EVENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE, | Saturday, April I, 1971. }

Baturday, April I, 1971. 1 There is a free current of funds flowing in every variety of channel to-day, this being the usual period for annual settlements and the payment of interest on bonds. The preparations for these payments have been going on for most of the past month, and now that the pay-ing cat period has arrived, we may expect a gradual case in the money market, with a better supply of loanable funds. To-day there is an interruption to the borrowing and lending business, and nearly all the activity noticed is in paying out funds. Rates for all classes of loans are almost nominal.
