well-known political programme. The Pope can, therefore, abide in Rome, or repair to Castel Gandelfo, to Civita Vecchia, or elsewhere. He may quit Italy or return. The only observation I took the liberty to add to my answer was that if his Holiness made up his mind to leave Rome it would be descrable that he should do so in a public and free manner, for considering the full liberty enjoyed by his Holiness, there would be no reason why he should expose himself to the inconvenience and fatigue of a secret journey. Whatever may be the determination of the Holy Father, neither the Government nor the people would ever fail to surround him with all the honers and all the proofs of respect which are due to him.

FRIGHTFUL DEPRAVITY.

A Son Tries to Rob His Father, Using Chloro-form. The incidents of a most painful story, says the Kansas City News of the 8th instant, came to us last evening, the particulars of which we present, sparing the names for the sake of the unfortunate parent. One of our wealthy and much admired citizens has a son that is possibly the most dis-reputable young man in town. His places of nightly resort are the gambling hells and the couses of infamy on the levee, and not content with this, he blazons his ill-fame sufficiently to carry lewd company into public places.

Fortunately for the peace of his father, his course has hitherto been unknown to him. He had supposed his son to be rather "fast," was unaware that anything dishonorable had attached to his name. Of late, however, he has been obliged to curtall the undutiful son's allowance, his unlimited extravagance going far to imperil his father's credit.

Such a course was rather opposite to the young gentleman's idea of the correct thing, and Sunday night he determined to right the matter in his own way. His mother had bee absent on a visit for a few days, and after theh had retired early to bed, wakeful, however, from a severe headache. About midnight he was roused by the creaking of his bed-room door, and raising himself in bed he saw his son enter with a handkerchief in his hand. He lay still for a moment until the villain approached the bed, and then catching the sickening odor of chieroform, the horrible purpose of his son flashed across his mind, and he sprang up sternly demanding what he wished.

The would-be thief was much startled by his across his mind, and he sprang up sternly demanding what he wished.

father's unexpected waking, but after considerable stammering managed to turn it off by ask-ing for his watch kev. The odor of the drug on his handkerchief was too condemning, however, and an exposure followed, which found its way to the servants and thence to the world. SHARP WORDS.

President Grant and the Missouri Liberals The St. Louis Democrat, a Republican paper,

What is it that the people disapprove? We can inform you, sir. They deem it an outrage that you have tried to control a State election by gross abuse of your power of removal and appointment. They maintain that it is wrong for a President to use that power to force himself upon the people for a second term. They desire you, in future, to pay better attention to your own duties at Washington—the duties which your masters, the people, assigned to you, and not to spend your time in meddling with State elections.

It seems to the people that you deserve severe rebuke, alike for neglecting your legitimate affairs, and for abusing the power intrusted to you, and, being freemen, neither awed by your name nor seduced by your offices, they give you that rebuke very plainly.

The first duty of a President is to keep the pledges made to the people when a candidate. This you have not done. You promised to give the country peace, and pledged yourself to a platform in which the removal of political disa-bilities was a most prominent feature. Soon after you became President you meditated compliance with this pledge by proclaiming am-nesty, and again by recommending to Congress removal of disabilities, but in each case unscrupulous partisans, who want still longer to be able to elect mere tools of their own from Southern States, turned you from your purpose. At this day you are their tool. Simon Cameron, as unsavory a man as ever sat in the Senate, controls you as if you were his hired man. It is discreditable that a President should be so controlled by any one; doubly discreditable that he should be controlled by such a man; trebly discreditable that he should thus be led to depart from the solemn pledges by which his election was secured.

N. Y. MONEY MARKET ON SATURDAY.

From the N. Y. Herald. "The city duving the past week was active in exportable merchandise, although the prices obtained were on a desending scale, due to a decline in the foreign markets. Towards the close of the week prices were firmer and higher, in sympathy with the advance in gold, the foreign markets remaining steady. The dry goods business west dull, but showed a revival on the last two days of the week. While prices were failing buyers showed a distinctionation to take more than sufficient for their immediate wants, but the reaction in prices has stimulated a buying movement which may be the forerunner of more activity the balance of the season.

"The gold market was unsettled by the manipulation of the cliques who operated upon the conflicting opinions of the street concerning the effect of the news from Europe. The breaking off of the negotiations for an armistics was made the pretext by the cliques for an upward movement, illogical as such a course may be, and the price of gold was advanced from 10% to 11%, the rise being assisted by the depression of the London markets where consols and five twenties declined about a half per cent. A ramor of the resumption of negotiations, looking to peace, produced a subsequent fall to lit; but the French victory at Orleans occasioned a reaction to 111% at the close on Saturday night. In the loan market thore has been an irregular supply of gold, and the rates have vibrated alternately in favor of the holder and burrower of the coins. It is the impression with the more impartial observers of the market that the large sperators referred to are manusuring for high prices in order that they may precare for a fresh line of speculative sales. The undentied tendency of the market to drift to a lower premium affords a fine opportunity for a very profitable series of bulking operations by which the cliques will reap enormous profits in the frequent fluctuations which most ensue as the market declines.

"The predictions of an easy money market which have been so often made in these columns hid fair to be fully realized this winter. The fall has passed without stringency, and the only rates in excess of seven per cent, were but temporary and artificial. During the week the highest rate on call was six per cent. and that become exceptional towards the close. On Saturday the majority of loans were made at four and five per cent, while the Government of currency in this direction the balance of the winter. The war in Europe brought the Western and Southesin marchants into our market early this fall, and hence in paying for the crops of cotton and whe
