THE PLAYERS.

How They Stooped to Conquer.

In the Town Hall, Germantown, on Saturday last, a minstrel performance was given by Col-lins and Hulmes' Minstrel troupe before a good audience. With a view to an increase of the receipts, the managers of the troupe had promised to give a large photograph frame as a prize to the party selling the greatest number of tickets. For this prize the Mount Airy Library Association labored faithfully, and the members succeeded in selling one hundred and forty-three tickets. On Saturday evening the returns were made, and it was found that this association had sold the highest number, and was therefore entitled to the frame. The secretary applied to Mr. Hulmes (or Humphreys), and was told that it would be given to them immediately. For this purpose Hulmes and the doorkeeper went out for the frame, leaving the secretary to act as doorkeeper until they returned. They then took the frame and left the town. It is supposed that they got on the train at one of the stations in lower Germantown, as they were seen to pass Chelten avenue on the Main street. They have also neglected to pay the janitor the whole of the bill for the Town Hall, and may be set down as first-class swindlers.

We understand that they are about to give a performance in Frankford, offering the same frame as a prize to the society selling the largest number of tickets. They should be exposed wherever they attempt such tricks, and as many of the tickets were purchased with the understanding that the result would be the procure ment of the frame, it might be worth while to have them arrested as swindlers.

THE NEW FIRE DISTRICTS.—Below is given the boundaries of the new fire districts, as ar ranged by the Commissioners. It will be observed that there are but five now, instead of seven, as under the old system: -

First district. All the city south of Pine street, and from the Delaware to the Schuvlkill. Second district. From the south side of Pine treet to the south side of Callowhill street from the Delaware to the Schuylkill.

Third district. From the north side of Callow-hill street to the south side of Columbia avenue, and from the Delaware to the Schuylkill. Fourth district. All the city north of Columbla avenue, and from the Delaware to the Fifth district. All West Philadelphia, comprising the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-seventh

FIRE IN MANAYUNK -A MAN KILLED .- A fire this morning, at 6 o'clock, broke out in the drying-house attached to the cotton and woollen mill of Messrs. Heft & Noble, at the corner of Main street and Shurr's lane, Manayunk. The drying-house is a stone structure separated from the main building, and its contents were destroyed, together with a portion of the roof. The loss will not exceed $3000, on which there is ample insurance. The most unfortunate part of the occurrence is the death of the engineer, a Mr. McGinley, who, while endeavoring to dis-engage the belt from the fly-wheel, was knocked into the wheel-pit, where he died partly from the blow and partly from suffocation. The deceased resided at Penn and Cresson streets. He eaves a wife and four children.

FELL FROM AN EMBANKMENT.—Adam Smith, drunk, and all the way from Montgomery county, insisted on driving his horse up the Pennsylvania Raliroad side of the inclined plane leading to Market street bridge, on Saturday night last. In the obliquity of his reason he drove horse, wagon, and himself off the em-bankment. With the exception of a wrecked wagon, the man and horse escaped serious in-jury. Smith was placed under arrest by Officer McGuigan and was fined by Alderman Jenes.

MEEKNESS .- Maria Curry, a colored girl, aged thirteen years, and who seems to be a devotee of muscular Christianity, entered for pious meditation and prayer the colored church on Coates street, below Fifth, last evening. Prompted by the author of evil and that innate depravity common to us all, she ended a dispute with auother girl by scratching and tearing from the head of that female a handful of hair. Alderman Toland held Maria in $200 ball.

VULGAR YOUNG MEN. -A crowd of young men lately congregated around the doors of the Baptist Church in Hestonville and amused themselves, among other things, by profane remarks, vulgar jests, and expectorations of tobacco juice. A Sergeant of the Sixteenth district police and several officers in citizen's dress arrested four of the gang last night. Alderman Randall bound them over to keep the peace.

THE "STAR" COURSE OF LECTURES.—This evening Mr. A. Miner Griswold ("The Fat Contributor") will deliver a humorous lecture on "Injin Meal," which will doubtless be very

LOOK OUT FOR SPRING. - The true and only genuine, the doubly guaranteed and no mistake spring, without regard to weather or calendar, begins this evening promptly at 8:14, when the sun enters Aries and the Vernal Equinox begins. Punctual attendance is required on the part of all those who wish to witness the phenomenon.

NOT ONLY ONE BUT TWO.—Barney Smith assaulted Officer McDonald, of the Eighteenth district, last night in Somerset street. Smith was arrested and was before Alderman Neill this morning on the charge, when he attempted to repeat the dose on the officer. In view of this double display of "cussedness" the Alderman increased the ball to $1000.

SOME MORE ABOUT BONES .- Daniel Harkins, young man, has been committed by Alderman Nelli for having been concerned in stealing a wagon, a short time ago, on Edgemont street near Clearfield, and loading the same up with stolen bones. Five other parties were arrested and committed for the same offense.

LOTTERY POLICIES .- James Hewett appeared on Saturday last before Alderman Hitchcock and preferred a charge against Robert J. Laird, white, and James H. Moore, colored, of selling lottery policies. James lost money in playing the game, and hence his disinterested desire to guard the morals of society. The Alderman committed the prisoners. committed the prisoners.

An Interesting Interview with Incorpored Departed Friends-Whose Spirits Were Present and Whose Were Not-A Chapter from the Annals of Spiritualism.

Last evening a most interesting scance in the interests of the art called spiritualism was held in a nameless locality by a nameless lady and her assistants, at which nameless results were attained. For the benefit of those who may be interceted a full report of the proceedings is here

The historic spot where spirits most do congregate has a small hall, furnished with about a ozen benches, on which were seated about a half bnudred of corporeal beings, skeptical or otherwise. On a small platform in front were arranged various contrivances to aid in any physical manifestations which might be expected, such as bells, iron rings, ropes, speaking-trumpets, wire cages, and the like. When the hour appointed had long passed, a fair looking lady mounted the platform and proceeded to arrange the parapherualla, announcing herself to the audience as the owner of the medium, her son, who was to exhibit there and then. She said that, as a condition of spiritual manifestation, silence and darkness must be maintained at all hazards, and appealed feelingly to the audience, asking that no matches be struck upon the walls while the lights were out, or other disturbance created from which appeal it might be inferred that such things were not of uncommon occurrence By way of threat, she added that the exhibition was under the protection of the Mayor of the city, as were all other religious societies, but dld not deign to notice the fact that an admission fee of twenty-five cents per capita was charged by this society, which brought it more under the head of a Signor Blitz performance, which neither Mayor nor citizens would protect if gives on a Sunday evening.

As it was impossible for the whole audience to inspect the operations closely, such a thing being fatal to the spiritual operations, a committee of two from the skeptics in the audience was requested, to whom the critical powers of the audience might be delegated.

An individual who had been conspicuous earlier in the evening by reason of his officiousness in arranging chairs, tables, and apparatus in the right positions on the platform, thereupon arose and nominated a gentleman in the audience (casually, of course) as a committeeman, who, however, was better known in spiritual than skeptical circles. Another gentleman offered himself and was accepted, and the two stepping forward, all the lights were extinguished save one, a drop-light on the table of the medium's mistress' table, which was alternately lighted er lowered, during the evening as the spirit called for darkness or light. The shutters, ntherto open, were made fast, and all things being ready the performance began.

The first question asked in the black darkness by the lady of her son, the medium, or of the spirit or spirits acting through the medium, was whether the spirit of Colonel McSomebody was present. To this the spirit gave a negative by one gentle tap with his fingers upon the table. Colonel McSomebody, it may be mentioned, was a member of a Connecticut regiment, and was killed during the late war, since which time he had taken in charge the medium mentioned as his vicegerent upon earth, and has devoted himself entirely, through the medium's aid, to per-fecting such little tricks as might be pleasing to the general public, such as the tying and un-tying of knots, the ringing of bells, the making of the vocal organs to sound in a sepulchral manner, the balancing of chairs upon the head, and the fastening of iron rings upon the wrists. It being thus announced that the regular stage manager was not present, it was thought expedient to find out why he was not present. This question was accordingly asked. The spirit who had kindly consented to supply the place of the Colonel stated that he did not know why he was not present, and left it to the audience to conjecture either that the gentleman had found a more profitable engagement elsewhere, or that he had been arrested by a subterraneau policeman for running to infernal fires, which it might be supposed had by this time lost their novelty. But in a few minutes the substitute announced that he had sent for the Colonel, who had started to come. The telegraph n those regions works quicker than ours, but the means of locomotion are defective, as the Colonel did not arrive during the evening. The medium said that the substituting spirit was an Indian, on the receipt of which information we were fain to leave the accursed spot, but finding that the Indian understood the English language perfectly, we calmed our fears and remained in the interest of our readers. The Indian spirit one of the committee, who certainly appeared to be a skeptic. After this information had been elleited the table light was lit, and the committee were requested to tie the medium firmly to his chair so that he could not untie himself. This was done several times, and each time that the light went out a straining and tugging most heart-rending to listen to were noticed in the direction of the chair and medium, and on the spirit calling for a light, the medium was observed entirely free from all restraint. But it was also noticed that whenever committeeman No. 1 tled the tied these victim there was no difficulty experienced by the spirits in untying the knots, but whenever com-mitteeman No. 2 did the work, the time required was much longer, and sometimes the job failed entirely, in which event the failure was attributed to the absence of Colonel McSomebody.

was not as successful in his working as the

Colonel, owing probably to some evil power in

The knot trick having become somewhat stale, a gold ring trick was tried, but with no success. The victim was tied to prevent his aiding himself, but the spirits were either obstinate or did not understand their orders. All they would do was to untie the medium, or when united to tie his wrists together in close proximity to the mouth, which tie the committee found no difficulty in undoing. This course of action was persisted in by the Indian to the verge of the monotonous, so much so as to cause committeeman No. 1, who appeared to be slightly profane thoughout, to remark with more truth than politeness that he, the Indian, was "a h-l of a spirit." Other tricks were attempted, but with but little better success. The spirit did indeed succeed in placing a solld (?) iron ring two inches in diameter, which had been placed upon a chair within the distance of a foot or so, upon the wrist of the manacled medium, but the order was to place a similar ring upon the other wrist also. While the light was out, an ominous sound was heard, such as is made by an iron ring falling and rolling upon the ground, and when the call "light" was given, one ring was found on the wrist, as before stated, but the other was found on the floor at more than the distance of a foot or so. After this failure the spirit could not be prevalled upon to have anything more to do with rings, and whenever the light was put out took to his old tricks of tying and untying.

A member of the audience attempted to make a slight variety by suggesting that the knots be tied with the back of the chair to which the hands were frequently tied, towards the obser-vers, but this the lady exhibitor explained would interfere with the working of the spirit. his going forward to show more explicitly what was meant, the lady made objection, and re-marked that the fewer there were in close proximity to the medium the better, for the same reason that spirits work better in the dark. "The audience," she said, "must have confidence in the honor of the committee whom they had

As this sort of thing was calculated to try the pstience of the audience, a new tack was started upon. A coat was sewed upon the body of the medium in such a manner as to make it impossible to unbutton it and take it off, the sleeves also being sewed together with strong thread. The sewing the lady did, but the committee were sewing the lady did, but the committee were requested to mark the stitches with a piece of chalk, which committeeman No. 1 had in his pocket for that purpose. When this was done the exhibitor put out the light, remarking that singing often helped the better understanding between spirit and medium, and started "When I can read my title clear," to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne." The singing having given time for the spirit to rip ont the stitches, and sew the coat up again, for no one supposed for a minute that either spirit or mortal could remove the coat in that condi-tion, a light was struck, and the medium was discovered in his shirt sleeves, with his chair tipped back, and the coat in the midst of the audience, whither it had been thrown by invisible hands (invisible by reason of the darkness).

The light was again put down and another hymn sung, this time the camp-meeting refrain "Just now," with the final chorus, "Holler-lujeh, just now," and though the singing, which by request was joined in by all the congrega-tion, was enough to frighten away any spirit, yet the medium was found, when the darkness was again dispelled, sitting calmly, clothed and in his right mind.

In his right mind.

The committeemen were then called up to examine the stitches. No. 1 gave his decision promptly. "I find these stitches the same and in the same condition as when they were first put in." But No. 2 differed. He swore that the stitches were not the same, and tried to convince the exhibitor of the fact, but in vain.

Pending the discussion the light was extinguished suddenly, and the spirit asked if he "could do anything more to-night." An emphatic negative was the reply, and the audience and spirit were dismissed, the latter with the special and emphatic injunction to send only the Colorel in future, under penalty of a for-fei ure of his engagement. So the audience was dismissed. It must not be forgotten that the spirit was not only incompetent on this oc-casion, but positively insubordinate, having refused point blank to do two of the performances advertised, namely, the spirit lights and the balancing of a chair on the head of the

Though the exhibition taken as a whole was a failure, yet it must be allowed that in a financial view that was far from being the case. Where the running expenses include only the keep of a woman and young man, and the rent of a very small hall with but little light, and for unoccupied evenings only, an audience of only fifty persons at twenty-five cents a head will pay. This is at a higher rate than some who minister to the public in other ways at the same time of the week get paid for dispensing the Gospel, or for running a Sunday show in a more legitimate manner.

A SERIOUS BRAWL.

Three Roughs in a Fight-A Young Girl Fa-

Yesterday afternoon two men, named respectively Samuel Howard and John Keenan, ecame involved in an excited controversy, to settle which they appealed to their muscle. lively fight ensued, during which each of the worthies received a black eye and a number of contusions. When they were exhausted with the combat they discovered that the question at issue was not solved. Howard retreated to a barber shop kept by a German named Brown, on Fourth street, below Shippen, where he had leeches applied to reduce the inflammation of the eclipsed orb.

While here, Keenan came upon a like visit, but the brawl was renewed and received a decided impetus by the arrival on the scene of Howard's eldest brother Tom. The fight raged furiously. The furniture was broken and the shaving cups were shied about in animated style. While this melee was in progress, a young girl, the daughter of Brown, looked into the room and received directly a terrible blow were the forehead by directly a terrible blow upon the forehead by a bottle which had been thrown by one of the belligerents.

She fell to the floor apparently lifeless. This catastrophe sobered the infuriated trio, and they hastened from the house, while the girl's father picked her up and carried her to a bed. She lowly revived, but remains now in a critical condition, and this noon, it was said she was sinking rapidly. The ruffians were arrested and will be heard this afternoon.

BOARD OF SURVEYS.—The regular stated meeting of the board was held to day at noon, President Strickland Kneass in the chair. The following three-feet sewers were ordered to be constructed: -On Eighth street, from Vine to Willow; on Ninth street, from Wood to Willow: on Wood street, from Fifteenth to Broad; on Eleventh street, from South to Christian; on Gratz street, from Montgomery avenue to Columbia avenue. The sewer on Leopard street, from Otter to the Canal, was ordered to be re-

A tes-inch pipe on Union street, between Second and Front, was authorized. At private expense also a similar one on the same terms on Kenyon street, south from Vine.

The examination of seven sectional plans of surveys in the Twenty-second ward occupled the attention of the board, and the tenth of April next was the time fixed for a visit to the DEATH OF SOLOMON K. HOXSIE.-Mr. S. K. Hoxsie, a well-known Philadelphian, died yesterday in the fifty-ninth year of his age, at his residence in this city. The deceased is most familiarly known as a builder, it being through his efforts that we obtained many beautiful edifices. In 1850 he commenced the erection for Dr. Jayne of the imposing granite building on Chesnut street, below Third, and when this was completed, he flanked it with stores and put up old post-office building on Dock street Subsequently he erected the marble hall and its adjoining buildings belonging to Dr. Jayne, on Chesnut street, near Seventh, and also put up the building now occupied by the Commonwealth Bank. Recently he has devoted himself to filling contracts for granite. Among his fellow-men he was held in great esteem.

PRIZE FIGHT .- The five-arched bridge is on the North Pennsylvania road, a short distance from the suburbs of the city, and near this location, yesterday alternoon, a gang of roughs collected to witness a prize fight. Two bruisers, stripped, entered the ring and went to work in the ordinary style, while the other red-eyed rufflans stood outride and urged them on. This continued for some time, when the crowd, seeing a policeman approach, scampered off and made good their escape.

Insanity.—An insane colored woman jumped into the Delaware last night at Noble street wharf, and would have perished had not assistance arrived in the shape of Officers Morris and Clawson, of the Delaware Harbor police. She seemed determined to drown herself, and stoutly resisted the efforts of the officera to rescue her. She was locked up in the station-house over night, and was sent to the Almshouse this

A SICK STRANGER .- A young man giving the name of George Lewis is now in the station house in Frankford, very ill. He was taken there yesterday afternoon, and shortly after his arrival was select with violent cramps, from which it was feared he would die. A physician was called, and relieved his sufferings. He is somewhat better this morning. His residence is not stated.

FALL FROM A BRIDGE .- On Saturday morning last Henry Rhoads, while passing over the bridge near Blunder's Hill. Hestonville, slipped and fell into the creek, a distance of twenty feet. His leg was much damaged, and he received severe injuries about the body. He was conveyed to his home, at Forty-third and Ludlow streets.

PETTY THEFT.—Mary Webb, a colored gitl, stole fifteen cents from Emma Gould, of similar age and color, at a policy shop in St. Mary street on Saturday night. Alderman Belshaw committed Mary to answer.

Rum Pugnacity.—HennanWeber, drunk and disposed to fight, mashed the window, with a paving stone, of a tavern at Fifth and Vine streets last night. Alderman Cabill held him in

THE OBSEQUES.—This morning the funeral of the late Andrew Lawton, Chief Engineer U.

S. N., took place from the Navy Yard, to which he was attached. Rev. Dr. Withrow officiated. The pall-bearers were Chief Engineers E. Lawton, Garvin, Thompson, Kurtz, Nones, First Assistant Engineer Phillippi and Dr. Ackley. The remains were temporarily placed in the vault of the Wharton Street M. E. Church.

The case of the First Reformed Presbyterian Congregation still engages this Court. The extreme length of this Psalm vs. Hymn contest has so dis-arranged the business of the Court that all other cases have been postponed.

The evidence now being offered is that of the defendants. They say that every meeting which was held with a view to the adjustment of the difficulties was turned into a scene of wild confusion, rendering it all but impossible to determine what was the will of the majority. At the first meeting, was the will of the majority. At the first meeting, Mr. Stuart's resolutions regarding the pastor provoked wild and bitter discussion. Then when it was moved to adjourn the second meeting by midnight prayer, and Mr. Stuart was called on to pray, they would not hear him, and Brother Guymen called out, "Don't let than man pray." Mr. Graham, who was chairman of that meeting, said there were cries and should be didn't represented and and and and should be didn't represented and and and should be didn't represented and and should be didn't represented and and should be didn't represented and and shouts, he didn't remember any hisses, and as for the groaning, that was, he believed, at Dr. McMurray's departure.

PARIS, March 20—Special to N. Y. Telegram. In every part of the leading thoroughfares of the city barricades have been thrown up by the insurgents. They have gained in strength since the morning, and are more defiant than ever. General Chanzy was sent with a large body of troops to Montmartre to suppress the insurrec-tion. The troops, however, for the most part went over to the insurgents.

General Chanzy Shot. General Chanzy was made prisoner, and taken o the Garden of the Rue des Rosiers Montmartre, where the Central Revolutionary Com-mittee were sitting, and after a short trial was

The Regular Troops Frateroize with the Mob everywhere, and all army discipline seems gone. Mob law is triumphant, and the city will be given up to pillage unless measures are taken by the Government. An immense number Insurgents have Left for Versailles, with the intention of endeavoring to overawe the Assembly, which will sit there to morrow. General Duval is at the head of the insurgents and is leading them on their mad and wild career. The 81st and 126th Regiments were the first to join the insurgents. I am told that the Government has fled from Versailles.

Iondon, March 20.—Steamer St. Andrew, from Portland, touched at Moville to-day.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Blodgett and Goldthwalte.

Special Despatch to the Evening Telegraps.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Senate Committee on Elections and Privileges, at their meeting to-day, agreed to report in favor of the admission of Foster Biodgett as Senator from the State of Georgia, and Mr. Golddhwaite as Senator from Alabama. These gavingmen will procably be sworn in to-day. gentiemen will propably be sworn in to-day. Butler's Ku-Klux Bill.

General Butler succeeded to-day in introducing his famous Ku-Klux bill under the call of States for bills and resolutions. He called for the reading of it so as to have it printed in the Globe, because the Democrats objected to its being printed in the usual way. The bill was referred to the Reconstruction Committee when appointed, but it cannot be brought back into the House by a motion to reconsider, nor is there any chance of its being reported from the committee; for although the Reconstruction Committee has the right to report at any time, there is no committee appointed as yet.

The President Returned to-day from Philadelphia, and it is understood that as the result of his visit The New Collector for the port of that city will be appointed in a few

The President and the Democrats. There is a good deal of unfavorable comment among the Republican politicians here at the President being the guest of so prominent a Democrat while in Philadelphia as A. J. Drexel. They think that, with everything else, it will tend to democratible the rapk and file, who cannot understand how the president can affiliate with hymografia by else.

President can affiliate with Democrats in a city where there are so many prominent Republicans. It should be understood, however, that Mr. Drexel was the guest of the President here, and Grant was simply returning Mr. Drexel's visit. It is expected that the Santo Domingo Commissioners will arrive here on Friday or Saturday. The President proposes to send the report of the commissioners to Congress at once, and to recommend action upon it. Some of his friends are trying to persuade him that action had better be delayed until the next session for the reason that the Senate is in no bumor to regard the scheme of annexation favorably. The belief is that it will be defeated by a very large vote.

Senator Anthony
this morning endeavored to get up his resolution providing that no legislation should be considered at this session except with reference to the condition of the South at this session except with reference to the condi-tion of the South.

Wessrs. Trumbull and Sumner gave notice that they wanted to amend and debate the resolution, and they objected to a vote being taken.

A debate is going on in the Senate on Sherman's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to report the Ku kiux bill.

Despatch to the Associated Press. The Southern Democrats. after consultation, have agreed not at present to issue an address to their constituents, but will first advise with their Democratic associates in the House, and will be governed by the views of a caucus of the party.

The Collectorship and Colonel J. W. Forney Special Desparch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, March 20. - Since sending my first Washington, March 20.—Since sending my first despatch in regard to the Philadelphia Collectorship. I have learned that the Philadelphia Congressmen have united upon Colonel John W. Forney, and that the President has tendered him the position. It is extremely doubtful whether Colonel Forney will accept, aithough he will be strongly urged to do so. It is well known that the President went to Philadelphia expressly to arrange this matter of the Collectorship.

FROM THE SOUTH.

GALVESTON, Texas, March 20.-Rey. B. Eaton, for the last thirty years rector of Trinity Church, in this city, was taken sudeenly ill yesterday while delivering his sermon, and died at 4 o'clock P. M.

FROM THE STATE.

The Cost Strike.

Pottsville, March 20.—The situation remains unchanged in the Schuylkill regions. The general feeling among the coal operators is that there will be no resumption until the middle of April or the let of May, unless the Luzerne or Lebigh men break from the W. B. A. In that event there would be an immediate resumption. Advices received from the above sumption. Advices received from the above regions represent the men as unwilling to con-tinue the strike, and that there is much dissatisfaction existing among them.
