SIGNS OF THE TIMES IN EUROPE.

The latest despatches from the other side of the Atlantic indicate that trouble may yet be expected from the Communists. The leaders of the Communal movement have announced that they consider the affair of Paris as a partial defeat only, and by no means as an annihilation. The Paris correspondent of the London Times states that the International Society, of which the Paris Communists were members, numbers 2,500,000 in Europe, and the latest Paris despatches announce that indications of a renewal of the insurrection are multiplying. The soldiers are insulted and attempts at assassination and incendiarism continue. In Rome a plot for the assassination of the Pope is reported to have been discovered, and it is said that the execrable crime was planned by members of the International Society in London, Florence, and Paris. In Brussels sixty-eight arrests of members of the same organization were made on Sunday night. Although it is very possible that many of the rumors about the movements and plans of the Communists are unfounded, and that the deep, laid plans of assassination and incendiarism exist only in the brains of excited officials and correspondents, there is really great reason for alarm, and the fate of Paris is a warning that cannot be overlooked. The question now is whether the rulers of Europe have the ability to deal with the problem before them; whether any real effort will be made to remove the substantial popular grievances which give the Communist movement its strength, or whether they will deal with it in such a manner as to increase the discontent that exists among the laboring classes, and thus make the explosion doubly terrible and destructive when it does come. There certainly has been very little sound statesmanship displayed thus far, either in England or on the Continent, in such efforts as have been made to mollify or to control the advanced radicals who advocate the easily understood and extensively popular doctrine that the good of society would be advanced by the abolition of everything—religion, government, property-rights, marriage, and all that makes modern civilization what it is—and then having a fresh deal all around, on the principle that one individual is as good as another, if not a little better. It is comparatively easy to declare the Communists criminals and enemies to society, but the execution of a few hundred such wretches as those implicated in the destruction of Paris will do very little towards crushing out Red Republicanism; and the real statesmen of the day will be those who will seek to discover what the substantial grievances of the masses are, and who will make some practical efforts to relieve them. If this is not done, it is not impossible that other cities may share the fate of Paris.

A LAW TO MAKE PHILADELPHIA COMMERCE A PREY TO OFFICIAL SHARKS.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade held last evening a law passed at the last session of the Legislature, but not yet signed by the Governor, was ventilated, which has for its evident object the grant of an opportunity to official sharks, and to future schools of office-holding sharks, to prey upon the languishing commerce of Philadelphia. The bill has the innocent title of "An Act to establish a Board of Port Wardens," but the Secretary of the Board of Trade states that it is "intended to legalize, and authorize to be collected by summary process, a fee of not less than one hundred and fifty dollars from every vessel, and every little shallop of over seventy-five tons burden which shall enter our port, and to compel the masters of the same to make a pilgrimage—in many cases of miles—to enter his shallop; the sole object being 'the exacting, under color of law, of unearned money by one set of men from another.'"

It has hitherto been considered that the height of meanness was typified by the conduct of the wretch who stole the pennies from the eyes of a negro corpse, but this distinction should henceforth be reserved for the unscrupulous gentry who devised this scheme to extort money from the vessels plying to the port of Philadelphia, and their legislative accomplices. Time was when officers were created for the public good, and when officials set bounds to their extortionate greed, but this period seems to be rapidly passing away in Philadelphia; and if Governor Geary signs the bill designed to gorge the maws of the sharks of our harbor, we may anticipate at a future session of the Legislature the passage of a law transferring the whole river front to a gang of rapacious speculators.

THE PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The Public Buildings Commission held a meeting yesterday and passed a resolution repealing the former action designating the intersection of Broad and Market streets as the site for the public buildings. This yielding to the clamor of a small body of property-holders whose interests are directly antagonistic to those of the vast majority of the citizens of Philadelphia is very much to be regretted, and we are very sorry that those of the commissioners who do not own property in the neighborhood of Washington and Independence Squares were not able to sustain the only project that would give us such buildings as we need, and such as would be creditable to the city. If four structures are put up on Penn Square, or if the municipal buildings are put up there, and the law buildings upon Independence or Washington Square, the whole business will be botched, and Philadelphia will be an object of ridicule to the whole nation. It is well known that certain members of the commission are large owners of real estate in the vicinity of Sixth and Chesnut streets, and also that they have expressed a strong desire to keep the municipal offices and the courts where they now are, for the good and sufficient reason that they—the aforesaid commissioners—will be losers by a removal to the up-town site. These gentlemen are determined if possible at least to keep the courts in their present location, and we doubt not that a great effort will be made to carry out the compromise scheme proposed last winter, which would place the municipal buildings alone upon Penn Square. An effort will be made in this direction, if nothing better for the anti-Penn Squarites can be obtained; but the Sixth and Chesnut streets property-holders hope, by continual agitation, to procure the abolition of the commission, and thus to open the whole controversy anew, with the expectation that it will be possible to entirely prevent the erection of new buildings unless they can manage to have them in the neighborhood of Sixth and Chesnut streets. The citizens of Philadelphia must bear in mind that the whole squabble depends upon this, and that it is Penn Square under any circumstances, and not the intersection, that is really objected to. There may be a few old fogies who would have opposed the erection of a handsome edifice upon the intersection of Broad and Market streets, for the same reasons that they have objected to the introduction of gas, the removal of the market sheds, the running of street cars, and other improvements, but they would have had no influence whatever, and their opposition would only have been laughed at if they had not been supported by the cash and clamor of the Sixth and Chesnut streets property-holders. It is to be hoped that the commissioners who have no property interests to influence them will yet be able to put the intersection plan into execution; but if they are not, and if they remove the sole pretext for complaint on the part of the Sixth and Chesnut streets people, whether of two or four buildings, at one time, and thus prevent any further interference with their operations after they have fairly commenced work.

THE INDIAN QUESTION.

Two phases of the Indian question are again being pressed upon public attention: first, a conflict of opinion between the Indian Peace Commission and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; and second, a threatened outbreak of the wild tribes of the Southwest against the people of Texas, etc.

All telegraphic reports relating to the controversy between the Indian Commission and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs which credit the latter with extra regard for economy should be received with many grains of allowance. If there ever was a body organized in this country which was animated by pure and patriotic motives, and at the same time endowed with great business sagacity and a high sense of commercial honor, it is the Indian Peace Commission; while, on the other hand, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs is, from the character of his position, and from its inevitable surroundings, necessarily subjected, to a great extent, to the influences typified by the expression of the "Indian Ring." That "Ring" embraces men in many walks of life, including politicians of high standing, Senators and Congressmen, who are experts in the art of stealing the livery of heaven to serve sordid purposes, as well as hosts of speculators who have long fattened upon the spoils of the Indian camp, and who are determined to employ every possible expedient to prevent true reform. The facts relating to one of the existing controversies (that which affects the transportation of Indian goods westward) are given in an article in our local columns, and similar disputes may be apprehended on other subjects, which find their best explanation in the determination of the Peace Commission to inaugurate a thorough reform, and in the disposition of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to thwart it.

The other phase of the Indian question—which relates to a threatened outbreak on the Southwestern frontier—affords a new proof of the inherent difficulty of thoroughly maintaining peace and order in all portions of our wide-spread dominions. The Kiowas, Apaches, and a portion of the Camanches represent the wildest and wickedest tribes in our territory, and at the same time they have been subjected to fewer humanizing or repressing influences than any other considerable body of the aborigines. The veteran in the play who expresses his astonishment at the sudden regard he has conceived for a man with whom he has just fought, had in him much of the spirit animating the Southwestern savages. Scarcely a single tribe among them has ever thought seriously of civilization, or of repressing a natural love for white scalps, before it was well whipped by an American army; and the outlaw Kiowas, Camanches, and Apaches need this discipline before their rude natures can be subdued. One good campaign against them, however, will, it is to be hoped, teach them the folly of further resistance, and incline their stubborn and untutored hearts to a permanent peace.

OBITUARY.

George Grote, D. C. L., F. R. S., George Grote, D. C. L., F. R. S., Vice-Chancellor of the London University, who died on Sunday, was born in 1794, at Clay Hill, near Beckenham, in Kent, his father being a partner in the banking-house of Prescott, Grote & Co. He was educated at the Charter House, and at the age of sixteen entered the bank as a clerk. As a young man, he formed the acquaintance of James Mill, and threw in his lot with the philosophical radical party, studying history, contributing to the Westminster Review, and writing on the political subjects of the day. It was at this period of his life (1828) that the idea seems to have first occurred to him of that work with which his name will be principally associated in the future. Struck with the anti-democratic sympathies exhibited in Mitford's "History of Greece," he applied himself to the examination of the facts there brought forward on behalf of the author's doctrines, and so his own democratic history came to be written. But between conception and execution some time was allowed to elapse, the excited political feeling raised by the first reform bill carried him along with it, and in 1832 we find him putting forth a pamphlet on the "Essentials of Parliamentary Reform," and in 1831 he was returned as one of the members for the City of London. As a speaker he continued to advocate the same advanced opinions, bringing forward, like Mr. Berkeley in later times, an annual motion in favor of the ballot; but on the triumph of the Conservative party in 1841 he retired from active political life, and devoted himself to literary pursuits, the first two volumes of his "Greece" appearing five years afterwards, and the work being completed in 1856. Since then he has written on "Plato and the other Companions of Socrates." During the course of his great work, he left ancient Greece for a time, to re-enter the lists of modern politics, publishing, in 1847, a pamphlet entitled "Seven Letters on the recent Politics of Switzerland." Mr. Grote married, in 1830, a lady of an old Kentish family, Miss Harriet Lewis, who is known as the author of "The Life of Ary Scheffer," etc.

THE NEW ORLEANS, MOBILE, AND TEXAS RAILROAD COMPANY

Are building a first-class railroad from Mobile, Alabama, to Houston, Texas, a distance of 475 miles. The stockholders have paid in, and already expended upon the work, nearly TEN MILLION DOLLARS, and two-thirds of the entire road has been built. It is believed that no other railroad corporation in the country has ever made so large an expenditure from its own means, before offering any of its securities to the public. Among the leading stockholders are the Hon. E. D. MORGAN, Hon. JOHN A. GRISWOLD, Messrs. MORTON, BLISS & CO., J. & W. SELIGMAN & CO., L. VON HOFFMAN & CO., JAMES H. BANKER, HARRISON DUBREE, JOHN STEWARD, and other well-known capitalists. The Company now offer for sale the

Eight Per Cent. Mortgage Bonds

Upon that part of the line west of the Mississippi River which is considered so important to Louisiana that State aid to the amount of $8,000,000 has been granted or guaranteed to the enterprise. The Bonds are of two classes:—

- FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, To the amount of $12,500 per mile, and SECOND MORTGAGE BONDS

To an equal amount, the principal and interest of the latter being guaranteed by the State of Louisiana. The price of the two classes is the same, and subscribers can take their choice. The Bonds are only in the denomination of $1000, or $200 each, interest payable January and July, at the rate of eight per cent. currency in New York, or seven per cent. gold in London, at the option of the holder, at the time each coupon is due. Bonds can be registered, if desired. One thousand dollars invested in these eight per cent. bonds will give the purchaser more than seventy-five per cent. greater annual interest than the same amount invested in the new Government Five Per Cent. The Bonds are dated May 1, 1871. The first coupon will, therefore, be a fractional one, running from May 1 to July 1. The price is 90, and accrued interest at 8 per cent. currency from May 1 to date of remittance. Subscriptions will be received in Philadelphia by
