CONGRESS. FORTY-SECOND TERM-FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Vice-President laid before the Senate the credentials of John W. Johnston, re-elected as Senater from Virginia for six years from the 4th instant. After the reading of the credentials Mr. Johnston took the oath of office.

Mr. Chandler, from the Committee on Commerce, feported back the bill to define a gross of matches and for other purposes, the object of which he said for other purposes, the object of which he said and for other purposes, the object of which he said was simply to prevent trandulent packing. r. Vickers, from the majority of the Committee on Disabilities, reported and asked present consideration of a bill to relieve the disabilities of Senator elect Zebulon B. Vance, of North Carolina.

Mr. Boreman, a member of the committee, said he lid not concur in the report.

Mr. Pomeroy objected to the consideration of the bill during the morning hour.
Mr. Stewart, from the Committee on Pacific Railroads, reported with amendments the bill to enable the Atlantic and Pacific Raliroad Company to mortgage its road. The amendment strikes out every-thing except the mere power to mortgage. Passed. Mr. Robinson, from the Committee on Disabilities, reported without amendment his bill to relieve all persons except mambars of Courses. persons except members of Congress and officers of the army and navy, who left their positions and aided the Rebellion, from all political disabilities im-posed by the fourteenth amendment of the Consti-

Mr. Rice, from the Committee on Mines and Mining, reported without amendment the bill to define and protect the rights of miners and to enourage the development of the mines.

Mr. Corbett, from the Committee on Commerce, orted without amendment the bill incorporating he Asiatic Commercial Company.

Senators on both sides of the chamber would of course be represented on the committee, Mr. Trumbuil suggested an increase of the committee to seven Senators and nine Representatives, and that the present Senate committee to investi-rate Southern affairs be included in the former

Mr. Authony accepted the suggestion for the inrease of the number of the committee, and the re-plution was modified accordingly.

Mr. Thurman said he was willing to forego any private opinion and to vote for an investigation which in the opinion of the majority was considered necessary, but he wanted an amendment so as to secure a fair representation of both parties on the sub-committees of the main committee, which might sit at various points in the South. He denied that the investigation was to be a party matter, and protested against the idea that any one party more than another had an interest in the preservation of the peace of the country. As the matter had in some quarters assumed the appearance of partisanship he would now provide for fairness in the investiga tion of the sub-committees.

Mr. Trumbull remarked that on calling attention to the matter the Senator from Ohio had probably accomplished his object. Certainly no one desired to obtain any information which was not correct, and tee if appointed would doubtless the suggestion.

Mr. Scott said the select committee on the South had never taken testimony unless one or two mem-bers of the minority on the committee were present. Mr. Thurman expressed himself satisfied with having called attention to the matter, and withdrew his suggestion for an amendment.

Mr. Conkling did not want it to be understood that there was any agreement in the Senate by which a Democratic member of a sub-committee would be enabled to frustrate the investigation by his ina-bility or unwillingness to accompany the other mem-bers of such sub-committee wherever they desired to go. Such an agreement would frustrate the whole investigation. He had no idea that any such thing would be attempted, but he would now enter his explicit denial that any such agreement had been

Mr. Thurman assured the Senator from New York [Mr. Conkling) of the fact, and full attendance of the Democrats if a sufficient number of them were appointed.

Appointed.
The concurrent resolution was then passed.
Mr. Patterson offered a concurrent resolution reviving the Joint Committee on Retrenchment, to consist of four Senators and seven Representatives, Mr. Stewart objected to the present consideration of the resolution, and it went over.
The new Senator Johnston was appointed upon the Committees on Manufactures and Education and Labor, vice Mr. Blair.
Mr. Johnston introduced a bill to readjust the claims of Virginia for advances to the United States during the war of 1812. Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. Chandler called up a bill to define a gross of nes, etc., amended on motion of Mr. Bayard

Mr. Butier, of Massachusetts, asked unanimous consent to have printed his bill for the protection of the lives and property of loyal citizens. Objections were made on the Democratic side of the House.

Mr. Eldridge, twenty minutes 'past 12, moved the House adjourn. The question was decided in the negative—yeas 80, nays 98.

Mr. Piatt asked leave to offer a joint resolution extending the provisions of the act of 1862 to all aliens tending the provisions of the act of 1862 to all aliens who entered or shall enter the navy or Marine Corps, and been honorably discharged, so as to place them on the same footing as to naturalization and citizen-

Mr. Maynard wanted the bill to go to the Com-Mr. Com said the resolution ought to be passed. He would welcome not only soldiers but sailors to citizenship, those who had served their country and been honorably discharged. He was satisfied, especially from the intelligence from the Portsmouth Navy Yard in the recent election in New Hampshire, that the sailors ought to be admitted as shire, that the sallors ought to be admitted as citizens.

The gentleman from Tennessee was a Native American of the old stamp—he would not say a Know-Nothing—but was astonished that, by his associations with such Republicans as the Speaker, the gentleman had not got rid of his principles of 1854 and 1856.

Mr. Maynard conceded the truth of Mr. Cox's remark that he was a Native American, and was no mark that he was a Native American, and was no longer young, if that was what the gentleman meant by being a Native American of the old sort.

Mr. Cox explained that he meant a Southern American or the control of the

Mr. Cox explained that he meant a Southern American many years ago.
Mr. Maynard, resuming, said there was no analogy between soldiers and sailors. The former stayed at home, while the latter were scattered all over the globe during the time of their enlistment, and therefore never became citizens by having the necessary preliminary residence at any place at home.
Mr. Platt referred to the fact of a similar joint resolution having heretofore upanimonary passed. resolution having heretofore unanimously passed the House, and maintained that sailors should have perty of loyal citizens.

Mr. Holman, at quarter to 2 o'clock, moved the House take a recess till 4 o'clock. The question was by yeas and nays determined in the negative. Mr. Wilson introduced a bill to remove the political disabilities of all persons except members of the Cabinet, and Senators and Representatives that left Congress to go into rebellion. Referred to the Committee on Political Disabilities.

Committee on Political Disabilities.

Mr. Anthony submitted a resolution for an investigation into Southern affairs, as follows:—

Resolved by the Senate, the House concurring, That a joint committee, consisting of five Senators and Seven Representatives be appointed, whose duty it shall be to inquire into the condition of the late insurrectionary States, so far as regards the execution of the laws and safety of the lives and property of citizens of the United States, with leave to report at any time the results of their investigation to Congress, with such recommendations as they may deem expedient, and that such committee be may seem expedient, and that such committee be authorized to employ clerks and stenographers to sit during the recess, take testimony, and visit at their discretion any portion of said States during the recess of Congress; print and make public at any time during the recess the results of their in-vestigations, and the expenses of said committee shall be paid out of the Congressional contingent

Mr. Anthony explained that his resolution would provide for a joint investigating committee upon which both houses would be represented instead of a special committee of one branch, as proposed by

Mr. Butler, of Massachusetts, demanded the regular order, saying he simply wanted to introduce the bill indicated to the House. Mr. Dawes asked that the House take up the joint resolution of the Senate just received, provid-ing for a committee to investigate the subject of Southern outrages.

The Speaker replied that nothing was in order but the calling of States for bills and resolutions, commencing with Maine. Pending this Mr. Holman had moved the House

Mr. Garfield appealed to Mr. Butler not to object to the taking up of a bill providing for printing the preliminary census report, and Mr. Dawes asked his colleague whether he would give way that he might

Mr. Farnsworth then expressed the hope that the House would now adjourn.

The question was taken on the motion to adjourn, and decided in the affirmative—yeas, 103; nays, 80.

The House, in accordance with a previous decision, then adjourned till Monday next.

FROM HARRISBURG.

DEBATE IN THE LEGISLATURE UPON NATIONAL AFFAIRS-THE REMOVAL OF MR. SUMNER. From Our Own Correspondent. HARRISBURG, March 16, 1871.

The tedious monotony of legislation was broken this afternoon by a debate of much animation and some acrimony, on the resolution of Senator Billingfelt condemning the removal of Senator Sumner. Mr. Billingfelt is one of the sturdy line of the honest Germans of Pennsylvania, a Republican of the most consistent devotion to the principles of the party, and a man who, in the feetid atmosphere of Harrisburg, has ever stood above the suspicion of insincerity or venality. He carries more moral power with him than any other man on his side. He knows that the degradation of Sumner was unwarranted and uncalled for by any honest regard for the Republican party. He knows that there are no intelligent and upright members of the party who do not deprecate the substitution of Cameron for Sumner; and in his honest, fearless, and frank; way he reflected the almost universal views of the party by offering a resolution condemning the action of the United States Senate.

He found that all his habitual associates were afraid of the question; but as he knows no fear in the advocacy of the right, he dared to maintain and express his opinions, and he did it in a clear, logical, and unanswerable argument. Others might talk with more polish, but no one could have told more pertinent truth in a more intelligent way than did Mr. Billingfelt in his speech.

It was surprising and humiliating to see the action of his Republican colleagues. Not one of them ventured to say boldly that the removal of Mr. Sumner was justiflable. Some applogized, in a feeble, timid way for the act; but not one dared to say that it was right. Senator Mumma made an earnest and creditable effort to break the force of Mr. Billingfelt's blows; but beyond a severe assault upon the Democrats, he did not succeed. He did not say that the displacement of Sumner was right-indeed, he said expressly that he regretted it-but he insisted that the Democrats had been guilty of as great, or even greater, wrongs against the independence of statesmanship. By adroitly evading the issue, he made some good points against the Democratic party. Mr. Buckalew made one of his clear and able speeches, defending the independence of Senators, and reflected severely upon the administration for the degradation of Sumner. Senor Dill followed in a brief but sensible speech on the same side. and Mr. Delameter closed the debate of the afternoon by insisting that the Legislature should not meddle with the question. The question was not finally disposed of, but when it is reached Mr. Billingfelt's resolution will pass. He may stand alone amongst the Senators in his record, but all agree that he is also alone in maintaining tearlessly the right. The people of his county, and of the State, will do him honor for the record of this day.

THE SALE OF CUBA AND PORTO RICO.

Yesterday's Reported Offer Confirmed-The Terms and Preliminaries-The Offer not to be Entertained. A Washington despatch to the N. Y. Tribune

Inquiry to-day establishes the truth of the rumor sent from here last evening, with regard to the proposition of the new Spanish Government to sell the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico to the United States for $100,000,000. The President and Secretary of State both say that some time ago General Prim made a proposition to General Sickles, offering the colonies to the United States for $200,000,000. It was declined at once on our part, and declared to be wholly out of the question. About the time the Duke of Savoy was to start from Florence to assume the duties of his new position, and shortly before General Prim was assassinated, a confidential friend of Amadeus and of the Spanish Regency, who had himself been partially educated in America, arrived in New York as the bearer of propositions of settlement to the Cuban patriots on the part of the new Spanish regime.

These propositions were published in the Tribune at the time, in the form of a despatch from this city. They include a provincial auto-nomy for Cuba and Porto Rico similar to that enjoyed by the North American colonies of Great Britain; a full and complete amnesty for the revolutionists, leaders, and defeuders; re-presentation of Cuba and Porto Rico in the Spanish Cortes; the abolition of slavery, and the establishment of manhood suffrage, with a free press and the right of discussion and peti-tion; the native Cubans and Porto Ricaus to have equal rights in official positions with their Spanish fellow citizens.

These terms were submitted informally by an American Senator well known for his friendly relations to the Cuban patriots, to Senor Aldama, as the New York head of their move-ments. After careful consideration they were rejected by Aldama, who declared it too late. The atrocities of Spanish war had been so terrible as to make it certain the Cubans and their oppressors could not like together, and the former had determined to fight until independence or their extermination was the result. The Spanish agent was very thoroughly impressed with the determined spirit of the Cubans, as well as their practical resources for continuing the strife almost indefinitely.

At the time the negotiations were pending. and before leaving, the idea of selling the colonies was again mooted, and though the Cubans expressed themselves favorable to such a termination of their endeavors, no encouragement was afforded on our side. Shortly after the coronation of King Amadeus, General Sickles was again approached on the subject. Of course, he listened and considered, and the result is seen in the proposed sale at $100,000,000. President Grant said to-day that the administration had no intention to consider it, believing that, even if desirable, the Senate could not be induced to accept such a treaty, and it would be altogether useless to ask Congress for appropriations to carry out the provisions, in face of the fact that the obtaining of the $1,500,000 needed for the Santo Domingo purchase was in considerable doubt. In the meanwhile the Cubans keep pegging away, and, with the active hostility to King Amadeus' Government, made by the Span-ish Republicans under Castelar, there is a strong probability that the Spaniards will be at last compelled to abandon the Islands to their patriot

When it is considered that the entire indebtedness of the Company will be less than $16,000 per mile, leaving out their Valuable Coal Property of 1300 acres, it will be seen at once what an unusual amount of security is attached to these bonds, and they therefore must commend themselves to the most prudent fore must commend themselves to the most prudent security is attached to these bonds, and they therefore must commend themselves to the most prudent investors. An additional advantage is, that they can be converted, at the option of the holder, after 15 years, into the Preferred Stock, at par.
They are registered Coupon Bonds (a great safeguard), issued in sums of $500 and $1000. Interest payable February and August.
Price 92% and accrued interest, leaving a good margin for advance.
