ANOTHER "CURLEY" HARRIS.

A Dauphin County Rough Rivals His Philadelphia Comrade in Rognery and Reckless-

The Harrisburg State Journal of yesterday The wonderful feat performed by "Curley Harris," in leaping from a train while in motion, has found its prototype in Dauphin county John Hoover, from Lykens valley, was arrested at the instance of a woman residing in his neighbood for an indiscretion punishable by imprisonment in the county jail. While being brought over the Northern Central Railroad to this city, in custody of the constable of Millersburg, he asked and obtained permission to visit the "saloon" at the end of the car, and was temporarily relieved of his handcuffs. The train was a few miles north of the city, going at the rate of about 30 miles per hour. Waiching his opportunity, he suddenly sprang out of the door upon the platform, and from thence leaped to the ground. The constable immediately started in parsuit, but was stopped at the door by a brother of the prisoner, who had evidently been in collusion with the escape. The door was soon opened, and the constable also leaped from the train, sustaining slight bruises. His bird, however, had flown, and no clue was obtained.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The Second Thomas Concert. The second concert of the present series Thomas' orchestra was given last evening in the presence of the largest audience that has yet greeted this popular organization in Philadelphia. The orchestra were in fine condition, and gave the several selections in their best manner First on the programme was the well-known "Hebrides" (Fingal's cave) overture of Mendelssohn. Following it came the adagio from Beethoven's "Prometheus" music, repeated from a former concert. Weber's concertstuck for plano, three movements, was played by Miss Anna Meblig in such a manner as to draw forth the most hearty applause. Beethoven's Septett, Op 20, the original for two violins, cello, clarionet, bassoon, and horn, was played entire by the full reed and string orchestra. The difficult first violin solo pars was rendered in the most delicate manner by the ten unison violins; and the lights and shades, the phrasing, and the execution were given with as much effect as if one soloist only was performing according to his own individual judgment.

Probably the most effective performance of the evening was the "Semiramide" overture of Rossini, which was the more pleasing on ac-count of its great familiarity, but which was hardly recognizable in its perfected state, as given by this orchestra. Of the planissimo effects the Schumann Træumerei was the representative, and for the inevitable encore the Havdn "Sere-nade" was played by the strings. Miss Mehlig gave Liszt's "Rhapsodie Hongroise," but declined the honor of a recall, probably on account of the length of the programme. A set of waltzes, a Strauss mazourks and galop, and the No. 3 "Fackeltanz" of Meyerbeer completed

The Steinway grand plane used at the concert by Miss Mehlig gave general satisfaction to the audience and performer. It was constructed after the model of a new patent improvement made by one of the Stoinway Sons, and was furnished by Mr. Charles Blasius, No. 1006 Ches-nut street. These pianos are used exclusively by Miss Mehlig in her concert tour with the Thomas orchestra. The Thomas concert organization will return to Philadelphia in a few weeks, when another season of two concerts will be given on the evenings of March 31 and April 1. On the first named evening the occasion will be the annual benefit of Mr. Alfred Stimmel, the well-known doorkeeper of the Academy of Music. Tickets and reserved scats for this performance can be had now on application at the Academy.

The City Amusements. AT THE WALNUT Mrs. Charles Walcot will have a benefit this evening, "then London Assurance will be represented with Mrs. Daniel Morrison, formerly Miss C. Nickinson, as "Lady Gay Spanker," and Mrs. Walcot as "Grace Harkaway." The performance will conclude with the drama of Paul Clifford. Mrs. Walcot is the drama of Paul Clifford. is an admirable actress, and her friends should turn out in force on such an occasion as this. There will be a matinee to-morrow, when the drama of The Great City will be performed.

At the Arch The Brigands and two scenes of Paris; or, The Apple of Discord will be given this evening. AT THE CHESNUT the spectacular drama of The Old Man of the Mountain will be performed this evening for the benefit of the author, Mr. J. C. Foster.

A matinee to-morrow.
AT THE AMERICAN MUSEUM, Ninth and Arch streets, there will be a dramatic performance this evening.

A matinee to-morrow. AT THE AMERICAN the programme for this evening will be arranged to suit the tastes of a family audience, and it will embrace a great number of entertaining features. A family matinee to-morrow.

"I WAS AS WEAK AS A BABY," observed one of the young lady employes at Macy's dry goods store, "when I commenced taking Plantation Bitters; and now I am on my feet from morning till night, without ever feeling over fatigued." This remark was made about six months ago to a pale, emaclated girl who was making some purchases at Macy's. "The hint was taken," says the young woman in a letter to the preprietors; "I began taking your Bitters the next day, and am happy to tell you that they have completely restored my health, strength, and cheerfulness."

FROM THE DOMINION.

It was suggested by the Premier that Sir A. T. Galt should make his motion on the subject on Monday or Tuesday. Mr. McKenzie, leader of the opposition, referred to the offensive language used towards Canada not only by certain citizens, but by the President of the United States in his annual message, who seems as if controlled by an irresponsible power unfriendly to this country, because it occupied a semi-independent position as a dependency of the British empire, which they desired to change by annexation to the republic.

In a strain of patriotic eloquence Mr. McKenzie strongly condemned such utterances, and said there was a large and respectable class in the States friendly to the Canadians. He arged his hearers to cultivate love of liberty and love of country, and trusted no pressure had been brought to bear by the Imperial Government for the adoption of any course that would necessitate sacrifice of our rights. He proceeded to state there had not been any reference in published correspondence to the consideration of Fenian claims by the high commission. He was here interrupted in the negative by Sir Francis Hincks, but Mackenzis maintained his statement and criticized so newhat the submissive tendency of Sir Edward Thornton when the American Government insisted upon any demands.

He did not believe in submitting to grave injustice, and demanded as a national right, considered with regard to fisheries, that the threemile limit, counting from headland to headland, should be insisted upon.

Sir John A. Macdonald replied at considerable length, stating that the interests of Canada would not be sacrificed by England to her own Practical Suggestion Relative to the Ala-bama Uhims.

A prominent Senator will introduce a resolution in a day or two to the effect that, in the judgment of Congress, in the settlement of the Alabama claims, all English possessions on the continent north of Lake Superior and the Hudson Bay Company be ceded to the United States. It is believed this will give rise to a very important debate, as several Senators are preparing to discuss the question favorably.
