CITY INTELLIGENCE. THE TROPHIES.

The Police Officers Pursue Bank Burglars, and Capture their Tools.

This morning the police officers who had pursued the suspicious burglars up to Bridesburg with a dilatoriness not at all remarkable—the particulars of which pursuit will be found on our third page—arrived at the Mayor's office, loaded with the tools which the rascals had dropped to facilitate their escape. This arrival caused a sensation that was considerably heightened by the formal manner in which the trophies were spread upon the Brussels carpet of the Mayor's sanctum. This having been done, our reporter made a careful inventory of the captured articles, to wit:—

captured articles, to wit:

A musket, from the nipple of which the Lieutenant had judiciously removed the cap.

A heavy wrought-iron brace, to be used in drilling into a safe door.

A jointed crowbar, arranged in sections for convenience.

A great variety of steel-pointed and curiously-shaped jimmles, to be screwed on the bar. Dozens of fine-pointed wedges, to be used in forcing apart joints.
Woollen caps, shaped like ancient helmets, covering the entire face except the eyes.

White bags, to be drawn over the heads of sublarge gutta-percha syringe, to inject powder

A canister of powder, lot of cartridges, and a coll of fuse.

A bundle of bits, drills, files, and scrape of iron.

An alarm bell, to be operated by an accomplice outside of the bank.

Strips of rubber, bundles of hemp, and packages of paper to deaden the sound of blows.

A coil of robe, a rubber bag (a mystery to the detectives), a curiously shaped tube of horn (also a mystery to the detectives).

Three large pieces of tough wood for supports in drilling into the safe.

The above mentioned articles, save the musket, larger immies, and wood, were carried in large and arger jimmies, and wood, were carried in large and genteel looking vallses. But it strongly appears that the rascals intended making a night of it in some bank, either in Bridesburg or Frankford, as they brought a great variety of provender, to wit:— Fried squabs. Ham sandwiches.

Pies, cakes, etc. Coffee in bottles. Pickles, in cans.

Pickled cysters.

—all of which, not having been brought with the other articles, must have been surreptitiously seized by some hungry officer and devoured.

INSTALLATION .- The North Broad Street Presbyterian Church was completely packed last evening, the occasion being the installation of the Rev. Dr. Harper, of Indianapolis, as of the Rev. Dr. Harper, of Indianapolis, as pastor. The services were under the auspices of the Central Presbytery of Philadelphia, within the bounds of which the North Broad Street Church is located. Rev. Dr. Adams, the first pastor of this church, made the opening prayer, Rev. Frank L. Robbins preached the sermon, Rev. Mr. Work put the usual questions to the pastor elect and people, Rev. B. L. Agnew delivered the charge to the pastor, Rev. Dr. Willits the charge to the congregation, and Rev. Dr. Henry made the closing prayer. Throughout the services were impressive, instructive, and highly suggestive and entertaining, and the vast audience appeared to be deeply interested. It is rarely, on installation occasions, that so gifted a party of clergymen is selected for the varied duties required as we noted last evening, and we doubt whether the different parts were, collectively, ever performed with greater ability and satisfaction.

Since Rev. Dr. Harper accepted the call to this popular church, the pew rentals have in-creased upwards of three thousand dollars, and at present aggregate nearly $8000. The congregation have given their new pastor a warm recep-tion, and the presbytery to which he has united himself's hearty welcome. From the reputa-tion of Dr. Harper in the West, it is but fair to predict that the North Broad Street Church will

DON'T LIKE THE POLICE.-Charles Evarts, a swaggering devotee of puglistic propensities, lives in Frankford, and he is known to have boasted that he could "clean out" the whole police force of Philadelphia. This extreme longing to put a head on somebody induced him nine months ago to assault Lieutenant McLees, of the Frankford district, and for which offense he was sent to prison. He got out again, and last night he was drunk in the main street of Frankford. The sight of Police Officers Mc-Ginnis and Cox immediately aroused his ire, and he proceeded for those officials forthwith. He took Cox by the throat and administered a vigorous kick, and, dropping him, rushed at McGinnis to repeat the operation. Both officers fell upon and secured him, and Alderman Stearne has held him in $800 bail to answer.

DARING ACT OF PICKPOCKETS .- Hon. George W. Woodward, on Saturday last, between 1 and 2 o'clock, was passing into the depot of the North Pennsylvania Railroad, when he was sur-rounded by a crowd of pickpockets, and his wallet, containing several hundred dollars and some valuable papers, was stolen. As soon as the theft was accomplished the thieves scat-tered, and meeting outside the depot, were seen to get into a carriage, which was driven ra-pidly off.

THE LECTURE OF THE SEASON.-Rev. John Hall, D. D., of New York, will deliver his latest lecture on the grand theme of "Personal Power," to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, in Rev. Dr. Wylie's church. By all who have once heard Dr. Hall, there is a strong desire to hear him again, and we recommend our readers to secure seats early, as from all indications the church will be througed with a very large audience. See advertisement in another column.

STORES ROBBED .- The third-story of the building No. 48 N. Seventh street, occupied by J. S. Lever, was entered last night by robbers, who broke open the safe and stole $50 in cash, a Masonic mark, and a heavy gold chain.

The establishment of Mr. Nelms, gold-beater, next door, was entered, no doubt by the same parties. They secured nothing for their trouble, Horse Runaway .- A horse attached to a wagon ran away this morning at 9 o'clock from Front and Canal streets. The animal dashed down Front, and in passing the corner of Laurel street the wagon was overturned. An old man who occupied a seat in the wagon was dragged some distance, but fortunately he escaped with but slight injuries.

NECK-TIES .- Robbers, some time during Satneck-ties.—Robbers, some time during Sat-urday or last night, secured entrance to the neck-tie establishment of H. W. Barry & Co, in the third and fourth stories of the building at the northwest corner of Third and Market streets. They broke open nearly every box in the place, and carried off goods to the value of LARCENY OF A WATCH.—Jacob Bopp, a German residing at No. 571 William street, Port Richmond, stole a watch some time ago and pledged it for liquor in a lager beer saloon. A warrant was taken out before Alderman Neill. and Police Officer Berkenstock yesterday arrested Bopp at Bridesburg. The prisoner was held in $600 ball to answer.

STONED AN OLD MAN .- A youth of nineteen years, who ought to know better, yesterday afternoon, in Salmon street, Port Richmond, flung pieces of brick at the head of an old man who was quietly passing by. Henry Davis is the youth's name, and Alderman Neill has sent him to prison for thirty days.

Dweiling Robbed.—The dwelling of Mr. Robert Whitteher, No. 610 Locust street, was rebbed on Friday night last of an overcoat and a number of napkins and other trifles. The thieves had entered by means of the bath-room windows.

STONEF-IGHTER. -An inveterate stone fighting youth, named Andrew McGliroy, was yesterday afternoon arrested on the Parade-ground, back of the prison, for indulging in this department of pugnaciousness. Alderman Bonsall held him in ball.

INDECENT.—George Bass, living at Sixth and Cherry streets, has been held in ball by Alder-man Allison for indecent conduct at Tenth and Diamond streets yesterday afternoon.

Young Thieves Captured.—A couple of young burglars who were engaged in the robbery at No. 48 North Seventh street, were captured in a house on Callowhill street between Fourth and Fifth streets, this morning, by Detective Samuel R. Smith and Officer Trefts, of Smith & Taggart's Detective Bureau. John Farmer was the name given by the first of these young rascals. He said that he lived on Nicholson street, which runs off Cherry street, between Sixth and Seventh streets. He gave his *ge as 16 years, and his trade that of a button maker. The other young thief was a boy of 15 years, and he lives in a court on Cherry street, between and he lives in a court on Cherry street, between Sixth and Seventh. A brief account of the trans-actions of the accused will be found published Detective Smith testified that he and Officer Trefts made the arrest and recovered a gold chain and a Masonic mark from the person of Cokely. These articles had been taken from Mr. James S. Lever. A Mr. Nelms, living at No. 1931 Pine street, also lost $10 worth of silver ore, coins, etc. This property was also found divided between the accused. The cigar store of Edward R. Beitenman, on the first floer, was also robbed of some cash, and the paper in which it was wrapped was found in the pocket of one of the defendants. The accused had nothing to offer in explanation, and they were accordingly held in $3000 ball each to answer the three charges.

THE BEDFORD STREET HOSPITAL AND DIS-PENSARY.-The following communication explains itself:-

To the Editor of THE EVENING TELEGRAPH Dear To the Editor of THE EVENING TRIEGRAPH—Dear Sir:—I understand that in an aiticle in your paper of Saturday evening it is stated that Samuel S. White, Fsq., and ten other gentlemen have subscribed $10 per week for the support of the Bedford Street Hospital and Bispensary. This is a mistake which should be immediately corrected. Samuel S. White, Esq., has subscribed $10 per month for that purpose, and I wish to obtain the names of ten others to do the same in order that the attempt to establish this charity may be successful. Please establish this charity may be successful. Please make the correction in the next issue of your paper, as I intend to solicit the necessary subscriptions during the present week. Respectfully, E. C. KELLER, No. 127 S. Sixteenth Street.

QUESTION OF IDENTITY.—James Nugent, proprietor of Bush Hill Stables, No. 1725 North street, requests us to say that he is not the peron of the same name mentioned in the papers of Saturday last as having been bound over by Alderman Dougherty on a charge of conspiracy to cheat and defraud Samuel Lynch in the sale

THE WEST PENN SQUARE ACADEMY.—To-night an exhibition will be given at West Penn Square Academy for the benefit of its library. There will be choice music, recitations, dia ogues, solos, etc., and the entertainment will unquestionably be interesting.

TILL-TAPPER.—William Armbruster has been put under $500 ball by Alderman Thomas for entering the bakery of a Mr. Stokel on Main street, Germantown, and stealing from the cash drawer a small sum of money.

Merchandise Shipment Without Appraise-

Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, April 24 .- The Secretary of the Treasury has issued additional regulations for the transportation of merchandise without ap praisement. Several railroad companies have made application for bonding, so as to be able to carry this class of merchandise from New York to inland cities.

The only roads that have been bonded are the Baltimore and Ohio and Camden and Amboy, and the Empire Transportation Company and the Philadelphia and Boston and Providence where there is a break or difference in the gauge of the rallway. Congress authorized the Secretary to employ an agent of the department to superintend the transfer of goods. The object of the new regulations is to facilitate the transportation of merchandise from the seaboard to the interior.

The Legal-tender Act—The Supreme Court Reverses its Former Action. The Supreme Court, after a protracted session of several hours, decided, by a vote of 5 to 4, to reverse the former decision of the court on the question of the constitutionality of the Legaltender act. Where contracts were made prior to the passage of the act in 1862 the decision will also declare the constitutionality of the Legal-tender act. Justice Davis voted with the majority.

The opinion of the Court will probably not be delivered until October, next as there is not sufficient time to prepare it at this term. The Court will therefore only declare the decision, as was done in the Milligan case, without rendering opinions. Chief Justice Chase, with Nelson, Clifford, and Field, dissent.

The Joint High Commission. The English members of the Joint High Commission have finally received information from their government that it approves the terms of the settlement of all disputed points before the commission. They will now proceed to draft treaties to be submitted to both governments. There is some talk among leading Senators here of epposition to what is understood to be the terms agreed upon about the Alabama and fishery questions. The New Loan.

Secretary Boutwell stated to-day that the new bonds will not be ready for delivery until the middle of May, owing to the delay of the bank companies which are printing them.

Schamyl, th Noted Chreassian Chief. The latest ma from Europ strings intelligence of the death o Schamyl, the celebrated Circassian chieftain. He was born in the year 1797, at the Aoul of Himri, in the northern part of the Circassian district of Daghestan. From his earliest years he displayed much ambition and an cagerness to surpass in athletic sports and trials of skill. His character appears to have been shaped by the instruction which he received from a teacher named Dachellal-Edin, from whom he imbibed the doctrines of Sufeyism, which appeals from the barren letter of the Koran to the human couse and seeks the inculcation of nobier hopes than those offered by a gross Mohammedan paradise.

Mollah, first took part in the defense of his country against the encroachment of the Russians, and from that date until his capture in 1859 he was the most troublesome antagonist encountered by the Russians during their constant irruptions into Circassia. The exploits attributed to him would fill a volume. In a battle with the Russians in 1831, the Murids, under Kast Mellah, were slain almost to a man, and Schamyl lay at his leader's feet, pierced by a ball; but he escaped in time to be present at the first meeting held by the discomfited tribes after the encounter. In 1836, Kasi Mollah fell a victim to a conspiracy, and Schamyl was chosen chief in his place. Year after year he continued the struggle against the Russians, who sent large forces against him, but did not succeed in breaking down the Circassian power until after the Crimean war. In 1857-58 several important victories were gained over the mountaineers, the Russians becoming masters of the defile which cut ou all communication between Vedeni, the residence of Schamyl, and the pasture-grounds of the Tchetchenia. On Sep-tember 7, 1859, Schamyl and his son were finally captured, the Russians treating their prisoners with great respect. Schamyl was assigned a residence at Moscow, where he maintained an establishment in keeping with his former station, his wives und treasure being spared to him by the Czar Alexander II, who did great honor to himself by his considerate treatment of the captive. In 1866 the vanquished chieftain and his sons abandoned all show of opposition to the Russtan Government, by taking the oath of allegiance to the Cyar and the Grand Duke at Kalonga. Schamyl, after his capture, made the happiest impression by the tact and spirit which he displayed in conversation and social intercourse. A Russian eve-witness has described him as tall, broad-shouldered, and haggard, with deep-set eyes and a long, dark red beard. His walk was slow and dignified. his furrowed lineaments revealed great intellectual power, and an unnatural paleness and debilitated air bespoke the sorrows which were hidden under his impressive repose. From early childhood, his most striking characteristic had been his religious earnestness. As a boy he had passed many days in solitary meditation, prayer, and the perusal of the Koran. The system of fervid mysticism which he professed was founded en Sufeyism, to which additional carnestness was imparted by the doctrines of the Koran. The system was known as Muricism, and when first preached by Kasi Mollah, in 1823, served to unite quickly the native Circassian tribes, which had long been at war with each other, in a common bond of hatred against the northern infidels. Schamyl succeeded Kasi Mollah as the prophet of Muridism, as well as military leader of the tribes. He was gifted with a fervid eloquence, and had the most implicit faith in his prophetic

Condition of the Levees Near New Or-From the N. O. Republican, April 20.

We regret to inform our people that there is great danger to the levees at the present time, from various combinations of circumstances, which we will state:—First, total neglect of repairs for several years, and a perfect callousness at present by many planters immediately inte-rested. The old levees have been worn down and honeycombed by crawfish until they could not possibly stand a great high water. Now it must be understood that the late Board of Public Works have had no power to repair levees. but only to build, after a period of advertise-ment, and every caution and advisement have been published by this board in their reports; but, nevertheless, many points mentioned have been neglected, and therefore the crevasses now occurring should have been anticipated and guarded against by those immediately interested. We will take the first, which is known as the We will take the first, which is known as the Poverty Point crevasse. Every man near it expected it, and all agree that a few dollars would have prevented it. The next, at Villere, was known to be caused by simple negligence, and this is a history of all these mishaps, except one. We have been informed by General Jeff. Thompson, Chief Engineer, that the gentlemen interested in the Poverty Point crevasse have cheerfully agreed to advance sufficient sums to cheerfully agreed to advance sufficient sums to close it, relying upon the State to reimburse them, and that the crevasse will be speedily closed. In St. Bernard there seems to be a "hitch" in the payment of the laborers, and that (though the crevasse will be closed) there. the crevasse will be closed) there may be some misunderstanding among those immediately in-terested. The crevasse at Point Manwoir may do much harm, as those near it are not able to furnish the cash means necessary to close a crevasse. The Bonnet Carre crevasse (left bank) vasse. The Bonnet Carre crevasse (left bank), though small at present, is of more importance than any now open, for there are hundreds of thousands of doilars' worth of crops behind it, and the New Orleans, Jackson, and Great Northern Railroad travel is liable to be cut off for months. The railroad managers have agreed to furnish means to buy the materials needed, but others interested may have to come to their help to closs this important crevasse. We will help to close this important crevasse. We will now state for the satisfaction of those inte-rested that the river has fallen 15 feet at Memphis, 4 feet at Greenville, 234 feet at Providence and has at no time been within 30 inches of high water mark at Grand Levee.

LARGE FIRE IN NEWARK.

A fire broke out about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Ballantine's brewery at Newark, which at one time threatened to do a very large amount of damage. The fire was first discovered by John McCo.mick and John Donnelly, two men who were employed in the building. These men were, however, unable to escape and give the alarm, McCormick perishing in the flames and Donnelly only escaping by an accident which nearly cost him his life.

The brewery is owned by the brothers Robert, John, and Peter Ballantine, and the malt-house, which was burned, is situated on the corner of Front and Rector streets, just below the Centre street depot of the New Jersey Railroad.

The fire originated in the kiln-room from an The fire originated in the kiln-room from an overheating of the grain which was stored there for drying. On discovering the fire McCormick, who was the superintendent of the malt-house, attempted to enter the drying-room. On opening the door the flames burst into his face, throwing him to the floor, and also severely burning Donnelly, who was following, about the face and body. Donnelly attempted to retreat, but became insensible, and fell through the hoistway to the floor below, thus saving his life, as he would have been unable to reach any other way of egress.

The fire had gained such headway before the arrival of the firemen that it was impossible to save the building, and attention was directed to the adjoining works and to the house of Robert Ballantine. The building, with its contents, principally grain, is a total loss. The firm states the loss at $75,000 and the insurance at $70,000.

Immediately after the fire had been overcome search was made for the body of McCormick, which was buried in the ruins. When discovered the limbs and head were entirely burned away, leaving nothing but two feet of blackened body, presenting a horrible sight. McCormick was an unusually efficient foreman, and had come from Albany, N. Y., only having left there last fall through the influence of his late employers. He leaves a widow and three children in Albany. $70,000.

The perpetration of a deed of horror like this in a neighborhood so thickly settled, and in a house occupied by several families, without discovering the guilty party, is a source of wonder to every one, but there can be but little doubt that the perpetrator will be traced out.

ENGLAND. The Life of the Empress Eugenie at Chisel-hurst.

Bays the Court Jaurnal:—During the last six months a plainly dressed, graceful lady, accompanied by three or four attendants, might have been met any day walking in the lanes in and about Chiselburst. Few of those meeting her and failing to recognize a familiar face would have suspected that one short twelve months since she was an empress and wife of the ruler over a great and powerful nation. With the resignation of royalty ske has abandoned every appearance of state. Every Sunday she walks to the little Catholic chapel, whatever the weather may be, and it is the rarest thing in the world may be, and it is the rarest thing in the world to see her riding in a carriage. Her attire is of the simplest, and she may sometimes be seen walking in a plain cotton dress. She neither visits nor receives visitors in any number, and, indeed, carries her seclusion so far that when solicited to be present at a concert in the neighborhood, given for the benefit of her distressed subjects of former years, she de-clined. For years the Empress has been the clined. For years the Empress has been the leader of fashion, and the least peculiarity of manner or dress, whether intentional or not, has been faithfully copied by every lady who pretends to belong in the slightest degree to the world of fashion. Even now her manner of walking, with the body slightly bent forward, and the small stick which she frequently carries, is imitated by the ladies of Chiselhurst, and ries, is imitated by the ladies of Chiselhurst, and a reflex of it may be traced far beyond that secluded district. The feelings of the inhabitants towards the Empress and the young Prince have, after the first curiosity, subsided into respect for her wish to keep herself quite private, and she new attracts no more attention than any ordinary lady. The only effect has been to bring down a few people from London on Sunday mornings, who visit the chapel for the purpose of gazing on royalty.

Prince Napoleon's Foresight. We give the following on the authority of the London correspondent of the Manchester Guar-

Prince Napoleon has given £20,000 for a house at Lancaster Gate, for which, with judicious forethought, he contrived to save the choicest furniture, pictures, and objects of art that once glittered at Meudon and the Palais Royal. It sounds incredible, and yet it is nevertheless true, that he alone of all the imperial entourage had the sense to sniff the coming danger from afar, and, while yet the sky was comparatively clear, to prepare for the impending storm. He is said to have sold his estate and chateau in Switzerland to Mr. Lucas, the contractor, for £70,000, and, having tried all climes and zones, he seems to have made up his mind that about the safest place to settle in, as times go, is the north side of Hyde Park.
