INDEPENDENCE HALL AND SQUARE.

The Proposals of the Connecticut Legislature for the Purchase of the Property by the United States.

[The following letter from a casual correspondent, written in Concord at the time the resolutions were offered in the New Hampshire Legislature in reference to Independence Hall and Square, failed to reach us with the resolutions. The letter explains the patriotic object, and its kindly suggestions will be an attractive feature in the programme for the 4th of July, 1876-ED.] From an Occasional Correspondent.

Concord, N. H., June 27. Concord, N. H., June 27. The preamble and resolutions offered in the Legis-lature of this State by Judge Bingham, of Littleton, requesting the Federal Representatives of the State to present and vote for a bill in Congress for the purchase of Independence Hail and Square in the city of Philadelphia by the Government of the United States, and to formally dedicate and consecreta the same and to formally dedicate and consecrate the same to constitutional liberty and independence on the fourth day of July, 1876, the one hundredth anni-versary of the promulgation of the Declaration of Independence, were conceived and offered in a spirit of patriotism natural to the people of New Hampshire. The love of liberty seems to be indigenous to the mountain people of the habitable globe. We need but refer to the ancient Greeks, the Swiss, the Highland Scotch, or in our own country to the noble sacrifices and devotion of the people of East Tennessee, the mountains of North Carolina, Kentacky, and West Virginia, to the principles announced in the Declaration from the steps of the Hall in 1776.

It is proposed by the gentlemen having charge of the resolutions that the hall and square should be formally dedicated by the President on the centen-nial of the declaration, in the presence of the Su-preme Court of the United States, the Cabinet, the Senate, House of Representatives, Governors, and Legislatures of the various states, and that the descendants of the signers of the Declaration of Independence be invited to be present to receive the right conveyed to them of the use of the hall on each succeeding Fourth of July throughout all time. This will be a feature of the ceremonal programme o pass from generation to generation with the Declaration itself

The method of improving the grounds, as dis-The method of improving the grounds, as dis-cussed here, contemplates the erection of a bronze statue of Washington on the present site of the west wing, near the corner of Sixth and Chesnut streets, and a similar one of General Lafayette near the corner of Fifth and Chesnut streets, with the statues of the signers properly arranged in the rear. This would present the military front of the Revolution, backed by the civil power, which launched us upon the sea of nations. When the title to the property has been acquired by When the title to the property has been acquired by the Government of the United States, I have no hesi-tation in saying that the State of New Hampshire will mount upon her own granite in imperishable bronze, statues of Josiah Bartlett, William Whipple, and Matthew Thornton. The money to be paid for the property by the Gov-ernment of the United States is to be employed in erecting in Fairmount Park suitable buildings for the accommodation of the exhibition of the products of the industries and other interests of the States and all nations participating in the Centennial International Exposition.

FIFTH EDITION AFFAIRS AT THE CAPITAL. The Treasury Quarrel. Boutwell and Pleasanton. Grant as a Peacemaker. Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc. Etc. FROM WASHINGTON. The Corean Business. Special Deepatch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, June 29 .- A Cabinet meeting was held to-day. Meesrs. Fish, Delano, and Robeson were absent. Corean matters were discussed. The conclusion arrived at was that it was a bad business. Momentary triumphs cannot be sustained. It is questionable whether at this time it is politic for the United States to urge war in earnest against the heathen Chinese. The Boutwell and Pleasanton Difficulties were discussed. The Secretary urged that his course had been consistent. He had been Commissioner of Internal Revenue himself, and thought he knew the relations of the office to the head of the Treasury. It had been customary and in accordance with the tenor of the actestablishing the Internal Revenue Bureau for the Commissioner to be subordinate to the Secretary of the Treasury. He had no feeling in the matter, but simply wished to know if he was Secretary of the Treasury or if Pleasanton was. The President regretted exceedingly such a misunderstanding should have sprung up. Boutwell did not think it was a misunderstanding. It was to him a direct evasion of a plain construction of the law for a bureau officer to act independent of the head of any department. He compared it to relations of the Cabinet officers to the President. The President acknowledged that he always thought bureau officers were entirely subordinate, but hoped that in the present instance the difficulty would be amicably settled. Boutwell declared it could only be done by Pleasanton's conforming to the customs of the Commissioner's Office of Internal Revenue. The President said he would advise with Pleasanton, and there the matter rests. | BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. | Exclusively to The Evening Telegraph.
