THE FEBRUARY MAGAZINES.

"OLD AND NEW."

Old and New for February has the following table of contents: -

"Old and New;" "Pink and White Tyranny," chap. xv., Mrs. H. B. Stowe; "Porter-Humphreys—Harding," John A. Bolles; "Raphael's Saint Cecilia," T. Davidson; "Protoplasm Again," J. Elliott Cabot; "A Lady's Journey in Syria;" "Optimism," C. Palfrey; "Translations," S. R. Calthrop; "Before I Went to Brook Farm;" "The Nearer Hemisphere," W. McLeod; "An Eastern Story," Mrs. H. L. Bostwick; "Sorrento Papers," Charles D. Warner; "Practical Atheism," C. H. Brigham; "Letter from Governor Andrew;" "The Examiner;" "Record of Progress."

From Mr. Warner's "Sorrento Papers" we quote the following:-

Sea and air and land here are all kin, I suspect, and have certain immaterial qualities in common. The contours of the shores and the outlines of the hills are as graceful as the mobile waves; and if there is anywhere ruggedness and sharpness, the atmosphere throws a friendly veil over it, and tones all that is inharmonious into the repose of

The atmosphere is really something more than a medium; it is a drapery, woven, one could affirm, with colors, or dipped in Oriental dyes. One might account thus for the prismatic colors I have often seen on the horizon at noon, when the sun was pouring down floods of clear, golden light. The simple light here, if one could ever represent it by pen, pencil, or brush, would draw the world hither to bathe in it. It is not thin moonshine, but a royal profusion, a golden substance, a transforming quality, a vesture of splendor for all these Mediterranean shores.

The most comprehensive idea of Sorrento and the great plain on which it stands, embedded almost out of sight in foliage, we obtained one day from our boat, as we put out round the Capo di Sorrento, and stood away for Capri. There was not wind enough for sails; but there were chopping waves and swell enough to toss us about, and to produce bright flashes of light far out at sea. The red-shirted rowers silently bent to their long sweeps; and I lay in the tossing bow, and studied the high, receding shere. The picture is simple-a precipice of rock or earth, faced with masonry in spots, almost of uniform height from point to point of the little bay, except where a deep gorge has split the rock, and comes to the sea, forming a cove, where a cluster of rude buildings is likely to gather. Along the precipice, which now juts and now recedes a little, are villas, hotels, old convents, gardens, and groves. I can see steps and galleries cut in the face of the cliff, and caves and caverns, natural and artificial: for one can cut this tufa with a knife; and it would hardly seem preposterous to attempt to dig out a cool, roomy mansion in this rocky front with a spade.

As we pull away I begin to see the depth of the plain of Sorrento, with its villages, walled roads, its groves of oranges, olives, lemons, its figs, pomegranates, almonds, mulberries, and acacias; and soon the terraces above. where the vineyards are planted, and the olives also. These terraces must be a brave sight in spring, when the masses of olives are white as snow with blossoms, which fill all the plain with their sweet perfume. Above the terraces the eye reaches the fine outline of the hill: and, to the east, the bare precipice of rock, softened by the purple light; and turning still to the left, as the boat lazily swings, I have Vesuvius, the graceful dip into the plain, and the rise to the heights of Naples, Nisida, the shining houses of Pozzuoli, Cape Misenum, Procida, and rough Ischia. Rounding the headland, Capri is before us, so sharp and clear that we seem close to it; but it is a weary pull before we get under its rocky side. Returning from Capri late in the afternoon, we had one of those effects which are the despair of artists. I had been told that twilights are short here, and that, when the sun disappeared, color vanished from the sky. There was a wonderful light on all the inner bay, as we put off from shore. Ischia was one mass of violet color. As we got from under the island, there was the sun, a red ball of fire, just dipping into the sea. At once the whole horizon line of water became a bright crimson, which deepened as the evening advanced, glowing with more intense fire, and holding a bread band of what seemed solid color, for more than three quarters of an hour. The colors, meantime, on the level water, never were on painter's palette, and never were counterfeited Ly the changeable silks of Eastern looms; and this gorgeous spectacle continued till the stars came out, crowding the sky with silver points.

-The February number of Leisure Hours, published by J. Trainor King, No. 501 Chesnut street, contains portraits and biographical sketches of Hon. W. A. Wallace, Speaker of the State Senate, and Hon. James H. Webb, Speaker of the State House of Representatives, with a variety of interesting stories, essays, and poetry, prominent among which is the first instalment of a story entitled "Adrien St. Armand," by Mrs. Martha Lafitte Johnson, which is above the average in merit. The story is well written and highly interesting, and it proves Mrs. Johnson to be a writer of marked ability, who will undoubtedly make her mark. It is no easy matter to write a good short story, and to succeed in this, one of the most difficult walks of literature, as Mrs. Johnson has done, certainly gives us reason to expect some good work from her pen in the future in the same line. Leisure Hours is conducted with much ability as a popular magazine, and we are pleased to see that it is steadily gaining upon the favor of the public. It is published at the unusually low price of $2, and is well worth that amount for the biographical sketches of prominent public men which appear in it every month.

-The Penn Monthly for February contains several able articles, among which those entitled "Spain and Protection," by Charles A. Eggert, and "Modern Music," by J. G. R., are especially worthy of attention.

-From J. B. Lippincott & Co. we have received The Sunday Magazine, Good Words, and Good Words for the Young, for February, all of which are finely illustrated, and are filled with excellent articles by some of the best English writers of the day.

- Van Nostrand's Eclectic Engineering Magagins for February contains a series of valuable articles selected from the best European engineering publications.

-Our Schoolday Visitor for February is filled with pleasant stories, shotohes and verses for -The February number of The Coachmakers' International Journal contains a variety of information of interest to the coachmaking fraternity.

-The Manufacturer and Builder for February has a variety of valuable practical and scientific articles that are worthy of attention.

NEWS SUMMARY.

City Affairs. -Last evening a meeting of colored soldiers and sailors was held at Liberty Hall, Lombard street, below Seventh, to receive the reports of committees appointed at a previous one looking to the annual celebration of the fiftsenth amendment. The reports were received, but no definite action was

-Last evening, between 8 and 9 o'clock, there was an explosion of three barrels of benzine in the yard attached to the store and dwelling No. 1394 Ridge avenue, occupied by Peter Hartenstein. The house was set on fire and burned the back portion of it to the third story, and the furniture and other effects of the occupant suffered by water. His loss is about $400. The damage to the building will reach $500. The explosion is believed to have been the work of design. In attempting to extinguish the flames Mr. Hartenstein had his hands burned.

—At a meeting of the Public Buildings Commission, held yesterday, bids for the erection of a board fence around Penn Square were opened, and on motion, referred to the Committee on Contracts, and, after some further business, including the submitting of certain original plans for the public buildings by Mr. J. L. Husband, the board adjourned.

—A meeting of the representatives of the Presbyterian Alliance was held last evening at the church Broad street, above Chesnut, at which the munificent gift of Professor Saunders was accepted. The gift consists of the institute building, now occupied for educational purposes, and valued at $60,000, which the professor donates to the Alliance for the use of a Presbyterian hospital. The building is admirably adapted for this purpose, the school-rooms and dormitories being arranged in such a manner as to render them complete for hospital use without altertion.

The Alliance accepted the gift upon the stipulated conditions of the donor, which are that to Professor Saunders and his wife the sum of $2000 annually be given each during their lifetime, and in case of the death of one of them the sum aforesaid is to be given to the survivor until his or her death. The building has an incumbrance of $40,000. which the professer proposes to liquidate. The gift is a most generous one, and will immortalize the name of Saunders. -Mr. Tryon Reakirt, the junior partner of the firm of John Reakirt & Son, wholesale druggists, has been committing a series of forgeries to the amount of $100,000. As far as has been discovered the forgeries are confined to the names of prominent wholesale druggists, and they consist of notes purporting to be drawn by them. One of them is in the name of Russell & Landis, No. 5 North Fifth street, and another is on O. S. Janney & Co., No. 41 South Front street. The investigation thus far has been confined to a very few banks, among them the Commercial, Commonwealth, and Tradesmen's banks, and Bank of Commerce. The discovery of the fraudulent transactions was made by a bank erk as follows -- A note for $7000 emanat ing apparently from Russell & Landis, was deposited in a certain bank, and it was afterwards discovered that instead of the date being 1871 it was 1870. The firm was notified of the fact, when the bank clerk was informed that they had no such note out. Mr. Reakirt was sent for, and he made good the deficit and the transaction was covered up at the time, but subsequently the whole affair was exposed.

Domestic Affairs.

-The locomotive works of Smith Porter, in South Pittsburg, were burned yesterday morning, and twelve locomotives were destroyed.

-Free trade resolutions were discussed in the Ohio Senate yesterday, and, after being modified so as to favor a moderate tariff,

-The Board of Trade of Reading, Pa., bave appointed a committee to confer with other bodies who are inconvenienced and injured by the strikes of the coal miners. -In the case of the Camden election rioters, the United States Court, sitting at Trenton, has adjourned until the 15th instant, when counsel will argue the constitutionality of the act under which one of them, Souders, was last week convicted. -A colored man named Robinson, residing near Lockland, Ohio, becoming infuriated on Monday night, fired promiseuously into a congregation as it was retiring from church, and wounded several persons. After much difficulty he was taken into custody.

Foreign Affairs. -The bombardment of Belfort is still going on. -The Paris decree of the 29th of January is maintained. - Much anarchy is beginning to be developed among the French people, and this is especially the case in Paris. -The Prefect of Lyons on Monday reviewed a corps of 10,000 troops, all of whom were from Alsace and Lorraine. -The German officials in France have been ordered to abstain from a strict censorship of the press while the elections are progressing -Members of the Government who arrived at Bordeaux from Paris telegraphed to the prefects of all the departments, on Monday night, a decree annulling the Bordeaux decrees of the 31st of January relative to electoral disqualifications as incompatible with the principles of universal suffrage.

OUTRAGE IN A SCHOOL.

A Little Boy Cruelly Whipped for Involuntary Laushing - A Dotheboys Hall in Pennsyl-

From the Easton Express.

A young lad aged about fourteen years, son of Mr. Solomon Derr, residing on Washington street, West ward, was shamefully beaten by his teacher yesterday in the West Ward Secondary School. The boy for several years past has been afflicted with St. Vitus' dance, and at times would laugh quite heartly without any apparent cause.

Just before the close of school yesterday afternoon, the boy had one of these spells, and not having the power to stop when ordered to de so by his teacher, was rudely selzed by the having the power to stop when ordered to de so by his teacher, was rudely seized by the breast of his coar, unmercifully beaten with a hickory stick, and then taken to the head of the stairs outside the building, where he was allowed to remain in the cold while the teacher unfeelingly went home. Some of the little fellow's comrades tried to carry the boy to his home, as he was unable to walk; but not being able to do so, Mr. Derr, the father, was notified, and when he arrived at the school-house the child was found nearly frozen, his arms rigidly folded, with his head rest-

Our reporter this morning noticed on the child's body the finger-marks of the brute where he grasped him, and long black stripes over the back, caused by the blokery stick. What makes the matter still school card showed the conduct of the boy to have been No. 1 during the month just past, there is not the shadow of an excuse for the brutal conduct In the name of an outraged community, we call upon the Board of Control to suspend the teacher at once until the affair is thoroughly investigated.

HOVER'S PATENT SOFA BED.

In consequence of certain parties representing that their Sofa Beds and Lounges are of my patent, I beg leave to inform the public that my Sofa Bed is for sale only at MOORE & CAMPION'S and ALLEN & BROTHER'S, and at the Manufactory, No. 230 South SECOND Street.

This novel invention is not in the least complicated, having no cords or ropes to pull in order to regulate, or props to keep it up when in the form of a bedstead, which are all very unsafe and liable to get out of repair. The bedstead is formed by turning out the ends, or closing them when the Sofa is wanted.
