CARBONIC ACID.

Two Men Smothered to Death. Last night a man named Robert Thompson and a companion went into a lime-kiln situated south of Race street and west of Twenty-fifth, for the purpose of sleeping. This morning the men were discovered dead, having been smothered by the carbonic acid gas. Coroner Brown has been notified so hold an inquest.

THE RENEWAL OF INSURANCE POLICIES .- A decision of the Commissioner of Internal Rereceipt attached to a fire policy should be stamped states that when by the terms of the policy it expires by limitation in one year, the renewal receipt continues a new contract, renewing or continuing the policy for another year. It should therefore have stamps to the same amount as the original policy. Some misapprehension on this subject has been occasioned by the exemption of receipts from stamp duty, under section fourteen of the act of July 14, 1870. Previous to that amendment, receipts for premiums, which simply prevented a policy from expiring by reason of non-per-formance of its conditions, as in the case of a common form of life policies of indefinite duration, were held to require only a two-cent receipt stamp. Accordingly they are now considered as coming under the general exemption of recelpts. There is no other change in the stamp tax affecting insurance. Any writing, whether called a "receipt" or otherwise, which contains a contract, renewing a policy that has expired from any cause, or is about to expire by limitation, should be stamped the same as an original

A FITTING MEMORIAL. -It is proposed to insert a memorial window for Alice Cary in the "Church of the Strangers," in New York. From this church Miss Cary was buried. It was the last to which she was attached, and is the one of which her surviving sister, Miss Phoebe Carv, is a member. A memorial window has been decided upon by her friends as more appropriate than a tablet. An artist is engaged on the design. and the window will be as rich as the contributions of her friends will justify. It is necessary only to state this object to secure the necessary funds. A few dollars from each of her many friends and admirers will make this graceful monument to her memory, Contributions will be received in Philadelphia by Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Nos. 715 and 717 Market street. the responses be promptly made. When finished a circular will be sent to the subscribers with an acknowledgment of their contributions.

A NEW WAY OF FULFILLING A CONTRACT. -Yesterday a family living on Ninth street, above Catharine, engaged three men to move their household goods to another dwelling. In order to estimate the cost of this service, the men desired to be shown the quantity of goods to be carted off, and were admitted for this purpose into the dwelling. But these worthies went about the work of removal in a manner highly reprehensible. Last night, under cover of the darkness, they "jimmied" a door of the house, and ransacked it, carrying off jewelry and a pocket-book containing $20. As they were making their exit, one of them—he who had the funds so surreptitionsly obtained -was captured. He refused to give his name. He will have a hearing at the Central Station.

MISSIONARY ANNIVERSARY. - Last evening an interesting anniversary of the Sunday-school Missionary Society connected with St. Paul's M E. Church was held in the church building, on Catherine street, above Sixth A large audience was present, and the church building was beautifully decorated with flags, plants, and flowers. Addresses were made by John Wanamaker, Rev. S. W. Thomas, Rev. W. M. Dalrymple, and Rev. Anthony Atwood. The sum raised by the society during the year was $962. The missionary contributions for the year from the school and church of which Rev. W. J. Paxton is pastor amounted to $1500.

Positively Dangerous.—The residents of the vicinity of Twenty-second and Vine streets have just cause for complaint. In that section stone fights have become a frequent occurrence between two gangs of boys. Yesterday after-noon a boy threw a lump of clay through the bay window of a house on Vine street, near Twenty-second, broke two large panes of glass, and narrowly escaped striking an old lady who was sitting there sewing. The missile then flow through the parlor, and struck a young girl on the foot as she was playing a plane. The neighborhood propose to put a stop to the disgraceful

DON'T PAY FOR THEIR OYSTERS, -Some nights ago the oyster saloon kept by a colored man on Broad street, opposite the Academy of Music, was set on fire, but was extinguished by a policeman before any great amount of damage was done. A number of boys having been hang ing around the place and having also been in the habit of eating oysters without paying therefor, they are in arrears to the colored man, who on asking for his money was met with not only refusal but with threats. Four of the boys have been placed under arrest, and they will be heard before Alderman Kerr this afternoon.

OBSTRUCTING THE HIGHWAYS.-Lieutenant Flaherty this morning arrested a driver of an Adams Express wagon, in Chesnut street, above Twelfth, for obstructing the highways. The driver, whose name is William Wambold, was unloading his wagon, and positively refused to move until he had finished the business. During this time four cars were in waiting and a fifth was just coming down. The Lieutenant told Wambold to move, and, instead of complying, that individual commenced to abuse the officer He was placed under arrest, and Alderman Mor-

BECOND BOARD. Mr. Vanhorn, with the assistance of two policemen, removed Scott to the Episcopal Hospital, where he lingered until yesterday morning, when he died, The post-mortem examination made by Dr. Shapleigh yesterday afternoon revealed the fact that there were several bruises on the right shoulder and a slight rupture of one lung. Death had resulted from inflammation and beemorrhage. Detectives Carlin and Lukens made a thorough investigation of the particulars, and found that Scott had spent last Friday evening at the tavern of Nathaniel Boucher, at Main and Oxford streets, Frankford. He took a number of drinks, and becoming very much intoxicated, was removed to the milk-wagon beonging to Mr. Vanhorn.

The following additional testimony was taken by Coroner Brown at the inquest to-day at

William Neslie sworn-I reside in Frankford; saw the occased at Daniel Butcher's hotel on Friday evening at half-past 7 o'clock; he came there with ancing and singing: I went out and came in again; the deceased soled as if he was somewhat drank; the deceased acted as if he was somewhat drank; he took a good many drinks, and at last became so drunk that he was noable to stand; he ected as if he was half crazy; Mr. Butcher thought he was going to vomit, and myself and two others carried the man out and put him in Mr. Vannora's mik wagon; there was no fighting in the tavern; the de-ceased did not fall, but sild out of a chair; did not see him after he was put in the milk wagon; he acted very strangely; did not know him; never saw him before that night. Frederick Tinker, of No. 4602 Head street, who he ped to remove the deceased to the milk wason, corroborated in the main the testimony of the preceding witress. The wagon stood in a lane about fifty yards from the hotel. John Archer, living at No. 16 Sellers street, testi-ted to the fact that there was some fun going on in the tavern on the evening in question. Some one blacked the face of the man with burnt-cork; there was no fight teat night; did not see any one hurt the foregoing was challed. Frank Boucher, the son of the tavern-keeper, tes tified to his having seen the deceased fall out of the chair to the floor; there was no fighting in the place; saw to one tolder the deceased. Mr. Vantorn stated that it was on Friday morning that he found Scott in this wagor.

Lieutenant McOlecs saw the deceased in the station-house on Friday morning, and found that he had lest the use of his limbs. His arm was very much swellen and a doctor was called in to examine turn. The physician thought that there had been some rupture in Scott's chest and advised his re moval to the Episcopal Hospital, which was accord Dr. Shapleigh's testimony was to the effect that the decreased had met with considerable violence, not a kick or a strike, but from having been jammed ctween two things. The injury could also be fect of a heavy weight falling upon him, such as a bank. He might have been run over by a wagon, which would cause the wounds explained Deat) resulted from hemorrhage and inflamma tion of the pieura.

A Mrs. Ottinger, of Germantown, knew Scott, and testified that he has been crazy for over a year past. The last time she saw him was about three months ago, at which time he was boarding with The jury rendered the following verdict:-

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

EVENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE, Wednesday, March 8, 1871. The lively movement in stock circles lucreases the demand for temporary loans, and generally the banks flud good employment for all the funds available. In the present unsettled condition of stocks much caution is exercised, but on Government pledges rates are exceedingly easy. 5 to 6 per cent may be quoted as the range on these and miscellaneous collaterals. On Reading and other railroad securities margins to cover contingencies are required. The regular business demand increases from day to day, but slowly, and the supply of capital appears abundant for all present wants. The banks show a disposition to expand, indicating full confidence in the future condition of the WHEELING, W. Va., March 8 .- The Grand Jury have found nine indictments against A. C. Quarrier. Seven of these are for feloniously making an entry in an account kept by a joint stock company with intent to conceal the true state of the accounts. The indictments charged that on the 16th of December, 1867, he changed the figures to the credit of the account of the Norway Iron Manufacturing Company from $6788.25, so that on the ledger they read $16,788 25. On the 24th of the same month, in the same account, the figures $3127.47 were changed to read $13,127.47. On January 14, 1868, the figures $2735.33 were changed to $12,735.33. On the 27th of March the figures $1368.83 were changed to $11,868.83, and other similar changes; that the figures cash in the credit account marked Levis were changed on November 1, 1870, from $51,876 to $151,878, and on November 11 from $150 to $1150. Union Pacific Railroad.

Continued from the Third Edition. "Since the opening of our road we have been seeking to secure the transportation of teas and silks of China and Japan, and arrangements have recently been made to secure a large portion of this business overland, and we expect during the coming season a very large increase of receipts from this source.

"The great mutations which have taken place in our securities in the months past perhaps demand some explanation. After we had saved the Government millions upon millions on the cost of transportation over the plains and to the Pacific; after we had done away with the necessity of keeping soldiers for eighteen hundred miles to secure the safety of emigration and trans-continental trade; after we had opened the vast interior to settlement seven years earlier than required of vs by our charter, the action of some of the departments of the Government became so hostile to us as to shake the credit of the corporation.

"The Treasury Department first refused to receive United States Pacific Rallroad bonds as a basis for banking, and thus lessened their mercantile value. It next selected and set apart these bonds in its monthly publication of the public debt as if not a portion of the debt of the United States, but of our road exclusively, thus apparently indicating its irresponsibility, and thereby again lessening their value. Then pubished menthly not only the indebtedness with nterest, but the deficit of the interest, as if due by us and left unpaid, and then, worst of all and hardest of all, withheld from us our earnings in the transportation of etters, newspaper-packages, and of army and navy, all of which we had hitherto been paid one-half of as under act of Congress. The Treasury Department was fortified in the last act of injustice by an opinion of the Attorney-General. These repeated blows against this, the greatest work of the age, so unexpectedly directed, shook our credit for a time, for it was soon seen and felt that no corporation could withstand such attacks, and hence the wide and wild variations in the market value of our securities.

The Judiciary Committee

of the United States Senate, every member except one, offset their legal opinion, that the interest was not due, against the opinion of the Attorney-General that it was due, and every other committee in both houses of Congress, before whom the question was brought, agreed with the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. Both houses of Congress finally reversed the action of the Treasury Department and of the Attorney-General, the House of Representatives, without a division, and the result is the restoration of the credit of the company, with a great advance in all its securities.

Fire in Leavenworth.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, March 8.—A fire yesterday burned five buildings on Delaware street, involving a loss of about $25,000; only partially insured. The principal losers are Farral Bros. and Messre. Ashton. Reign of Terror in Kansas.

Reports from Southern Kansas state that there is likely to be a repetition of the reign of terror that existed there last fall, which culminated in the hanging of six or eight reputed horsethieves. FROM WASHINGTON.

Appointments by the President. Despatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8 —The President to-day made the following appointment of mem-bers of the Southern claims commission, as provided for by the amendment to the Army Appropriation bill, relative to claims of Southern loyalists:—Judge Addis, of Vermont; ex-Senator Howell, of Iowa; and ex-Representative Ferris, of New York.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

HARRISBURG, March 8.—A large number of re-ports were made from committees, among them the House bill increasing the number of mercantile ap-praisers, amended so as to make the ap raisers furnish a list of all the vendors of vinous, spirituous, and malt liquors in Philadelphia to the City Treaand mait inquors in Philadelphia to the City Treasurer, and requiring the Treasurer to return all persons selling without license to the Court of Quarter Sessions. The bill repeals all laws requiring constables to make these returns.

Mr. Brooke introduced a bill to incorporate the Norris Bank of Norristown.

By Mr. Connell, a supplement to the act providing for the regulation and inspection of buildings, in Philadelphia. This bill repeals the fifth section of the original act, which provides that the duties of inspectors shall terminate when the walls shall have been completed and the building is completed. Before any heating apparatus shall be placed in a building notice must be given to the Building Inspectors, who shall see that the apparatus is properly constructed with reference to the safety of the building. The duties of the lospectors shall extend all over the city, and only houses, barns, etc., used for farming purposes shall be considered as belonging to the raral districts. Two additional inspectors are to be appointed, one by the District Court and one by the Mayor, each for five years, and to have the same duties and salaries. the same duties and salaries.

Mr. Ellict held that it was unfair to impose general taxation for special and local improvements. Those who wanted new or patent pavoments in their own locality should be willing to pay for them. He offered the following amendment, viz.:—That when any repaying is done with other than cobble stones, the authorities shall have the right to charge the cost thereof to the property owners.

Mr. Miller said that this proposition was an excellent one, and would save the city thousands of dollars which she was now about borrowing to pay for lent one, and would save the city thousands of dollars which she was now about borrowing to pay for a local improvement on Broad street.

Mr. Dumbell opposed this amendment because it would allow contractors, by securing the assent of a majority of property-owners, to repaye any street. The minority would be forced to incur heavy expenses for a thing they did not want. This would be unfair to poor men.

be unfair to poor men.

Mr. Elliott ridiculed the idea of poor men owning properly on Broad street. If owners were not satisfied with their present pavements they should pay for new ones. The assent of 'a majority ought to be sufficient, because otherwise one or two persons to ach block might prevent some very necessary The amendment of Mr. Elliott was agreed to by

THN NATHAN MURDERER.

The Assassin Known to the Police-Inadver-tent Confession of a Professional Burgiar. The Times announced the confinement of Ellis at the Sixth Ward Station-house several weeks ago, but refrained from mentioning him by name, for fear that it would injure if not defeat the plans of the detectives. It merely stated that the prisoner was supposed to have some knowledge of the murder, although the reporter was in full possession of all the facts in the case, which, as it was believed, were not known to more than four persons. One of these was the late Superintendent. Jourdan, whose suspicions fastened on For-rester from a remark which Ellis was reported to have made in the State Prison, where he was imprisoned for burglary. It was told to the late superintendent that Ellis had said, on hearing of the Nathan murder, that he had planned with Forrester previous to his arrest and sentence to "crack" the house of Mr. Nathan, in Twenty-third street. Mr. Jourdan promptly obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Cardozo, and had Ellis brought from Sing-Sing in a secret manner, and placed in the Franklin Street Station House, where he was kept in the most rigid seclusion.

Before Mr. Jourdan had sufficient time toelicit any confession from Ellis he died, leaving to Judge Cardozo, a relative of Mr. Nathan, and Judge Dowling, his most intimate friend, together with two other genttemen, the task of unravelling the great mystery to which he had devoted his constant and unflagging attention. So guarded and close did he preserve his plans that it was not until after his death that Mr. Kelso, his Chief Detective and subsequent successor, became aware that he entertained any suspicions against Ellis or Forrester. After keeping Ellis here for six weeks, he was sent back to State Prison without having peached on his "pal." In consideration of the premature publication of some of the minor facts about the detectives' operations, it will not do any harm to mention now that Ellis has been constantly watched by a fellow-convict ever since he re-entered the prison doors at Sing Sing. At one time the detectives thought that they had enough avidence to make out a case against Ferrester, but they found that it was not sufficient to prove hims guilty under the law. The belief, however, that he is the man has almost strengthened into a certainty.—N. Y. Times to-day.
