THE LATEST FASHION

Harper's Bazar gives the following information in regard to the latest fashionable ideas:---

BERLIN WOOL.

The fancy for garments of fine Berlin wool increases in this country. Almost every furnishing store has a department stocked with these useful articles, and each season there are novelties introduced from abroad, where knitting and crocheting are brought to perfection. The zephyr wool prepared in Berlin is softer and finer than any other, and the colors are better. Retail dealers ask 20 cents an onnce for quiet, dark colors of either split, single, or double zephyr; and 25 cents for high, brilliant colors.

ENITTED GARMENTS.

The perfection of under-wear for infants is shown in soft warm shirts of purest white zephyr wool, knitted in a ribbed pattern, the neck and sleeves scolloped and overcast with white silk floss; these cost from 75 cents to $1. Infants' socks of white zephyr have the tops turned over in Zouave fashion; others. knit double, are thick and warm, 75 cents. Little carriage bootees, to be worn without a shoe, or else over the shoe, are long enough to reach to the knee, and are held up by a drawing-string that forms a tasseled garter. These are in all colors, or in white, and may be had in three sizes, costing 75 or 85 cents. A little sock embroidered with silk is called the daisy shoe; and the loveliest slippers for baby are crotcheted in Marie Antoinette shape, of blue, scarlet, or white wool, with silken bows and tassels: price $2. The bonnet for baby girls is the fairy hood, with a warm head piece of double knitted Berlin wool, veiled with a fanciful cover of split zephyr overwrought with silk of palest blue or rose: $2. For larger babes are little cape bonnets made of Angora wool, with long, soft fleece, like fur. They are in blue and rose, bordered with snowy swan's-down. Price $5. For tiniest boys is a cunning little turban dignified as the Prussian cap. It has a border of loops above the forehead, warm ear-tabs, and a sort of cape to protect the back of the neck. Imported mittens of white zephyr shaped to the wrist, tiny bows of ribbon on the back, and a gauntlet flecked with white floss, are warm and soft enough for the baby fists they will enclose; price 45 cents. Very pretty cloaks for infants consist of two large capes formed of white zephyr in shell stitch, overcast with floss and edged with fringe: these are $8. Handsome afghans for baby's carriage have four Roman red stripes, or blue or buff, with five narrower stripes of white tufted with black. At the upper end that passes over baby's lap each stripe forms a point that is finished with a tassel; price $7. Afghans marked $10 have three broad stripes, the outer ones colored, the centre white, and richly embroidered with a vine of roses. A smaller size of similar design is $9. Those in blocks of a color alternating with white, and each block embroidered with daisies, cost from $11 to $14.

Drawers of white or scarlet zephyr with leggings strapped beneath the shoe, or with socks to wear over the shoe, are heavily knit, and are comfortable for children who are carried out in the nurses' arms or drawn about in their open carriages. These are in three sizes for children from one to three years old, and cost from $1.25 to $1.75.

stereotyped sets of furniture, each piece in a room the counterpart of that next it, but, instead, variety is preferred, with scarcely any two articles alike, ladies of taste and ingenuity employ their leisure in embroidering covers for different articles. An odd chair, a lounge, sofa cushions, rugs, foot-stools, a table or piano cover, embroidered by the lady of the house, is to be found in almost every home. To complete the stripes for the back of a folding chair, and an elaborate piece for the seat, seems to be the ambition of almost every young lady. During the holidays these chairs and camp-stools were the favorite gift to bachelor brothers, friends, and lovers. Some were ornamented with heads of animals, hunting scenes, or battle pieces, while for smokers, cigars, pipes, and tobacco jars were wrought on the canvas.

The back of the chair is usually three stripes, a different vine of flowers in each, or else the monogram of the owner is in the centre, with a wreath of foliage around it. Most of this work, that looks so difficult, is very easy, as the complicated shading, and, indeed, all the intricate design, is done by experts before it is offered for sale. The lady who purchases it merely fills out the background by simple cross stitches of wool of a single color. Fancifully shaped catchalls, or wall-pockets, for letters and other small articles, are made of black walnut, and have an embroidered piece in front: brackets for vases and stationery are draped with needle-worked cloth; chamber racks for hats or an overcoat are embroidered in the centre, back of the pegs; willow baskets are ornamented in the same way; the backs of hairbrushes, straps for a travelling shawl or waterproof, small picture frames, tiny easels, travelling satchels, and a multitude of such small articles are decorated with this gay work. Perforated morocco and perforated board. either tinsel or silver, are used for making many pretty toilette articles, and embroidered in bright colors. There are cornucopias for shaving papers, tapers, or loose hair; match safes, photograph frames, and boxes for mouchoirs and gloves. The heles in this board are very large, hence the designs are easily wrought, and the labor is not injurious to the eyes, as it was when very fine perforations were used.

BRAIDING.

Talking of embroidery reminds us that braiding has proved to be exceedingly popular for trimming dresses this winter. The designs are made to imitate passementerie, and are thick and heavy, being filled in almost as closely as embroidery. Plain sou-tache and the feather-edged braids are both used. The braid must match the color of the garment. Two colors mingled in the braid, or one color in contrast with the material, should not be used, except for fanciful jackets for the house, or for children's clothes, and these have either black or white, or any solid color.

The handsomest velvet cloaks of the winter have elaborate designs of fern or palm leaves braided above lace. Dark cloth and cashmere suits have the slashed paletot and upper skirt braided to match. These are worn over silk skirts, or else over a cloth skirt, made plain, or perhaps the whole garment is edged with fur. Black cashmere suits richly braided are in especial favor. The vest and cuffs, or the Maria Theresa collar of such suits, are almost covered with braid. Some house jackets of white, scarlet, or blue cloth or flannel are braided all over, or are chain-stitched with the sewing machine in a braiding pattern.

children there are plain knitted drawers without gaiters, to be worn over muslin drawers on cold days: $1.75 to $2. The prettiest gaiters for very young children are the polka gaiters of single zephyr, either white or chinchilla, with a colored border up the outside representing buttons and button-holes: 75 cents to $1. Fine leggings of searlet, blue, or grey wool are shaped to fit over the knee, and thus prevent wrinkles; $1 to $1.25. Heavier brown or grey gaiters for children and for ladies are knit of American tapestry worsted. Ladies and misses wear these when travelling in extremely cold weather, or driving, or sleighing; but they are too clumsy for walking. Ladies' sizes are $1'50; misses', from 75 cents to $1.25.

Ladies' breakfast shawls are crocheted in Afghan stitch, with a seam down the back joining the two pieces to form a comfortable three-cornered wrap. The centre of the shawl is of solid color, scarlet, blue, chinchilla, purple, or black, with a broad border embroidered around it in darker shades of the same color, or in a gay contrast, as gray with scarlet or blue borders, blue with white, and purple with black for mourning. fringe of the wool finishes the edge. Price Shawls with the colored borders merely crocheted, instead of embroidered, are $5.

In lieu of the sontage formerly worn under cloaks and in the house, there are sleeveless jackets crocheted in beautiful shapes falling in with the figure. Blue or red jackets with chinchilla borders are most popular. These are $2.50 each. Heavier jackets with sleeves are $5. Revers, pocket flaps, and broad cuffs of a bright color are crocheted on chinchilla jackets. The fine knitted Cardigan jackets imported from England are shaped like shorted polka basques or with postfilions. Those in fine ribs and in dark rich colors cost from $6 to $12. Novelties for chileren are sacques and muffs of fleecy Angora wool knitted in long loop stitches that imitate admirably the Astrakhan and Iceland lamb furs. They are shown in white and scarlet. The set costs $8 or $10. A dressy little jacket for children is called the epaulet jacket. The body of the garment is of white or chinchilla wool in Afghan stitch, while the collar, epaulets, and border are of shaded blue or crimson. The back is slashed to the waist, and a cord and tassels draw it to the figure at the waist. They cost from $2 to $3. The prettiest sacques for babies are knitted basques of white zephyr shaped to cling to wee, plump figures-too cunning for anything, the mam-mas say: $2.75 is the price asked for sizes for children under three years of age.

The prettiest evening hood for ladies to wear to parties is the Nilsson, described last week. It is quite warm, yet too soft and light to disarrange elaborately dressed hair. From $1.75 to $2. The heavy Alaska hood for old ladies and for travelling has a chinchills centre, with wide turned-over fold in front of scarlet or blue or purple; price $2.

Fanciful little tippets and boas of zephyr are crocheted for children. Pretty scarfs in shell stitch, white, with pink or blue centres, are for little girls; also zephyr neckties knitted double and round like a boa. Victorine capes, with muffs to match, are made with blue or scarlet grounds, almost hidden beneath tiny white balls of fleepy wool that are thrown on the surface. These cost from $3 to $5 per set, and are as warm as the light qualities of fur. Heavy warm scarfs for boys are $1.75. Gentlemen wear chinchills scarfs with embroidered borders in dark purple and crimson shades. The handsomest are a yard and a half long, and cost $5.
