THE ROLE OF THE FREE TRADE REPUBLICANS. THE New York World advises Carl Schurz

and his fellow free-traders to keep up the pretense of being Republicans for the present, so as to "strengthen and extend their influence, and propagate their sentiments among their party associates," in an article which also assures them that the Republican party is irrevocably committed to protection: and that they will be gladly welcomed in the Democratic camp as soon as they can transfer a considerable body of deluded followers from the Republican organization to the Democratic party. The true way to baffle such insidious schemes is to confront them at once by making as bold an issue on the tariff question as was made against slavery, rebellion, and repudiation. There are thousands of Demscrats in Missouri who are protectionists in interest and inclination.

The furnaces of that State are owned mainly by Democratic capitalists, and her Iron Mountain can be made a source of inexhaustible wealth by a protective policy. The property of her metropolis, St. Louis, depends infinitely more upon the development and maintenance of domestic manufactures than on the increase of her foreign trade; and if Missouri is to be reclaimed at all, it must be by meeting Schurz squarely on his own ground, and beating down his freetrade fallacies. In Pennsylvania, too, we need no better issue than the tariff. The only hope of the Democracy for carrying this State is based on a policy even more dishonest than that marked out for Schurz. Here the Democratic local leaders are to insist that they are better tariff men than the Republicaus, and to carry the people with them, if possible, on old issues, while in other portions of the Union Democratic candidates are to overcome their rivals by the supposed popularity of free-trade principles. The Republiean party is quite strong enough to triumph after the defection of every free-trader belonging to it, provided it can win the support of a fair proportion of the Democratic protectionists of the country; but it may be overwhelmed if it loses all its free-traders without gaining assistance from men who differed with it on the slavery issue. Missouri has plenty of Democratic protectionists who would be individually worth a great deal more to the Rspublican party than Carl Schurz, and it would be a splendid bargain to trade him off for any one of the Democratic ironmasters of St. Louis. There are votes to be won as well as to be lost on the tariff issue, and the way to win them is to enlist every friend of American industry under the Republican banner, and to gladly turn over to the Democracy every advocate of the industrial dominance of our foreign rivals.

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE. IN THE midst of the excitement over the prospect of a war with Russia, a despatch relating to the Alabama claims from President Grant to Mr. Moran, the Secretary of Legation, and, since the recall of Mr. Montley, the Charge d'Affaires, has been received in London. In consequence of Lord Granville being out it was impossible for Mr. Moran to communicate the despatch to him, and the London journals have consequently been unable to learn anything with regard to its character. The fact, however, that a despatch on the subject of the Alabama claims from the President of the United States should arrive in England just at this eritical juncture has stirred up the guilty British conscience, and we are informed that the greatest consternation and excitement prevail, it being immediately presumed as a matter of course that there is a secret understanding between the United States and Russia. President Grant could not have chosen a more auspicious moment for reopening the negotiations with regard to the Alabama claims, for England is now trembling between a fear that Russia will obtain a preponderance of power in the East that will threaten the British domain in India, and a disinclination to embark in a great war which she will be obliged to carry on without the aid of the ally who carried off all the honors in the last struggle with Russia. All the meanness that characterized British dealings with the United States during the war is now remembered with a disagreeable feeling that the nation then wronged and insulted can now have a glorious opportunity to take its revenge in kind, and effectually aid Russia and cripple England without participating in any way in the contest that at the present moment seems imminent. It is well known in England that the bitter feelings excited by the mean and dirty conduct of the British Government and the influential classes during our struggle for existence have not died out in the hearts of the American people. Mr. Thomas Hughes can tell the British Parliament and public, as one of the most important results of his summer trip in the United States, that their exists upon this side of the Atlantic a sentiment of mingled hatred and contempt for England that may well be dreaded by that country. and if, in the event of a war with Russia that will tax all her powers, we do not repay with interest all the injuries we have received, it will be because England, although at the last moment, consents to make such reparation as we have a right to demand. There is no reason to believe that there is any secret understanding between the Governments of the United States and Russia, but the Emperor Alexander may well consider the sending of the despatch referred to above by President Grant just at the present moment, as at least a partial return for the friendly feeling always manifested by Russia and its rulers towards the United States, and for the cordial sympathy expressed for the national cause by the Emperor and his people during the whole of the Rebellion.

It is estimated that Philadelphia spends about $200,000 annually upon her streets, while New York spends over $2,000,000. This is a discrepancy that more than accounts for the difference between the highways of the two cities. We have now been hesitating over three years about paying two miles of Broad street, and have been permitting one of the grandest highways in the world to remain in an utterly disgraceful condition, while New York has given a contract amounting to over $1,250,000 during the present month alone to the Stow Foundation Company to pave nine miles of Broadway. This fact certainly ought to arouse the activity of our authorities and induce them to do something for the improvement of Broad street without further

We are much gratified at being able to announce the fact that a prominent Philadelphia concern stands at the head of the list of awards in the Sewingmachine Department, receiving the Gold Madal for the Machine. This is another flattering recognition of the superior skill and ingenuity of our Philadelphia mechanics." A well-merited compliment, as all must admit who are acquainted with the high character of their workmanship,

We extract the following from the report of the judges :- "The sewing-machine t at exhibits the greatest novelty, advancement, and improvement; does the greacest variety of useful work, equal in construction, workmanship, and design to any and ALL others on exhibition, is the American Buttonhole, Overseam-ING, AND SEWING-MACHINE,"

The office and salesrooms of the Company manufacturing this splendid machine are at No. 1318 CHESNUT Street. All should see it. See advertisement in another column.

GOLD MEDAL RANGE-IMPORTANT TO HOUSE-KEEPEES AND EUILDERS - What the community have long wanted is a good cooking range, suitable for summer as well as winter. Mr. J. S. Clark, No. 1008 Market street, has, after many years of practical experimenting, perfected such a range. It has two cylinders-one for summer and the other for winter-which can easily be adjusted, and give but ilttle heat in the kitchen in summer, whilst in winter it will heat three rooms comfortably. It bakes, bolls, reasts, and heats the water all at the same time. It is a perfectly air-tight gas consumer, and requires but half the amount of coal of any other range in use. It keeps fire for a greater length of time, and is a perfect model in every respect. Everybody should see this range at the warerooms of the patentee, J. S. Clark, No. 1008 Market street, as all who are about to purchase will be convinced of its superior advantages.

CLARE'S IMPROVED BALTIMORE FIRE PLACE HEATan is now the acknowledged champion heater of the country, and the only hot-me fire-place heater in the market; it is entirely free from dust and gas, and for economy of fuel stands unrivaded. It has been handsomely improved, having a polished foot-rail and hearth, and made of the best material; it will heat a large room in which it is placed, and three upper rooms comfortably, in the coldest weather, requiring very little coal, and only once in twentyfour hours.

Well conceived but badly-executed imitations of this splendid heater flood the market, and it is necessary to examine well before purchasing. Do not make a mistake, but call and see the original Baseburner at the manufacturer's warerooms. All work guaranteed. They are sold wholesale and retail by JOHN S. CLARK, Sole Agent, No. 1008 Market street.

CLARK'S CELEBRATED GOLD MEDAL SALAMANDER HOT-AIR FURNAUR .- This celebrated Hot-air Furnace has been thoroughly tested during the past four years, and has given universal satisfaction. It is the most powerful heater in use. It will do more work for the same amount of fuel than any other furnace that has ever been introduced to the public, In construction it is simple, and made throughout of the very best material, and fitted with great care. It is self-cleaning, and will burn the whole winter without rekinding. Very little care and attention are required to keep it in operation.

These celebrated furnaces are supplied with the patent evaporating chamber, by the sid of which all the impurities of the air are destroyed, and a fine volume of pure, moist hot air is passed into the rooms above. There are seven different sizes, so that they may be adapted to houses of any size and

All are invited to call and examine these celebrated Gold Metal Salamander Hot-air Furnaces, at the warrooms of the manufacturer, John S. CLARK,

No. 1008 Market street. CLARK'S "OCTAVAR," or third hand attachment, can be applied to any plano. The brilliant musical effect produced cannot be described. Call and hear it at No. 604 Arch street.
