DEVOURED BY SHARKS.

Tragic Death of a Murderer. Recently a man named Grant committed a murder at Demarara, W. I., whence he escaped to Halifax, N. S., where he was arrested and put on board a vessel to be returned to Demarara for on board a vessel to be returned to Demarara for trial. On arriving in sight of his destination the prisoner jumped overboard, and was immediately seized and devoured by sharks. The Hallfax Citizen gives the following particulars:—
"On the passage, although closely watched, he on one occasion obtained possession of a knife, with which he attempted to open his cabin window in the night; but the attempt was discovered and frustrated. On the mornwas discovered and frustrated. On the morning of the arrival, when the vessel was within four miles of the lightship, he feigned an excuse to go on deck. Mr. Joseph sent Christian with him, and gave the officer strict injunctions to keep a firm hold of him. From the testimony the seaman Christian seems to have en-deavored faithfully to fulfil his instructions, but was thrown off his guard by a sudden re-quest from Grant that he would do him a tri-fling service, and relaxed his hold for a moment, when Grant, with a yell of exultation, instantly leaped overboard. The vessel was put about as quickly as possible, but to no purpose, for the lookout man soon cried, 'Shark's got him,' and pointed to the spot where he had seen Grant disappear, and where the water was tinged with blood. The vessel continued to sail around the spot for an hour, without dis-covering any other trace of the miserable man."

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements. AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC the splendors of The Black Grook will only be visible for nine nights more, as the building has been engaged for other purposes. This spectacle has achieved a brilliant success from the fact that no pains or expense has been spared to make it as complete and elegant as possible. It is not a mere revival of the entertainment given under the title of The Black Crook in this city a few seasons ago, for, while the drama itself is the same, all the scenery, costumes, and accessories are new, and are far superior to anything ever seen here before. Independently of the magnificent scenic attractions, a great variety of amusing features are introduced, and with the fine ballet troupe, the grotesque performances of the Ma-illtons, the funny capers of the skaters, and other incidentals, there is abundant entertainment provided. The great transformation scene is a marvel of beauty, and is itself worth the price of admission to behold. AT THE CHESNUT the comedy of Saratoga which continues to enjoy in a remarkable de-gree the favor of the public, will be repeated this evening. Last night and on Monday the house was crowded, and the piece was applauded in the heartiest manner. We record the success of this play with great pleasure, for while it does not fulfil all the conditions of a true American comedy, it is a step in the right direction, and it proves that the public are prepared to patronize American plays, and especially plays representative of contemporary American life, if they are well written. Mr. Howard is undoubtedly capable of better things than Saratoga, but he has possibly been wise in endeavoring to produce a successful piece at his first attempt rather than, by alming too high, to overshoot the mark. aratoga is abundantly entertaining, and it looks as if it were likely to have as long a run in this city as it did in New York, where it was the great hit of the season.

AT THE WALNUT the drama of East Lynne will be represented this evening with Mrs. Bowers as "Lady Isabel" and "Madame Vine." AT THE ARCH Mr. John Brougham will this evening personate "Corydon Foxglove," in his new comedy of Flies in the Web. The performance will conclude with the farce of A Thump-

AT THE AMERICAN a variety of attractions, including the Japanese troupe of acrobats and and jugglers, will be presented this evening.

will be given to-day.

This evening, Mr. Robert McWade will personate "Rip Van Winkle."

Case of Rev. C. E. Cheney.

The following remarks upon Mr. Chenev's recent letter to the Episcopalian appear in the Chicago Times of April 27:-

The Rev. Charles Edward Cheney may be the most conscientous of all living divines; nevertheless, as an ecclesiastical lawyer, he is one of the worst possible description. His recent let-ter, defending his refusal to recognize the eccle-siastical authority of his own Church, is a model of the most barefaced sophistry that ever proceeded from one who insists upon squaring the government of the world to his own peculiar notions of what it ought to be. While professing scrupuleus loyalty to the constitution, canons, rubrics, and all other laws of the Episcopal Church, Mr. Cheney assumes that, for himself, in his ministerial relation to the Church, he is the authorized interpreter and judge of the meaning and intent of those laws. His duty to abide by and obey the ecclesiastical authority of the Church goes no further than the decisions of that authority coincide with his own understanding of the law. This is the whole ground of his defense. This is his whole argument. reduced to a single point. Upon this ground alone he finds the "logical result" to be that the whole proceeding of the ecclesiastical tribunal which found him guilty of violating the eccle-siastical law "is null and void."

It is as if a defendant convicted in one of the civil courts for some violation of the statute aw should say: - "That which the court decided to be the law, I do most conscientiously decide as not the law; what, then, inevitably follows but the logical result that the whole proceeding against me is null and vold?"

The Times can hardly suppose that ecclesiastical institutions rest upon a basis so unsubstantial as Mr. Cheney's logic would imply. In that case, every minister of the Gospel would be the supreme head of his own church. Every deacen would be his own presbyter, and every presbyter his own bishop. And every layman, upon the same reasoning (or, rather unreasoning), would be his own ecclesiastical superior. Every member of a religious organization would be his own judge and court of final jurisdiction upon every question of ecclesiastical law that could arise; for the decision of any tribunal which should be averse to his own understanding of the law and evidence would, "as a logical result," be null and void.

The object of every court - ecclesiastical as well as civil—is twofold. It is, first, to declare what the law is; next, it is to render judgment upon the law as declared. If the power or the right to determine what the law is belonged to the party accused, it would be a self-evident absurdity to place the power of giving judgment eisewhere. The two are inseparable, in the nature of things. It Mr. Cheney is the competent authority to declare what the ecclesiastical law is, or is not, then Mr. Cheney is correct in assuming to decide that the proceeding of the ecclesiastical tribunal is null and void. But if the ecclesiastical tribunals of the Church are the authorized power to declare what the ecclesiastical law is (and the Supreme Court of the State has so decided), then Mr. Cheney stands clearly in the wrong, and the reasoning of his letter to the Philadelphia Episcopalian is sheer nonsense. -The small-pox, which still ravages London, destroyed 25,061 lives from 1840 to 1870 in Revenue Statistics. A comparative statement of the receipts from several sources of revenue taxable under existing laws for the first nine months of the fiscal years ending June 30, 1870, and the same period of 1871, shows from the former period aggregate receipts of $121,996,710, and for the latter period $108,570,094, an aggregate decrease of $13,426,616, or 11 per cent. The decrease in the receipts from all sources except spirits is chiefly due to the act of July 14, 1870, which releases a large number of articles from taxation. The statement shows a falling off of $4,439 466 in the tax on spirits; $5,563,259 in incomes; $250,360 in special taxes; and $5,692,325 in articles and occupations formerly taxed but now exempt. SCRANTON, May 10 .- The Hyde Park affair was more important and shocking than at first appeared. One of the laborers among those seeking work, and assaulted yesterday, is dead. Another was again attacked at two o'clock this morning in his own house, which was burned to the ground. Hyde Park was occupied all night by troops under arms, and the Welsh laborers were all night on the alert, expecting an attack from a body of Irish rioters, bent on preventing a resumption of work. The military torce succeeded in keeping order this morning, and there is now no open violence, but the excitement is intense among all classes, and is greatly increased by the discovery of the three dead bodies in the swamp near the scene of the meeting yesterday. There is no safety for life or property among the working men willing to accept employment, except under immediate protection of the military.
