ROBBED.

Julius Simon's Dry Goods Store.

At the corner of Eleventh and Chesnut streets -the southwest corner-is the store of Julius Simon, stocked with ladies' furnishing goods, from heavy silks to delicate laces. Some time during last night it was robbed, notwithstanding a private watchman is employed to guard the stores in that locality, which, during a greater portion of the night, is rendered unusually lively by the modern Pilgrims, who keep up their orgies in the house across the way. The robbers forced open the door leading to the building from Eleventh street, and ran up stairs to the third story, where another door, which opposed their further progress, was "jimmied." This admitted them into a narrow apartment where the dumb waiter makes its hoarly trips from cellar to loft.

Upon this modern vehicle they descended to the first floor, when they discovered another door, the only intervening object between them

Resolved, By the delegates representing the differ-ent societies throughout this country, assembled at Philadelphia in convention this 19th day of June. 1871, that the only safeguard against the houses that afflict and demorale the profession is, by a unity of action and organization under the "Musical Na-tional Association of the United States." Resolved, That the musical profession, practically, is selary at present received by him is insufficient to allow him to bear the long vacations of theatres. Resolved, That greater demands would become a necessity were it not for the custom of allowing a substitute in case of a more incrative and tempo-rary engagement, and although this fact has sever been acknowledged by managers, it has been the means of saving them money, and preventing de-mands for an increase of salary.

mands for an increase of salary. Resolved, That the charge so often made against protective musical associations, to the effect that they force the public to pay poor musicians, is not true, because no association can assume to make any classification of the abilities of its members. The sixth resolution declares against the unjust indgment often formed by the public against the orchestral musician in operatio performances, and asserts that the orahestra has often to adapt itself to the caprice and incapacity of the artist. The seventh resolution declares that honesty, integrity, and a fraternal spirit and a desire to advance the art and science of music should be the ruling spirit that should govern musicians; and although they do not propose to advance any unjust demands, yet they deem it an important duty to units together in one solid body for the protection and safeguard of the profession.

The resolutions were adopted: after which the convention adjourned to meet in the afternoon.

SCOTT.

His Reception at Springfield, Ohio. This morning Lieutenant Flaherty, of the Fifth Police district, and Detectives Haggerty and Gordon, returned from Springfield, Clarke county, Ohio, to which place they had escorted John Scott, who is charged with the murder of a banker named Hertzler, of that town. Flaherty, it will be remembered, accomplished the capture of the felon after a desperate tussle, and so wounded him as to require him to be taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where, in order that he might not escape, which he medi-tated, two officers stood guard over him. In taking him off our officers were accompanied by some from Ohio, and the murderer chafed under the thought that all avenues of escape from their clutches was cut off.

He was securely manacled, and Flaherty, who was determined that this precious fellow should not slip out of his grasp, braceleted himself to him, undaunted by the cool assertion of the prisoner "If I jump off the cars into the water will go with me, and if I drown you will too. When the train was nearing Springfield word arrived that the populace was intensely excited, and had gathered at the depot with the avowed intention to lynch Scott. A council of war was held by the officers. and it was determined to leave the train about a mile from the depot. This they did, but were by the lynx-eyed people discovered, and hardly had they commenced their walk to the city when a great and turbulent crowd surrounded them. There were cries, "He's the feller," know him," "That's the man," and "Let's lynch him," were uttered on all sides. At last so intense was the feeling of the assemblage, and so strong the pressure against the officers, that the latter were compelled to surround their charge, who writhed like a caged lion, and to draw their revolvers in his defense. At this critical juncture aid came from the town, and the officers were no more molested on their way to the jail. Here, when the prisoner was ensconsed behind the iron bars, a dozen people identified him in the most positive terms. The jall, being regarded as nothing but a paper box to such a desperate bird, a guard of citizens was selected to surround it, in order to place his escape beyond a peradventure. It is said that a special sitting of the Court of Oyer and Terminer of that county has been ordered to try his case.

NEW YORK, June 21 .- Reddy the Blacksmith

was committed for trial without ball for the assault on Hill. The "Rock Island" Panie in Wall Street. The explanation for the panic in Rock Island shares is reported to be that the leading operator in the stock bought 225,000 shares outside of the pool, and was unable to-day to raise the money to protect this enormous amount of stock and carry out the projected corner. A number of smaller brokers actug for this pro-minent operator were unable to take the stock they bought yesterday, and their suspension was reported to the board. Large amounts of stock were sold out, under the rule, for their account.

DRAKES IN COUNCIL.

A Great Buccancer's Descendants-An Immense Property at Stake. The heirs of Sir Francis Drake, once the favorite of "glorious Queen Bess," and ye far-famed buccaneer of the Spanish seas, met this morning at the Brandreth House, corner of Canal street and Broadway. The parlor and extension on the second floor were prepared for the accommodation of the DRAKES.

AMERICAN DRAKES

had a better right to the $125,000,000 worth of property in England left by the far-famed buc-caneer, in direct entail to his male descendants as according to the English law of primogeniture.

of the American branch may be summed up in a few words. AN IRISH DRAKE.

who had occasion to go to England some years ago, discovered, while searching for his own advantage, that the Drakes of Fiscatawa, New Jersey, had by far the best right to this property, and with the generosity peculiar to his race, informed them of his discovery. Immedi-ately there was a convocation of the illustrious brood in this city, and measures were taken to obtain all the necessary links to the legal chain required to hold the plea and recover the money. Dr. Beckwith had circulars sent to all parts of the country, and ere long such a number of Drakes was found that no little difficulty was experienced in sifting, unravelling, and connecting. At last it became necessary to carry the search into Great Britain, and application was made to Minister Adams, then in London. He courteously referred to a Mr. Fisher, a legal gentleman whose business it was to ascertain all about Drakes at Doctors' Commons and among musty records. A subscription was raised to fee him, and having touched the "needy," he proceeded energeti-cally with his investigation. Its results for a time were entirely satisfactory, and proved be-yond a doubt that descendants of the noble Sir Francis had emigrated to and settled in America. Moreover, he learned that the entail had been violated in 1740, and the property given to a branch two removes from the legitimate heirs - a female branch at that. Then it became evident to those investigating on this side of the water

Stamping Cigars. The present method, it is discovered, admits the reverse stamps indiscriminately. It is proposed to that the branch deprived of its entailed rights have a stamp with strap sides to the box in the centre, coming underneath the cover, so that the lid seys. can be opened without destroying the stamp and the cigars be inspected. If the cigars are removed the stamp is destroyed by taking them out. There is an anxiety here to get of petroleum, and the scatry is in carnest in what he says. Of the bitter feelings hidden under the "order" which reigns in Paris I will say not a word. There has been stern work done on both sides, and one must own that the repression has been very severs. A traveller who comes to see the city had better keep clear of politics, or, if he needs must know what is going on, had better ran over by the railway to versailles and gather some scraps of the gossip of the Assembly. The fate of France is to be quietly settled among the parliamentary gentlemen at Ver-sailles. "Quietly settled," did I say? Who can tell? The old headquarters of the invader is now the headquarters of raral Frenchmen, and they will soon show us how far they mean to carry the "reac-tion." But active, restless Paris is for the moment chained and dumb.

FXPRESS MONEY PACKAGES.

The Necessity for Great Caution in Deliv-ering Them.

The Albany Journal of last evening says:-A package consigned to Mr. C. Gibson, con-taining $2500, arrived at the American Mer-chantf Union Express Company's office, and, as is usual, a note was despatched to Mr. Gibson informing him of the circumstance. The note, by mistake, was delivered to Charles W. note, by mistake, was delivered to Charles W. Gibson, a carpenter employed at Clemishire's. About 4 o'clock, as is alleged, Gibson called at the office for the package, and on being told to procure some one to identify him, went out and soon after returned with his brother, Jesse J. Gibson. He identified his brother as C. Gibson, but Jesse being himself a stranger, had also to be identified, and was, by Justice Nugent. Every-thing appeared all right. The package was de-livered to Gibson. Shortly after they had zone livered to Gibson. Shortly after they had gone, Mr. Sly received a despatch from C. Gibson in New York, requesting the company to retain the package until he should call for it. The wrong man having exidently gotten possession of it, the company secured the services of pri-vate detective Kelly, who worked the case up, ascertaining the parties were the brothers above mentioned, and that they boarded in Westerlo street. Procuring the assistance of Sergeant Costi-Lan, he effected their arrest, and yesterday morning they were arraigned and committed for further examination. It is but just to state that both of the young men have always borne a good character, and that they claim they were innocent of doing wrong, honestly thinking the money was intended for them.

The case had not been disposed of at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

They went hastily to work, gathering up from $1000 to $1500 worth of laces, silks, ladies' linen, etc., and decamped the same way they had entered. They were surprised to discover the store lighted up and the curtains drawn.

But this served them in their nefarious work. This morning the officers, who are "working up" the affair, explained that they usually kept the lights burning and the curtains up at night as a precaution against robbery; but that the clerks had, in their forgetfulness, drawn the curtains.

JOHN SMITH .- This redoubtable hero, who has been the victim of all the ills that flesh is heir to, who has been imprisoned, scalped, butchered, and hung dozens of times, is again in trouble. This time he is thirty years old, a little weak in the legs, and with a cast in his dexter optic. He skipped into a trimmings store kept by a blooming lady (married) at No. 2307 Frankford avenue, and solicited the lean of a red lead-pencil. (Query, "Why red?") He was not successful, and hastened out. Upon the same errand he entered a neighboring store, and, when the proprietress turned her back. leaned over the alabaster counter and snatched $9.84 from the till. He was arrested, but not until he had, in thieves' parlance, "shoved" the money. He languishes now in the Bastile de Moyamensing.

NIPPED IN THE BUD .- The Fire Patrol, while making their way to their rendezvous last night, at the unseasonable hour of twelve, detected the presence of a smouldering fire by the tainted in the vicinity of Third and Vine streets. Making their way up into the fourth story of the same building, they discovered a box of rubbish on flames in a little room used by two women as a shoe factory. The incipient confa-gration was extinguished by a bucket of water in the hands of the heroic McCusker.

DEATH FROM A FALL.-Harry Walton, a lad 9 years of age, fell through the jelsts of a new building last night, breaking both arms and receiving internal injuries, causing almost instant death. He was an only child, and resided with his parents in Gratz street, above Columbia avenue.

SLIGHT FIRE .- At 2 45 this morning a fire broke out at Hunt & Pullips' produce store, No. 308 South Front street. Officer Flood extinguished the flames before much damage had been caused.

FOUND .- A milk can, maked "J. Moyer, Lowdon Station," was last night found on Delamare avenue.

SOMNAMBULISM.

The Terror of a "Perliceman."

Officer Burns, whose creed prevents him from wearing another than a plaid shirt, with delicate embroidery on the plaits, was making his lonely way along North Fourth street last night. The night was dark, the air crisp, and his thoughts melanchely. Upon arriving near No. 1014 he was startled by a spectral object depending from a third-story window, and upon a more minute inspection discovered that a woman was hanging headforemost out of the window. He gently aroused the other inmates, and, as they ap proached the door, exclaimed in a subdued tone, "For God's sake, get her in before she falls out or wakes!" Silently they stole into the chamber and tremblingly drew her into the room. She was safe. Receiving the fervent thanks of the entire household, Officer Burns retired from the domicile conscious that he had fulfilled his duty.

PUNY PUNCHERS .- Mike Lynn and John Keenan, reckless boys who believe in coming the "Heathen Chinee" game over the community wherever opportunity presents, were last night arrested at Germantown road and Thompson street, by Officer Burns, for robbing a cigat shop. One of them showed fight, but as the Knight of the Locust displayed his mace, the brush was evaded. Alderman Heins held the rascals to answer.

The following facts, officially obtained, explain the injustice of the allegations: - Every package of currency received for redemption is delivered, seals unbroken, to the lady who is to count it, and who breaks the seal and counts the package in the presence of other clerks, and in case of the discovery of any considerable in case of the discovery of any considerable discrepancy, one of them is called upon to verify the count. The notes are then cut in two by machinery, one being sent to one office and the other to another for recount. Any mistake discovered by different to heter offices is at one traced by in either the latter offices is at once traced by means of the name on the wrapper that surrounds the notes to the counter in the Treasurer's office, who is required to make good all shorts and counterfeits discovered in money counted by Any counter habitually reporting "shorts her. would give rise to suspicions of dishonesty.

This system is deemed effective against dishonesty or carelessness by the following facts: --First. The "overs" discovered more than equal the "shorts," and nearly equal the shorts and counterfeits together. The overs are of course pocketed by the senders, while the shorts, even if found in the money of a person to whom overs have been frequently returned, provoke much complaint and sometimes abuse. Those mos habitually incorrect make the loudest complaint when shorts are fastened upon them. Second, Although the packages are delivered to the counters without regard to the parties from whom they have been received, so that different remittances from the same party are seldom counted by the same counter successively, yet it is found that remittances from certain parties are almost always correct, while those from others are habitually incorrect. It is frequently the case that remittances reaching as high as fifty thousand dollars from certain parties are invariably within a few cents of absolute correctness, and the discrepancy quite as likely to be an "over" as a "short." Remittances from other correspondents, on the contrary, are quite as invariably short, making it a matter of perfect certainty when such remittances are received that they will be found wanting to a greater or less amount. These facts show that the great mass of reported shorts actually exist when the money is received at the Treasurer's office.

Excitement in the Treasury.

The announcement of complicity between Glifford Thomson, Chief Supervisor and Detective of Internal Revenue, and Commissioner Pleasanton's confi-dential clerk, in the disposition of secrets of office for stock-jobbing operations in New York, causes much excitement throughout the Treasury Department. It is stated that Pleasanton was cognizant of Thomson's action. An investigation will be ordered. Thomson has resigned, and it is rumored that Pleasanton will resign. General Ingalis, Pleasanton's supporter, is here to balance matters. Secretary Boutwell is reticent, but does not deny the state [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Return of General Sherman. WASHINGTON, June 21.-General Sherman has re-

turnel from his extended tour of inspection throughout the West and Southwest, and is again at his office in the War Department to day, busily engaged in attending to an accountilated mass of correspondence and other business. The General is in excellent health, and expresses himself much gratified with the result of his inspection. He has given particular attention to the condition of Indian affairs in the Southwest, and considers the appre-hensions entertained in some quarters of a widespread Devastating Indian War along the Texan frontier to be in a great measure unfounded. In regard to the alleged threatening attitude of the Indians on the Tatum reservation, General Sherman says it is true they have recently manifested a restive and hostile disposition, and in case they do not observe their treaty obligations, the first one of which is to keep the peace, he will, as a matter of course, recommend the civil authorities to cease furnishing them with any supplies, and will then see that vigorous measures are employed to promptly repress and punish all raids and other outrages. Although these Indians number some seven thousand, they cannot bring into the field more than seven or eight hundred warriors, and the troops under command of General Reynolds, in whom the people of the department have entire confidence, which is shared by General Sherman, will, in the latter's orinion, prove adequate for the service re-quired of them. Appropriations available will be used to the fullest extent, and the Secretary of War has to-day given orders for an immediate supply of six hundred horses to remount the cavalry in General Reynolds' department. Congress having only appropriated a sufficient sum to furnish about two thousand horses, the above number is all that can be spared for that section of country. The General's view of the situation, on the whole, seems to be much more 1 than many parties have heretofore supposed. hopeful

HORRIBLE SUICIDE.

An Insane Woman Burns Herself to Death.

The St. Louis Democrat of June 19 has the following:-Details of a horrible suicide were yesterday gathered at a Coroner's inquest held at No. 717 South Pratt avenue, on the body of Mrs. Isabelle W. Stricklang.

The woman resided at the number mentioned. with her mother, several children, and her husband. The latter is an engineer on the river and a great portion of the time away from home. His wife, who by the way was forty-two years of age, had lately given evidence of insanity. Although attended by experienced physiciaus she gradually grew more violent, and about a month ago her relatives, who watched her carefully, were led to believe that she intended to commit suleide.

She rose about 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and soon after left the house. A neighbor living in the next house saw her walk to the bank of a small pond a few rods distant, and from her actions he supposed she was about to throw herself into the water. He at once called to her, and told her to return to the house, which she readily did.

While the family were preparing for break-fast she went to her room, changed a new and expensive dress she had on for a cheap calleo, and descended to the dining-room. There she procured a good-sized coal-oil lamp, well filled with oil, and with a handfal of matches she proceeded to the cellar. Unscrewing the top of the lamp she emptied the oil over her clothing, and after thoroughly saturating it set fire to it Her condition was, of course, quickly discovered by her relatives on the floor above, and the flames were, as soon as possible, extinguished.

This was not done, however, until she was burned, and although a physician was fatally instantly summoned, he proclaimed her case hopeless. The miserable woman lived until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when death ended her sufferings. The suicide is one of the most horrible on record, and the appearance of the scorched and blackened body, as viewed at the inquest yesterday, was most unpleasant.

THE STATE OF PARIS.

The Return of Citizens and the Revival of Trade.

The London News' Paris correspondent writes on the 6th inst .:-

on the oth list.:--Frenchmen are pouring back by thousands to re-sume their former life in the capital, and the irre-pressible Briton arrives in a steadily increasing stream. The more strangers the better for Paria, "Come one-come all!" is the cry of the impover-ished citizens. You must know that it is safe and easy to come, and then, perhaps, you will try the excursion yourself. Be sure to obtain a passport, and to have it doly countering and by the Pranch and to have it duly countersigned by the French authorities in England; take your ticket for Paris, and to have it duly counterscheed by the French authorities in Engiand; take your ticket for Paris, step into the train and here you are. The only troubles likely to arise will be cleared away by show-ing an Engilan passfort—and at the worst a guide-book, a white hat, and, if possible, rod whiskers will smooth over every difficulty. Every French official remembers the true type of l'Anglais en royage, and welcomes him, L'Anglais en copage is not a Federal. He is a sufe man, who brings the money so much needed in Paris to renew her trade. There is no need that he should point over gleeduly at ruins which he may find, si I have seen some do and shout to Jack or Tom, 'I sav, here's a glorious statention, and note the curious revival of Paristan life, without the last danger or annoyance. The city is once again open to all the world. Those patrols in the arrest will not harm quiet passers-by, and even if we should profer to be feft undisturbed in the cafe until after 11 o'clock at night, it is no such dreadful hardship to have to keep early hours, Mind te do whatever the militory wish. That is your great stand-by in the way of advice. Mind, also, to keep in the middle of the street when the
