OBITUARY.

Robert Chambers.

Robert Chambers, of the well-known Edinburgh publishing firm of William & Robert Chambers, died yesterday at Edinburgh. He was born in 1802, at Peebles, and was two years younger than his brother William. His parents were respectable, and he received an excellent common school education in his native town. Pecuniary reverses obliged his parents to remove to Edinburg, and Robert and William were, to a great extent, thrown upon their own resources. Their fondness for reading induced them to select the business of bookselling, and William served an apprenticeship from 1814 to 1819, when he started on his own account in a small way with only a few shillings capital. Robert began business in 1818, and having strong literary tastes, he tried his hand at authorship by starting a small periodical called the Kaleidoscope, which William set up in type and printed himself. This publication was shortlived, and in 1823 Robert began to write a work which he hoped would prove popular. This was entitled "Illustrations of the Author of Waverley," and referred to [the supposed original characters of the novelist. So soon as this work was published he began to collect materials for his "Traditions of Edinburgh," which appeared in 1824, and passed through several editions. In 1826 Robert "Popular Rhymes of published the in 1827, Scotland." and "Pictures of Scotland." A short time after he issued five volumes of histories of "The Scottish Rebellion," two of a "Life of James I," and three of "Scottish Ballads and Songs." In 1835 he completed in four volumes his "Biographical Dictionary of Eminent Scotchmen." In the meantime William carried on an independent business as author and publisher until 1829, when the brothers united in the production of a "Gazetteer of Scotland," which appeared in[1832. Robert also wrote a "History of Scotland for Juvenile Readers." In 1832 Chambers' Journal was projected by the elder brother for the purpose of "supplying intellectual food of the best kind, in such a form and at such a price as to suit the convenience of every man in the British dominions." The success of Chambers' Journal was immense, and it soon obtained a circulation of fifty thousand, and subsequently it rose much higher. The success of this publication induced the brothers to join in partnership. In 1834 they commenced the publication of "Information for the People," which was followed by the "Cyclopedia of English Literature," "The People's Edition of Standard English Works," "The Educational Course," two series of "Tracts" and "Papers for the People." Robert, although he had not received any regular scientific education, dis played from early life a strong tendency to such studies, and he produced several geological works. His last historical work was "The Domestic Annals of Scotland." He also edited the "Book of Days," which was completed in 1863, and he also aided greatly in the preparation of "Chambers' Encyclopedia," The establishment of the Messrs. Chambers in Edinburgh is one of the sights of the city. Nearly two hundred hands are employed in it.

The Meridian, Miss., Outrage.

The Meridian, Miss., Outrage. A despatch was received here to-day from Gover-nor Alcorn, of Mississippi, by the Alabama delega-tion, in which he states that a thorough examina-tion is being made concerning the outrage at Meri-dian: that there is some trouble along the frontier bordering on the State of Alabama, but with these exceptions affairs in the State are generally peace-ful, and that he feels himself fully competent to preserve order throughout the State. Strong appeals are being made to Senators to allow the bill which passed the House respecting the Daty on Conl and Sait

Duty on Coal and Sait to pass the Senate. The Finance Committee will not permit these measures to be acted on at the pre-sent session. Senator Trumbull and others, if the session is extended, will endeavor to secure the pas-sage of both bills.

minister Schenck, having made application for his pay as Minister to England, discovered that he could not draw any ex-cept one month's pay. It appears that the law ex-plicitly states that no Minister or Consul shall be al-lowed to draw more than one month's pay before going to his place of duty. Mr. Schenck will, therefore, be compelled to forego his pay as Minis-ter until he arrives in England.

Senator Sherman

has given notice that he will press his resolution, agreed to in cancus, relative to the Judiciary Com-mittee reporting a bill for the Suppression of the Ku-Klux in the South. The resolution is now before the Senate. It is believed it will give rise to consider-able debate. Senator Sherman will lead off in the debate, giving his views of the condition of affairs in the South.

A VALUABLE INVENTION .- Among the many devices of fraud and villainy, that of altering checks, drafts, bonds, etc., to larger amounts than intended by those issuing them, has lately become popular with rogues and swindlers, who, by removing the fgures and the words denoting the amount for which the paper was drawn, and writing in the amount desired, have succeeded in defrauding bankers, merchants, and others of very large sums of money. To prevent the success of this sort of fraud, many shrewd intellects have devoted their attention, and, at last, an invention has been perfected which is signally effectual. We have been shown an instrument styled the "check puncturer," by Mr. George W. Holmes, Jr., of this city, by which the figures and words expressing the amount of money named therein can be instantly punctured so as to prevent a second writing of words or figures in their places, leaving the original writing perfectly intact. This invention, which is very simple and cheap, has been endorsed by all the principal banks and bankers and many of the merchants of this city, as may be seen by reference to our advertising

Daring Outrage and hobbery in Indiana. PITTSBURG, March 18.-At 11 o'clock last night, as the telegraph operator at Indians, Pa, was entering his office, which is in the same room with the First National Bank, he was attacked by four men with blackened faces, knocked down, dragged into the bank, gagged, and handcuffed. One of the party sat by him with a revolver while the others went to work to break open the safe. Shortly afterwards they became frightened and left, Senate. WASHINGTON, March 18,—Mr. Bayard moved to recon-sider the vote on the passage of the bill defining a gross of matches. He had received despatches from large match manufacturers to the effect that the bill would work most injuriously to their interests. The mation was agreed to, and an order made for the recall of the bill from the House. The Senate them took up the business of the morning hour. Mr. Sherman's resolution alleging the subversion by armed, disguised, and lawless men, mainly soldiers of the late Bebel armies, of all civil authority in a large party of the late insurrectionary States that persons and property are unsafe, the rights of citizens denied, and the courts powerless by organized perjury to punish crime, and in-structing the Judiciary Committee to report remedial legislation.
