THE GRAND ENTRY.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

THE GERMAN CONQUERORS IN PARIS-HOW THE VICTORIOUS LEGIONS ADVANCED - NO DIS-

TURBANCES OCCUR. Paris, March 1 .- The head of the column of the 11th Corps, under General Von Bose, is just entering Pont du Jour and Porte Maillat, moving towards Arc de Triomphe. No hostile movement of the populace has yet been seem, and the prospect of a collision is diminishing.

At 10 o'clock A. M. the 11th Corps, numbering thirty thousand men, with ninety-six pieces of field artillery and the usual proportion of cavalry, advanced in two columns, one at Porte Neuilly, and the other at Pont du Jour.

The former advanced at a pretty rapid pace up the avenue of the Grande Armee, direct for Arc de Triomphe, the French troops vacating the streets as the Germans approached. The other column entering at Pont de Jour, below Autenil, commenced to march along the quay on the north side of the Seine, direct for Place de la Concorde, where the rendezvous of the two columns is fixed. The zone surrendered to the Germans was almost entirely free of French. It commences at the extreme southwest corner of the enceinte, which forms a point, and runs in the shape of an irregular triangle, of which the Seine forms the east side, the enceinte from Pont du Jour to Porte des Ternes the west side, and Faubourg Honore, Avenue des Ternes, from Rue Royale to the enceinte, the north side, or base.

The only point within these limits retained by the French are the baking establishment of the Army of Paris, Quai de Belly, and Pont de Jena.

As the troops proceeded along the line the artillery took positions from Porte de Neully to the Place de la Concorde, and from Pont du Jour to the same point, as a precautionary

Nothing could exceed the splendid appearance of the troops, who turned out in as perfect order as if on a parade-ground at home. The chief thoroughfares were quiet, and few persons were about from 6 to 9 A. M. The shop windows were shut, and the aspect of the city was desolate. The Nationales are posted as pickets in every avenue, with lines of sentries across the streets to prevent persons going beyond the line of demarcation. From 10 to 12 o'clock the same aspect was presented, with more people in the streets in small crowds, and with more Nationales on duty.

At Rue Royale, Rivoli, and Place de Concorde are double lines of wagons cutting off communication. Most of the women are out in mourning and going to mass. On Champs Elysees hardly a person was seen. All the houses were closed except three or four small

No one was seen at the windows, and only a few Italian, American, and English flags were flying, and one single French flag hung over the hall of the Corps Legislatif, At nine A. M. the head of the Prussian advance was seen rounding Arc de Triomphe to the surprise of the few who were present. Both men and women were seen hurrying away in tears, and only boys and a few work men were left. The German hussars galloped down every avenue leading to the Champs Liyeses to search the physics beauty ing therefrom.

Not the slightest attempt at disturbance occurred. About four thousand infantry and cavalry only were in the advance. There was no music, not a drum was beat or trum pet sounded. A splendid body of men halted opposite Palais d'Industrie, which was at once occupied by hussars.

A few uhlans rode down Place de la Concorde, where they viewed with derision the faces of the statues covered with crape.

The Germans are astonished at the mournful aspect of the city and the desertion of its streets. THE PRELIMINARY CONDITIONS OF PEACE RATI-FIED. BORDEAUX, March 1 .- In the Nationa' Assembly to-day the Committee on Consultation, which accompanied M. Thiers to Versailles, made their report, unanimously recommending the ratification by the Assembly of the preliminaries of peace. M. Bomberger, a deputy from Moselle, adjured the Assembly to reject any terms involving the cession of French territory. He strongly denounced Napoleon III. A violent agitation arose in the Chamber on an attempt by M. Conti, formerly private secretary of the Emperor, to speak in justification of the Empire. The Assembly enthusiastically and unanimously voted by acclamation a resolution offered by M. Targes decreeing the fall of the Empire, and stigmatizing Napoleon as the author of the misfortunes of France. The Assembly then voted the ratification of the preliminary conditions of peace by 346 yeas against 107 pays.

AGRICULTURE.

The Agricultural Society-Interesting Meeting -The Butter Question. A stated meeting of the Philadelphia Society for the Promotion of Agriculture was held yesterday afternoon in the hall, Ninth and Walnut streets. The minutes were read and approved. At the meeting of last month a resolution was adopted requesting members of the society, and others who make butter for their own use or for sale, to furnish specimens of their manufacture to the meeting of to-day, when three persons were to be appointed a committee to judge of the quality of the butter sent. Accordingly at the meeting numerous specimens of the article were displayed on a long table spread in the hall. The sight was of a very tempting character.

The president of the society appointed Messrs. Darlington, Johnson and Blight on the commit-tee to judge of the merits of the butter. They accordingly proceeded to their labors. The various specimens were thoroughly examined and tested by the committee, who had a splendid time all to themselves, the other members of the society looking on. Bread for the purpose of use in connection with the butter was furnished by the society, and the free lunch thus formed was thoroughly enjoyed by the committee.

While the committee were pursuing their investigation, the society filled up the time with a discussion on the subject of the proper food for cows the milk from which it is proposed to use for the purpose of making butter. The discussion was taken part in by Mesers. Ingersoll, Satherthwaite, and Morris, and Mr. Harvey, of the experimental farm. The various specimens of butter submitted to the judgment of the committee were numbered only so as to procure a fair judgment. The names of the parties who had furnished the specimens were retained by the President of the society. To other members and the committee the specimens were known only by the numbers. The committee, after due deliberation, reported that all the specimens submitted were of sidered No. 8 deserving of the first prize, No. 4 of the second, and No. 5 of the third. The President announced that No. 8 was furnished by Mr. Satterthwait of Montgomery county, No.

4 by Mr. Ingersoll, and No. 5 by Mr. Gowthrup of Chester county.

A resolution was offered on the centennial exposition, applauding the action of Cougress in the matter of appointing a committee to co-operate with other societies of like character in the Department of Agriculture. The discussion of the resolution was postponed until the next meeting, when definite information could be obtained as to what will be done.

The three gentlemen who had taken the butter prizes gave the result of their experience in the manufacture, and the breeds of cows used, after which the society adjourned.

TAX-PAYING.

One of the Sad Realities of Life-The Ordea! This Morning-The Scene.

There is nothing romantic in paying taxes, nothing attractive, for in it we discover one of those stern realities which every unhappy property owner is destined to undergo. It is definitely settled that however much a citizen may meralize upon patriotism in the abstract, and the duty he owes his country, whether in the unsanguinary mode of sustaining it with his money or in his presence on the field of battle, there is nothing that appears to him so obnoxious as paying his taxes. He regards this Imposition as an unmitigated gouge, and looks upon the entire horde of collectors as his enemies; while usually from the moment the Receiver announces the time set for the payment until it arrives, he is imbaed with a moping melanchely, grows peevish, and wonders "when the taxes will be reduced!"

But forewarned of the penalties imposed by authority if he procrastinate, and attracted by the knowledge that if he is prompt a slight discount will be given him-a little concession to mitigate the stringency of the law-he takes the earliest opportunity to end the ordeal. This morning, then, we had the interesting picture, and h still exists, of a great throng of jammed together in the Receiver of Taxes' office and without. The clerks labored with fervent zeal, and yet did the impatient crowd regard them with a vindictiveness for a fancied indolence. The cash poured heavily into the iron coffers, and yet they stood gaping for more. that thick mass of humanity was represented s mental as well as moral kaleidoscope, which, whenever jostled, discovered some new distenper or some choice piece of muttered profanity Observe a scene:--

An elderly lady, with a sharp voice, approaches the railing.
"Your name, madam?" exclaims the clerk.
"No. 4444 Moyamensing avenue."

"Ah, yes. Just $90 50. "That's nice," responds the lady in a tone so loud that every one must hear. "Why couldn't you have added the fifty cents and made a clean hundred? But you're such good people (sarcastically) of course you would'nt take anything. I'd like to know what's to be the end of all this if taxes so on as they are? I don't believe it all goes to the treas-Officer—"There, madam, pass on, pass on. Here's your bill. Go ahead." And the lady, muttering something about a want of politicness, and "but people can't do better nowa-days," was pushed out with the crowd.

So it continued all the morning; so it will continue all day. Considerable good humor amongst the choleric crowd was caused by a man who, having paid his bill, and finding other means of exit impossible, unless after patient waiting, leaped out of the window, and alighted "right side up."

R ESOLUTION
Of Request to the Congress of the United States to Repeal the Income Tax. Whereas, In the opinion of a vast majority of the citizens of Philadelphia the income tax, as now assessed and collected, is inquisitorial, unequal, and oppressive. It invites the commis-s on of perjury; it offers a premium for dishon-e-ty, and is most offensive to American sensiality and education in exposing to the public the private affairs of individuals; and Whereas, The amount realized therefrom is vastly disproportionate to the expense of colection; and Whereas, The said tax was originally imposed on the sole ground that it was necessary as a war measure, and as such submitted to and cheerfully paid by the people; and the reason of the imposition of the tax being abrogated, the collection of the tax should also cease; now therefore kesolved, By the Select and Common Counils
