The New P. E. Church of the Messiah The Protestant Episcopal Church of the Messiah, Broad and Federal streets is just com-pleted, the corner-stone having been laid only six months since. Mr. J. H. Windrim furnished the plan, which is Gothic. The building is eighty feet deep and fifty feet wide; ceiling sixty feet wide; material, Trenton brown stone. The decorations and windows, by I. & J. Gibson, are superb. Several of the windows are memorialone to Bishop Potter: one to Rev. R. J. Parvin, by the scholars of St. Paul's, Cheltenham; one to George B. Ruse, by his children; one to Robert Ralston Bringhurst, by his children; and one frem friends of the rector, from Lake George, New York. The chancel windows, and that of the gable, are offerings from the Sunday-school of the Church of the Messiah. The gas fixtures are chaste, and suited to the architecture of the building; they were made by Cornelius & Son. The chancel furniture is of walnut. The building, including furniture, cost about $15,000, and will seat four hundred. This organization will not be two years old until July next, and with the earnest efforts of both the rector, Rev. George Bringhurst, and his people, the work has been crowned with success. It is one of the most flourishing churches in the city, and stands in a growing neighborhood. It will be opened next Sunday morning by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Stevens, who will administer confirmation: afternoon service at 4 o'clock, sermon by the Rev. Dr. Newton; evening service at 75%, sermon by the Rev. Dr. Rudder. The choir of the Church of the Evangelists will have charge of the music in the afternoon, that of St. Stephen's Church in the evening. A collection will be made at each service.

A THIEVING WOMAN .- On Monday night a woman went to Chestuut Hill in the 12 o'clock train. She went to the house of David Styers, and asked if a certain man lived there. She was told that he did not, that he had moved away. She then said that she was belated, and inquired whether she could get shelter over night-She was allowed to stay, and took breakfast there yesterday morning. She started for the 8 10 train to the city in the morning, and after she had left, Mrs. Styers discovered that a valuable pair of ear-rings belonging to her were missing. She immediately suspected the woman of stealing them, and informed her huzband, who went to the train. The woman, upon being taxed with the theft, immediately offered to return the jewelry if she was not prosecuted. This was agreed to by Mr. Styers, who recovered the ear-rings and allowed the woman to depart. It was afterwards discovered that she had also taken some underclothing from the house, and a warrant has been taken out for her arrest. She is an old offender.

Death of William Hamilton, the Actuary of the Franklin Institute.

William Hamilton, the Actuary of the Franklin Institute, and who has during his entire life been intimately identified with the cause of science in Philadelphia, died this morning, at 4 o'clock, in his boarding-house, No. 923 Chesnut street. Mr. Hamilton was born in this city in February, 1791, and was consequently at the time of his death in the eighty-first year of his age. For over forty years he has been con-nected with the Franklin Institute. He became a member of that institution in its infancy, and in fact was one of the prime movers in its organization. Since that time his labors were unceasing. He attended to all the large correspondence of the Institute; made visits to other cities of the Union on scientific matters, and was instrumental in getting up exhibitions, etc. Having given his whole attention to this work, he was, consequently, thoroughly fami-liar with all the details of the Institute, and the

The cause of death is attributed to debility arising from old age. Mr. Hamilton performed his duties up to within ten days ago, when he was obliged to take to his bed. He was ailing, however, for the past six months.

Reassembling of the Senate. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, May 10 .- A quorum of Senators was present this morning, when the Senate was called to order by Vice President Colfax. Rev. Dr. Newman, Chaplain of the Senate, in a prayer invoked the Divine blessing upon the labors of the commission, and expressed the hope that there might be continued peace between England and America. The proclamation of the President convening the Senate in extra session was then read, after which Mr. Anthony offered a resolution appointing a committee to wait on the President and inform him that the Senate was ready to receive any communication he had to make. Messrs. Anthony and Gasserly were appointed. The Senate then took a recess till 1 o'clock.

It is expected that The Treaty will be at once Communicated. The sentiment of the Senate is against considering the treaty in open session. It is not improbable, however, that the full text of the treaty will be made public.

A majority of the Senators here seem to be in favor of the treaty, and it is not thought the session will last over two weeks.

The Visit of the 5th Maryland Regiment. The Maryland 5th Regiment, which arrived this morning, gave a military salute to President Grant as they passed the northern portico of the Executive Mansion. Their appearance and soldierly movements were much admired. They afterwards visited Mount Vernon.

The Bishep, in continuation, alludes to the deli-cate nature of the responsibilities imposed upon him by his office. It is not, he thinks, to be expected that his views and opinions should at all times meet the approbation of all classes of people in the Pro-testant Episcopal Church; but in the endeavor to discharge his duty conscientiously, he feels war-ranted in looking for that regard which the nature of his office demands.

A proposition is presented that the city missionary work be placed under the care of a board of clergy-
