SABBATH MORN.

Hushed in the deepest, holiest calm, All nature owns this Sabbath morn The breeze sighs softly in a psalm, Whispering and rustling through the corn! Calm dwel's unbroken on the hills, Save by the hum of wandering bee, Or wild bit as hymn-or hermit rills, As they sing onwards to the Sea!

Calm in the spirit, Sabbath calm Shed down from Him who rose to-day; Healing its wounds with heavenly balm And sending light to cheer its way!

Be this all calm the blessed token-Pledge, deep-set, earnest-in my breast, Of peace, eternal and unbroken, Full-stored in yonder realms of rest!

REDEMPTION THROUGH HIS BLOOD.

I see Christ's heart yearning over poor sinners-not poor sinners' hearts yearning after Christ

Will He ever lay aside His character of Redeemer?" "The Lamb in the midst of the throne," points Him out as the one whose redemption-glory will still be seen, though we shall be realizing a different part. Israel when in Cansan realized a different portion from Israel in the wilderness; but this was still their glory, that they were the people of a Redeemer God. When you get into glory, every one of you will be pointed to as a spectacle showing forth the redemption-glory of the Redeemer God. God sees in redemption one of the thoughts dearest to His own heart: it shows out His highest glory, all centred in Christ, according to His eternal purpose. Is that glory in the person of Christ the thing that fills your soul? When telling over all the glories that attach to the person of that Christ, do you say, "Ah, that is the One in whom I have redemption through His blood, even the forgiveness of sins !'

SUMMARY OF CHURCH NEWS.

PRESBYTEBIAN.

-The session and trustees of the First presbyterian Church, New Orleans, the Rev. Dr. Palmer's, have recently purchased a fine property on Carondelet street, near Euterpe, in that city, as a permanent location for the "Sylvester-Larned Institute." The location is an excellent one, in a quiet, pleasant neighborhood; the buildings commodious and elegant, well adapted to the purposes of a prosperous school.

-A proposition was made in the Southern General Assembly for the organization of a Presbytery in Brazil. There are four ministers there in the neighborhood of Campinas. Two are missionaries, and the other two are connected with the church, viz--The Rev. W. C. Emerson, of Tombeckbee Presbytery, and the Rev. James T. Baird, of the Presbytery of Bethel. And the request comes up for their organization into the Presbytery of San Paulo, and their connection with the Synod of Virginia, as two of the four ministers are connected with that synod. There are also two elders from this country in the same region.

-The Rev. William Hall, late of Carrollton, Ky., was received as a member of the Presbytery of Western Texas at its late meeting, and a call from the Indianola church for his services as pastor placed in his hands.

-The Rev. J. L. Milburn, a Cumberland Presbyterian minister, was received from the Presbytery of Hiawassee into the Presbytery of Cherokee, in connection with the South-

-The Rev. Dr. A. C. Thompson, of Roxbury, Mass., has retired from the pulpit of the Eliot Church in consequence of ill health.

EPISCOPAL.

-The Rev. Dr. Lathrop, in a sermon on Domestic Missions, part of which is published in the Churchman, says .- "California has received from the Domestic Missionary treasury within the last twenty years, I think, somewhat more than $60,000. * * I do not believe we have returned to the Domestic Committee $3000." The total amount contributed last year was $290, of which San Francisco gave but $89.50.

-There are in Detroit seven Episcopal parishes, four of which have large, fine stone edifices. The latest addition, Grace Church, is built of Milwankee brick, with cut-stone facings, and its interior is commodiously arranged, as well as ornate.

-The Church Weekly gives prominence to the following interesting paragraph, the precise drift of which is not apparent to all men: "We are enabled to state on good authority that within the last week a secret caucus was held in the Church of the Incarnation, in New York, whereat it was agreed to crush the rector of Trinity Church in the coming diocesan convention. Among the gentlemen present were the Rev. Messrs. Howland, Conrad, Montgomery, Potter, and Washburn." (The Church Weekly is the organ of the extreme Ritualists in New York.)

MORAVIAN.

-Of the Widows' House, Bethlehem, the Moravian says :- "This building was founded in the year 1769, and first occupied in October, 1770. From the laying of the cornerstone it was solemnly devoted to the purposes of a home for widowed sisters of the Moravian Church, and more particularly for those whose husbands had died in its service. A friend, whose family has shared in the benificent operations of this excellent institution, has given the sum of ten thousand dollars for the purpose of permanently restoring it to its original uses.

METHODIST.

-The Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church held its semi-annual meeting June 8. The Treasurer reported the total receipts $92,700, of which $90,000 had been invested. The board ordered the investment of the balance, amounting to $2700. -The women's missionary scheme is becoming effective in American Methodism; besides the particular facts of $23,000 raised the last year, of forty girls' schools maintained by it in India, and also the Bareilly orphanage, and many Bible-women, it is developing a surprising amount of talent and activity among the American Methodist women themselves.

BAPTIST.

-The Southern Foreign Mission Board report that since 1860 there has been no period when their prospects were more encouraging. They have been considering the expediency of giving up the African mission, but have concluded that it would be unwise to do so. The receipts of the last year were $27,254.51. The Rev. N. B. Williams, of Alabama, has been accepted by the board as a missionary to China. He is a recent graduate of the Greenville Theological Seminary.

-The Rev. J. G. Phillips, formerly a Me-thodist minister, was ordained as pastor of the Baptist church in Petersburg, N. Y., on May 4.

-A conference of the friends of Christian missions was held lately in Boston. The object was the cause of the Baptist foreign missions, especially the missions in Europe, and the new providential openings in France and in Rome. Conclusions were reached, says the Watchman, "which we are confident must prove of lasting good."

MORE ECCLESIASTICAL LAW.

To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph.

Notwithstanding the conclusive and convincing manner in which Judge Ludlow has disposed of the assumption by a yestry of the right to arbitrarily dismiss a minister from his charge without cause assigned and investigation, "A Student of the Canons" has undertaken to make people believe that Judge Ludlow in his argument is all wrong, by stating emphatically that the vestry have the power, in the hope that he may convince some weak minds yet, by stout assertions and by having the last word. He states that "there is no law in Pennsylvania distinguishing between a contract entered into by a clergyman and his parish and one made by any other citizen." In vain does one look for any argument to support this statement, but a ready answer to it may soon be had by simply asking him, Where is the law of Pennsylvania which assimilates these different contracts and subjects them to the same rules? Judge Ludlow has stated that they are not alike; what court has held that they are? The most cursory examination will show how totally unlike they are in every respect.

The law of Pennsylvania concerning contracts between principal and agent is that either party may dissolve the contract at his pleasure. This was said in Coffin vs. Landis, Peacock vs. Chambers, and Kirk vs. Hartman, and an examination of these cases will show that they are put upon the ground that the relation of principal and agent has always been in this State liable to be abruptly dissolved at the pleasure of either party. Let us analyze one of these cases as a type of all of them. In the first, Coffin was employed by Landis to sell lands for him at Vineland, New Jersey, at a commission of one-half, or fifty per cent. of the net profits above the costs, interests, and expenses. There was in their contract this clause, "This agreement is not intended to create any partnership." Afterwards Landis discharged Coffin, who then brought suit for what he would have made had he not been discharged; and the court decided that he had no right of action. Peacock vs. Chambers was a proceeding in equity for an injunction to restrain a discharge under circumstances nearly the same, and it was refused. Kirk vs. Hartman was an action for the salary of an agent, and was not allowed.

Now, do the Episcopal elergy minister, serve, and preach at a commission or percentage on the net profits of the parish above costs and expenses? If so, they can and should be dismissed at once. Are ministers the agents of the vestry? Can the vestry order the minister, or the minister the vestry? The attempt of a vestry in Michigan to do this led to an attempted dismissal and failure.

When a minister is desired by a parish he is called to it, not hired by it. He then becomes an integral part of the parish (Wilson vs. McMath, 3 Phillimore's Reports, page 67), and his assent is necessary to a sale of the church lands, as was held by the Supreme Court of the United States in 6 Wheaton, cessary, they should recommend the minister to resign; and in case he would not, then he became guilty of an offense, and might be supponded.

Here was the ecclesiastical authority without the concurring action of which no minister could be dismissed. It gave the permission and pointed out the way to effect a separation; but as men will not always be governed by law, and it was thought that cases might occur where separation would be attempted without such authority, the other canon was passed to punish such unauthorized separations by all the power of the Church.

These two canons were not in pari materia. The same laws did not flow from both of them. They differed in this, that one gave a power, the other punished the unlawful assumption of it. They were both re-enacted in 1808 and in 1832; and in 1859 it was intended to repeal and then introduce a substitute for the canon 34, but the plan miscarried. "A substitute for this canon had been reported by the joint committee on canons, which was not acted upon, while the original canon was repealed."-Hoffman's Eccl. Law in the State of New York, page 271. And since the year 1859 there has been no ecclesiastical authority to concur in a separation by the general canons. Several dioceses, noticing the omission, have passed local canons on the subject; but Pennsylvania has none. Would there be any necessity for local canons on the subject if there was any general one?

The meaning of the quotation from the ordination service about obedience to the bishop is obscure, unless there is an insinuation intended that the clergy of St. Clement's are disobedient to the lawful commands and godly judgments of their bishop. As an insinuation, it is mean; as an assertion, it would be untrue. No clergymen have a higher respect for the office of a bishop than St. Clement's clergy. If the person who fills the office will assume a power to sentence them without hearing, they can easily see that it is the man, not the office, that is wrong. For the office they had so much respect that they did not join its incumbent in their suit for an injunction, little dreaming of there being any necessity for such a step, but the sequel showed that they had a higher regard for their bishop than he had for them. The impression they now have is that when bishops are dragged into a quarrel they ought not to sit and pass judgment upon any of the parties to it, even if they have the authority, but, like judges of the civil law, decline to sit because interested, and let others hold the court.

ern General Assembly, a few weeks ago.

-The Cumberland Presbyterian General Assembly met at Nashville, Tenn., May 18th. The Rev. J. B. Logan, of Alton, Ill., was chosen Moderator. The Board of Missions reported receipts amounting to $16,400.101. The subject of engaging in the foreign mission work came before the Assembly in an overture from one of the presbyteries, and in the report of the committee, and was discussed at much length. It was stated that one young man was consecrating himself to this work, and had offered himself to the board. A proposition was made to co-operate with the American Board, but this was objected to on the ground that the American Board had become denominational, and such action would lead to inconvenient complications. A resolution prevailed to instruct the Board of Mis-"to ascertain, if possible, the best sions method of entering upon the work of foreign missions, proceed to raise funds for that purpose, and report to the next General Assembly. Steps were taken to organize two presbyteries of colored Cumberland Presbyterians into a separate synod. A total of 5000 conversions and 4500 accessions to the Church was reported for the year.

-The total number of members reported to the General Assembly is 71,744; of congregation,s 514; of ministers, 563; of Sundayschools, 601. The receipts of the boards (including balances at the beginning of the year) were:-Foreign Missions, $48,844.65; Home Missions, $28,793.67; Freedmen's Missions, $12,271'58; Publication, $27,500'31; Church Extension, $15,624'33; Education, $6564'20. Total, including other miscellaneous funds, $167,626.51.

-The Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church unanimously elected Mr. Ralph Wilkins, a licentiate of Monmouth Presbytery, to the China mission.

-The revised Psalm Book just published by the Board of the United Presbyterian Church, and adopted by the General Assembly, meets with great favor. Already the first edition is exhausted, and several large orders remain unfilled.

REFORMED.

-At the communion season observed on Trinity Sunday in the First Reformed Church of Lancaster, Pa., of which the Rev. A. H. Kremer is pastor, twenty-four persons were added to the church, twenty-one by confirmation and three on certificate.

-At the communion held in the St. John's congregation of Shamokin, Pa., on the 4th inst., under the pastoral care of the Rev. D. W. Kelly, fifty-four persons were added to the membership, twenty-one by the rite of confirmation, and thirty-three by letter and renewal by profession. Of this number thirtytwo are heads of families. This accession, in seven months, amounts to sixty-four.

CONGREGATIONAL.

-A new building, to cost between fifty and sixty thousand dollars, is to be erected for the Theological Seminary connected with Oberlin College

-The First Church in Holyoke, Mass., received thirty-four new members at their last communion, most of them converts in the revival last winter.

-The church in New York which has been designated as the Bethesda Methodist Church, of which the Rev. C. B. Ray is pastor, is a Congregational Church, and has been such from its organization in 1847.

-The Central Church in Chelsea, Masa. voted unanimously to extend a call to Rev Zachary Eddy, D. D., of Brooklyn.

-The Winthrop Church, Charlestown, of which Rev. Dr. Rankin, of Washington, was the late pastor, has called Mr. De Forrest, of Chicago.

LUTHERAN.

-The General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church met at Dayton, Ohio, on June 8. It was feared that the hymn-book question would excite discussion, and perhaps division, but it was disposed of happily. The publication of the old hymn-book in any of its forms was prohibited. "No attempt, says the Lutheran Observer, "was made to mntilate the Book of Worship, no substitute offered for the Angsburg Confession, and no change even suggested in the doctrinal basis. On the contrary, a motion made to exclude the 'abuses corrected' from the Augsburg Confession was unanimously and indignantly voted down, and the deliverance made at York explanatory of the true meaning and in defense of the Augsburg Confession was reaffirmed, and ordered to be inserted in the next edition of the Book of Worship."

-The Board of Home Missions reported receipts and expenditures each more than $23,000; 50 missionaries employed; 13 new missions undertaken; 61 church organizations effected; 1731 members added.

CATHOLIC.

-The address of the Catholic ladies of Cincinnati to the Holy Father was signed by ten thousand three hundred ladies.

-The festival of Corpus Christi was celebrated in Montreal with unusual magnificence. It is calculated that 8000 people were in the procession.

-Rev. Ludwig Fink, of St. Joseph's Church, Chicago, Ill., was consecrated Bishop in partibus and coadjutor to Bishop Miege, Vicar Apostolic of Kansas, on the 11th inst. —There are now three Passionist priests stationed permanently at the Church of the Immaculata, Cincinnati, named, respectively, Guido, William, and Sebastian. They speak German, English, Italian, and French.

PUMMELLED BY A PARSON.

A Sacrilegious Burglar Badly Bruised. Shortly before twelve o'clock on Wednesday night the residence of Rev. Thomas R. Harris, pastor of St. Paul's (Episcopal) Church, Tremont, Westchester county, N. Y., was entered by a burglar whose plundering operations, fortunately, awoke the slumbering head of the family. Having slipped on a pair of pantaloons the minister bounded to an adjoining room, where he saw, and at once "went for," the audacious robber, who was then in the act of rifling a dressing case. The felonious intruder-a fellow of lusty pro-portions-offered a determined resistance, and in the hand to hand encounter which immediately ensued the parson displayed a laudable amount of muscular Christianity by putting "a head," adorned with a jet black eye and numerous severe contusions, on the sorely bothered apex of his antagonist. During the struggle the fellow found his way to the street door, and would, perhaps, have escaped had not the parson called loudly for assistance, which was soon forthcoming from the startled neighbors, who quickly secured the desperado. On searching his person some eight or nine dollars were found, which the ruffian had secured by breaking open a missionary contribution box and a child's "savings bank." The accused was arraigued before Justice Lent Fischer, and stated that he had only arrived from Germany about two months ago. He was fully committed for the action of the Grand Jury, now sitting at White Plains.

-People say iron natures never weep, and yet we have seen whole rows of cannon in tiers. to the Redif Pacha. Governor-General of Yemen, for his successful campaign against the rebel Assyr Arabs,

454. But why require his assent if, upon his refusal, he can be dismissed by the vestry and a person who will consent out in his place? The argument deduced from or based upon the law of principal and agent, or the law of contracts, has no place whatever in this question, and in arguing the St. Clement's Church case the solicitors for the complainants did not put their claims upon that ground; they carefully avoided it, and contended for the rights of the ministers as members of the corporation, who cannot be disfranchised except for cause, and after trial according to the laws thereof.

We come now to the canon 4 of title 2, as amended in 1865, which "A Student of the Canons" says authorizes a dismissal. It is in these words:-"'In case a minister who has been regularly instituted or settled in a parish or church be dismissed by such parish or church without the concurrence of the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese, the vestry or congregation of such parish or church shall have no right to a representation in the convention of the diocese until they have made such satisfaction as the convention may require; but the minister thus dismissed shall retain his right to a seat in the convention, subject to the approval of the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese. And no minister shall leave his congregation against their will without the concurrence of the ecclesiastical authority aforesaid," etc.

This canon in its present form is in effect the same as canon 33 of 1804. We say this in answer to the claim that it was written by a person now living, but who really did not write it, because he was not in existence in 1804. It was re-enacted in 1832, and rewritten in 1865. It is a penal statute, that is, it imposes a penalty for doing an act without the ecclesiastical authority; and it is a familiar rule of construction that a penal statute implies a prohibition of the act subjected to the penalty. Kepner vs. Keepe, 6 Watts, 283. For instance, the act of 1794 imposes a fine of $4 for doing worldly labor on Sunday, but will any one contend that all kinds of worldly labor can be done on that day by simply paying the fine? The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has held otherwise.

But what is the ecclesiastical authority by whose concurring action a dismissal is made regular and canonical, and, by another section of the above canon, entitled to be recorded and submitted to the convention of the diocese? At the same time (1804) that the above penal canon was passed, a permissive canon (34) was passed, by which ministers to whom no wrong was imputed, and, therefore, who were not liable to be admonished, suspended, or degraded, might nevertheless have their relation to their parishes or churches dissolved. It was entitled "Of Differences between Ministers and their Congregations," and it provided that in cases of controversy between ministers and their congregations application might be made by either party to the bishop, who was to summon all the presbyters of his diocese, and if upon investigation it should appear to them that the differences were irreconcilable, and that a dissolution of the connection was indispensably ne-
