SUMMER CONCERTS .- Carl Sentz has arranged a series of summer concerts, to be given every evening at the garden of the Mænnerchor Society, northeast corner of Coates and Franklin streets, from Friday next, the 30th inst., to September 8. The entire Chesnut Street. Theatre orchestra, with a number of additional per-formers, has been engaged, and it is Mr. Sentz's intention to perform selections of the best and most attractive music. We are assured that no effort will be spared to make these entertain-ments attractive to ladies and gentlemen of culture and taste, and to make the Mænnerchor Garden a popular place of resort during the hot summer nights. Mr. Sentz's reputation as a leader is a guarantee that the music will be first-class; and that persons of refinement may enjoy the concerts free of annoyance, the arrangements will be such as to prevent objectionable characters from intruding. To this end no tickets will be obtainable at the door, and no single tickets will be sold. The price of season single tickets will be sold. The price of season tickets, admitting a gentleman and lady, will be $5, and packages of four admission tickets will be disposed of for $1. These prices are certainly low enough to suit everybody, and there is no doubt but that Mr. Sentz's enterprise will be a success. Mr. H. Torchiana, the gentlemanly box-book-keeper of the Chesnut Street, Theatre, will act as business manager, and ladies and gentlemen who attend these concerts. ladies and gentlemen who attend these concerts will be sure of receiving every attention from

CITY INTELLIGENCE. PROBABLE MURDER.

Licutement Flaherty, of the Fifth District, Shot Yesterday Afternoon.

Lieutenant Flaherty, one of the best officers of the Philadelphia police force, was shot by a ruf-fian named James Monaghan, at Tenth and Spruce streets, yesterday afternoon, about four o clock. A party of young men, who are known to residents of the Eighth ward, and feared by many of them, made an attack upon a colored man, and were severely beating him, when Policeman Thompson and another officer of the Fifth district came up and interfered, taking into custody two of the rioters.

Their friends then attempted to rescue them, and fearing that they would not be able to retain their prisoners, word was sent to Lieu-tenant Flaherty, who was at his home, on the southeast corner of Eleventh and Locust streets. Hurrying around to Spruce street he found that a crowd was gathering, and that it would be necessary to take prompt steps to get the pris-oners to the station. Seizing one of the men who was foremost in the attempted rescue, he was taking him out Spruce street, when he encountered James Monaghan, who encouraged the rioters in resisting the Lieutenant. Mona-ghan was ordered away, but instead of going used insulting words to the officer. Thereupon Lieutenant Flaherty caught hold of him, and a struggle ensued, during which Monaghan drew a pistol, and the officer got his revolver out also. Almost instantly Monaghan placed the muzzie of the weapon against the Lieutenant's breast, and fired three shots in rapid succession. Two of the balls struck a rib and passed around to the back under the skin, causing only slight the back under the skin, causing only slight wounds, so close together, though, as to make but one visible wound. The third ball passed into the body a little lower down, and penetrated the bowels. Monaghau at once broke away and ran down Spruce street. The Lieutenant, though suffering from his wounds, fired at him as he ran, and one of the other officers also. That he was wounded was evident, from the fact that blood was seen running down the back of his neck. He, nowever, made his escape, and was last seen running through Independence Square. The Lieutepant was assisted to his home and Professor Gross summoned. The wound in the abdomen was pronounced to be of a very serious nature. His recovery is exceedingly doubtful. Lieutenant Flaherty is one of the most brave, gentlemanly, and intelligent officers of the city, and thoroughly conscientious in the discharge of his duties. That he was a terror to the roughs of the Fifth district is well known. The man Monaghan who shot the Lieutenant is the one who in August, 1865, murdered James Moore at a delegate election. The Lieutenant married the widow of Moore, and this fact no doubt had made bad feeling between the parties, Monaghan also shot a man in a saloon on Ninth street some months ago. He is a son of Harry Monaghan, who keeps a tavern on Walnut street, near Eighth, and is Democratic nominee for assessor of the Eighth ward.

LATER.

This morning Lieutenaut Flaherty was easier, and the physicians and his friends are hopeful. There are in his body three bullets, two of which entered at the same spot, on the left side, and, following along a rib, lodged against the spine. The third ball is lodged in the abdomen. This is the dangerous wound. If the intestine is cut, the injury will in all likelihood prove fatal. If not, the physicians declared that the brave Lieutenant will be up in five weeks. To determine this important question, four or five days will be required. No effort has as yet been made to cut out the bullets. All last night the detectives and police were searching for the desperado Monaghan, a villainous, blood-thirsty wretch, who long ago merited a death on the gallows. It is to be seen now whether justice will be meted out to this worst of all Democratic roughs.

A DENOUEMENT.

This morning the Pinkerton Detective Agency in this city received a letter which exculpates Scott, who has been the cause of so much excitement, from the murder of the banker Hertzler. It is in answer to a letter of inquiry addressed to the Warden of the Joliet Prison, Illinois, asking the date of the escape of Scott from that institution, and runs thus:

"Thomas Scott, alias John Scott, alias Riley, escaped from Joliet Prison on the 20th of October, 1867. We have a man with the necessary paper now on his way to Spring-field, Omo, to bring him back."

The murder in question was committed on the 10th of October, 1867. When Lieutenaut Fla-herty, after a terrible tussic arrested Scott, on Locust street, the evidence against him was of the strongest nature, and was uncontradicted up to the receipt of the surprising letter. Taking this letter to be true, we are compelled to ex-press our astonishment that Scott did not indicate his innocence of this crime before. He lay many months in the jail of the town where the crime was committed. Why did he undergo this incarceration when, by informing his counsel of the time of his escape, the strongest kind of defense—an alibi—might have been proved, and he would have been released? And what object had he in escaping from that jail, when upon the production of this incontrovertible evidence he would have been acquitted? Taking these questions into consideration, it looks as though there is a mistake in the dates in this answer of the Warden of Joliet Prison. It is irreconcilable with the facts in the case.

A New Dodge by a Fruitful Swingler. Yesterday afternoon a swindle was neatly expetrated in West Philadelphia. At the corner perpetrated in west Philadelphia. At the corner of Thirty-third and Market streets a merchant does business. His residence is on Forty-second street, near Kingsessing avenue. He is a staunch Republican, and this fact has an important bearing in the case. Yesterday a suave swindler called upon his wife, when the merchant was away, and represented to her that her husband had assaulted a men had been resided and had assaulted a man, had been arrested and taken before a Democratic alderman, who was bitterly opposed to him, and that unless $30 was forthcoming he would be sent to prison. To get this $30 the merchant had commissioned his friend (!) the swindler to call upon his wife The lady, as may well be imagined, became greatly excited with fear when this story was greatly excited with fear when this story was told her, and ran up stairs to get all the ready money she had, which was $15. This she gave to the man, and told her son, a lad, to go with the gentleman to his aunt's on Sansom street, who would give the balance of the money needed. This they did, and the aunt gave $30. This was given to the swindler also. The latter and the lad then proceeded towards the Alderman's office. When about half way the swindler exclaimed:—"Oh dear! there is an important letter in the pocket of a coat of your father's which he told me hung in the storeroom on the second floor, and he wants it. Do you run back and get it, and I will hasten forward and keep your father out of prison." The lad ran back, and when he disappeared the swindler smiled a sardonic smile, cut through some by streets, and that was the last seen of him or the money. The merchant was rather disconcerted upon return-ing from his store and hearing of the adven-

A TRUNK RIFLED .- The officers of the Sixteenth district, Lieutenant Leech, last night discovered a huge trunk in a wood near Fortysecond street and the Baltimore pike. It had been broken open and rifled, the discriminating thieves taking the best of the contents where they could not take all. The trunk still contained, when found, a great deal of underclothing, some cheap jewelry, and about fifty letters. Some of these, and a collar having a stencilled name upon it, indicate that the trunk is the property of Miss Harriet Peyton.

HILL AND YANCEY.

Another Account of their Personal Difficulty in a Secret Session of the Rebel Senate. From the Columbia (Tenn.) Hera'd, June 16.

Among the many events of personal interest that transpired in the South during the late war, but few are of a more dramatic character, or aroused a deeper interest among our people, than the unfortu-nate personal difficulty which took place in the Con-federate States Senate at Richmond, during its secret session, between William L. Yancey, of Alasecret session, between William L. Yancey, of Ala-bama, and Mr. Benjamin H. Hill, of Georgia. Several different and conflicting versions of the affair have been given through the Southern press, but none has yet been published that accords with a statement we recently derived from a gentleman who was at the time a Senator, and an eye-witness to all that trans-time a Senator, and an eye-witness to all that transpired on the occasion.

The difficulty had its origin in the heated political contests so common in this country prior to the breaking out of the war. It was when Yancey, with his dazzling eloquence, was "firing the Southern heart," that a barbecue, attended by thousands, was given in one of the upper counties of Georgia. It was here that Hill and Yancey met, the one the bold and eloquent defender of the Union, and the other the boasted champion of secession; and during the debate which ensued, words were uttered which caused an estrangement that was never afterwards reconciled.

The two had met again in the Confederate Senate, both doubtless smarting under the recollection of past conflicts and entertaining no kindly feeling for each other. It was when the cause of the South each other. It was when the cause of the South was drooping and every patriot heart was heavy with despondency and gloom that Mr. Yancey, ris-ing in his place in the Senate, declared that war could no longer be carried on with any hope of suc-cess unless many of the constitutional restraints and embarrassments were thrown aside, and boldly advocated a radical change in the Government, to eet the demands of the public and the exigencies meet the demands of the public and the exigencies of the hour.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Yancey's remarks, Mr. Hill promptly arose to reply. The scene was one of most intense excitement. He deprecated the opinion advocated by Mr. Yancey, and proceeded with great severity to review his past political career, running back to the beginning of the times when our sectional troubles were first being agitated. He said Mr. Yancey, not satisfied with having warred upon and disrupted the old Union, was now crying out against and endeavoring to subvert and break down the Confederate Government. When Mr. Hill concluded, the excitement, already at white heat, was increased beyond anything ever before witnessed during those troublesome times. Mr. Yancey arose, and in a caim, dignified, and self-poised manner peculiarly his own, commenced his reply. He described Mr. Hill as repeating slanders that had been uttered against him for the past twenty years, and that all which Mr. Hill had uttered had been said innumerable times before by every this interpretations. thad been said innumerable times before by every third-rate politician in the country; and continued by saying:—"Nature had designed the Senator from Georgia as an imitator; that he had been cast in a die, and it was vain to attempt to enlarge his dimen-

Pallid with rage. Mr. Hill mounted to his Pallid with rage. Mr. Hill mounted to his feet, and seizing a heavy glass ink-stand huried it with all his might and power at the head of Mr. Yancey, which, grazing his forehead, plowed its way to the skull, and passed on its furious course, crushing a heavy window-facing beyond. Without turning his head, Mr. Yancey, who was at the time addressing the Speaker, continuing his speech, deliberately remarked, "It is always the prerogative of cowards to strike from the rear." Enraged still more at this remark, Mr. Hill, gathering a chair, rushed upon his antagonist, who, heedless of the attack, was continuing his remarks as calmiy as if nothing had happened, when a number of Senators interposing, the difficulty was ended. Mr. Yancey's wound bled most profusely, and a scene of the utmost confusion most profusely, and a scene of the utmost confusion cey's death, that it resulted from injuries received in this rencontre, but such is not the fact, as he died from a disease that could in no way have been superinduced by this cause,

Indian Outrages. Washington, June 28.—The War Department has received despatches from Camp Apache, Arizona Territory, dated May 16, giving an account of an attack by the Esattesaylah band of Indians on the herd, killing one herder and driving off ten houses, and tracks mules. and driving off ten horses and twelve mules. Major Greene, commanding the post, immedidiately mounted all the men on the few mules and horses left, and started Lieutenant Brodie in pursuit, and also sent Captain Fuller with some infantry to follow up, in order to support

Brodie if possible. Brodie overtook them about twelve mlles from the post in the mountains. He had a fight and killed two Indians, but the number was too large for his few men, for even a portion of those he had could not keep up with him, and he was obliged to retire. One sergeant had his horse shot under him. Major Greene became very uneasy about a train between the post and Camp Goodwin, and also two wagons he had sent to meet it in order to bring in some supplies that the garrison much needed. He therefore sent Lieutenant Brodie with fifteen men, all he could mount on mules, to meet the train and

As those Indians have been considered friendly, they approach the parties without being suspected, hence the great danger. He knows of no course to pursue toward them but extermi-nation, for after the kind treatment received he does not believe they can again be trusted. He has suspended all intercourse with them. Of the two regiments he can mount only forty men, owing to scarcity of horses.

The President returned this morning, and was early at the Executive Mansion, where he is attending to the correspondence which has accumulated during his absence. He will remain at the residence of Secretary Robeson while in Washington. The Cabluet Meeting

Government Weather Report. WAR DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, WASHINGTON, June 28—10:30 A.M.—Synopsis for the past twenty-four hours:—The low barometer which existed Tuesday morning in Upper Canada has moved southeastward, but its influence has extended to South Carolina. The pressure has very generally fallen from Lake Michigan to Louisiand and eastward. The temperature has fallen from the Ohio to Lake Michigan and eastward to the Atlantic. It has risen slightly in the Southern States. Fresh winds from the southeast, changing to southwest, have prevailed on the mid Atlantic coast. Southwesterly winds on the lower lakes; northwesterly winds on Lake Michigan, and light winds and calms elsewhere. The cloudy weather prevailing Tuesday in the South Atlantic States has moved southward, and is now confined to Florida, with rain at Key West. Light local rains have fallen in Western Pennsylvania and Southern Missouri. Partially cloudy and clear weather is now very generally reported.

Probabilities.—The brisk southwesterly winds ap prehended yesterday on Lake Ontario will probably be felt to-day in Nova Scotia. Partially clear and warm weather is probable from the Mississippi to The Detailed Meteorological Report for

To-day. The following is the meteorological report of the Signal Bureau of the War Department for this morning, all the observations being taken at 7-43 A. M., Philadelphia time. The barometrical reports are corrected for temperature and elevation. The velocity of the wind is given in miles per hour, and the force is an approximate reduction to the Beaufort scale.

THE BALTIMORE TRAGEDY.

The Murder of an Insane Woman-Singular Statement of the Accused. From the Baltimore Sun, June 27,

The unfortunate shooting, on Friday night, of a young girl (whose name has not yet been ascertained) at a point on the Philadelphia Railrosd, near Chase's Station, has resulted in the arrest of a young man, named Joseph League, and five others, whose names are William Hughes, John Ahern, Benjamin Wilson, John Wheeler, and James Baldwin, the two latter colored. The parties were lodged in the jail of Towsontown to await some Aftern, Benjamin Wilson, John Wheeler, and James Baldwin, the two latter colored. The parties were lodged in the jail of Towsontown to await some action by the county authorities, and yesterday a reporter of the Sun visited the acsused and elicited a statement of the affair from Joseph League and John Ahern, which was corroborated by each of the other parties. The parties stated that they went in pursuit of the girl, thinking that she was a man dressed in women's clothing who had been committing depredations in the neighborhood. Upon arriving in sight of the crossing of the Philadelphia Railroad, Wilson said, "There is something white," it being so dark and cloudy they could not see anything but a white object. At this juncture the supposed man commenced to swear and abuse the party. Ahern stepped up towards her and said, "Hold on my good lady, let us reason the matter together." She still continued her abuse, calling the party every kind of offensive names, and told them to look out, that she was going to shoot. At this threat the party all become frightened, and League, who was stand ig on the railroad below her, at this juncture raises, his gan with the intention of shooting over the kursered. railroad below her, at this juncture raises. his gan with the intention of shooting over the supposed man's head, but just as he did it the party, who proved to be a woman, raised up, and two of the shot took effect, one in her forehead and the other below her eve, the other portion of the load passing entirely above her. The party then all left for their homes, not supposing that any one was injured. homes, not supposing that any one was injured. After the shooting they heard the woman mumbling something, but they supposed she was still quarreling with them, and paid no further attention to her at the time. League wanted to go and see who the party was, but the others being frightened, they all went home with the intention of returning early in the morning, not supposing that any damage had been done. Next morning League, Ahern, Wilson, and Baldwin went up toward the place where the shooting took place, and on the way up they and Baldwin went up toward the place where the shooting took place, and on the way up they met a colored man named Sandy Bias, who told them a colored woman was lying up alongside the railroad track. The party went up to where the woman lay, and found several persons already gathered around. An inquest was held by Justice Burris, the verdict of the jury being that the girl was shot by Joseph League, who, with the other parties above named, was committed to jail at Towsontown.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc.,

Boutwell and Pleasanton. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. Washington, June 23.—The President returned this morning. Strong efforts are being made to settle the difficulties between Pieasanton and Boutwell without the retirement of either.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. Exclusively to The Beening Telegraph.

The Utah Troubles. Governor Woods, of Utah Territory, arrived here yesterday, and to-day had an interview with the President. He states that there are no grounds for the charges against United States Judges McKean and Strickland, of Utah, now on file in the Attorney-General's office, but that they are made in the interests of the Mormons and certain parties engaged in mining operations, who cannot use these judges as that desire.

General Pleasanton, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was among the first to visit the President this morning, and had a long interview with him in relation to the differences between himself and Secretary Boutwell. The latter has not yet seen the President, but feels confident that his own course in the matter is in accordance with all established precedents. The subject will be formally considered by the President tomorrow.

Minister Thornton on the Fishery Question, It is understood that Sir Edward Thornton, the British M'nister, has informed the Secretary of State that, as far as the action of her Majesty's naval officers or of those of the Canadian Government is concerned, there is no cause for anxiety to citizens of the United States engaged in the dishertes in the neighborhood of the British provinces so long as they do not disrepard the laws more the space. of the United States engaged in the fisheries in the neighborhood of the British provinces so long as they do not disregard the laws upon the subject still in force, that the tenor of the instructions issued to those officers both by her Majesty's Government and by that of the Dominion are of the most liberal nature, that though they continue to hold the opinion that under the treaty of 1818 the United States fishermen are prohibited from frequenting colonial perts or harbors for any other purposes than for shelter, repairing damages, purchasing wood, and obtaining water, such prohibition will not be enforced during the present season, that they will be allowed to enter Canadian ports for the purposes of trade and of transhipping fish and procuring supplies; that they will not be prevented from fishing outside of the three mile limit within bays, the months of which are more than six miles wide. Sir Edward Thornton, as instructed by his Government, expresses the hope, however, that citizens of the United States will on their part contribute to the prevention of untimely collisions by refraining from encroaching, for the purpose of fishing, upon these waters from which, by the treaty of isis and by the laws of Great Britain and Canada, they are excluded until the legislation for insuring to them the privileges and immunities agreed upon by the treaty of the 8th of legislation for insuring to them the privileges and immunities agreed upon by the treaty of the 8th of May, 1871, shall have been carried out.

Japan and the United States. Hon, Horace Capron, Commissioner of Agriculture, to-day tendered to the President his resignation, which takes effect on the 1st of August. This tion, which takes effect on the lat of August. This is in accordance with a contract entered into two months ago with the Japanese Government, through a commission sent to this country for the purpose of introducing and developing in that kingdom the industrial ideas of the United States.

He is empowered to procure models of agricultural and industrial machinery, even to the appliances of railroading, and will take with him a geologist civil anginery.

geologist, civil engineer, and other members of a corps for scientific and industrial investigation. The mission is preliminary to possible operations still more extensive; and is regarded by the Presi-dent and the Cabinet as one of great importance both to Japan and to this country.

Railway Accident—Two Men Killed.

St. Louis, June 28.—A construction train on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad with fifteen laborers on board ran into a hand car near Maselle yesterday. All the laborers on the train but one were precipitated down an embankment twenty feet nigh, falling on broken rocks.

One of the cars fell on George Saunders, killing him instantly. William Miller fell headforemost against a rock and a car rolled upon him, in which position he remained nearly half an hour. He died soon after being removed. The remainder of the men were more or less wounded, some, it is feared, fatally. None on the hand car were hurt.
